BREAD AND WATER DIET TO CONTINUE

Aged Judge Finds Fast Has Done Him Good, So Will Eat Light Rest of Life

HARRINGTON (Neb.) Sept. 25. (AP) Liquor law violators who come before County Judge Wilbur F. Bryant will continue to receive bread and water sentences. The 75-year-old judge, who has just completed a five-day test of the diet he has imposed for years, said today he would dole out the sentences on a graduated scale in the future to fit the offense.

Judge Bryant said he will eat sparingly for the rest of his life. He lost ten pounds while dieting. "I feel as light as a crow and can walk rapidly and I never was in better health in my whole life," he told the Associated Press. "I have suffered not exactly from hunger but from longing for the food to which I was used as an epicure. But abstinence agrees with me so well that I am resolved o stinting my diet for the rest of my natural life.

"I look rather wilted to the outsider and every time I enter a butcher shop I am tempted to eat a raw steak. My experience has taught me that bread and water is a severe punishment but it will be administered by me to every violator of the liquor law who comes before me. But I wish to graduate the punishment to fit the offense."

Actor Tinney's Arrest Delayed Pending Inquiry

SYRACUSE, Sept. 25. (AP) — The warrant for the arrest of Frank Tinney, comedian in the Earl Carroll "Vanities," reached Sheriff Scriber of Onondaga county today. However, the actor was not placed under arrest.

Attorney Ruben of Syracuse notified the Sheriff that the $1400 back alimony owed by Tinney had been sent to New York last night. Sheriff Scriber said that he would not serve the warrant until he checked with New York authorities.

THIRTY WITH POTENTATE

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Maharajah of Alwar brought his pet astrologer and a staff of thirty servants with him to England. The potentate's hair-dresser, who is a member of the retinue which accompanied him to England, is such a favorite with the maharajah that the latter sent his son to Cambridge to be educated.

MINE HOLDS PRISONERS

Rescuers Strive for Release

Forty-three Workers in Michigan Caught by Shaft Cave-in Three Bodies Brought Out; Officials Hopeful Others Live

IRONWOOD (Mich.) Sept. 25. (AP) More than 700 feet below the surface of G. Pabst Iron Mine, forty-three miners, employees of the Oliver Iron Mining Company, are entombed, awaiting rescue.

Encouraged by the prospect of saving them, double relays of men are working tonight in eight-hour shifts, removing the tons of debris and rock which chokes the mining shaft and imprisons the men at the eighth level of the shaft.

Around the mouth of the mine stand women and children, many of them belonging to the miners entombed Friday noon when an avalanche of rock and earth, apparently loosened by the vibration of machinery, blocked the shaft.

In the local morgue are the bodies of three men whose lives were crushed out when the lift in which they were being carried to the surface, was hurled to the bottom of the opening. Their bodies' badly mangled, were recovered early today by rescuers who reached them through another opening.

RACING AGAINST TIME

The victims were identified as Thomas Rowell, 60 years of age, underground electrician and his two assistants, Evar Gustafson, 35, and Gust Sell, 35.

Rescue workers are racing against time tonight as they continue their work of repairing the shaft and removing the rock and debris, which are jammed several hundred feet below the mouth of the level where the imprisoned men are located.

Officials of the mine expressed the hope that the men might be reached before morning. They are not believed to have any food, and hope of saving them is contingent

'CONFESSION' BLOWS UP

Keyes Declares MeLosh Fake

Scorching Statement Issued With Warning on Efforts to Pervert Justice

"Confesser" and Mrs. Daniels Ordered to Go, Following Searching Inquiry

Efforts of Harry L. MeLosh and his woman companion, Mrs. Babe Daniels to "crash the gate" and inject themselves into the McPherson case in the guise of new witnesses were abruptly terminated by Dist.-Atty. Keyes last night.

After listening for more than six hours to the stories of the man and the woman, and checking the important details of the affidavits to which they affixed their signatures in San Francisco several days ago, Mr. Keyes issued a scorching statement in which he branded MeLosh as a fake, and his story not worthy of any credence.

Mr. Keyes and his assistants in the case, Chief Deputy Davis and Deputies Dennison and Murray also issued a warning that attempts to "drag a red herring" across the trail in an effort to pervert justice will be exposed by the State.

The major portion of MeLosh's story, in which he charged that he and Mrs. Daniels were hired to produce evidence and that he was the "Mr. Martin" who approached Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman in San Francisco in behalf of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, was denounced by Mr. Keyes.

TOLD TO GO

At the conclusion of the searching cross-examination of MeLosh and Mrs. Daniels the man and the woman were turned loose and told to go where they pleased.

"They are at liberty to go back to their masters, whoever they are. We want nothing of them," was the comment of the prosecutor's assistants who questioned them through the night.

MeLosh, Mr. Davis announced after sending him and his woman associate away, was not Martin. He had no connection with Mrs. Wiseman and her story to the State, to be presented to the court tomorrow, stands unimpeached in the slightest, Mr. Davis said.

One of the dramatic moments of the night's activities was the meeting between MeLosh and Mrs. Wiseman. The man who says he met the State's witness in San Francisco and hired her to manufacture evidence for Mrs. McPherson failed to recognize her when she entered the room.

Mrs. Wiseman positively declared MeLosh was not the man.

Mrs. Daniels, who swore she was the Miss X who signed the now-famous Carmel affidavit, also failed to recognize Mrs. Wiseman when she was led into a room where that woman and three other female companions were talking.

KEYES'S STATEMENT

The statement issued by Mr. Keyes after the questioning of the "confessors" was:

> Harry MeLosh, alias Roberts, self-confessed participant in the McPherson case conspiracy, will not be used as a witness by the prosecution. On examination by my deputies today his story developed as so unworthy of credence and devoid of the essential elements of truth, that as a fair prosecutor I must denounce him.
> The major portion of his published statement was repudiated by him today and the remainder has nothing to support its truth. Admittedly he started weeks ago to manufacture evidence in con-

JAIL PAIR AS PLOTTERS

Charge Plan to Mulct Hancock

Officers Say Stage Magician and Oil Companies' Head Demanded $50,000

Both Protest Innocence When Arrested on Accusation of Extortion Scheme

Arrested on Federal warrants charging attempt to extort $50,000 from G. Allan Hancock, Southern California capitalist and millionaire, on threat of death, Claude A. Conlin, known as "Alexander, the Man Who Knows," a vaudeville magician, and Christian C. Magenheimer, president of two local oil companies, and an official of a local radio station, were placed in the County Jail late yesterday.

Conlin and Magenheimer were both released from jail late last night when property bonds of $50,000 each was put up for them. Motley H. Flint and Jay Spence furnished Magenheimer's bond and Motley H. Flint and former United States Senator Frank Flint, Conlin's. Federal Judge James personally accepted the property bonds as bail for the two accused men.

Although Federal authorities were unwilling to reveal the details of the asserted plot involving Conlin, it was learned that the arrests were based on a letter asserted to have been received by Hancock on June 24, last, in which the demand for $50,000 was made. This letter is in the hands of Federal authorities, it was stated.

MENACES DAUGHTER

The writers of the asserted extortion letter are said not only to have threatened Hancock with death, but declared that the millionaire's daughter, Rosemary Hancock, 21 years of age, would also be killed if the $50,000 demanded was not paid by next Friday, it was revealed last night by Deputy United States Attorney Layng, who now has possession of the letter.

Although he refused to reveal the entire contents of the asserted extortion missive, the Deputy United States Attorney declared it bore a Los Angeles postmark and was signed "John and the gang."

An intimation that the arrests yesterday were the first of a number contemplated by the Federal agents in connection with several asserted plots against other Southern California millionaires and members of their families was contained in statements made by several investigators known to have worked on the case.

OTHER ANGLES

Hancock could not be located last night, but his attorney, Raymond Stephens, verified the receipt of the asserted extortion letter by his client, and intimated that more startling disclosures probably will follow within the next few days.

Since the receipt of the letter by Hancock, it was learned, operatives from the Blair Private Detective agency and the P. W. Mohan agency, together with postal inspectors and other governmental officers, have been busy investigating the case. Conlin's activities in Los Angeles, San Francisco, New Orleans and other cities are being investigated, it was learned. Asserted extortion letters received by wealthy persons in other California cities, it is understood, probably will figure in the present case.

The warrants against Conlin and Magenheimer charge, specifically, violation of Section 215 of the Federal Penal Code, which covers the use of the United States mails in an attempt to extort money. Evidence in the case, it is understood, is in the possession of Dep. U. S. Atty. Layng and will be laid before the Federal grand

COLLEGE ENTRANCE MAY BE SIMPLER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Decision to ask colleges to base entrance requirements entirely on subjects taught in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades of junior high schools was reached today by the curriculum commission of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association. Such a course, it is held, will give high-school authorities greater freedom in arranging curricula for ninth-grade pupils.

AUTO CLUB PLOT REVEALED

National Association Attempts to Injure Southland Because of Local Body's Independence

BY S. A. ISRAEL
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—A campaign intended to injure Southern California by diverting automobile tourist traffic to other points has been undertaken by the American Auto Association in an effort to force the Automobile Club of Southern California into affiliating with the national body.

In a virulent and unrestrained attack on Southern California and particularly its Auto Club, Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the American Association, admitted in an address before the convention of Western Auto Clubs here that the spite campaign against Southern California is on in full blast and that the national association is doing everything within its power to foster and fan it.

GREETED BY SILENCE

The address had been intended, apparently, to stampede the secretaries of the score or more of auto clubs in session here into concerted action against Southern California and in support of the back-stair policies of the national organization. Instead, it was met by a dead silence which continued for some time. Then several delegates rose to their feet simultaneously. Clarence Werthan of Denver obtained the floor.

"We are not here to cut off our own noses to spite our faces," he began. "We are not interested in the fight between the national association and the Southern California club. We are here to encourage auto tourist traffic through our respective communities. If tourist traffic is being diverted by auto clubs east of the Mississippi, then we are suffering. My club, for one, will oppose this to the utmost. Let the American Automobile Association fight its own political battles. We get just as much business from Southern California as any other section of the nation and we will do everything possible to encourage it."

There and then Mr. Smith's attempt at stampeding the convention died a-borning. Other delegates expressed themselves in a vein similar to that of Mr. Werthan and the subject was promptly dropped.

The rift between the national association and the various western clubs represented at the convention, evident from the first, became more apparent as the sessions continued toward final adjournment. In virtually so many words, Mr. Smith was informed that the western clubs would not tolerate meddling in their affairs by the association which he heads, either by himself or through his office in Washington. He was forced to agree not to send any representatives of the national association into the territory of any western club until such club asked for a national representative.

This means, according to the dele-

MIDWEST ICY, EAST PANTS

Iowa Corn Crop Damage From Frost Totals Millions While Heat Prostrates New Yorkers

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The weather man, possibly in a hurry to change his rotating seasons at this time of the year, stepped on the wrong lever today and in his endeavor to straighten things, gave the country a touch of everything he has in stock. The results were disastrous.

The Middle West drew heavy frosts, chilly winds and cold rains that damaged crops to the extent of many millions of dollars; central Canada's assortment was snow, which wintry gales drifted to a depth of five feet. New York's lot was midsummer heat, 85 degrees, which prostrated several people, while the Rocky Mountain area shivered in almost zero blasts. Washington suffered under 90 degrees.

The weather forecasters today predicted another heavy frost during tonight which led farmers and apple growers to wait anxiously for the dawn that they might see how much damage had been done.

Conservative estimates of damage to the Iowa corn crop by the frosts was estimated at from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 today. As a result of early warnings many farmers saved portions of their crops. It was feared tonight that the cold night predicted would cause still more damage. Reports from Sioux City said northwest Iowa had a real winter freeze.

Such vegetation as melons, tomatoes, and some species of apples, was killed, the agents said.

At Oklahoma City the minimum temperature was 41 degrees. Kansas City's low was 33, a record for September 25. Killing frosts in the lowlands were predicted there for tonight. At Dresden, Kan., the mercury fell to 19, and at Goodland, to 20.

In Kansas the hot suns of August had brought the corn crop beyond the destroying power of cold, and those fields that escaped the heavy Kansas floods were expected to produce almost full crops.

All of the Central West hoped for a full week of bright warm weather. This would be sufficient, it was said, to make the crops a success.

While Chicago was enjoying at least sunshine during all of today, there were many points, it was reported, where thunderstorms continued to bring distress to farmers. Central Illinois particularly was expecting further rains, in addition to possible swelling of streams as a result of the heavy precipitation in the northern section Friday.

While the Central West is shivering, the East is in the grip of a heat wave. At Washington today the mercury reached 90 deg. New York had a maximum of 85, with high humidity, and several cases of heat prostration in Brooklyn were reported.

The coldest spot in the country was Stewart, Idaho, where the minimum was 4 deg. above zero. Several other Idaho cities had temperatures of less than 20 deg. Even Texas felt the force of the cold wave, Amarillo having a minimum of 33 deg.

With snowdrifts in some parts of southern areas of Saskatchewan four and five feet deep as the result of unseasonable weather, resumption of the grain harvest is problematical and may cause great loss. Between Colgate and Goodwater the snow has drifted tonight to a depth of five feet. Between Weiburn and Estevan near the North Dakota border, the snowfall was particularly heavy and in part of the storm area the ice around the telephone and telegraph wires is as thick as a man's wrists, according to the dispatches reaching here tonight.

PROSPERITY CREDITED TO PROHIBITION

Marshall Field Official Cites Increased Trade and Savings Accounts

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Prohibition is making the United States prosperous by increasing savings and adding to trade, according ot John G. Shedd, chairman of the board of Marshal Field & Co. He bases his observations on what he saw and heard during a 3000-mile automobile tour of the East.

"Savings have been growing steadily from year to year," he says, "and this growth in accumulations of the laboring classes has been notable since prohibition closed the corner saloon.

"The benefits from prohibition which have accrued to workingmen and their families in the last seven years cannot be stressed too strongly. Wages, which, in former years found their way over the bars, have been conserved, placed in savings deposits, invested in home surroundings or placed in circulation through the purchase of luxuries.

"This conservation has supplied a sound basis for our business growth in nearly every direction and its benefits can be discerned in every section of the country. Factories everywhere are working full time or overtime, supplying orders pouring in from merchants and jobbers whose shelves have been emptied by a summer of good business, and I feel certain we shall have a lively, prosperous winter."

Diamond Theft Balks Police of Scotland Yard

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Diamonds valued at $400,000 were stolen from a mail van in one of the busiest centers of London traffic yesterday.

The diamonds were mailed at Hatton Garden branch postoffice, the world's most famous diamond market. The package of gems was being transferred to the central postoffice in a hired van under supervision of postoffice officials.

The van vanished mysteriously in traffic and was found some hours later deserted and empty. The guard are utterly at a loss to explain how they were hoodwinked. It is presumed the bandits escaped in a motor car but Scotland Yard faces the task of solving the greatest criminal mystery of recent years in this country.

LUMBERMEN PROTEST

Substitute Offered in Canada for Ousting of Orientals

VICTORIA (B. C.) Sept. 25. (AP)—A delegation of lumbermen which yesterday protested to the British Columbia Cabinet against a law that takes effect November 1, announced today it had submitted plans gradually to eliminate orientals in the industry in this Province.

The law was designed to accomplish this elimination by requiring that workers receive the same wage regardless of race. The delegation proposed to the Cabinet that Parliament enact a law requiring dismissal of 25 per cent of the orientals annually for four years.

The delegation stated that this will make jobs for 2400 whites, and will cost lumbermen heavily.

DEATH CALLS TOM THUMB

Famous Midget Who Had Been Circus Attraction for Half Century Dies at Hollenbeck Home

Tom Thumb, forty-two-inch mite of humanity who for forty years greeted the curious as a circus side-show attraction over the length and breadth of the country, has made his last public appearance. The famous midget, who in private life was Darius Abner Alden, died Friday at the Hollenbeck Home, 573 South Boyle avenue, at the age of 84 years.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Hollenbeck Home chapel tomorrow at 10 a.m. Burial will be in the Hollenbeck Home lot in Evergreen Cemetery.

Alden, who was born in Medina county, Ohio, August 14, 1842, had traveled over the United States with various circuses as a side-show attraction for nearly half a century, amusing his audiences with his humor and prowess as a glass-blower, at which he was an expert. He learned the trade in his youth, and during his travels as a showman continued at blowing miniatures and ornamental pieces which he sold.

Ten years ago he retired and for six years resided at Corona. Four years ago he came to the Hollenbeck Home. He had been in ill health the past three years and his death followed an internal hemorrhage.

The midget is the last of his family. He had several brothers and sisters, all of whom were normal. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Emily Alden, 82 years of age, who also is about forty-two inches in height. She is a resident of the Hollenbeck Home. He met his wife when the latter was 12 years of age, the couple marrying several years later. Mrs. Alden, who accompanied him on his tours of the country with road shows, is one of a family of six children, the others being of normal size. One sister, Mrs. Flora E. Moore, 65 years of age, also resides at the Hollenbeck Home.

M'ADOO AND DRYS ROUTED IN PARTY ORGANIZATION

Oakland Man State Chairman; Harmonious Republican Meeting Unanimous for Neumiller

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Pledged to a united campaign in the interest of the whole Republican ticket at the November election, members of the State Central Committee by acclamation re-elected Charles L. Neumiller, Stockton attorney, chairman of the party organization today. The Democrats, in a gathering at the Palace Hotel, named Henry H. McPike of Oakland, anti-McAdoo faction candidate, to head their State committee during the next two years.

The re-election of Chairman Neumiller was the first act of the harmonious Republican gathering, which also named the following others as officials of the Republican State Committee: Joseph M. Schenck of Hollywood, first vice-chairman; State Senator John J. Crowley of San Francisco, second vice-chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth M. Kneese of Redwood City, third vice-chairman; A. R. Heron of Berkeley, secretary; Louis R. Lourie of San Francisco, treasurer, and Assemblyman Harry Morrison of San Francisco, sergeant-at-arms.

McADOO FACTION ROUTED

Election of McPike as Democratic State chairman resulted from the complete rout of the cohorts of William G. McAdoo, who were so outnumbered that they did not present a candidate against the Alameda county man. The McAdoo and dry factions within the party ranks were given scant recognition in the organization of the State committee, which re-elected Will J. Hayes of Oakland as treasurer and named the following other officers:

Mrs. Lucretia Del Valle Grady of Berkeley, first vice-chairman; William Kettner of San Diego, second vice-chairman; Mrs. May French Worth of San Diego, third vice-chairman; Charles M. Brown, Redlands, fourth vice-chairman; Mrs. J. Henry Stewart of Los Angeles, fifth vice-chairman; Irwin T. Quinn of Eureka, sixth vice-chairman; Frank J. Hennessy of San Francisco, secretary, and Titus Alexander of Los Angeles, sergeant-at-arms.

William H. Neblett, spokesman and law partner of McAdoo, came to San Francisco, saw the number of anti-McAdoo delegates present for the meeting and the bale of proxies ready to be voted by the McPike-Wardell forces, and capitulated without much of a struggle, finally making a speech pledging support to Justus S. Wardell, Democratic wet candidate for Governor, and John B. Elliott the dry nominee for the Senatorship.

On the surface all was harmony at the Democratic meeting but what mental reservations were made by the McAdoo contingent which forced a dry plank in the party platform at the Sacramento convention earlier in the week over the opposition of Wardell, McPike, former Senator James D Phelan and others, will only be known when the votes are counted on November 2.

REPUBLICANS HARMONIOUS

In contrast to the feeling in Democratic circles at the Palace today was the sentiment echoed at the Republican conclave farther down the hall.

"We have but one goal and that is the ultimate victory for the whole Republican ticket this year," declared Chairman Neumiller in opening the Republican session. Neumiller's sentiments were taken up in turn by Senator Shortridge and Lieut.-Gov. Young, the party nominees for the United States Senatorship and for Governor.

The State chairman was authorized to name at least fifty members from the State committee to serve as members of the party executive committee and to arrange for the campaign. The committee members then heard from Senator Shortridge and from Lieut.-Gov. Young.

"I shall go forth with you to do what I can to keep California in the Republican column where she belongs," Senator Shortridge declared in speaking briefly to the committee members. "We go forward a united party and I look for a splendid victory in November for our entire ticket."

Senator Shortridge warned his hearers of the impending attacks upon the Republican tariff which "no State is so dependent upon as is California."

Both the Senator and Lieut.-Gov. Young thanked the Republicans of the State for their nominations.

Assemblyman James A. Miller of the Thirty-second District acted as secretary of the meeting which proceeded according to program without the slightest hitch.

ORATORY FLOWS

With the McAdoo delegates in the minority, the Democratic session was devoted mainly to oratory. After the election of officers, none of whom had opposition, the committee heard from Wardell, gubernatorial nominee, who outlined his campaign planks and asked for support for the entire Democratic ticket, including the dry colleague, John B. Elliott for Senator. W. H. Neblett, McAdoo man, then pledged his support to Wardell and the rest of the speech-making began in earnest. Phil G. Sheehy of San Jose, opponent of Congressman Free in the Eighth District, spoke as did friends of other candidates of the party.

John C. Spencer of Susanville, former secretary to the late Congressman Raker in the Second district, was named by the committee as the Democratic candidate for Congress there. Under the law this is permitted as there is no Democratic nominee against Harry L. Englebright, Republican of Nevada City. R. H. DeWitt of Yreka, Democrat, lost his party nomination to Marshall De Motte of Corning, who is a Republican, but failed to win his own party indorsement and hence was disqualified.

Chauncey Tramutolo, Democratic nominee in the Fourth District, let his hearers know that he was "still a wet candidate" in spite of the Democratic platform.

nection with the McPherson case to sell to the highest bidder. It is to be regretted that he was able to inject himself into the case in any way, but he and all others of his kind who seek to prevent justice will be exposed, if it is within my power to do so.

Prosecution of the defendants in the McPherson case will be started Monday. Only evidence which a prosecutor can present will be put before the court, or, so far as it is within my control, be allowed any public credence.

Creditable evidence in abundance will be available and this man's untruthful claims cannot prejudice the legitimate issues to be tried.

[Signed] ASA KEYES,
District Attorney.

TEDIOUS DAY

The disposal of the MeLosh angle was accomplished after a long and tedious day for the deputies, the prosecutor and the investigators.

Mr. Keyes left the office earlier in the day with a thick stack of transcripts under his arm. He was in communication with the office during the evening and dictated the statement after the results of the investigation were announced to him by Chief Deputy Davis.

Detectives under the direction of Chief Cohn spent a busy day, starting at 4 a.m. when they began a search for MeLosh and his party on the State highway. When the witnesses came into the District Attorney's office the investigators were busy dashing around and checking on portions of the story told by the man.

When MeLosh and Mrs. Daniels were finally released and told to go, Bingham Gray, who appeared yesterday morning as their attorney, said:

"I advised my clients to tell the truth straight from the shoulder and I know they did so. They have done nothing that will not stand the light of day." Immediately after his clients were released. Mr. Gray took them away from the Hall of Justice and refused to divulge their destination.

FATHER PRESENT

Arthur A. MeLosh, father of the witness, was in the District Attorney's office with his son and Mrs. Daniels. He came with them from San Francisco, where he assisted in locating the son. Although questioned by Mr. Davis and Deputies Dennison and Murray, the elder MeLosh could add little to the known facts except to assure the officials that he was principally interested in having his son tell all he knew about the case.

Earlier in the day Arthur L. Veitch, attorney for Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother, and Detective Nick Harris, issued statements attacking MeLosh and his story and giving their version of their dealings with the man.

Last night Mr. Keyes, following a conference with Chief Deputy Davis and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison and Murray, who are preparing the case for preliminary hearing tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock before Municipal Judge Blake, asserted his office will block any attempts, whether deliberate or due to bad judgment, to becloud the issue involved.

MOTIVE SOUGHT

The District Attorney, however, will launch a sweeping investigation in an attempt to ferret out the motive which prompted MeLosh and his woman companion, Mrs. Babe Daniels of Chicago, to inject themselves into the McPherson case by affixing their signatures to affidavits in San Francisco in which MeLosh asserted he was hired by a Los Angeles attorney and a private detective to substantiate portions of Mrs. McPherson's kidnaping story and to present Mrs. Daniels as the famous Carmel "Miss X" companion of Kenneth G. Ormiston, formerly radio operator at Angelus Temple.

MeLosh and Mrs. Daniels were brought to Los Angeles from San Francisco by Detective King of the District Attorney's office, who was sent north to make the arrests. En route King stopped over at Salinas, where the stories of Mrs. Daniels and MeLosh received another setback when Justice of the Peace Russell Scott of that city said he had never seen Mrs. Daniels before.

In the office of Judge Bardin of Salinas, Justice Scott witnessed the signature to an affidavit signed by a "Miss X," who was to have been produced in the hoax confessed by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Sielaff. Judge Bardin and Justice Scott were unable to identify Mrs. Daniels as the woman who affixed her name to the "Miss X" affidavit, while in her affidavit Mrs. Daniels asserts she signed her "Miss X" affidavit in the office of a Los Angeles attorney.

Statements made by MeLosh to his wife that his aged father , that he spent considerable time at Angelus Temple in July will be investigated by the District Attorney's office, Keyes stated.

"We expect to investigate thoroughly the motive which prompted both MeLosh and Mrs. Daniels to inject themselves into this case," Keyes said. "We want to find out who urged her and we will concentrate on finding out what MeLosh was up to.

VEITCH IN DENIALS

"It must be understood, however, that this will be an entirely separate investigation and in no wise related to the McPherson case. The injection of these persons into the case will not interfere in any way with plans for Monday's preliminary hearing. All we want is the underlying motive."

Attorney Veitch, one of counsel for Mrs. McPherson, issued a sizzling statement in which he asserted MeLosh approached him with a proposition several months ago to sell him evidence to substantiate Mrs. McPherson's story for a cash consideration. Mr. Veitch said he flatly and immediately rejected MeLosh's proposal because "it was criminal."

Mr. Veitch issued a lengthy signed statement concerning his few interviews with Melosh. His statement was issued, he said, after he was informed MeLosh had mentioned his name in the affidavits he signed in San Francisco.

MeLosh and his woman companion were taken before Justice Scott and Judge Bardin in Salinas Friday night. These two men witnessed the signature of Mrs. Wiseman's "Miss X" in Judge Bardin's office. Both Justice Scott and Judge Bardin said they were positive they had never seen Mrs. Daniels before and that she was not the woman who accompanied Mrs. Wiseman as "Miss X." Mrs. Wiseman already has confessed the "Miss X" hoax.

Nick Harris, operator of a private detective agency bearing his name, also issued a lengthy statement after he had been informed his name was mentioned in MeLosh's affidavit. In this statement he relates MeLosh's proposal to him to manufacture, for a cash consideration, evidence for Mrs. McPherson.

WORD OF ORMISTON

Word was received in Los Angeles yesterday, indicating Ormiston, the mystery man in the McPherson case and considered the "key witness" may be en route to Los Angeles to give his story. Edward H. Martin, the Chicago attorney of Ormiston, announced yesterday he had received a letter from the radio engineer informing him he was leaving Chicago.

The letter, Martin was quoted as saying, informed him Ormiston was leaving Chicago and for him not to try to get in touch with him. The attorney declined to say where the letter was postmarked and asserted he had no idea where Ormiston was going.

Investigators Darley and White, who are in the north serving subpoenas for the McPherson case, yesterday advised Chief of Detectives Cohn, they had located H. C. Benedict, owner of the Carmel seaside bungalow occupied by Ormiston and his mystery companion, and Ralph S. Swanson, grocery clerk, who delivered groceries to the cottage and saw and talked to "Miss X."

IMPORTANT WITNESS

Benedict, according to the District Attorney's office, will be one of the prosecution's important witnesses as he, too, saw Ormiston's woman companion. He will be called at the preliminary hearing to testify what he knows concerning the Carmel incident and to deny, it was said, assertions made by Mrs. McPherson's attorney, Roland Rich Woolley, that he had failed to identify the evangelist as "Miss X." When the Carmel investigation was made by Dep. Dist.-Atty Ryan, who will be witness, Benedict asserted pictures of Mrs. McPherson resembled the woman he saw at his bungalow while Ormiston was there. He positively identified Ormiston.

Twelve witnesses will be brought from Carmel for the hearing, two from Santa Barbara, one of whom is Ralph Hershey, who positively identifies Mrs. McPherson as a woman he saw in Carmel during the time Ormiston was there. Others who will testify will come from near-by cities and from Douglas, Ariz., where Mrs McPherson's kidnaping story first was investigated.

It was announced at the District Attorney's office yesterday, that everything is in readiness for the hearing tomorrow. Keyes's deputies plan to go over the case again today to have it ready for presentation without unnecessary delay.

NICK HARRIS TALKS

A lengthy statement in which he set forth the circumstances surrounding two visits to him by MeLosh, was issued last night by Nick Harris, head of the detective agency bearing his name.

In his statement Mr. Harris points out that more than six weeks before MeLosh's apprehension he had warned newspaper men and principals in the McPherson case that the man was about offering to frame evidence in the case.

In concluding his statements the detective said:

"I would have liked nothing better than to be allowed by Mr. Keyes the privilege of questioning MeLosh and his woman companion in Mr. Keyes's presence for the sole purpose of once and for all proving that he is the most colossal liar of the age or else that he is suffering from a mental ailment and should be placed in either a penitentiary or a hospital for the insane."

STEPS TAKEN TO HANDLE LARGE CROWD

While the advance guard of the curious, numbering about thirty persons, yesterday were searching the seventh floor of the Hall of Justice for the courtroom of Municipal Judge Blake, scene of the McPherson hearing tomorrow morning, a crew of carpenters was rushing work on a partition wall outside the courtroom, raised to facilitate the handling of the crowd expected to attend.

Approximately 100 additional seats were installed in the courtroom, bringing its seating capacity to about 160 persons. Although special accommodations have been arranged, practically all of the available seats will be taken by witnesses, court officials, attorneys and newspaper men. Special officers will be delegated to handle the crowd outside the courtroom and only those persons having passes signed by the judge will be admitted through the gates of the partition built yesterday.

"Every effort has been made to eliminate confusion," Judge Blake said yesterday. "This trial is going to be conducted with the same dignity and decorum that is customarily observed in the trial of other cases. So far as is in the power of my court, this preliminary hearing will not be made a public show."

ATTORNEY ASSAILS MELOSH

Arthur L. Veitch Issues Statement Denying That He Countenanced Evidence "Fixing"

After being informed his name was mentioned in the affidavits signed in San Francisco by Harry MeLosh, who asserts he was hired to manufacture evidence to substantiate the kidnaping story of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, Arthur L. Veitch, one of her attorneys, yesterday issued the following statement:

I am informed by the press that my name is mentioned in the MeLosh affidavits. To be mentioned in any such connection, even by a person self-confessedly criminal, probably requires a statement.

My knowledge of Mr. MeLosh, or Roberts, as he variously terms himself, is exceedingly brief.

About the middle of July, he appeared at my office and introduced himself, stating he wished to have a talk with me concerning the McPherson case. This was my first meeting with him, although during that interview it developed that he was the man who had previously called at the office of Nick Harris, detective in charge of investigations for Mrs. McPherson. Of this call Mr. Harris had advised me by telephone.

Before MeLosh had made any statements Mr. Harris was announced as being in my reception-room. I invited Mr. Harris to enter. MeLosh evidenced surprise at seeing Mr. Harris and appeared momentarily nonplussed. Mr. Harris stated, "this is the man I told you of by telephone." I then stated to MeLosh that Mr. Harris and I were co-operating in all matters connected with Mrs. McPherson's case and asked MeLosh to state what he had in mind.

DECLARES POSITION

Thereupon, MeLosh declared he was in a position to supply any evidence which might be desired to corroborate Mrs. McPherson's statements; that he could furnish several witnesses of ostensible good character and apparent respectability who would testify, for a cash consideration, to anything that might be needed in Mrs. McPherson's defense. Mr. Harris and I flatly turned down his proposition and informed him that his project was criminal, and this terminated the interview. After MeLosh departed, Mr. Harris and I continued with the discussion of other matters.

Three or four days later MeLosh again called and was admitted to my private office before I realized who he was. At that time he stated he had thought over what Mr. Harris and I had said to him in the previous interview; that he was satisfied our position was correct, but that he felt he could help us in a legitimate way. He stated he had a wide acquaintance among persons engaged in questionable pursuits, and that he thought he could be of value as a detective in securing information through such acquaintances. He asked if I was employing any detectives, and I informed him I was not. I stated that Mr. Harris was in entire charge of the work of investigation, and that all detectives would be employed by Mr. Harris. He asked me to suggest to Mr. Harris that the latter employ him, which I refused to do.

EXTENT OF MEETINGS

This constitutes the sum total of all meetings and conversations and communications I have had with MeLosh. However, on two subsequent occasions to my knowledge, MeLosh came to my reception room endeavoring to see me, but was unsuccessful in each instance. I know nothing of the Mrs. Daniels, or of the various occurrences referred to in the affidavit of MeLosh. If he mentioned me in those connections, such mention is entirely false.

I am at a loss to understand the motive which has prompted MeLosh to mention me in his affidavit. Nevertheless, I feel that my reputation, which has been earned through more than nineteen years of continuous practice as a member of the bar of this county and State; my record of approximately six years as a Deputy District Attorney of this county, under the administration of John D. Fredericks, and the good will and esteem of the bar and the judiciary of this State, which it is my pleasure to enjoy, renders it impossible for credence to be given to false accusations of this character emanating from a person, who by his own avowal is of criminal characteristics and instincts, and concerning whom I have today received reliable information that he is an ex-convict from the State penitentiary at Florence, Ariz., and that he has also served time in San Quentin penitentiary and at Whittier Reform School. Also that he has been variously arrested for burglary and embezzlement and has nine known aliases.

PLOT REVEALED AGAINST SOUTH

gates, that the national association will be absolutely powerless to initiate any move against the Southland in the West and that the western clubs will have a free hand in conducting their own affairs to obtain the maximum benefit for their respective communities.

ATTACK UNEXPECTED

Mr. Smith's attack on Southern California came unexpectedly, though his attitude against the Southland, where he was raised, has long been known. In a series of preconvention conferences, it was stated, it had been decided to allow the Southern California matter to lie strictly dormant. Mr. Smith did not touch on the subject in two addresses yesterday and was not expected to do so today.

But during a general discussion of the courtesies to which club members were entitled, he arose and declared that 800 auto clubs east of the Mississippi were not extending any courtesy to members of the Auto Club of Southern California.

Then he launched into a vitriolic attack on both the Southland and the Auto Club.

"As far as these 800 clubs east of the Mississippi and the American Auto Association are concerned, Southern California does not exist," he shouted.

"The Auto Club of Southern California is the only club in the United States which has steadfastly refused to affiliate with us. We have conferred with them time and again. They will not join. Our president has even gone to Southern California to bring that club in, but he also failed.

DIVERT TOURISTS

"It is going to cost Southern California thousands and thousands of dollars. These 800 clubs have all been placing tourists elsewhere, chiefly in the Southeast."

"Why, in the last year," he boasted, "we succeeded in cutting off 0 per cent of auto tourist travel to Southern California and increased his travel into the Southeast by 00 per cent."

Then Mr. Smith turned to personalities. He declared that the southern club was run by a "clique" solely for financial gain, but failed to mention the fact that all tourists to Southern California are received with open arms by that club and receive every courtesy, whether they are affiliated with an auto club or not. It was also pointed out that the A.A.A. charges nonclub members for every service and often refuses them the courtesies due to travelers away from home.

Delegates, at the conclusion of the convention, were eager to make it clear that Mr. Smith's denunciation of Southern California and the move which his association is making in an effort to injure that section of the nation did not in any way represent the attitude of the Western Conference of Auto Clubs. Harmonious relations exist between nearly all the western clubs and the Southern California club, they stated, despite the tactics and the desires of Mr. Smith and the coterie who conduct the affairs of the national organization.

TTLE FLEET CONDUCTS FIRST GREAT AIR PARADE

ffett and Warner Convinced of Vital Part Played by Planes in Naval Warfare

BY WALDO DRAKE

AT SEA, BOARD U.S.S. CALIFORNIA, Sept. 25.—To- battle fleet completed its first great aerial parade, a two-day spectacle of the surprising progress the Navy in aviation in two years. The eagle obviously has wings.

came in from the of the fleet's destroyer screen that a force of torpedo was approaching. The news followed by the sudden forma- the entire horizon of a curtain of smoke, a chemical by the torpedo planes. Out of that screen they dashed a moment later and came straight for the dreadnaughts, while the pop-popping of the fleet's antiaircraft subcaliber guns sounded like infantry in action.

In midafternoon an enemy fleet, represented by six ships of the fleet train, were sighted by scouts to southward and within fifteen minutes two complete squadrons of observation planes had been catapulted from the battleships and were in the air. In one of the California's spotting planes piloted by Lieut. George F. Chapline, was Mr. Warner, getting his initial first-hand view of the air force in action.

Following the completion of the maneuver the planes all landed at sea, astern of their respective ships, and were picked up as quickly with only one minor casualty.

Last night, with all lights doused, the battleship divisions slipped northward through the darkness while the destroyer squadrons, under Rear-Admiral Luke McNamee, attempted to locate them and rush in for a torpedo attack before being discovered. Shortly before midnight they were successful, a host of shadowy forms that dashed out of the blackness to within a few hundred yards of the dreadnaughts and then as quickly disappeared while the broadside batteries were opening fire.

This morning the destroyers laid smoke screen for the battleship squadron, starting the black curtain off the port beam and then carrying it completely across our bows.

Admiral Moffett, who probably has a wider knowledge of naval aviation than any man alive, declared the maneuvers offered conclusive proof of the high state of effectiveness of the Navy's air force.

"The battleship is the backbone of the fleet," he explained, "and every other arm of the fleet works to aid the battleship in its mission. I think that what we saw today proves that the air force has become the most vital of all these arms.

"We have planes for bombing enemy surface craft, planes for spotting, scouting and observation, and fighting planes to protect our observation squadrons as well as to fight enemy planes and harass enemy surface craft. We are now ready to place three-passenger observation planes on all battleships, in addition to fighting planes for their protection. The battleship in itself has become an aircraft carrier."

"I think the things we saw today also conclusively proved the fallacy of the unified air-service idea. Every-one of these pilots must be an experienced sailor, otherwise he could not read the strength of the enemy nor could he give to the fleet information useful to our gunners and navigators.

"We hold the upper hand today in naval aviation, thanks to the foresight of our officers, who as long ago as 1912 were experimenting with the launching catapult. We have come a long way since then, but we still have a long way to go."

Mr. Warner said he was likewise impressed with the fleet's aerial development.

"I have for years been confident of the vital importance of aviation to the Navy, so, needless to say, I am not surprised at the present development.

"I do not feel that the airplane is going to supplant the batleship, or endanger its future or that of any arm of the service. It is merely that command of the air is going to be of the utmost importance in any future naval warfare. The United States Navy has made great progress in that direction."

Immediately after the night attack of the destroyer squadrons, Mr. Warner was transferred from the California to the destroyer Yarborough, which rushed him to Los Angeles Harbor in time to catch a noon train for Washington.

Admiral Moffett is remaining on the Pacific Coast until early October for a complete inspection of all naval air activities on this Coast. Yesterday he inspected the flying details of all battleships. Today he will fly to San Diego, where tomorrow he will inspect the various shore establishments, and on Tuesday will fly to Los Angeles Harbor in the seaplane PB-1. That afternoon he will inspect the plant of the Douglas Aircraft Company, at Santa Monica, and from this base will proceed north for visits to Mare Island and Sand Point fields before going to Washington.

BARON MARRIES

Von Carlshausen and Society Writer Wed in New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) With Deputy Chief Clerk McCormack officiating and two clerks as witnesses, Baron Herman Buderno Von Carlshausen, 24 years of age, formerly of Alsace-Lorraine, was married in the Municipal Building today, to Leon Frances Roberts.

"I TOLD YOU SO!" WARBLES McCORMACK

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—"I told you so," said John McCormack, Irish tenor, as he alighted from a Duluth train today. "I won $5000 on Gene Tunney, so why should I not be feeling fine?"

D. F. McSweeney, McCormack's manager, admitted with a wry face that he was on the losing end of the $5000 bet.

"We made a two to one bet and I knew I had a good thing," continued McCormack. "What will I do with the money? Well, charity begins at home, you know, so I shall keep it. I always had a liking for the underdog and I have felt for a long time that Tunney would win. This hunch was strengthened when Bill Tilden was beaten recently."

Sportsmen in Conference on Saving Game

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Closer co-operation between California sportsmen and the State Fish and Game Commission was forecast here today at the conclusion of a series of conferences between sportsmen from all sections of the State, directors of the California Development Association and members of the Fish and Game Commission.

Among the subjects discussed were the feasibility of changing the hunting seasons on various game, the size of the "sportsman's bag" and other means of conserving the wild life of California. During one conference it was brought out that although thousands of deer were killed by the foot-and-mouth disease virtually one-fourth of all the deer in the United States are in this State.

Among those who attended the meetings were Alfred Lindley of Stockton, Izadore Zellerbach and Marx Green of the Fish and Game Commission. Dr. Barton Everman of the Academy of Sciences; H. W. Keller, president of the Automobile Club of Southern California; Henry Garrison, Modesto; J. M. Proctor, Santa Paula; V. A. Hart, Greenville; J. C. McCloud, Lakeport; A. E. Dalton, Eureka; E. F. Auble, Alturas; Thomas West, Willows; Hardin Barry, Susanville; J. S. Johnson, Visalia, and Sherwood Green, Madera.

EXTORTION PLOT CHARGES MADE

"Alexander the Magician" and Oil Executive Held

Accused of Trying to Extort $50,000 from Hancock

Both Released on $50,000 Bail

jury here Wednesday. Bail for the men was fixed by United States Commissioner Head at $50,000 each.

On arriving at the County Jail for booking, both men emphatically denied complicity in any kind of a threat against Hancock or anyone else.

Conlin, who laughingly entertained jail attaches in the booking office with some sleight-of-hand work on a $10 bill while going through the booking formalities, said his arrest was one of the greatest surprises of his life.

"Yes, I know Hancock, as I know a lot of others in this city," he stated. "I have lived here for years. I only returned recently from a vacation up north. All I know was that I was asked if one of my friends might show a sample of my handwriting to an officer or someone who had requested it, and I said it was certainly all right with me.

"My relations with Mr. Hancock have been perfectly amicable. I have known Mr. Magenheimer for a number of years, too. We are the best of friends. Really, I can't even tell you just what we are charged with. Something about threatening Hancock for money. Why, I retired two years ago. I have a family and plenty of money. I don't have to go around threatening people to obtain money."

Magenheimer, also, professed ignorance as to the exact charges against him, further than that he was accused of threatening Hancock for money. He said that he is innocent of any such charge. He explained that he is president of the Sentinel Oil Company and of the Dominion Oil Company, both of which he characterized as $2,000,000 companies. He came to Los Angeles about eight years ago from Chicago. He is residing with his family at 403 South Mariposa street, where he was taken in custody yesterday afternoon.

Magenheimer said that he has known Hancock practically ever since he came to Los Angeles and that Hancock has been associated with him as vice-president of the Sentinel company for the past several years. Their families, he said, are socially the best of friends. His relations with Hancock always have been of the best, he said. He saw Hancock frequently and discussed business matters with him. The last time he saw Hancock, he said, was about a week ago, and there was nothing to indicate that there was anything wrong.

Shortly after they were placed in jail both men were visited by former United States Senator Frank Flint, his brother, Motley Flint, accompanied by Jay Spence, vice-president of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank.

Senator Flint complained of what he termed the "greatest outrage" on the part of the Federal officers "in arresting these men on a Saturday afternoon when all the banks and safety vaults are closed and locked and then demanding $50,000 bail."

It was later announced that the legal firm of Flint & McKay will defend Conlin and Magenheimer. Speaking as a defense counsel, former Senator Flint said:

"This is simply a case of a man, charged in an anonymous letter with wrong doing, trying to get out of it by accusing two friends, both of who mare respectable men, of having written the letter."

CHINESE CITES TRADE PERIL

League Delegate Warns Oriental Commerce Will Be Dangerous Without New Treaties

GENEVA, Sept. 25. (AP)—Unless the powers immediately make new treaties with China based on reciprocity and equality, antiforeign feeling there will increase and it will be dangerous for foreigners to trade there peacefully, Chu Chao-hsin, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations, asserted tonight.

In an interview Chu said that he had no apologies to offer anybody for his action in bringing the recent British bombardment of Wanhsien before the Assembly.

"I was educated in the United States," he said. "I love America and American ideals, but I do not understand why the United States is still following the other powers in enjoying extraordinary political and economic privileges and immunities in China.

"This is an infringement of China's sovereignty and is not in conformity with American principles. I hope the United States will take the lead in negotiating a new treaty before the other powers, thus establishing a still closer relationship and a still greater friendship between the United States and China."

Referring to negotiations now proceeding between China and Great Britain to settle the bombardment incident, Chu said that China's price would not be indemnity but a new treaty with Great Britain, whose object would be the abolishment both of extraterritoriality and the 'strangle-hold" on China's tariff schedules. This latter, he said, prevents China from levying the tariffs which she needs to conduct the country properly.

Charging that the British bombardment of Wanhsien was carried out without preliminary warning to the population, Chu declared that if this had happened in any other part of the world it would cause war.

"We do not want to start a war," he said. "If others want war with us let them start it. In the end we will win for China is weary of being treated as an inferior nation."

NO REPLY PLANNED

A British spokesman tonight said that Viscount Cecil, who protested yesterday against Chu's bringing up the bombardment incident without preliminary notice, would make no further reply to Chu because the matter is now in the hands of negotiators.

Chu's protest against the British bombardment yesterday followed the arrival in Geneva of fifty Chinese students from various European capitals. The local press says that these students exercised pressure upon Chu to appeal to the Assembly in the matter.

His intervention also followed the distribution of a document condemning the British attitude in China and saying that the bombardment incident at Wanhsien was either a precursor to "massacres similar to those at Shanghai and Shameen in 1925 or is intended to prevent the national government from pursuing its campaign for the emancipation of China, thus goading the inflamed public into retaliatory action against foreigners."

The circular was signed "European delegation of the Koomintang party."

President Ninchitch, at the opening of today's Assembly meeting, delivered a veiled criticism of Chu by reminding the delegates that the rules of the Assembly necessitated preliminary notice when delegates contemplated introducing any new problem.

STRIKE PICKETS AT SHAMEEN WITHDRAWN

CANTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Strike pickets have been withdrawn from entrance to Shameen, the foreign quarter of Canton, allowing free ingress and egress of both persons and goods. The latter has been prevented for some time as part of the anti-British strike.

As a source of additional revenue the Canton government proposes to levy a temporary tax of 2½ per cent o ordinary imports and 5 per cent on luxuries. Also, the government will abolish the likin.

The likin is a special tax imposed on goods in inland transit. It was originally levied to meet the additional expenditure caused by a rebellion and was first imposed in 1853.

Doubts are expressed in many quarters that the agreement reached recently by British and Cantonese representatives will really settle the strike.

GIRL BACK FROM ICY LAND

California Woman Arouses Envy of Polar Explorers by Exploits in Bagging Game

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Experienced polar hunters doff their hats to Miss Louise A. Boyd of San Rafael, Cal., who has returned to London after a six-weeks' trip into the Arctic. To Miss Boyd belongs the distinction of having been the first woman to set foot upon desolate Franz Josef Land. She made the voyage on Roald Amundsen's old supply ship Hobby. With Miss Boyd were Miss Janet Coleman of San Francisco and Count and Countess Rivadavia, friends of King Alfonso of Spain.

From the 80th deg. northern latitude Miss Boyd returned with the pelts of twenty-nine Polar bears, six of which she shot in one day. This, it is considered, is enough to make any Arctic hunter envious.

TALE OF EXPLOITS

Sitting in the drawing-room of a West-end hotel, the slim American girl, clad in modish knee-length dress of black georgette, told the Associated Press a story of Arctic exploits which would do credit to any male big-game hunter.

Miss Boyd chartered the Hobby to carry her game-shooting party of four into the ice fields beyond Spitzbergen. The Hobby sailed from Tromsoe July 29. The vessel kept a northeasterly course between Spitzbergen and Nova Sembla in the ice-filled sea where shipping rarely penetrates.

Fogs, ice and storms alternated until August 15, when land first was sighted. It was Bell Island, one of the Franz Josef groups. The Hobby nosed her way through leads in the ice in Nightingale Sound until at 80 deg. 26 min. the vessel was forced by Arctic ice barriers to turn back.

SHIP ICEBOUND

The Hobby then skirted Prince George's Land and the party made a land at Cape Flora. For days the ship was encased in a two-inch coating of ice.

The worst part of the trip came after a fruitless attempt to land on Hope Island, a lonely rock southeast of Spitzbergen. The storm-tossed Hobby had a perilous voyage back to Tromsoe through the Arctic night which had set in after August 24.

Miss Boyd took 21,000 feet of film, besides 700 photographs of Arctic scenery. She has sent her bear skins back to her home in California. She plans an extended tour of the continent.

"I shall be sailing for sunny California at the end of October or early in November," said Miss Boyd, "but I revel in the cold. I have got the Arctic lure and will certainly go north again."

A TONE IMMORTAL

Safeguarded through the years by two great scientific precautions

Only handpicked spruce of the finest grain goes into the sounding boards of Starr Pianos—for spruce is the only wood known that defies the ravages of constant pulsing vibration.

In "pin seating" lies the secret of continuous tone quality. Pins in Starr Pianos are firmly held by four layers of select rock maple. The grains are first reversed against each other, then glued under tremendous pressure.

These reverse grains of maple prevent the pins from turning even one ten thousandth of an inch. Consider, too, that combined, these pins are seated under 32,000 pounds of tension from the strings.

A note is struck, a super seated pin prevents variance through the seasons and a hand-picked spruce sounding-board echoes the tone to its fullest, sweetest quality.

Starr Grand Pianos are found in a majority of the leading schools and studios and in the finest homes. Many have been there since 1875.

Come in today and prove to yourself that the Starr Grand is the piano you have always wanted. Very easy terms arranged if you wish.

CIFICATIONS DINANCE HIT

in Construction of Schools Opposed

ment Bodies Send Protests to Council

ng on Matter Scheduled for Tomorrow

y Council has received re- from improvement and many protesting against of an ordinance recom- by the Building and Safety providing new specifica- for schoolhouse construction. which is a requirement schoolhouses of more than in height must be of Class construction. Council has referred the ordinance and the protests to its Building and Safety Committee which is scheduled to conduct its first hearing on the matter at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The protests, in brief, declared that the present schoolhouse specifications amply protect the children from fire menace and that the requirements will reduce the Board of Education's building program by increasing the cost of school buildings.

MODIFICATION OFFER

A modification of the ordinance was agreed to by the Building and Safety Commission in a letter to the City Council, by which the part of the ordinance relating to fireproof construction would not become effective until July 1, next. This amendment the commission said, would enable the Board of Education to proceed with the school building program until the present school bond money is exhausted, and the new schoolhouse building program can then be prepared on a basis of the new requirements and the new bond issue can be asked for to finance this program. In defense of the ordinance, the commission in its letter to the Council said:

"This board has always been under the impression that the ones to be considered most in the provisions of the proposed ordinance were the school children who face the fire hazard, and the taxpayers who bear the burden of the cost. We are of the opinion that children housed in fireproof buildings will ease the minds of many when the fire-bells ring, and also are convinced that real economy will be effected by considering the life of the buildings as a factor."

ONLY OBJECTION

"The only objection of which we are aware has to do with Section 205, which requires all school buildings of more than one story in height to be of Class A construction with roof modifications. This is the section that is presumed to interfere with the present building program."

"Assuming that the sentiment as expressed before this board remains unchanged, the enactment of the proposed ordinance would not be opposed providing that portion of Section 205 relating to two-story buildings did not become operative until the present bond money had been exhausted, possibly by July 1, 1927. If the Council should see fit to grant this modification, we are in accord with such a procedure."

"The entire content of this instrument was assembled in good faith as a constructive measure, and we are firm in the belief that it will reflect credit on its authors and that all parties concerned will eventually profit thereby."

MUSKRAT FOUND IN PIPE BY PLUMBERS

State Flower Show to Close Doors Tonight

Today is the last opportunity to see the 1926 exhibition of the California Association of Nurserymen, whose State Flower and Horticultural Show has been attracting capacity crowds to Montebello since Thursday.

The thousands of blossoms under the tent in Mulholland Park on Whittier Boulevard are in even better condition as the show closes than they were at the formal opening. Cool, foggy weather, perfect from a horticultural standpoint, has favored the show, and the rare and beautiful plants gathered from all parts of the world have come into full bloom since being placed on display.

The show will close at 10 o'clock tonight, and during the day, two bands will furnish entertainment to an audience expected to pass the 10,000 mark.

URGE AMERICAN WORLD AID

Former Member of Reichstag Tells City Club Dawes Plan Will Be Declared Impossible

"America's great mission in the world is to continue her work in the interests of international peace and of democratic freedom in all countries," declared Prof. Von Schulze Gavernitz, former member of the Reichstag, in an address given yesterday at the City Club.

"For the sake of America and for the sake of humanity, Americans must continue to carry on," said the speaker. "You cannot afford to dismiss Old World affairs with the thoughtless remark, 'let the children of Europe fight it out.' It is your duty as well as your privilege to win the conscience of the world to peace. It shall be your work as Americans, to build, step by step, upon Wilson's 'fourteen points,' which embody and represent your holiest ideals and noblest traditions.

"You have already done much in a constructive way," continued Prof. Gavernitz. "The Washington Conference was effective and the Dawes Plan has been of considerable worth—yet some day the Dawes scheme will be declared impossible and the whole reparations problem will be reopened. Then you will have an opportunity for greatest service. Perhaps you will cancel Europe's debts, with conditions—but, whatever you do, you cannot avoid taking part in the rehabilitation of Europe."

Discussing his own country, the speaker said that Germany is poor but that she still has brains and skill sufficient to accomplish her economic salvation if given half an opportunity to do so.

The following program of City Club activities for next week was announced by L. E. Moselle, secretary of the club: Tuesday evening the members will meet with the City Planning Association. Next Wednesday at noon Charles S. Johnson, a member of the American Sociological Society, will speak on "The Negro and Industry of Today." On Friday there will be a community sing, including solos by Claribel P. Wallace and John McCreary. Next Saturday the club will conduct a joint meeting with the League of Women Voters to discuss Initiative Measure No. 6 on the November ballot, which would license horse racing.

PICO STREET WIDENING FURTHERED

Ordinance of Intention Signed by Mayor as Improvement Preliminary

The widening of Pico street to a 100-foot traffic artery from Santa Fe avenue to Alvarado street was advanced yesterday when Mayor Cryer signed the ordinance of intention for the improvement.

It is expected that the improvement will cost between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, and toward this the city will contribute from its public improvement fund $350,000 because of the general public benefit to be received from the traffic artery.

The plans call for a roadway width of seventy feet. The project was sponsored by the Greater Pico Street Association of which City Planning Commissioner Danburg is the executive secretary. The widening from Santa Fe avenue to Alvarado street is part of the comprehensive plan of making Pico street a wide, through boulevard from the east city limits to the ocean. The widening and improvement is already proceeding in the western parts of Pico street.

Beware The Menace
That Lurks in Bobbed Hair

Every Woman Who Wears Her Hair Bobbed Might Just As Well Be Told the Truth About the Danger She Faces

BOBBED hair is convenient, attractive, modish. But it carries with it a penalty which every woman must be prepared to pay. Every woman who wears bobbed hair has noticed how dandruff increases. But dandruff is only a danger signal. Beneath the dandruff scale lurks death to hair. This dread germ is known as "Alopecia Pityrodes." In an exhaustive analysis recently made by Prof. John H. Austin, over 40 years a hair and scalp specialist, a startling fact was revealed. Eighty-five per cent of all women with bobbed hair afflicted with scalp disorder were victims of "Alopecia Pityrodes," which leads to baldness in from two to seven years.

Where Danger Lies

Prof. Austin and other specialists of the hair and scalp attribute this alarming situation to the use of combs and brushes in public places where this highly infectious germ is freely transferred from a diseased scalp to one hitherto in healthy condition.

The affliction is first noticed by an increase of dandruff in one of two forms. The progress of the disease starts with a slight scaling of the scalp in dry, flaky scales making the hair dry and brittle or these scales may be grayish white and greasy making the hair oily and stringy. Sometimes a terrible itching occurs. Both cause falling hair.

The First Sign

The first sign of this may be detected in the comb after combing the hair At first it is slight. Then the germs start to multiply by the million and the hair comes out almost in combfuls, leaving ugly bald splotches which become more and more difficult to conceal as the bald area increases. Unless this disease is arrested baldness of the entire scalp frequently results.

Science Has Discovered How to Stop Hair Destruction

Even when there has been a decided loss of hair there are good prospects of staying the course of the ailment, and increasing the diameter and amount of the hair, provided the person troubled will persist in treatment. Prof. Austin has found that nature will fight long and well, and if given help at the right time will replace the lost hair with new stronger, thicker and more beautiful hair.

A Powerful Microscope Reveals the Cause

The only way to tell the exact cause of hair and scalp troubles is by a microscopic examination of the hair and scalp. Prof. Austin, who has been at The May Co. for the past twelve years, has found that many people treat hair troubles without knowing what they are trying to cure, and, naturally, results are disappointing.

Prof. Austin does not trust to guesswork. A powerful microscope magnifies the microbacilli thousands of times, and once the exact cause is determined, it is then a simple matter to correct the trouble. Over 40 years of practical experience and scientific study qualify him to advise what to do in each particular case.

Prof. Austin says, and you will find it repeated in every important scientific treatise on the hair and scalp, that the use of hair tonics, dandruff cures, elixirs, mange cures and pomades is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

Free Microscopic Examination of the Hair and Scalp

This week Prof. Austin will make FREE microscopic examinations of the hair and scalp. Hours 10 to 12 and 2 to 4—both men and women invited. The May Company, mezzanine floor, Broadway entrance.—[Advertisement.

RELIEF NEARING HALF OF QUOTA

Need for Speedy Donations Again Pointed Out

Florida Death Toll May Rise Due to Exposure

Judge Hollzer Gives Fee Paid for Film Wedding

"Los Angeles' quota in the nation's humane appeal for a relief fund to aid the stricken thousands of devastated Florida is but $50,000. And Los Angeles has raised scarcely more than $20,000 by voluntary contributions to date."

This is the statement made yesterday by D. C. MacWatters, chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, through which organization the fund-raising and relief work is centralized.

At the same time Mr. MacWatters again urged on the philanthropic men and women of Los Angeles that they make their donations with all possible speed in order that the quota may be reached at the earliest possible moment.

NEED OF QUICK AID

"Our reports from the devastated area continue to show the great urgency of a quick response to the appeal for aid sent out in behalf of the stricken and homeless people of Florida," declared Mr. MacWatters, yesterday.

"With more than 50,000 families homeless it is absolutely necessary that shelters be provided at once, else the death toll will mount even higher because of exposure and unsanitary conditions which naturally result from the havoc.

"We are assured of the co-operation of many service clubs, women's clubs, fraternal organizations and business associations, and through other channels and individual contributions we know that Los Angeles will not fail to raise her assigned quota of $50,000 for the relief of the unfortunate sufferers.

"But it is expedient that our humanitarian citizens not delay in their giving. Let us respond not only generously, but quickly to this appeal from the helpless victims of the Florida disaster."

Yesterday at Red Cross headquarters, 610 Transportation Building, was received a check for $50, forwarded by Superior Judge Hollzer as a contribution to the humane fund. This donation was from Mr. and Mrs. Jack Conway, whose recent marriage was an event of filmdom interest, and it represented the emolument which the happy bridegroom had gratefully tendered Judge Hollzer as a souvenir of the ritual which united himself and Virginia Bushman, daughter of Francis X. Bushman, in the bonds of wedlock.

SENDS WEDDING FEE

With the $50 check Judge Hollzer suggested that all ministers of the Gospel and judges, officiating at marriages during the next few weeks, donate their fees to the Florida disaster fund.

Following is Judge Hollzer's letter accompanying the check from Mr. and Mrs. Jack Conway:

"On the 21st inst. it was my delightful privilege to perform the ceremony uniting Miss Virginia Bushman, daughter of Francis X. Bushman, to Mr. Jack Conway, motion-picture director affiliated with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. It has been my uniform practice never to retain a fee for performing a marriage service. Instead I suggest to the happy couple that in the midst of their joy they substitute for the fee a contribution to some worthy charity.

"Accordingly you will find inclosed herewith cashier's check for $50, payable to the order of the American Red Cross, which I am forwarding as a contribution in the name of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Conway, toward the relief of the stricken people of Florida.

"In this connection may I suggest that an appeal be made through the press to every judge and minister that all fees tendered for a like service during the next few weeks be forwarded as a contribution to this fund. I am sure that these officials are in no way dependent for their livelihood upon such fees.

"I claim no credit for this idea. On the contrary the entire credit belongs to Mrs. Hollzer who is ever thinking about and doing something worth while for those less fortunate."

Among other contributions received at the Red Cross headquarters yesterday was one of $250, from the student body of the Hollywood High School, it being stipulated that this gift be sent to the special relief of the people in Hollywood, Fla. Carl Bush, secretary of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, through which organization the donation was received, reported that the Hollywood district expected to make a generous showing, and that the appeal was already meeting with a ready response from the philanthropic men and women of that community.

LONG BEACH SLOW TO ANSWER APPEAL

LONG BEACH, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) Although this city's quota for the relief of storm-stricken Florida is only $7500, officials in charge of the fund here are concerned over the failure, so far, of Long Beach citizens to respond to the appeals that have been broadcast through newspapers and other mediums. Up to noon today only $900 had been subscribed. A special meeting of the board of directors of the Long Beach chapter, American Red Cross has been called for Monday night, when plans for arousing interest among Long Beach citizens in the campaign for funds will be made. It has been proposed that a benefit ball and entertainment be staged.

CONTRIBUTIONS OF NATION PASS TWO MILLION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Contributions in the Florida disaster relief fund now total $2,212,800, it was announced this afternoon at the headquarters of the American Red Cross here. The organization has asked a minimum of $5,000,000 for the assistance of the injured and homeless in the hurricane district, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, expressed an earnest hope that collections by local chapters over the week-end would bring the fund to at least $3,000,000.

NEW YORK FUND NOW TOTALS $267,710

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Contributions for the relief of storm sufferers in Florida received by the New York chapter of the American Red Cross reached a total of $267,710 today. Funds received at the Red Cross offices today amounted to $50,990.

Only money can be used at present. Checks sent to The Times should be made payable to The Times Florida Relief Fund. Up to 3 p.m. yesterday The Times fund stood as follows:

STRICKEN AREA BUILDING ANEW

Florida, Undaunted, Starts Repairing Damage

Miami Numbers Dead at 400, With 210 Missing

Sanitary Engineers Asked of Federal Government

MIAMI (Fla.) Sept. 25. (AP)—Southeastern Florida has begun to raise itself from the ruins of last week's battering storm. With the known death list at approximately 400, more than 1000 persons severely injured and a score of thousands homeless, work of rehabilitating the stricken area was being pushed rapidly today as stores reopened for business and residents sought to restore their homes. Throughout the devastated area the thump of hammer and the chug of wrecking machinery echoed the efforts of working crews to clear the mass of tangled debris and to repair that which cannot be replaced entirely.

Search for the bodies of persons listed as missing, numbering more than 300, continued. In Miami and vicinity, 210 are unaccounted for, while the flood waters of Lake Okeechobee are believed to conceal from 125 to 150 bodies.

Property damage is estimated at more than $165,000,000. A central adjustment bureau has been established by insurance companies in Miami, where hurricane insurance policies totaling $20,000,000, covering virtually all of the principal buildings damaged by the gale, are held.

Fourteen of the forty-seven buildings of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the Miami district, were practically destroyed with a loss estimated at $175,000.

Bishop H. M. Dobbs of the Florida conference, in making this report to headquarters of the church in Nashville, said: "Our first duty is to co-operate with the Red Cross. Our people are brave, hopeful and full of faith."

The State, however, still is in need of medical assistance, according to Hermann A. Dann of Jacksonville, president of the Florida Chamber of Commerce. He made a plea for such aid in New York today, declaring that reports of the disaster had not been exaggerated.

Gov. Martin today petitioned Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon-General of the United States, for five public health service sanitary engineers to take charge of sanitary conditions in the storm area.

President C. H. Mann of the State Board of Health, who made public the request, said the Surgeon-General had been asked to send the engineers here for a conference with State health officers with whom they will be asked to co-operate.

Contributions for the relief of storm sufferers continue to pour in from all sections of the country. Receipts by the Red Cross chief clearinghouse for the relief work today had passed the $2,000,000 mark. Countless other agencies daily are receiving donations which will swell the total considerably.

Gov. Martin today received a check for $5000 for storm-relief work from Harry Payne Whitney, nationally known financier and sportsman.

While refugees continued today to leave the storm-torn regions in large numbers, the spirit of Florida was symbolized in the determination of a majority of the 200 residents of the desolated Moore Haven community to return to their farms as soon as the threat of disease spread has been removed.

Evacuated from the ruins of their homes by the militia on orders of sanitary officers as a precautionary measure, the refugees refused all save temporary aid and decided at a meeting in Sebring, where they are quartered, to re-establish the community immediately they are permited to re-enter it.

An automobile tour of much of the devastated district about Miami late today revealed that great areas remain under water, and in some of them there are wrecked houses which apparently have not been explored.

Fear of an outbreak of typhoid fever caused the authorities to contemplate establishing quarantines in several of the flooded districts.

EVERY SEAT FOR BENEFIT PURCHASED

Theatrical Profession Gives of Talent for Relief of Suffering Floridans

Every seat in the Metropolitan Theater, where the midnight performance for the benefit of the Florida storm sufferers was staged by the Los Angeles Theatrical Managers' Association, was sold by 8 o'clock last night and the performance was still going merrily on in the wee, sma' hours.

"There never has been such a generous response to an appeal for aid," said Frank L. Newman, managing director of Publix Theaters here, "both from members of the theatrical profession—who gave of their time and money—and the public, which began virtually begging for standing room long before midnight."

James B. McKowen, manager of the Hillstreet Theater and president of the managers' association, who was busy "counting the gate," wiped a perspiring brow and bore Newman out.

An incomplete audit had reached $9000 and the total receipts were expected to top that amount. Checks had been received from several performers, who were unable to take part in the benefit and Newman had received assurance that others were in the mail. Among those who sent their checks for generous amounts were Mushy Callahan and Fidel La Barba, pugilists, who were forbidden to break training rules, and John Gilbert and Douglas McLean, screen actors, who were on location.

The list of performers who appeared, and others who sat "out front" might well have been compiled as a theatrical Who's Who. Among them were:

Elsie Janis, Paul Whiteman, Rube Wolf and Eddie Peabody and their bands; Nick Lucas, Elsa Ersi, Johnny Burke and Bert Hanlon, "Madcap" Nelly Kelly, the Berkoffs, Morton Downey, Harry Fox, Beatrice Curtis, Small and Mays, Liu, the Chinese giant; Walter Hiers, members of the prologue to Sid Grauman's "Don Juan;" May McAvoy and Marco Wolf.

Among the directors-general of stage activities and masters of ceremony were Sid Grauman, Fred Niblo, Charlie Murray, Lew Cody, Mabel Normand, Wallace Beery and Rupert Hughes.

Among the motion-picture stars who were introduced, or who were among the 3800 spectators, were Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, Bebe Daniels, Charles Ray, Vilma Banky, Reginald Denny, Alice Calhoun, J. Warren Kerrigan, Billie Dove, Roy Stewart, Betty Blair, Ruth Roland, Roscoe Arbuckle, Gertrude Olmstead, Michael Curtiz, Louise Fazenda, the Duncan sisters and scores of others.

In the immediate vicinity of the equator, there is to be found a rank growth, a species of wild pineapple which the natives have made use of for centuries for fiber.

ORATORS IN TRIP TO BURIED CITY

Students in Mexico Leave for San Juan Teotihuacan

Program Includes Climb on "Pyramid of the Sun"

Reception Tendered Party at National University

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25 (Exclusive)—The three winning students in the international oratorical contest left early this morning for the pyramids of San Juan Teotihuacan, forty miles from here, accompanied by a large number of members of the student bodies of the National University and the National Preparatory School who will explain to them all the points of interest at "the American Egypt."

They will spend the greater part of the day there, their plans including a climb to the top of the "Pyramid of the Sun," and inspection of a number of the underground passages of the buried city of Teotihuacan which requires a special permit from the Department of Anthropology. Guides have been supplied to show the party every nook and corner of one of the most interesting of ancient cities of the Western Hemisphere.

Lunch will be served in the giant cave at Teotihuacan, according to the program arranged by El Universal, which newspaper, with The Los Angeles Times, sponsored the Mexican visit of Herbert Wenig of Hollywood High School, William Newton of England and Herbert Moran of Canada.

STUDENTS WELCOMED

The three students yesterday again expressed publicly their appreciation of the opportunity to visit Mexico. The trio spent a busy day. A formal reception was accorded them at the National University, with Prof. Jesus Ramos delivering a welcoming address and each visitor responding. At this function a formal welcome was extended them by delegations representing various Mexican institutions of learning.

The party spent the remainder of the day picnicking at "the Mexican Venice," the floating gardens of Xochimilco beyond the suburbs of the city. In flat-bottomed canoes, tall, dark Indians poled the party over miles of water lanes to the central lake, reached only after traversing a maze of channels. Here the party held their picnic in the shade of tall willows.

The hosts and guides were special student committees who saw to it that the visitors were furnished with all the Mexican dishes, which is one of the chief features of a visit to Xochimilco.

GUESTS AT THEATER

Yesterday evening the visiting students were guests of honor at a festival arranged for them at the Hidalgo Theater, placed at their disposition by the Ministry of Education.

Special honor was paid to them by members of the night music school, composed of the poorer elements who after the day's labor turn to the study of music. A delegation of pupils arrived at the theater still wearing their overalls, desirous of meeting the visitors before the performance.

Wenig delivered an address on the Constitutions of the United States and Mexico and on various phases of Mexico's struggle for independance. He was heartily applauded, the band playing the "Star Spangled Banner" in his honor. Newton spoke on the government of the British Empire and Moran on the relations between the United States and Canada, the best of which could possibly exist between two governments, he said.

The festival included a musical program given under the auspices of El Universal and The Los Angeles Times, which was attended by the student body en masse, as well as by members of artistic, musical and scientific circles. They leave for Chicago tomorrow night.

ORATOR FOR MEXICO TO BE COACHED

Director Vargas Due in Washington to Look After Constitutional Contender

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—With the arrival of Antonio Vargas, director of the Mexican oratorical contest, in Washington tomorrow, the highly competitive phase of the international oratorical contest, which reaches its climax here on October 15, will come to the forefront. Mr. Vargas is making the trip to Washington to look after Jose Munoz Cota, the Mexican spokesman, who will speak on "Bolivar and the Latin American Peoples."

Mr. Vargas is one of the editors of El Universal, the great Mexican daily sponsoring the contest in the southern republic. It will be his task to see that Mr. Cota thoroughly familiarizes himself with the acoustics of the Washington auditorium. He will also see to it that Cota keeps up his physical condition for the contest. For the last three months Cota, who is one of the best amateur boxers in Mexico has been training as rigorously for the oratorical contest as he would for a prize fight.

While making the European tour with the finalists in the national oratorical contest of the United States during the last three months, Cota practiced regularly. Although not a large boy, the Mexican champion is an exceptionally vigorous one and was able to hold his own with men and boys a good deal heavier than himself in the competitions held on the steamers during the ocean voyages to and from Europe.

The Canadian spokesman Herbert Moran of Toronto, also will have a mentor and guardian in the person of Col. James T. Hughes, director of the contest in Canada, who will reach Washington several days before the meeting of October 15. The other national spokesmen will practice their speeches after their return next week from the Mexican trip but will not have official sponsors to take care of their conditioning.

MAGNATE ASKS WORKERS' RULE

Employee Control Declared to be Strike Cure

Philadelphia Utilities Man Presages New Era

Industrial Democracy Held to be Vital Step

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25. (AP)—Employee control of industry as a solution of America's economic and industrial problems was advocated today by Thomas E. Mitten, operator of street railway, motorbus, taxicab and air lines valued at $500,000.

Addressing the Congress of American Industry, Mr. Mitten asserted that if the employee-ownership principle were applied to all industry, America, within one generation, would become a strike-proof nation.

"Its democracy," he added, "would be industrial as well as political, and the capitalistic system not only would have been humanized, but would have reached its maximum of usefulness in the advancement of human progress and civilization."

Mr. Mitten said he based his statements on his own experience with the employees of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, who own nearly one-half of that company's $30,000,000 of common stock. He asserted that by adopting the P.R.T. plan of co-operation between men and management, steam railroad employees and anthracite workers within ten years could obtain controlling interests in the country's railroads and hard-coal mines.

"America's best way to overcome industrial autocracy," said Mr. Mitten, "is to harness labor and capital into an industrial democracy for greater production with proper distribution of the resultant profits, since labor, capital and consumer are all benefited through added production, which makes for lessened cost of living. When a physical merger of capital and labor is thus effected so that they have but one interest instead of two, then only will they pull in the same direction. There can be no strikes then, because a man does not destroy that which is his own."

GOLF PLAYED IN GRAVEYARD

Tombstones Used as Tees and Newly-Dug Holes Furnished "Cups"

LONDON, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Golf is a good game, but when it is played in a cemetery with the newly dug graves, awaiting their dead, for the holes and gravestones laid flat on the burial mounds for tees, that is too much.

Three young men, wielding golf clubs in the faint light of the moon, were discovered in a cemetery outside of London recently by the caretaker, who promptly stopped the game at the third grave. Before he could call a police officer the men fled.

ROPE EMBRAGO EXPLAINED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The embargo against the importation of Manila rope ordered by President Coolidge in May does not apply against shipments of this product from the Philippines, Treasury customs officers ruled today.

DEATH ENDS MYSTERIOUS WILD DRIVE

Woman Instantly Killed as Car Turns Over in Plunge Into Ditch

SACRAMENTO, Sept. (AP)—Mrs. Katherine R. Carey of Piedmont, widow of the late Patrick A. Carey, was instantly killed at noon today on the upper Stockton road when her car plunged upside down into a ditch at the side of the highway ten miles south of here.

As the car plunged off the highway, Mrs. Carey was thrown through a glass door and fell under the machine. Her chest was crushed, neck broken, back broken, all ribs broken and shoulders broken.

J. C. Mims of Chico and L. C. Dixon of Los Angeles, both of whom were traveling from Stockton toward Sacramento on the highway, told representatives of the Coroner's office and deputy sheriffs that Mrs. Carey had driven wildly ever since leaving Stockton.

Dixon was opposite Mrs. Carey when she made the fatal plunge and he was forced to run his own car into the ditch to keep from being hit.

What caused the wild drive of Mrs. Carey is a mystery.

A bond house in San Francisco and Oakland was notified by the Coroner's office and an agent of the firm was expected to leave San Francisco this afternoon to come to Sacramento to take charge of the remains.

OREGON BRIDGE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Bridge plans of the Oregon Highway Commission for a crossing over the Miami River near Garibaldi, Or., were approved today by the War Department.

MONSTER WHALE OFF VIRGINIA REPORTED

NORFOLK (Va.) Sept. 25. (AP)—A monster whale at least 100 feet long and spouting water to the height of a good-sized tree, was sighted by R. F. Johnson, a fisherman, and his son, they reported today, in the bay near here. The monster, a phenomenon in local waters, was reported to be heading for the Virginia Capes.

DOCTOR'S BAIL SET IN WIFE POISONING

PORT ANGELES (Wash.) Sept. 25 (AP)—Judge W. O. Chapman of Tacoma today fixed bail for Dr. Paul D. Moore of Sequim, Wash., and Nashville, Tenn., at $30,000 and set trial for November 15. Moore is accused of killing his wife with poison.

Young Eloper Strolls Back to Detention Home

SEATTLE, Sept. 25. (AP)—John E. McMaster, 16 years of age, bridegroom, escaped a local detention home in which his father placed him, and strolled back again today. He declared that freedom was not so sweet and he was willing to return. McMaster had been held in the home since his return from Oakland, Cal., where he and his bride of 25 years of age, eloped.

FLYER IN BALUCHISTAN

LONDON, Sept. 24. (AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Achbar, Baluchistan, says that Alan J. Cobham, the English aviator, returning home from a flight to Australia, arrived there today from Karachi, India.

BAY STATE GETS CALL TO RALLY

Republican Victory Message to Nation Urged

McNary Tells Coolidge of Hard Fight in West

Civil Service Reform League in Attack on New

BOSTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The sixty-fifth Republican State convention held here today was exhorted by the State leaders "to send to the whole country a message of overwhelming Republican victory in Massachusetts" in support of the national and State administrations in their policies of economy and law enforcement.

Beyond the brief statement "enforcement of all laws," the terse platform adopted did not accept the challenge of William A. Gaston, Democratic candidate for Governor, who recently proclaimed prohibition the issue and himself for modification.

COOLIDGE SUPPORT

Among the party policies enumerated were support of Coolidge, Senator Butler and Gov. Fuller; adherence to the Republican protective tariff; sound legislation for the relief of agriculture; opposition to large expenditures in political campaigns and biennial sessions of the State Legislature. United States Senator Frederick H. Gillette, chairman of the convention, in the keynote address, hailed the present prosperity as the greatest since Adam and urged the maintenance of the Republican administration and protective tariff which had brought it about. He dwelt on the reduction of the national debt and of taxes and spoke favorably of the refunding of the war debts.

DRY ISSUE OMITTED

Senator William M. Butler did not include prohibition in the subjects he discussed but found two questions for the State to answer in the November election: whether the Republican party is to be supported in the legislative branch for the fulfillment of its party pledges and whether Massachusetts desires to continue effectively the administration of Calvin Coolidge or to weaken him in the last half of his term.

PRESIDENT TOLD OF CONDITIONS IN WEST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Hard work and lots of it will have to be expended in the Far Western States by the Republican party if its present Senate majority is to be maintained in the fall Congressional elections, Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, informed President Coolidge today.

"The Republicans are faced with a hard fight in several of the States in the West," he said, following his conference at the White House. "I believe, however, that we will win if the Republican voters are not too indifferent to get out and work."

Senator McNary mentioned Washington, Colorado, Oregon, California and Nevada as States where Republican candidates are facing stiff opposition.

Asked if he had requested the President to send Cabinet members to speak in some of the Western States, Mr. McNary replied in the negative. He said that personal work by the voters was needed much more than special speakers.

Senator McNary said that despite reports to the contrary sentiment is still strong through the Middle West and Far Western States for agricultural legislation similar to that embodied in the McNary-Haugen bill defeated last spring. The Senator will introduce his bill in a somewhat simplified form when Congress meets again, he said, but does not expect its passage at the short session.

ATTACK AGAINST POSTMASTER-GENERAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The issuance of a "brazen invitation" to more than 15,000 postmasters to "get busy politically" in the Congressional campaign was charged against Postmaster-General New today by the National Civil Service Reform League.

A recent order of Mr. New, defining the rights, privileges and restrictions of postal employees in political campaigns was attacked by the league as so interpreting restrictions applying to the employees as to "nullify the plain intent of the law."

The order, issued in circular form, summarized the provisions of the criminal code covering political activities of postal employees, the league said, but it was so worded that instead of acting as a restraining influence it conformed to Mr. New's "well-known view that postmasters of the country have an obligation to the political organization which is behind the Federal administration."

Mr. New called attention in his order to the inhibitions against soliciting of campaign funds from each other by government employees and against the use of money by the employees to promote any political object. He also cited an executive order prohibiting persons in the competitive classified service from taking active parts in political campaigns.

BOTH PARTIES TO CONVENE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—The hosts of up-State Republicanism poured into New York City today for the opening of the party's State convention Monday.

Meanwhile the forces of Democracy in the metropolitan area were preparing to move in force on Syracuse to select their candidates and adopt a party platform on the same day.

As the convention forces began gathering at the Republican State committee headquarters, an air of uncertainty still surrounded the selection of the party's gubernatorial nominee.

General sentiment among the delegates, however seemed to center around Representative Ogden L. Mills of New York, the convention's keynote speaker; William J. Donovan of Buffalo, assistant to the United States Attorney General and State Treasurer Lewis H. Pounds of Brooklyn.

The definite elimination of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as a gubernatorial candidate was announced today by State Chairman Morris. He said Dr. Butler had made a final declination to friends who had been advocating his nomination.

The dry forces in the Republican party were expected to center their attack on Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., candidate for re-election, and have selected former State Senator Francis W. Christman of Herkimer as their candidate.

Indications were that Senator Wadsworth would be renominated, and that Mr. Christman would run as an independent Republican. This, it was pointed out, might result in the election of Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner of New York, slated to become the Democratic nominee.

The wet and dry question is not expected to interfere seriously with the selection of the Republican gubernatorial candidate, as the drys have centered their strength on Dr. Frederick W. Seward of Goshen, who will run on an independent ticket, under the designation of Constitutional party.

The Democratic party will nominate Gov. Alfred E. Smith for re-election.

ARGENTINA URGED TO RE-ENTER LEAGUE

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Foreign Affairs Commission of the Chamber of Deputies has approved the proposal of President De Alvear that Argentina re-enter the League of Nations, and suggested that this be done in accordance with the Versailles pact of 1919. Argentina's delegation was withdrawn from Geneva during the first Assembly in 1920.

VOTE CHECK COMPLETED IN ARIZONA

Official Results of Recent State Primary Given Out by Secretary Kerby

PHOENIX, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Official canvass today was completed by Secretary of State Kerby of the returns from the State primary election. For Senator, Carl Hayden, Democrat, received 36,745 votes, or within 4000 votes of the number necessary for election in November. His high-line opponent, Charles H. Rutherford, received 8995. The unopposed Republican candidate, Ralph H. Cameron, had 11,920.

In the Governorship contest, G. W. P. Hunt, Democrat, was renominated by a vote of 26,155, compared with 16,057 for E. E. Ellinwood and 10,890 for J. J. Cox. On the Republican side, E. S. Clark was nominated for Governor by a vote of 8294 to 7048 for Thomas Maddock.

Mine Appraiser—Democratic, Tom Foster, incumbent, 23,489; W. P. Mahoney, 22,476. Republican, Lem Stallings, 8932.

HERE'S OLD WATCH THAT HAS NO STORY

NEWPORT (Ky.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Edward G. Lohmeyer has a watch more than 100 years old. It was made in Liverpool, Eng., and is wound with a key. It is the more remarkable, in this section at least, because there is no long and romantic history connected with it, legendary or otherwise.

DISTRICTING INDORSED BY JUDGE WHITE

Responsibility for Making Representation Equal Rests With People, He Says

Responsibility for enforcement of the constitutional mandate for reapportionment of the State Legislature now rests with the people, the legislators themselves having refused to carry out the mandate, in the opinion of Judge Thomas P. White, Los Angeles attorney and civic and fraternal leader.

In a statement yesterday, issued through the All-Parties Reapportionment Committee, Judge White declared that "equality of representation" demands that all California citizens suport Proposition No. 20 on the November ballot, the redistricting plan sponsored by the All-Parties committee.

The committee also announced that the El Sereno Improvement Association and the Women's Missionary Society of the Highland Park Baptist Church, has adopted resolutions indorsing Proposition No. 20 and condemning Proposition No. 28, the Farm Bureau reapportionment initiative.

Made in Our Own Shop

Well, men, there is one sure thing that I can promise you and I will live up to it. You are going to get my personal attention from the time you come into this institution until the time you go out with your suit. That your garment will have the best of linings and trimmings made by our own tailors under my own personal supervision, which means that every garment must come up to my expectations. I have just spent two weeks with the boys down at my shop, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., arranging for this special event, drilling them while not so busy, the way I want our garments made. All details about tailoring I always go into the little things, the big ones will take care of themselves, but it is the little ones that count when it comes to tailoring clothes for men. I never want to disappoint a man about his suit not being out on the date it was promised, and I will see that you get it, too. I have arranged to turn out 250 suits per week, and they will be made right on the dot with our guaranteed workmanship, the kind that looks the same at the end of two years' hard wear as it did the day you put it on. That's what I call real tailoring. I want to know how long a man has had his suit before I pass my judgment on it—that's me.

IMPERIAL CRISIS TO RISE AT LONDON CONFERENCE

Dominions Will Insist on Guarantee of Independence as Nations; Canada Rebukes Byng

BY EUGENE J. YOUNG

[Copyright, 1926, by Eugene J. Young]

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The day after the electors of Canada swept out of power the Conservative government favored by the British Governor-General, Lord Byng, and swept back into power the Liberal government which Lord Byng and the British imperialists did not favor, a highly significant incident took place in Geneva.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Minister, had undertaken to announce that none of the British dominions wanted a seat on the enlarged Council of the League of Nations. To this attempt of Britain to speak for the whole empire, several spokesmen for the dominions reported that they were perfectly able to disclose their own viewpoints. And Sir George Foster, the Canadian delegate, chose the morning after the Canadian election to make a speech in which he said:

"The dominions for seven years have been members of the League and the Assembly with a position of equality with every other member of the League. So far as my country is concerned, we are making no claim for a Council seat, but it is pertinent to say that we consider we have equal rights to representation on the Council or otherwise with every one of the fifty-six members of the League."

WILL HURT CONFERENCE

This was a strong enough declaration of independence under any circumstances; but it took on added strength and significance in view of another scheduled event in which Canada is soon to take part. The British Imperial Conference is to meet the middle of October. It has been the hope of the present Conservative government in London and of British imperialists generally, that this conference would be the means of binding the empire more closely together. The dominions were to be asked to join in some sort of system which would assure joint action on vital imperial matters and on foreign affairs under the leadership of Britain.

It had been the hope of these imperialists that Canada would help their plans. In fact, many political observers in Canada believe the crisis at Ottawa was deliberately forced last summer so that Premier King could be ousted and the more imperial-minded Arthur Meighen could get control of the government in time for the London conference. Lord Byng's action in refusing to dissolve Parliament at the request of Premier King and soon afterward granting the request of Premier Meighen—thus putting the Conservatives in power for the vital election—may or may not have been directed from London, as Canadian Liberals have charged, but it certainly fitted in with the desires of the imperialists.

The attitude Canada showed at Geneva jolted these plans. It is quite evident our northern neighbor is bent on asserting her nationhood and will not be prepared to accept any subordination to Britain. That fact bodes ill for the success of the imperial conference, since Canada can now be counted on to give support to nationalistic measures which Ireland and South Africa intend to press.

TALKS OF SECESSION

In South Africa for the last five months a bitter campaign has been carried on between the elements which, on the one hand, favor close co-operation with Britain and those, now in power, who are working for a South African republic. A project for a distinctive South African flag, with no imperial device on it, has been the issue around which the battle has centered.

Premier Hertzog has stated his position toward the empire in these words: "I say we are absolutely free and untrammeled, absolutely independent, just as free as Great Britain herself, and if we should be so stupid as to do so, we are free to secede."

Mr. Hertzog has also made it evident that at the imperial conference he will raise the question of freer intercourse between the Dominions and the nations outside the empire. He has said that the matter of diplomatic representation for the Dominions will be "one of the first and weightiest problems to be dealt with by the conference." He holds that where their interests demand it the Dominions should be prepared to take over their own duties and responsibilities independently of the British diplomats.

There have been suggestions also from South Africa that a more precise definition of the relations between the "nations" of the empire should be adopted. Such a proposal would involve something in the nature of a written constitution. As such an idea has been rejected by Canada and others heretofore it is evident that it would be productive of a great controversy.

IN FIGHTING MOOD

Ireland can be counted on to give fully as much trouble. She is in a fighting mood. As the political correspondent of the Manchester Guardian remarked recently: "The Dominion that is certain to raise the question of Dominion status is the Irish Free State."

In the proceedings in the League of Nations Ireland has gone even further than Canada in claiming that League membership makes her a real nation. She made this position clear when she filed at Geneva her "treaty" with Britain and served notice that any dispute over the provisions of this "treaty" must go before the League. Britain formally rejected this proceeding, holding that disputes within the empire cannot be brought before the League; but Ireland has formally taken issue with her and the British have never seen fit to press for a decision.

In the recent scramble for Council seats Ireland set out to demonstrate that a British Dominion is a real nation and entitled to a place on the Council. She urged Canada to stand for one of the new Council seats. The British delegation was willing that one of the Dominions should have such a seat, provided that the candidate should first be chosen by an Imperial caucus and should stand as a second representative of the Empire. The Dominions rejected the caucus plan with a positiveness which shocked the London delegation. They served notice that if they asked a Council seat they would do so as members of the League and not as members of the so-called British Commonwealth of Nations.

And, finally, when Canada declined to go into the race, Ireland put herself forward as a candidate for the Council and received ten votes. Geneva dispatches have made it evident she could have had many more votes had she pressed the issue to the limit, but she was content with the assertion of her right to election and the League's automatic recognition of that right by the acceptance of her candidacy.

ROYAL REPRESENTATIVE

In the imperial conference it is evident that Ireland intends to take just as strong a role. Statements made by her leaders show she is not only going to insist she is completely free from any domination by the London government and Parliament, but that she will not let the royal prerogative be used in a way to hamper her liberty of action. Desmond Fitzgerald, Minister of External Affairs, has put it this way: "No one shall have power to have any say in regard to, or interfere with, or veto, the work of a Dominion except the government of that Dominion."

Two of the things to be fought are the present supervision of the Governor-General over relations with the British government and the right of the British Privy Council to hear appeals from Dominion courts. Both these things are part of the "royal prerogative," as the Governor-General and the Privy Council represent the authority of the monarchy. In raising such questions the Irish will strike at the main tie of the empire, for the Dominions have forced the London government to concede their practical independence on all governmental matters and the royal house now furnishes the only common allegiance.

On both these points Canada is bound to give at least a measure of support to Ireland. The Canadian people have distinctly rebuked the King's representative for daring to interfere with their right to govern themselves as they please and the Canadian delegate can be depended on to stress that point. It is probable Canada will demand the right hereafter to choose a Canadian as Governor-General, if that office is to survive. The Canadians are also set against the assumption by the Privy Council of a right to upset the decisions of their courts.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

The chief trouble, however, is bound to arise over the conduct of foreign relations. All the Dominions are determined that some measures must be taken to stop the London Foreign Office from endeavoring to commit the empire to dangerous policies without consulting the Dominions. More than once the London government has promised the Dominions to take no important action without consulting them; but on no important occasion has it let them in on its innermost dealings until a decision had been reached.

The Locarno treaties, which bind Britain to intervention in French-German and other troubles on the continent, were negotiated without the participation of the Dominions and in the face of their objection to any commitments in Europe. The only satisfaction they got out of this affair was the provision that they could not be bound by the treaties unless they gave direct assent. That is poor satisfaction, because they feel that if the empire is drawn into a war through these treaties they will be forced to take part, anyway.

What they demand is real consultation with them on all imperial foreign policies. That will be one of the big issues of the conference. How it is to be met no responsible British statesman has ever dared to guess out loud. How can policies of state be decided by a group of statesmen who are widely separated most of the time and can only consult by cable, and who, in the case of the Dominion statesmen, will not commit themselves to anything until they have the consent of their Parliaments. The British Foreign Office would never get anywhere if it had to wait on such cumbersome machinery. Yet the Dominions are demanding nothing less, and are threatening, unless they get the concessions they demand, to declare themselves unbound by British diplomacy and to send out their own diplomats to represent their own policies.

"BUZZARDS ROOST" DESTROYED BY FIRE

REDDING, Sept. 25. (AP)—The old town of Round Mountain, also known as Buzzard's Roost, was wiped out late last night by a brush and timber fire which started in the home of A. F. Haley. A hotel, three dwellings, blacksmith shop, store and garage were destroyed.

JOSEPH J. HOLLAND, STAGE ACTOR, DIES

Wilshire's I-ON-A-CO

GAYLORD WILSHIRE
Inventor of I-ON-A-CO

Probably you have heard that the I-ON-A-CO produces relief from many ailments instantaneously. While this does not happen in every case, it is true in a great many instances—even when the patient has tried a great many other remedies without securing any benefit. Naturally, this seems to border upon the miraculous; yet the explanation is exceedingly simple.

However, suppose your automobile were not running properly, due to the fact that the carburetor was not providing the correct mixture of air and gasoline. Suppose you took the car to a number of mechanics and they attempted to remedy this situation by cleaning out the exhaust pipe and muffler. It is obvious that such treatment could not possibly correct the real cause of the trouble.

Yet this is practically the same method which medical science often uses in attempting to correct ailments of the body. Almost invariably the first thing that a doctor will order is a purgative, sometimes irrespective of the source of the ailment. Like the mechanic, he overlooks the true cause of the trouble and works upon the mechanism which is most accessible.

To continue with our simile, suppose you then took the automobile to someone who adjusted the carburetor, giving the proper mixture of air and gasoline. You would get immediate improvement in the performance of your car. That is practically what happens when you take an I-ON-A-CO treatment. In other words, the I-ON-A-CO attacks the disease at its source.

Every day the cells which compose the body are dying and new cells being born. Normally, these dead cells are oxidized so that they can enter the blood stream and be carried to the eliminative organs. But when they are not oxidized they accumulate and become highly poisonous and a source of disease.

Now it is a scientific fact that the iron in the blood acts as a transfer medium in uniting oxygen with the cells. And everyone knows iron can be magnetized. Hence through magnetization, the I-ON-A-CO increases the ability of the iron as an oxygen carrier. With this increased supply of oxygen the dead cells are oxidized, enter the blood stream, and are finally eliminated. Thus the cause of many ailments is removed.

Immediate Results

"I had been troubled for some time with a very severe pain in my back (Lumbago). With the very first treatment of I-ON-A-CO the pain disappeared."—A. D. Himmelmann, W. & J. Sloane Co., 242 Sutter St., San Francisco.

"One treatment with the I-ON-A-CO gave me wonderful relief from neuritis pains."—Mrs. W. J. Russell, 523 West 18th St., San Pedro.

We frankly admit that not every ailment responds immediately to the I-ON-A-CO treatment. We do not claim that your first I-ON-A-CO treatment will give you complete relief from pain; it may take several treatments. But the fact that in many cases the I-ON-A-CO actually does give instantaneous relief, is proof that it does produce positively curative results. In fact, we do not ask you to accept any evidence of the I-ON-A-CO'S effectiveness other than your own experience.

Come in and take a delightful 10-minute Free Treatment

This will not obligate you in any way, nor will you be urged to buy. We simply want to prove what the I-ON-A-CO may do for you. Come visit us. Make this simple test. The dispatch reports the Federals are preparation for an attack Bacatete Mountains, and that a squadron of airplanes has reached Mazatlan to co-operate with the land forces against the Indians, with Guaymas as their base.

Guaymas reports that six machine-gun battalions were expected there today. Gen. Zertuche, commanding a strong Federal force, is reported moving from the State of Sinaloa toward the Yaqui country, and has pitched camp at Bacum. Eight tribal governors are reported to have joined Chief Mori, who has remained loyal to the government, leaving Matus alone with his staff in the Bacatete Mountains.

One private report says that Matus is reported as stating he sought to capture ex-President Obregon and that, if caught, the latter would not be killed, but merely held as a hostage.

GUAYMAS REPORT
ALSO TALKS OF PEACE

NOGALES (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (AP)—The Herald is advised by its Guaymas correspondent that eight governors of the warring Yaqui tribe that recently took the warpath against the central Mexican government have made peace overtures to Gen. Francisco Manzo, commanding a part of the Federal army that is afield in Southern Sonora.

Dissension within the tribe apparently is responsible for the desire to terminate warfare, the Herald's correspondent writes, adding that the eight governors, displeased with the actions pursued by ex-Chief Luis Matus, have placed edicts against Matus and have proposed peace, carrying guarantees of unconditional surrender, disarmament and other concessions to governmental demand.

Reluctance of Federal officials to discuss the peace overtures is regarded by the Herald's correspondent as an indication that the central government intends to carry on the present war to "extermination," as Mexico City reports previously have announced.

Meanwhile, troop movements continue throughout the region and Federal forces are being marshalled into the Yaqui territory and contiguous sections.

Three airplanes arrived from Mansanillo on a transport that also brought a heavy contingent of soldiery as well as many pieces of field artillery.

WOMAN ASKS TO ENTER ARMY

Santa Cruzan, However, Limits "Hitch" in Infantry to Only Two Weeks

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Miss Edith Perazzo of Santa Cruz has made formal application to Col. Frank C. Bolles, Thirtieth Infantry, stationed at San Francisco, that she be permitted to join the Army as a regular for two weeks.

Miss Perazzo wants to line up for the reviews, hike in the marches, lug a knapsack and juggle the hand artillery just the same as the others.

"I think it is the most fitting way I can serve my country," she said.

Bankers Coming to Session Here Play Ocean Golf

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25. (AP)—A wireless dispatch received by the Associated Press from the steamer Finland, just north of the Canal Zone in the Pacific, reports an exciting ocean golf tournament among the party of eastern bankers en route to Los Angeles for the convention of the American Bankers' Association.

The dispatch said that seventy-two bankers started in the qualifying round over the steamer's nine-hole course. Many of the players failed to negotiate the course under fifty. There is much interest aboard in the outcome.

Charles H. Perkins, president of the Home National Bank of Meriden, Ct., and Mrs. Perkins, celebrated their thirty-seventh wedding anniversary yesterday with a large dinner party.

COAL NEAR MOUNT HOOD

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Coal and natural gas have been discovered in the Mount Hood national forest near here, according to hunters returning from that district. The coal outcropping is several feet high and from one to three-feet thick and extends many miles north and south along the roof of the Cascade mountains.

FIVE HURT IN AUTO CRASHES

Bus and Roadster Collide in San Pedro

Two Women Injured, Perhaps Seriously, in One

Machine Driven Into Train at Wilmington

Two women were seriously injured and the lives of more than forty bus passengers imperiled late yesterday afternoon when the heavy machine turned over after colliding with a roadster at the corner of Twelfth and Gaffy streets, San Pedro.

The injured women are Mrs. Alfred Sandgren, 42 years of age, 1336 Twenty-first street, San Pedro, and Miss Peggy Crews, 2017 Alma street, of the same city. Mrs. Sandgren was taken to Hillside Hospital, where an examination showed that she is suffering internal injuries. The Crews girl received severe lacerations on the face and head.

Joe Grillo, driver of the bus, who, witnesses say, was responsible for the accident, fled the scene, and last night was the object of a police hunt in the harbor district. According to authorities, the man was arrested about a year ago when the car he was driving ran down and killed a 2-year-old child.

W. A. Jackstadt, 345 Canal street, Wilmington, driver of the roadster, was not seriously hurt, but his machine was wrecked. Holes had to be cut in the side of the truck to extricate the imprisoned passengers after the mishap.

L. Greenberg, 23 years of age, 2006 West Forty-third Place, Los Angeles, and Jack Stewart, 27 years of age, 1263 West Third street, San Pedro, received what physicians say may prove fatal injuries yesterday afternoon when a truck, driven by Greenberg, collided with a touring car driven by Stewart at the corner of Twelfth and Palos Verdes streets, San Pedro. The truck was overturned by the force of the impact. The injured men were removed to Hillside Hospital. Both machines were badly damaged.

Injuries that may prove fatal were received yesterday by a man believed to be H. R. Fox, 25, when the touring car he was driving crashed into a Pacific Electric train on the San Pedro line near Wilmington. The man suffered possible internal injuries, broken legs and a possible skull fracture; he was taken to the Compton Sanatorium.

According to the report to Motorman George Bowers, who was piloting the train, it was traveling about thirty-five miles per hour, while the approaching automobile was traveling probably forty-five miles per hour in what appeared to him as an effort to beat the train to the crossing.

War Veterans Pick Angeleno as Legal Aid

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Volney P. Mooney of Los Angeles, has been named as the representative of the Disabled American Veterans for the legal council of the central office of the Veterans' Bureau which is being formed by the American Bar Association, it was announced today at the Washington office of the D. A. V. It has been proposed that Thomas Kirby, national rehabilitation chairman of the D. A. V., be an ex-officio member of the council.

The D. A. V. has waged a long fight against the manner in which the guardianships of the mentally disabled men have been handled and the organization recommended to Director Frank T. Hines, that the American Bar Association be called into conference on the matter, just as the American Medical Association formed a council to advise the Veterans' Bureau on medical problems.

Mooney, who is a Los Angeles lawyer, has long been associated with the work of the D. A. V., and was named national judge-advocate of the organized disabled men at the sixth national convention at Atlanta last June.

FIVE AIRPLANE DEPUTIES FOR FUGITIVE PURSUIT SQUADRON TO BE SWORN IN TOMORROW

A real flying squadron, composed of five airplane deputy sheriffs, is to be sworn in tomorrow afternoon by Sheriff William I. Traeger at the airport of the Aero Corporation of California, One Hundred Fourth street and Western avenue, it was announced last night.

This will be the first organization of its kind to be formed any place in the United States and the deputy's oath to five pilots will be administered at 2 p.m., following an inspection of the airport and equipment by the Sheriff.

Paul E. Richter, Jr., W. Jack Frye, Richmond A. Edwards, Walter A. Hammond and Lee Willey are the five pilots who will compose the first deputy-sheriff airplane squadron.

According to Sheriff Traeger, the air squadron will form an important link in the organization to apprehend criminals and enforce the laws of the county. The squadron will prove especially valuable, it is said by Traeger, in trapping criminals who are attempting to flee the county or who are seeking refuge in the hills and canyons.

Members of the air squad will be on duty all hours of the day and night and will be ready to take up pursuit upon a telephone call from the Sheriff's office or any substation.

All planes to be used in the service will be equipped with powerful searchlights for night use. Through the use of these lights it will be possible to follow speeding machines, to search open and wooded country and to signal other deputies following by machine or searching on foot.

According to Sheriff Traeger the five pilots have undergone an intensive course in police work and have passed an examination on the criminal statutes and the duties of a deputy sheriff.

of the liquor the last session of Con- to the Woman's Chris- Union the strength it has already proved renewed activity in said Mrs Ella A. New York, national presi- of new local unions since the Congres- took place and a marked revival of old unions. The organization has some 20,000 unions at the present time, representing about 600,000 women. During the coming year these workers will put forth a more aggressive fight than ever in the cause of prohibition.

According to Mrs. R. Scott Dunkin of Chicago, national publicity director of the W.C.T.U., the organization is now conducting a nation-wide survey of conditions to ascertain what benefits, if any, have been derived from prohibition.

"This survey has been in progress for about six weeks and thus far the returns have been favorable," said Mrs Dunkin. "The reports received at our headquarters from about 100 cities show that the buildings formerly used for saloons are now devoted to various business uses. They show large increases in the number of bank accounts, better living conditions in workers' communities and more prosperity, generally, in places where conditions under the saloon regime were below par.

"One report from a town of about 6000 in Montana is especially impressive. I stated that during the wet era, this town, which was plentifully supplied with saloons, was never able to support more than four grocery stores and that the proprietors of these establishments always had a hard time to collect their bills. Now that same town has twenty groceries and bills are paid promptly."

The fundamental principle on which the W.C.T.U. is conducting its activities at this time is that prohibition is the best method yet devised to control the liquor situation.

"The attitude of the organization is that such imperfections as exist in the prohibition system are not the fault of the system, but of the officials charged with its enforcement and the W.C.T.U. holds that enforcement of the law is not an impossibility, but that it can be accomplished where the proper effort is made," Mrs. Dunkin said.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the delegates will gather at a pageant to be staged at Philharmonic Auditorium. More than 1000 children and 200 young people will take part in this event, which will be a colorful interpretation of the recent saying of President Coolidge, "Every child should be taught reverence for nature, reverence for law and reverence for God."

This evening at 7:30 o'clock a mass meeting will be conducted for the delegates and the public at the First Methodist Church, under the direction of National President Boole. Among the speakers on this occasion will be William G. McAdoo and Pat M Neff, former Governor of Texas.

When the convention is over a number of the delegates plan a series of meetings on the Mexican border, where they hope to get a first-hand impression of illicit traffic in liquor from the southern republic. Later a similar series of meetings will be conducted by officers and members of the organization on the Canadian border.

Two Burned by Gas Explosions While at Work

Gas explosions burned two men yesterday. Dick Child, 27 years of age, 1015 South Bonita street, Alhambra, was one victim, suffering first and second-degree burns about the face and arms, when in working underground with L. C. Dutton of the Los Angeles Water Department at 319 South Spring street, a gas pocket was ignited and exploded from causes unknown. Dutton was unhurt

Ralph Cretsinger, 46, a plumber living at 164 North Daly street, received first and second-degree burns about the face, head and arms when the gas blowtorch he was operating, on a job on Orange street near Third street, exploded.

Both were treated at the Receiving Hospital.

HOOVER TO ADDRESS REPUBLICAN WOMEN

Secretary Hoover will be the speaker for the second annual convention of the Republican Woman's Federation of California, Southern Division, in San Bernardino, October 28, next. This announcement by the president, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, was made at the executive board meeting of the federation at the Alexandria. The meeting was attended by representative women from each of the southern counties of California.

SQUAD DRIVE NETS FORTY RUM STILLS

Plummer's Police Detail, Aiding Federal Officials, Has Busy Month

Chief of Police James E. Davis announced yesterday that Capt. Plummer and the special liquor squad that have been co-operating with the Federal authorities, have confiscated forty large stills since the first day of September.

"Far more effective to train the guns on such distilling places than to make hundreds of arrests of small-time, hip-pocket bootleggers," said Chief Davis.

An assertedly clever scheme to manufacture "spiked" beer within the very shadow of the Tacoma Brewery was uncovered yesterday by police and Federal officials operating under Capt. Plummer when a search of the premises at 105 South Alameda street resulted in the arrest of A. O. Smith, the asserted proprietor, Victor Catching and Richard Mead, the seizure of 300 gallons of beer and the dismantling of a refrigerating system, pumps and vats being utilized for refermentation of near beer.

At First street between Spring and Broadway the same officers arrested Sam Gordon and Abe Greenburg. A coupe containing thirty-eight gallons of moonshine was confiscated, according to their report.

Federal agents operating alone seized a thirty-five-gallon still at 124½ West Fortieth Place but an attendant fled just before their approach.

Police Sergeant Hill and Officers Hudson and Clark raided a residence at 2648 Bryden avenue and seized a 300-gallon still, seventy-five five-gallon cans of alcohol and 120 barrels of mash.

Comedy to Him Proves Tragedy, Wife Declares

Apparently it started out with an earnest but misguided attempt at jocularity on the part of George Hoose. But before the matter was concluded there were a lawyer and a policeman in it, and it took the attention of a judge of the Superior Court to settle, and Hoose had lost his wife.

The tale was told in Judge Hollzer's court.

"Tell the judge what he did," urged Attorney Bingham Gary, counsel for Mrs. Katherine Hoose.

"I came home one evening," Mrs. Hoose related. "The house was dark and I was nervous because there were mice. I saw something on the bed, lying still and quiet. It was my husband. On the floor there was an empty bottle with a skull and cross bones on it. I screamed. My husband jumped up and said he had just been joking. I couldn't stop screaming, though, and he grabbed me and choked me."

Patrolman Landers was called to the stand.

"I heard the scream and thought someone was being murdered," he testified. "I rushed in and it looked like there was going to be a murder all right. This lady's husband was choking her, and I was just in time to stop him."

Judge Hollzer granted Mrs. Hoose a decree of divorce.

Industrialists to Voice Views on Amendments

Heads of all of the industrial associations of the State will meet in Oakland on Monday, at a conference of the California Industrial Council for the purpose of reviewing proposed amendments to the constitution that will appear on the November ballot, and discussing various measures to be presented at the next session of the Legislature.

The California Manufacturers' Association will act as host to the visiting organization executives, and Director James Traverse of that organization will be chairman of the conference.

Included in the program is a talk by State Controller Riley on the tax system of the State and an address by Chief Ray M. Hudson of the Division of Simplified Practice of the Department of Commerce on "Elimination of Waste."

One Killed and Two Injured by Ditch Cave-in

J. C. Byrnes, 40 years of age, of South Gate, was killed, and Thomas Hay and Martin Hiregoyen seriously injured in a cave-in near South Gate yesterday, according to the report of Deputy Sheriffs Allen and Hackett. The men were at work in a pipe-line ditch of the General Petroleum Company near South Gate.

Byrne's body was taken to the Emerson & White Undertaking Company, Whittier. The injured men were taken to the Mercy Memorial Hospital, Whittier.

JACK AND JILL CLUB CHAPTER ORGANIZED

Permanent organization of the Jack and Jill Club of Los Angeles, fashioned after a similar club in Brooklyn, was effected here with the election of Peggy Fenn, president; Sidney Excell, vice-president; Jane Hill, secretary, and James Van Shoick, treasurer.

Sponsored by the National New Thought Association, Inc., the organization is modeled after the United States Congress, with a Senate and House of Representatives. Its announced object is a promotion of brotherhood among youth, "through the upholding of righteous principles, the discussion of current events, and the promotion of sociability." Young persons between 16 and 28 years of age are eligible to membership. The next meeting will be conducted in the First Emerson church at 909 South Lake street, October 15, next.

Forest Fire in Verdugo Hills Under Control

Fire that broke out in the hills adjoining Verdugo City yesterday swept over an area of close to twenty acres before it was brought under control by Capt. A. R. Duncan of the Crescenta Valley station of the county fire department and a crew of volunteer fire fighters.

With the wind blowing toward the Verdugo Hills, and with the fire already eating its way through dry brush and sycamore trees, Duncan sent one crew ahead of the fire to meet it with a dirt barrage, and another crew stretched in 1500 feet of hose and attacked the fire in the rear, finally subduing it after a strenuous fight.

The cause of the fire has not been decided.

CHAMBERS CO-OPERATE ON YOSEMITE HIGHWAY

Co-operating with the Madera and Fresno Chambers of Commerce, the Los Angeles chamber, at the last board of directors' meeting, gave its support to the project now under way to repair the southern road into Yosemite Valley, according to A. G. Arnoll, secretary and general manager of the local chamber. It is planned to have the Forestry Service repair sections of the road within the national forest reserve, while Fresno and Madera counties have agreed to build roads or repair existing roads, so that one continuous road will be open to tourists from Southern and Central California. The highway is the Wawona road, which approaches the park through Inspiration Point, one of the principal beauty spots of Yosemite.

KEYES GIVES LICKLEY COMPLAINT POSITION

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Lickley, who has been handling grand jury work, yesterday was appointed by Dist.-Atty. Keyes to head the complaint department in the District-Attorney's office. He succeeds Dep. Dist.-Atty. Murray, who will aid in the prosecution of the McPherson case and handle emergency cases.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE BY POISON DRINK

Mrs. Essie Vincent, 26 years of age, a waitress living at 133 North Bunker Hill street, died at the General Hospital yesterday after swallowing poison, police reported. Police ascribed her act to domestic trouble.

Construction of a new $1,250,000 hotel in Santa Barbara is to be started within the next few days under the auspices of the Biltmore Hotel Company, it was announced yesterday by Charles Baad, manager of the Los Angeles Biltmore and one of the promoters of the Santa Barbara project.

The proposed hotel, which will be situated in Channel Drive, facing the ocean in the Montecito Park district, will consist of a main building of Class A construction, four stories in height and containing 100 rooms, in addition to a large lounge, dining rooms and the usual public rooms.

The project will also include fifteen bungalows built on the grounds, which will add another 100 rooms to the guest capacity. The grounds, which contain about twenty-one acres, already have been landscaped.

PLANS COMPLETED

The plans for the buildings, which will be of Spanish architecture throughout, have been completed by Reginald Johnson of Los Angeles and Warren & Wetmore, the New York architects who built the Grand Central Terminal in New York, and have specialized in hotel buildings. The building contract has been awarded to the P. J. Walker Company, Los Angeles. It is planned to have the hotel ready for occupancy by June 1, next.

The hotel, which is to be operated by the Biltmore Hotel Company, has been promoted by John McEntee Bowman of New York, head of the Biltmore Hotel Company; Herbert Fleishhacker, San Francisco capitalist; James Woods and Charles Baad, officers of the Los Angeles Biltmore, and John B. Miller and David Blankenhorn, Los Angeles business men.

PIANIST LEARNS ABOUT CELL-O

Deputy Almost Accompanies Theater Musician at Piano

A deputy sheriff almost was added to the Orpheum Theater orchestra yesterday.

Sanford W. Smallfield, the piano player, had been directed by Municipal Judge Russill to concern himself with nonmusical bars for a rest of ninety days for getting out of tune with the traffic laws.

It was represented that theater patrons yesterday afternoon would be rendered disconsolate by the lack of a pianist. So Judge Russill directed County Jailer Dewar to assign a deputy sheriff to accompany Smallfield at the piano.

Just then a court attendant intervened.

"The orchestra leader says he's already got a man for the piano," he said. "Take the prisoner to the cell-o instead."

EDISON PREDICTS 200-YEAR LIFE—CALIFORNIA SURGEON WORKS ACCORDINGLY

In interviews at various times, Thomas A. Edison, who is not given to irrational statements, declares there is absolutely no physiological reason why man should not live to be 200 years old, or even beyond that figure.

Students of the animal kingdom have recorded that all organism other than man lives in their natural environment of from eight to ten times their maturity. The average life of man is 58 years, or less than three times his maturity. It is almost unthinkable that the most highly endowed creation in the known universe should be the weak link in the chain. That he should be created to miserably end his days in disease and suffering at an age when he is but beginning to unravel the secrets of his being is hardly logical. What wonderful progress might the world not have made could the great minds to whom we owe so much have been spared for another fifty years to carry on their work which they all felt had only been begun.

Many prominent men in American and European industrial and professional life who have passed three score and ten state that they were happiest and more productive of good after than before having reached the biblical span of life.

In his booklet, "The Prolongation of Human Efficiency," Dr. Clayton E. Wheeler, famous endocrinologist of Los Angeles and San Francisco, cites many examples and the highest authorities substantiating his work in extending the human life-span.

Dr. Wheeler has performed in excess of 12,000 gland operations, probably, more than the combined number of all other gland specialists in the United States, and his booklet has created a profound impression. Those desiring a copy of this treatise may have it on calling at 3173 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, and where Dr. Wheeler may be consulted daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

GAS PRICE BATTLE GROWS

Further Reduction Announced in San Francisco and Other Companies Meet Slash

Further reductions in the price of gasoline by the Union Oil Company, announcement from San Francisco by the Associated Oil Company that it had met Union's cut and an extension of territory in which California Petroleum Corporation of California's reduced prices will be in force marked yesterday's developments in the "price war" started here last Sunday by Union Oil when it reduced the price of gasoline to 17½ cents a gallon.

A further slash of 1 cent to customers of its filling stations in the Los Angeles area was the new cut announced by Union Oil yesterday. This brought the price down to 16½ cents a gallon. At the same time the company announced it had reduced prices a cent to commercial buyers and resellers, reducing the prices charged them from 14½ cents to 13½.

The Associated Oil Company, according to dispatches from San Francisco, announced it had met Union's cut and "will follow any further reductions by Union."

AREA EXTENDED

The California Petroleum Corporation of California—which Monday had reduced its prices 3 cents in Los Angeles to meet the Union cut—announced yesterday it had extended the scope of the reduction to all points south of the Tehachapi, including Santa Barbara, Ventura, Riverside, San Diego and other cities. The prices in these cities varied according to freight rates, executives said, and ranged from 20½ to 22½ cents a gallon.

The Union's slash Sunday was followed by price-reduction announcements by California Petroleum, Julian Petroleum, Gilmore Oil and the Shell Oil organizations. Friday the Richfield Oil Company announced a 3-cent cut throughout the State, which followed a slash to 18½ cents a gallon by Standard Oil on Red Crown gasoline, and to 17½ cents on the Flight brand.

In San Francisco first grade gasoline was being sold by Richfield Oil Company at 19 cents as compared with 22 cents being asked by all other companies. Richfield's price has been slashed in California, Arizona and Nevada.

STANDARD STANDS PAT

Officials of the Standard Oil Company stated that no further cut in the price of gasoline anywhere in its territory, extending throughout the Pacific Coast, had been made.

Shell Oil officials were in constant conference all morning at San Francisco and at the conclusion stated that no further cut had been decided upon but refused to commit themselves further.

The Union Oil Company which, with Richfield and Standard, has been the center of the present controversy and price cutting, was content to let the situation in San Francisco remain at statue quo and confine its activity to the Los Angeles sector.

FINAL HONOR PAID JUDGE BORDWELL

Civic, Business and Social Leaders Attend Funeral Rites Conducted Yesterday

Civic, business and social leaders of Los Angeles yesterday joined with members of the California Bar Association in paying final tribute to Judge Walter Bordwell, distinguished jurist, at funeral services conducted from the residence, 2023 West Twenty-fourth street. Nearly 500 family friends attended the rites.

Floral offerings that covered virtually every foot of space in the lower floor of the home bore evidence of the respect and esteem in which the pioneer Los Angeles attorney was held.

Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of which Judge Bordwell has been a member for thirty-seven years, read the brief funeral service. Interment was in Rosedale Cemetery and the following were active pallbearers: W. H. Wadsworth, O. S. McConnell, Ralph Reed, Albert Shiels, Jr., O. W. Leonard, B. J. Badham, W. M. Webster and Dr. E. A. Werner.

Recognized for many years as one of the most competent, fairest and most courageous jurists ever to occupy a bench in the State, Judge Bordwell won hundreds of friends throughout the Southland.

He presided over some of the most important cases in the history of the city and is remembered especially for his decisions in the famous tidelands case, which gave the city of Los Angeles its harbor, and The Times bombing trial, in which the McNamara brothers were sent to prison.

Former Colonel Held on Charge of Rebellion

Marcelino Magana Mejia, former colonel in Carranza's army and scion of an honored Spanish family that was transplanted to Mexico more than a century ago, was arrested yesterday at San Jose by Capt. A. A. Hopkins of the United States Department of Justice as one of the leaders of the recent rebel march from Los Angeles toward Baja California that ended without fuss or foment at San Diego early one morning.

Mejia was to be given the title of General Intermedio and was to be in command of the revolutionary movement second only to Gen. Enrique Estrada himself, according to Federal officials.

A secret indictment charging Mejia with conspiracy to and actually setting afoot a military expedition against a country at peace with the United States was returned two weeks ago against Mejia and at that time it was thought he was in hiding near Brawley. Fearing that he was suspected, Mejia fled toward the north and was gradually making his way toward Nevada when captured. The fugitive will be brought to Los Angeles in time to stand trial with his 135 other codefendants.

After the ceremonies and the presentation of trophies a gala time is planned.

CUT OF CALL MONEY RATE AIDS RALLY

Little Forced Liquidation Accompanies Early Decline in Week Just Closed

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Fear of higher money rates cast a shadow over this week's stock market, which drifted lower in the first part of the week, but turned upward yesterday when the call-money rate was lowered and no change was made in the rediscount charge of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Business news, in the main, was favorable, although some uneasiness developed as a result of further price cuts in several lines of industry, silver and rubber-tire reductions being the most important.

The early decline in the market was not accompanied by a large volume of forced liquidation, indicating that marginal accounts were in fairly good shape. Experienced observers discerned signs of distribution in several issues, particularly in the industrial group, while a few stocks were reported to be under accumulation in anticipation of favorable developments within the next few months.

Railroad shares displayed a strong undertone with special buying taking place in the Van Sweringen issues, several of which attained new record high prices.

United States Steel common developed a sudden outburst of strength yesterday after being sluggish most of the week. Mill operations in the steel industry were reported to have fallen off slightly with current shipments exceeding production, indicating another drop in unfilled orders at the end of the month.

Julian Issues Continue Gains; United Lower

Julian Petroleum preferred continued its advance on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, Union Oil of California held firm and United Oil declined further. Julian preferred added 1-4 of a point to a new high on the present movement, closing at 20 3-8. United sold off from an opening of 77 to 76 3-4, and closed at 76 7-8 for a net loss of 1 3-8 ints. Union opened 1-4 of a point lower at 54 3-4 but rallied to a firm close at 55. Julian common added another fraction to 3 3-4. Standard lost 3-4 of a point to 60 1-4.

Southern California Edison recovered its loss of the preceding day and closed at 31 5-8, while the preferred issues held firm. Bancitaly Corporation sold at 80 1-4, a firm figure, while Los Angeles Investment held at 3.15.

Mining issues were comparatively steady with United Eastern holding at 55 and Boundary at 8 1-2, the heavy traders. Virginia Louise jumped 2 points to 4 1-2 and closed at 4. Big Jim held at 19 and Gold Dust regained 1-2 of a point to 5.

SILVER PRODUCERS WORRY

Probable Loss of Exports to India Serious Blow to Industry; Price Touches New Low Since 1915

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Confronted with the threat of losing their best customer, it is no wonder that the silver producers in the United States, Mexico and Canada are in a perplexed state of mind. If the government of India finally decides to accept the recommendation of the Royal Commission on Indian Currency and Finance to adopt the gold standard, the chances are that the price trend will continue downward, and the famous silver districts in the West will gradually drift into inactivity. A few days ago silver dropped to 59 cents an ounce, the lowest since 1915.

One by one the customers of silver bullion have joined the gold procession. China and India alone have remained as important buyers of silver, India taking one-third of all the silver mined. For the last fifty years about 40 per cent of the world's production has gone into the "sink of India," where the silver currency is boarded by the natives and never returns to circulation. As a customer, India has been all that could be desired.

TO SELL RESERVES

Besides the loss of annual purchases of around 100,000,000 ounces, the silver producers will have another factor to meet if the transition from a silver to a gold standard is made. The recommendation of the currency commission provides that the government shall sell on the open market about 400,000,000 ounces of its silver reserve of 530,000,000 ounces. The sale is to extend over a period of ten years. Between both of these influences the prospects for the western silver interests are hardly cheerful.

To forecast the trend of silver is, however, a risky business. When the purchases of domestic silver at $1 an ounce under the Pittmann Act ceased in the middle of 1923, discouraging predictions of 25-cent silver were frequently heard. Instead the price actually advanced beyond the levels of the previous year. Increased consumption by the Far East accounted for the reversal in the trend, but this time the market will probably do without the important purchases for the Indian account. Under these circumstances the forecast is clearly for depression, unless other factors intervene, such as a revival of the Pittmann purchases or some other form of government aid.

MINES MAY CLOSE

To the producers in Nevada, California, Arizona and Mexico, where American capital in silver mining is mainly invested, the drift toward lower prices will undoubtedly mean a cessation of operations in a large number of mines. Except for a time during the war when enormous quantities of silver were exported to India, and in the postwar period when the United States government purchased domestic silver at $1 an ounce to replace the depleted mint stock, the silver industry has nearly always been in trouble. Without a commercial demand, such as copper, lead and zinc have, or without a worldwide coinage demand, as gold has, silver has not been the most profitable of the important metals. The price has ranged since 1911 from a high of $1.12 in 1920 to a low of 49.7 cents in 1915.

In the copper and lead mines where silver is found in the ores, the prospect for lower prices will be reflected in smaller revenue. Anaconda Copper is an important silver producer and will be one of the companies to suffer if the gloomy outlook materializes.

India's decision to consider an abandonment of the silver standard is the result of unsatisfactory experiences with the fluctuation in the price of the metal. With silver stabilized in terms of gold at 16d. the rise in the price of the white metal after the outbreak of the war soon reached the point where the silver in the rupee was worth more than the exchange rate of 16d. Dislocation again followed in 1920, when silver prices fell, and exchange rates followed. In each cycle international commercial relations were seriously deranged.

SANTA FE FREIGHT TRAFFIC INCREASES

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Freight traffic on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe picked up in the week ended the 24th inst., 45,276 carloads having been handled against 41,515 the same week last year. Increases were shown in movements of grain, oil and miscellaneous freight.

Farm Subsidy Need Declared Thing of Past

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) "Political buncombe" is how various presidents of joint stock land banks from widely scattered agricultural centers characterize the efforts being made by politicians to get Federal aid for the farmers, according to John P. Barry, of Gilbert Elliott & Co., who has just returned to New York from the eighth annual convention of the Association of Joint Stock Land Banks held in Detroit.

"The consensus of opinion of the bankers with whom I talked during the convention," said Mr. Barry yesterday, "is that the harvest outlook this year is good, and the farmers are going to have a lot of money to spend. There is nothing the matter with the farmers now. They are not broke; all that kind of talk is political claptrap. This does not mean that the farmers have no grievances; they have. They want lower freight rates and they want something done with the tariff. But they do not want quack remedies.

"The joint stock land banks have been in existence less than ten years. In that period they have lent nearly $2,000,000,000 to the farmers on long terms at a reasonable rate of interest. This is the kind of aid the farmers want."

ST. JOHN'S (Newfoundland) Sept. 25. (Exclusive) — When Andrew Woods's automobile went over a sixty-foot cliff and fell on the beach below, Mrs. Woods was killed, but two small children were found on the sand unhurt. Wood jumped clear of the car before the plunge.

MORTGAGE MEN HONOR LOCAL MAN

Levering Moore Elected Vice-President National Bankers' Organization

Levering Moore, president of the National Mortgage Company of California, was yesterday elected vice-president and member of the board of governors of the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association at its thirteenth annual convention at Richmond, Va., according to telegraphic advices received here. Mr. Moore was one of the original founders and served on the board of governors of the association when it was organized fourteen years ago.

The Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association has the same relationship to mortgage bankers and dealers in mortgages, bonds, etc., as does the American Bankers' Association to commercial banks and trust companies and the Investment Bankers' Association to the investment houses dealing in stocks and bonds. Its membership embraces the leading mortgage and bond companies throughout the country.

Mr. Moore is one of the leading figures in the mortgage, investment-banking and life-insurance business. He was for twenty years with Peabody, Houghteling & Co., of Chicago. For eight years he served as president and general manager of the Mortgage and Securities Company of New Orleans, and prior to coming to California, served for five years as treasurer of the National Life Insurance Company at Chicago.

While at the convention in Richmond, he was one of the principal speakers.

SHARES OF ENGINEERS EXPLORATION OFFERED

An offering of interest to the local mining-investment public is the stock of the Engineers Exploration Company, owners of the Ophir mine of Inyo county, to be placed on the market this week by R. H. Durst & Co. The stock is offered at par, $1.

The Ophir mine is a producing silver-lead property in the Slate Range. It has an extensive shipping record of more than 150 carloads of high-grade ore within the last eighteen months, the brokers state. All shipments have gone to the Selby plant of the American Smelting and Refining Company at San Francisco and have returned net values in excess of $200,000.

The Engineers Exploration Company is controlled by John W. Kelly, Miss Edith Coons, John M. Fox and associates, who were responsible for the discovery and the success of the California-Rand Silver or "Kelly" mine at Randsburg. The latter is one of the most celebrated mines in California having produced around $17,000,000 since 1919 and paid seventy-seven dividends aggregating around $4,000,000.

The Engineers Exploration Company has a capital of $500,000. The proceeds from the stock sale will be used for mine expansion and mill-construction purposes.

BY ARTHUR L. BREWER
(Banks, Huntley & Company)

The fifteen leading banks of Los Angeles earned a total of $7,342,112 net applicable to dividends in the six months ended June 30. In the calendar year 1925 their net earnings totaled $15,372,834. These earnings are disclosed by analyses of the balance sheets.

Net earnings per share on an aggregate average of 567,363.50 shares outstanding for the half year were $12.94, against $28.82 for the full year 1925 on an aggregate average of 533,328.04 shares.

Dividend disbursements, though generous in 1925, have been more generous this year. The fifteen banks in 1925 paid their shareholders $8,259,000. This was at an average rate slightly better than 53.72 cents per $1 earned. In the first half of the present year stockholders were paid $4,632,397. This was at an average slightly better than 59.41 cents per $1 earned.

In total earnings the Bank of Italy led the way with $2,438,326 in the six months and $6,605,663 in 1925. Next came the Security Trust and Savings Bank, with $1,711,888 in the six months and $2,796,463 in 1925. The First National-Pacific-Southwest was third with $1,043,856 in the six months and $1,978,577 in 1925.

In earnings per share, in the six months to June 30, 1926, Merchants' National led the way with $19.99 per share. The California Bank came a close second with $19.15, and the Security Trust & Savings Bank a close third with $16.95.

Merchants' National also held first place in earnings per share in 1925 with $48.80. Next came the Bank of Italy with $37.74, and then the Security a close third with $33.54.

In both periods there were, of course, other high earners, as a study of tables A and B herewith will show.

The 1925 figures in table A differ from the estimates published by the writer last January. Those earlier estimates were made on a composite basis of actual earnings and, where new stock had been issued at prices differing from book values, the resultant shifting of equities as between shares. Also, they were calculated, not on the average stock, but on the total outstanding at the end of the period. The system now followed is simpler and better.

Every bank concerned has been given ample opportunity to audit the computations now presented—each as regards those figures applicable to itself. All save one have availed themselves of the opportunity, and have passed as correct the figures herein given. Since we have estimated correctly for fourteen banks, we can scarcely be far astray in our figures for the fifteenth.

As a matter of all-around fairness to the banks, it should be stated, regarding the above earnings, that except in the case of the Bank of Italy they are estimated as being the net figure after all deductions except dividends. The Bank of Italy figures have been supplied by the bank, which states that they are the net earnings applicable to dividends but prior also to deductions under its employees' profit-sharing plan.

Among the younger banks, it is worthy of special comment that Seaboard National in the six months in the same six months, a sum equal to 90 per cent of its net earnings for the whole twelve months of 1925 Also, that Bank of America earned in the same six months, a sum equal to 78 per cent of its entire 1925 net earnings.

SAFETY ZONES FOR DOLLARS

Practical Ways of Investing in Home Ownership, Savings Accounts, Life Insurance and Dependable Investment Securities

3—THE NEWS A GREAT EDUCATOR IN THE HANDLING OF MONEY

How can a man or woman, with little or no experience in investing, learn to handle his savings wisely, for the bettering of his own and his family's condition? Where can he go to get readily understandable, practical information without loss of time or interference with other activities?

There's a quick, practical answer to these questions, right under the nose of every person who reads a responsible newspaper with capably edited financial pages and business news. The person of adult intelligence who will give only twenty minutes a day to reading such financial news will in a remarkably short time be able to avoid most of the tricks of fakers and bucket shops and to discriminate between the honest and the twilight zone in investments.

What should the reader look for? The daily market reports?

No. The markets are so big, price fluctuations mean little to anyone who has only small knowledge of what is behind them. Look for the news items, that tell of the successful and the unsuccessful business operations, of the businesses that are making money, of lines of business that are dragging bottom, of dividends declared, of dividends passed, of bonds called for payment before they are due and of the issues of new bonds and stocks by recognized businesses and dependable governments.

What can the reader get from all this? Isn't it too technical?

First, he can get rid of the money-losing idea that it is practical to get something for nothing. The huge, dream-like profits many people imagine are the rare exceptions. Almost every enterprise has to plow right back into its business a large parts of its profits if it is to continue successful. As a rule, the dependable business can pay only a fair, reasonable return. The reader will learn from news of this kind what lines of business seem more dependable investments and which individual businesses more desirable. He will learn that bond houses and security dealers are known by the company they keep and that the first essential in safe investing is to take time to learn the character and reputation of the security dealer.

As to technical terms, there's virtually nothing in the financial pages that adult intelligence cannot easily comprehend. There's no mystery in safe investing. It's wholly a matter of finding enterprises that are honestly and capably managed. For many, reading financial news will at first be a bit of a chore; they are unaccustomed to it. But gradually, with only twenty minutes a day, it will become intensely interesting, for there is no livelier romance than that of business. There's no more practical preventative from being a sucker than time so spent. There's no handier gate to the road to financial independence, for the inexperienced investor.

UNION TANK CAR LIENS OUT

Equipment Trust Certificates to be Offered Tomorrow; Financing in Past Week Totals $73,485,100

With an issue of $13,000,000 Union Tank Car Company 4½ per cent equipment trust gold certificates scheduled to come onto the market tomorrow, indications are that the high rate of activity in the bond market of the past week will continue with the coming week. Flotations in the week just closed totaled $73,485,100 par value, considerably more than weekly totals during recent months.

A banking group headed by Blair & Co., Inc., Chase Securities Corporation and Freeman & Co., are expected to offer tomorrow the Union Tank Car securities at a price to yield 4.70 per cent for each maturity, one-tenth of the issue being retired annually from 1927 to 1936, inclusive.

EQUIPMENT LEASED

The equipment securing the certificates is to be leased to the Union Tank Car Company at a rental sufficient to pay the principal and dividend warrants of the certificates as they mature. The payment of the principal of the certificates and the dividends thereon, is unconditionally guaranteed by indorsement by the Union Tank Car Company.

The certificates are being issued under an agreement which will provide that title to all-steel standard tank cars now in service having a net sound current value based on an independent appraisal of $19,500,000, or 150 per cent of the face amount of the certificates will be vested in the trustee.

The company is taking steps to effect the retirement of its outstanding 7 per cent preferred stock and plans to apply the proceeds of this issue to such purposes.

The business of the company consists principally in the leasing of tank cars under contracts to petroleum oil shippers. The company was a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey until the dissolution of the latter company in 1911. It is the largest individual owner of tank cars in the United States, 32,767 cars now being in service.

ISSUES DISTRIBUTED

New financing in the week just closed was well distributed throughout the various groups, whereas recently the bulk of new business consisted of foreign offerings. Industrial, public utility and foreign issues constituted the bulk of flotations last week, the former leading with an aggregate of $25,615,300. There were seven different releases of public-utility securities totaling $22,947,800, while but one foreign issue was offered, that of $24,000,000 Siemens group twenty-five-year 6 1-2 per cent sinking fund gold debentures, due 1951, which was marketed by a Dillon-Read syndicate at 99 and accrued interest to yield 6.65 per cent.

In the opinion of leading bankers and economists, the general trend for the bond market seems to be a gradual increase of price with a resulting decline in interest yield.

Offerings for the week just closed, divided as to groups, and compiled by E. H. Rollins & Sons, follow:

Industrial	$25,615,300
Public utilities	22,947,800
Municipals	172,000
Building	750,000
Foreign	24,000,000
Total	$73,485,100

PACKING GROWTH NATURAL

The meat-packing industry and facilities for distribution of meat food products in Southern California have developed to their present proportions as a natural result of the centralization of population in metropolitan consuming centers of the State, J. A. McNaughton, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, states in this week's review of the live-stock situation. The review follows:

"The growth of this industry to its present position of the fourth largest industry in the Los Angeles territory, while having been rapid, comparatively speaking, was only in line with the phenomenal increase in population. It is a proven fact that centralized meat packing points, for the turning into finished products of meat food animals, are essential to economical distribution.

There are many reasons for the gathering together of meat-packing plants at a chosen point, such as Los Angeles, the principal one being that through the centralization of packing plants adjacent to a central live-stock market on the one hand and the proper strategic location as to best serve the needs of consumer demand on the other, the movement of meat food animals may best be sustained in a regular flow. This accomplishes a distribution and conversion into food products to the best advantage of the producer, the packer and finally the ultimate consumer.

"Naturally, through the bringing together of many packing plants at a central point, the value of by-products (one of the most important features of modern meat packing) can best be utilized in the building up of a sufficient volume to make their value of consequence and their utilization practically possible. Whereas, if the operation were attempted at widely scattered points, much of this advantage would be lost.

"Profits realized in this way are reflected in better returns to the producer, as well as better finished products at more advantageous prices to the consumer. Then, too, the difficulties that would attend the endeavor to supply a densely populated metropolitan center may readily be appreciated if it were attempted to convert meat food animals into the finished product in the back country, where the animals are mainly produced, and still maintain the necessary constant flow.

"There are four avenues involved in the handling of meat food animals, through which the commodity must pass before reaching the table, if the operation is to progress economically; they are the producer, the central live stock market, the meat packer and the wholesale and retail distributing channels.

The packing industry in this territory is only exceeded in value of output by motion pictures, petroleum products and iron and steel, and with the steadily mounting volume, it would seem that the industry bids fair to rank still closer to the top. This can be appreciated by considering the steady increase in the numbers of animals handled, taking cattle and calves as an illustration:

Cattle	212,306	231,401	280,149	283,747
Calves	86,106	113,401	129,758	136,164

"The above figures do not entirely reflect the magnitude of the local meat food industry, as there is a vast amount of dressed pork as well as beef and mutton products shipped into this section from other districts.

"The shipped in meat food products bring the packing and allied industries' turnover for the section well up to $100,000,000 annually. The value of live animals realized by producers in supplying these requirements runs around $40,000,000 per year, and for the past three years the value of packer purchases through the Los Angeles market was as follows: 1923, $18,000,000; 1924, $20,000,000; 1925, $22,000,000, and, 1926, $25,000,000 (estimated.)

The distribution of meat food products in this district, after passing through the hands of packers, is accomplished by many well-organized wholesale establishments as well as some 1500 retail meat dealers. The value, or, in other words, the yearly meat bill of the State might well be placed at around $250,000,000.

STOCKS SAG ON PROFIT TAKING

Last Minute Wave of Selling Brings Reaction

Irregular Gains Predominate at Closing Hour

Advance of General Motors Features Session

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Stock prices gained ground today although extreme advances in many instances were sharply reduced by a last minute wave of profit taking. Closing quotations were irregular, but with net gains ranging from 1 to as much as 5 points predominating.

Favorable trade reports, particularly from the retail merchandise field, coupled with signs of greater stability in the money markets, gave impetus to the early buying movement which broadened steadily until the final fifteen minutes of trading. Steel, equipment, chemical and amusement shares were favored.

Resuming its upward movement after several days of hesitation, General Motors climbed to 160 3-4, the highest price since the distribution of its stock dividend. It was accompanied into higher ground by DuPont which rose more than 5 points to a new top at 330 1-4. Fears of price cutting in the motor industry were subsequently aroused by announcement that Studebaker had made substantial reductions and the automobile shares encountered renewed selling pressure. General Motors fell back to 158 1-4, which represented a gain of 1 point for the day.

STEEL OFF SHADE

U. S. Steel closed fractionally lower at 149 3 8 after selling as high as 150½. Gulf States Steel and Sloss-Sheffield were more successful in maintaining their gains which amounted to 3½ and 4 points respectively as buying developed on indications of large orders from the railroads. The same factor accounted for the strength of the equipment stocks.

The recent slump in price of silver to the lowest point in five years was blamed for the heavy selling of American Smelting and Cerro De Pasco, which broke 2 5-8 and 3 1-8 points. Allied Chemical, Mack Trucks, General Asphalt and Woolworth also felt the force of the late selling movement and closed 1 to 3 points lower.

RAILS INACTIVE

Railroad shares made little progress with the exception of Norfolk and Western, and Colorado and Southern, both of which were boosted about 4 points to new high prices. Accumulation of the Van Sweringen issues failed to bring about any important price changes.

Cotton prices failed to recover from the sharp break which followed the latest government crop report and closed the week with net losses of $6 a bale or more. The proposal to retire a million bales from the market brought about a short-lived rally, but the day's advances were only a to 9 points. Wheat prices were slightly lower.

The foreign exchange market was extremely quiet today and most of the principal rates were little changed from the day before. Demand sterling sold off slightly to around $4.85 13-16 and French and Belgian francs showed slight recessions at 2.76 1-4 and 2.66½ cents, respectively.

What Makes A Bond Marketable?

There are many opinions as to the factors which contribute to the marketability of securities. As the subject is important, a booklet has been prepared in an endeavor to create a better understanding of "marketability" or "salability."

A copy of this booklet will be mailed upon request, without cost or obligation.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Dwindling interest in the bond market today resulted in narrow and irregular price fluctuations. In contrast to recent tendencies, however, domestic obligations held fairly firm, while foreign issues drifted lower. Sales of about $3,000,000 were barely half the normal Saturday turnover.

Of chief interest to investment circles was the announcement that the Chilean government had called for bids on a loan of £13,000,000. Several American banking syndicates are expected to compete for the business, which probably will involve participation in an international offering.

Polish bonds were the outstanding weak spots of the foreign group today, but there was nothing to account for the liquidation, which forced prices down 1 to 2 points. Fractional losses were common among French and other European issues.

Denver and Rio Grande-Western 5s continued to reflect disappointment over the decision against beginning interest payments on November 1, but several other rail issues, including Lehigh Valley 5s and Wheeling and Lake Erie 4s scored moderate gains on a small turnover. Buying of Brier Hill Steel 5½s and Federated Metal 7s contrasted with the heaviness of Wickwire Spencer Steel 7s and Warner Sugar issues.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars,) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, close is omitted when same as low, and both low and close when same as high.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Continued strength in the industrial and public utility issues features a fairly active opening on the curb exchange today. The buying movement included a 2-point advance in Northern States Power, a like gain in Commonwealth Power warrants and a point rise in Middle West Utilities.

Industrial shares also contributed several strong points with most interest attached to Victor Talking Machine, which moved up 3 points, and Curtiss Aero and Motor. Freshman Radio and Fox Theater held steady at the levels reached on Friday's advance. Warner Brothers Pictures was in supply after an early fractional advance when the quotation lifted to 58½. In the following depression a loss of about 3 points was recorded. Du Pont new developed activity in the later dealings, selling up 3 1-4 points to a new high at 162.

Oils moved narrowly and lacked speculative interest.

The week's trading included heavy dealings in a larger number of specialties and industrials some issues moving over an extremely wide range. The disaster in Florida had a direct influence in causing pressure against insurance stocks. Travelers ranged from 1230 to 1178, Aetna from 635 to 600, and Hartford from 482 to 473. Land Company of Florida dropped to the new low record of 20 1-4, and Florida Power and Light 5's were traded at 92 3-4 to 91 7-8. High records were made during the week in several issues, including Du Pont new stock and Estey Welte.

The widest movement in the active industrials was in Warner Brothers common, which after selling as low as 40½ advanced to above 58. Ford Motor of Canada ranged from 437 to 490. There was a display of strength in Durant Motors' which rose to 14 7-8 early in the week and then dropped back to 12 1-4. Freshman Radio was again strong, moving up 2 points to above 36.

Special interest was attached to the action of Pittsburgh and Lake Erie on which there had been persistent buying at frequent intervals and during the week that stock made a new high record of an advance from 160 to above 170. This movement was attributed to accumulation in the interest in the New York Central system.

High records were made in a number of the utility issues. American Gas and Electric moved up 7 points and there was a strong tone during the greater part of the week in United Gas improvement.

Oil stocks were in steady supply during the week, many of those issues showing losses ranging from 1 to 3 points.

Foreign bonds were slightly lower but could not be called weak. Other bonds were without material change.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

CATTLE—This week's liberal supply lacked the assortment of good grade steers and she stock that was included in last week's run. A large part of the run was she stock from Arizona and New Mexico points, while the supply of better grades came from Idaho, Utah, and Montana. Packers were fairly well filled up from liberal runs the past weeks and a fair supply direct, and consequently could not handle this week's supply readily. Steers declined around 25 cents, while she stock was unevenly 25 to 50 cents lower, mostly around 25 cents off on the better grades, with plainer kinds including southwesterns suffering most in the decline. Seven cars of good 1165 to 1200-pound northern steers topped for the week at 8.50. Other good northern steers were fairly numerous from 8.25@8.40, with medium kinds including Californias and northerns, going over from 7.25@7.85. Common steers were most numerous from 6.00@7.00, including a few Arizonas within this spread for feeding purposes.

Good 1011-pound northern heifers topped in the she stock division for 6.65. Half a load of 755-pound Arizona heifers made 6.50, while good 1100-pound northern cows topped for their class at 6.25. The price spread of 5.00@6.00 took in the bulk of she stock. Southwesterns clearing mostly at the lower end of the price spread, although some southwesterns turned from 5.75@6.00, the latter price taking two loads of 833-pound cows. Common kinds were rather numerous down to 4.50 and below. Most cutters cleared from 2.00@4.00, with low cutters down to 3.00. Bulls declined around 25c, good bulls at the close selling from 5.25@5.50, with common and medium kinds from 4.00@5.00, including a load of 1020-pound Arizona bulls at 4.00.

CALVES—The trade could not handle the week's liberal supply, the majority of which were Arizona and New Mexico calves. Trading was very uneven, and mostly on a catch-as-catch-can basis at the close. Prices were around 1.00 lower than a week ago, although some spots showed even more loss. A few lots of choice milk vealers sold around 10.00, while good and choice calves turned from 9.00@9.50, in odd head and small lots. Several loads of 200 to 235-pound calves turned from 8.50@8.75, while the bulk of 240 to 300-pound southwesterns went over from 7.50@8.25. Common kinds and heavies, including some load lots, turned from 5.50@7.00.

HOGS—Prices, with light receipts and fair demand, advanced slightly the forepart of the week, but with declining prices at mid-western markets and channels getting filled up locally, prices dropped generally 25@50c. The week's top was 16.75, while the closing top rests at 16.35 for choice 160-pound weights. The bulk of offerings, 160 to 185-pound weights, sold from 16.00@16.25, with mixed offerings and a few lots of medium weight trucked-in kinds from 15.00@15.50. A few weighty butchers, including smooth packing sows, turned for 14.00, with the general run of packing sows turning from 12.00@12.50, with rough kinds down to 11.50.

SHEEP—No choice lambs were offered during the past week and these kinds are quotable up to 14.00. Last Saturday four decks of 74-pound California lambs in feeder flesh realized 10.50 straight. A deck of common 85-pound lambs made 11.00, with culls at 9.00. A few 61-pound Persian lambs made 8.75. Ewe offerings consisted of 233 head of Persian ewes, averaging 90 pounds, at 6.25, with a 10 per cent sort at 4.25. Choice lightweight ewes are quotable from 7.00@7.50.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The district near Montalvo in Ventura county, which the Standard Oil Company has been prospecting for nearly a year, is to have a real wildcat well at last. Officials of the Standard have definitely decided to follow up the most intensive postholing campaign yet conducted in the State, with a test well which is intended to explore the structure which the postholes have indicated does exist, and see whether it contains any oil.

The Standard began drilling shallow wells nearly a year ago, and drilled a total of six to depths ranging from 1500 to 2200 feet. These were avowedly only wells to determine the structural conditions of the district, and were not intended to find oil. Apparently the company's findings were sufficiently encouraging to warrant the cost of a deep well. It is understood that the new wildcat will be located near the Ventura Highway, and not far from the first two postholes drilled, the Valentine No. 1 and No. 2.

The Standard has about 2000 acres tied up in the Montalvo district, and, following its play, the surrounding district has been fairly blanketed with leases by other operators.

At Los Cerritos

The Martinez Oil Company's Dillman No. 1, State street and Newport avenue, at Los Cerritos, is drilling ahead.

The Fred Fitch well on Ramson street near Loma, is idle at 4642 feet and recent cores are said to have shown gray water sand.

The Rainbow well, spudded in three weeks ago and drilled 60 feet, is now idle.

The McAlpine well, also nearby, has been idle for more than a month. Machinery has been moved out.

The Keck-Elbo well, Bennett avenue and Fourteenth street, is idle after having gone to a depth of 5000 feet.

Get New Lease

The Italo-American Oil Company, formed recently by the consolidation of a number of small operators, has acquired the Wiley-Tobin property, comprising ten acres in the Los Cerritos district, according to official reports. Two wells had been started on this property, but neither was completed, and both have been shut down for several months.

Down 2864 Feet

The Standard Oil Company is drilling ahead at 2864 feet in its Camarillo wildcat well east of Camarillo, according to official reports. No showings have yet been found, it is said.

The Camarillo well is the subject of considerable interest among oil operators who have never considered the district favorable for production, because of the prevalence of outcrops of serpentine formations in the neighborhood. Shallow production has been found a considerable distance north of the Standard well, and some geologists think that the Standard may have some idea of penetrating the Serpentine formations to see what can be found below them.

WEEKLY CITRUS REVIEW

The weekly summary of the citrus market by the Elephant Orchards of Redlands follows:

"Another remarkable advance in the auction index is shown this week, which puts the price 2.00 above the average of just two weeks ago. Comparison of shipments records and other data bearing on price movement fails to account in a large measure for this rise at this time. The fact is that the public wants oranges and is willing to pay for them. Shipments are a little higher than for the last week. They will probably have to be increased somewhat beyond this point in order to move the crop properly.

California	This Week
Average daily shipments	115
No. cars sold auction	242
Auction index	$6.30

California	Last Week

No. cars sold auction	234

California	This week 1925
No. cars sold auction	221

"The Florida Grower reports the first car of citrus fruit out of Florida this season, which was a car of grapefruit shipped on September 10th. They report both the grapefruit and oranges maturing earlier than for several years past. The government crop estimate for Florida for September 1st is 9,600,000 boxes of oranges as compared with 8,200,000 boxes last year. There will be some curtailing of this figure on account of the recent hurricane, probably somewhere between 10 and 15 per cent. Beyond that there is an uncertain feature also, which is the possible damage through decay coming into the oranges which were bruised although not showing up as a definite loss at this time.

"There is a possibility of a shortage in Tulare county running to 40 per cent.

"The crop of Navels in Southern California continues to look a little less in volume than last year. The fruit is reported to be sizing up in most districts considerably ahead of normal."

In the price by size table below covering the best brands in New York auction it is interesting to note the gradual advance of the small sizes until on the 24th the 250s size brought the top price of 7.60 per box.

Oranges during this week went into a high level with a general average in the auctions for the week of 6.16 per box, compared with 4.92 last week. This was due chiefly to the diminished offerings, the auctions registering the largest drop of the season, while contributing factors were the decreased offerings of deciduous fruits and the increased demand for oranges coincident with the reopening of schools after summer vacations.

There remain only 3200 carloads of Valencias of the California crop to be shipped, estimates of the California Fruit Growers Exchange indicate, and with the last of the shipments expected to get under way about November 7, this means a little more than an average of 500 cars a week, and the resultant offerings at offerings of probably not more than an average of forty cars per day.

The Valencias will be cleaned up before the beginning of the naval crop movement to market, Central California shipping the first car of navels is expected to get them on the rails about the middle of November.

The orange auction index average per box for the week reveals the following comparison by the auction centers with the preceding week:

EXPORTS OF MEXICO ON DECREASE

Increase in Some Lines, However, Indicate Trade Abroad Favorable

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Figures on Mexican exports during the first semester of this year, just made public by the Bureau of National Statistics, show a slight decrease in the total exported. Improvement was reported along several lines, some of them considered as an indication of improved conditions generally.

The total exported was $357,834,280 as compared with $356,807,470 for last year. Petroleum and petroleum derivates headed the list of exports with $125,000,000 as compared with $171,000,000 last year.

Lead follows petroleum on the list with $39,000,000, after which come henequen fiber with $19,000,000, copper with $16,000,000, zinc with $17,000,000. The exportation of zinc from Mexico is a relatively new departure, only small amounts having been exported previously.

Coffee was an important item in the export list, $19,000,000 having been exported. This is a material increase over previous years. Fresh vegetables also showed a large increase, $14,500,000 having been exported.

Less than 1,000,000 pesos of manufactured articles were exported from this country. Straw hats made up the bulk of this export. Other items are cordage and alcohol.

The United States headed the list of nations importing from Mexico and bought from this country $259,000,000 worth of products. Great Britain, Germany, Belgium, France, Cuba and Holland follow in the order named. Exports to Spain were insignificant.

MERIDIAN (Miss.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive) — While out in the woods near Rio, this county, several persons found a terrapin on the shell of which was carved the name, "J. T. Parker, 1892." The first time it was found was in 1896, and it was many miles from where found recently.

THE INVESTOR

Cash System Regarded as Chief Factor of Success of Well-Managed Chain Store Properties; Good Management and Choice of Locations Contribute

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Well-managed chain-store companies have been unusually successful enterprises in this country and rank with the Standard Oil companies in the returns they have paid to investors. F. W. Woolworth, United Cigar Stores, S. S. Kresge and several others might be mentioned as examples.

There are undoubtedly a number of factors responsible for their success, but perhaps among the greatest is the fact that they do a cash business and are able to turn their inventories over at a remarkable speed. Those who have made a close study of chain-store enterprises declare that good management is a prime requisite for successful operation and that good management includes the ability to select advantageous locations for stores.

One of the chain stores, which has been going ahead rapidly, but about which little is known in financial circles, is Neisner Brothers, Inc. The fact that it is little known is no doubt due to the fact that not until recently was it obliged to obtain outside financial aid to care for its business expansion.

The business of Neisner Brothers, Inc., was begun in 1911 by A. H. and Joseph Neisner. The brothers invested only $12,000 in the enterprise, beginning with one store in Rochester, N. Y. Profits during the first nine months of operation amounted to $14,591, or at the annual rate of somewhat over 150 per cent on their investment.

In 1925, fourteen years later, sales amounted to $2,695,697, and it is officially estimated that the company will do a $4,500,000 business this year. Sales in the first eight months 1926 aggregated $2,154,685, an increase of 62.2 per cent compared with the corresponding period of 1925 and incidentally the largest percentage of increase of any chain-store system in the United States.

At around 95 the 7 per cent preferred of 1926 aggregated $2,154,685, an inferred stock of this company would appear to be attractive. Dividend requirements were covered approximately four times in the first eight months of this year and net tangible assets as of December 31, 1925, exclusive of reserves for depreciation and taxes, were equal to $184 a share on the preferred stock.

The company has no bonded indebtedness, so the preferred is a first charge against the company's assets. It is callable at $115 a share. It is not entitled to vote, however, unless in case of dividend defaults, in which event it may elect a majority of the board of directors.

Neisner Brothers, Inc., conducts a general merchandising business at prices ranging from 5 cents to $1. Its stores are located in medium-sized cities throughout the Middle West.

would have great difficulty in avoiding a sympathetic movement, because Lombard street believes such a rise may force London by pouring bills into the Bank of England.

It is difficult to foresee whether New York will make such a move, but odds favor a rise.

Since the war the financial engagements of the United States have been so huge that her monetary authorities are careful not to let the situation get out of hand.

Increasing interest is forthcoming in the international economic conference, first, because it is recognized that the economic section of the League of Nations has done important work, aiding the financial recuperation of certain European countries, and second, because it is recognized that European trade progress and even political relations are still much hampered by the tariff war of various states, which have come into being since the Versailles Treaty.

It is considered that the very fact of Europe's indebtedness to America, whether trade is helped by the enormous expenditures or unaffected by the tariff restrictions, emphasizes the necessity for Europe doing everything possible to economize its own resources and increase its freedom in international dealings.

Although no immediate big rise in rubber is expected, it is recognized that the time is approaching when consumption will probably once more outrun supplies. Nevertheless, it is believed also that part of the present rise in the commodity price is due to American purchases, with a view to prevent the price from falling to a level involving a cut in exports from British territories for the ensuing quarter.

turned the tables on the sellers. The movement spread to such stocks as American Can, General Motors, Mack Trucks and Hudson, which had borne the brunt of recent selling operations.

Studebaker Lags on Price Cuts

Studebaker failed to join in the enthusiastic outburst in the motor shares as a group. Reason for the backwardness of that issue was found in the announcement from the Detroit Midway through the morning that the company had made substantial reductions in the prices of certain of its products, effective immediately. A. R. Erskine, president, in a statement accompanying the notice of the reductions, said that prices established in July were in anticipation of an increased volume of sales. The response, he explained, had more than met expectations. Current cuts, he concluded, were made with the idea of giving buyers the full benefit of economies which will result from larger production.

Copper Stocks Backward

Governed by conditions much the same as those prevailing in the oil industry, the copper stocks, despite frequent efforts to turn them upward, have had little pa[r]t in the big advance. Now, just as prospects for improvement in operating results appear, reflecting the measurable betterment in prices obtaining for the metal, reliable statistics coming to hand indicate that upturn in values has encouraged increased production. The immediate response of the actual market has been a slipping off of red metal prices from the 14½c level only recently established. Similarly copper stocks have been disposed to sag, notwithstanding that profits for the year will doubtless in most instances be better than in 1925.

Commercial Solvents Up Sharply

The spectacular advance in Commercial Solvents was resumed, carrying the stock sharply higher in the course of the morning trading. The upturn was looked upon as foreshadowing important developments in the affairs of the company, which, according to some, will be of a nature to warrant much higher levels. Already predictions along that line are being made. The company recently revised its capital structure through the redemption of its outstanding notes and the conversion of its first preferred and Class A common stocks. Soon thereafter the B stock was placed on an $8 dividend basis, and earnings are understood to be of a nature to warrant extras at the discretion of the board.

ARGONNE VETERANS IN REUNION BANQUET

More than fifty veterans of the Ninety-first Division, with their wives and sweethearts, lived again the stirring days of September, 1918, at a reunion banquet and dance last night in the Chamber of Commerce. The annual affair, commemorating the Argonne offensive, was changed this year from a stag banquet to the dinner-dance. Louis Ruff, vice-president, and Paul Miller, secretary, were in charge of arrangements. Guernsey Fraser is president of the Southern California association. Vaudeville stars from Los Angeles theaters presented a program.

SHIP LINE HOST TO CITRUS FOLK

Leaders in Industry Dine on Swedish Carrier

Event Announces Coming of Fruit Wrapper Mill

Plant at Pomona Booked to Start in November

That Southern California citrus products have attained such a strong foothold in European markets that they not only shall not be supplanted, but shall increase many fold, was the assertion of Southland citrus leaders at luncheon aboard the Swedish motorship Buenos Aires of the Johnson Line at the harbor yesterday afternoon.

The dinner was a get-together of representatives of the orange and lemon associations, and officials of the California Fruit Wrapping Mill, the first big plant of its kind on the Coast. The factory, costing $500,000, will be completed and in operation in Pomona, about November 1. It will have an output of 3000 tons of wrappers annually, sufficient to cover more than 100,000,000 oranges and lemons. The entire output has been contracted for, five years in advance.

"Sweden, Norway and England have had a taste of California's delectable golden fruits and they refuse to tickle their palates longer with the inferior grades coming from Southern Europe," declared A. Ortendahl, builder of Sweden's largest paper mills, and the engineer who designed the Pomona plant. "Almost every ship from Southern California brings an increasing supply. Your product has gained such momentum abroad there is no stopping it."

The diners included Mr. Ortendahl, F. O. Fernstrom, manager of the new paper mill, and his brother, F. C. Fernstrom; B. A. Wallace, director of the company; Paul Armstrong, assistant general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, and H. Savage, manager of the sales department of that exchange; L. R. Young and B. Palmer of the San Antonio Fruit Exchange; A. C. Bark, manager of Brogdex Company; Mark Anderson of Redlands Highland Fruit Exchange, and Capt. S. T. Evelius, master of the ship.

The vessel departed north last night, making a hurry trip to this coast for 5000 tons of dried and canned fruit which it will rush back to Northern Europe in time for the Christmas markets.

PORT ENJOYS SECOND BANNER TRAFFIC WEEK

The past week closed on the second busiest seven-day period in shipping annals at Los Angeles Harbor, witnessing the arrival of 140 vessels or an average of a score each day. It is the second highest total this year, being exceeded by the week ending August 21, when 143 vessels called at this port, according to G. A. Glasscock, manager of the harbor branch of the Marine Exchange.

Labor demands were proportionately great, Manager E. T. Nichols of the Marine Service Bureau having more calls for longshoremen than were registered at the Coast's biggest single marine employment agency. As a result, the registered men were given overtime rather than deviate from the bureau's policy.

Lumber receipts for the week rose to 23,562,647 feet, a gain of 5,000,000 over the previous week. Oil exports however, dropped from 1,947,139 barrels to 1,647,075, while two full cargoes of gasoline were brought in from outside ports.

The flags of nine nations floated over the arrivals in the following numbers: American, 115; British, 13; Japanese, 3; Norwegian, 3; Swedish, 3; German, Mexican, French and Dutch, 1 each.

That Uncle Sam's sailors were badly smitten on their cruise to Australia last summer was evidenced yesterday when 250 sacks of mail went out to the Antipodes aboard Swayne & Hoyt's steamer West Nivaria and more will follow today on the Trans-Atlantic Steamship Company's liner Hellenic. More than six and one-half tons of mail were dispatched to foreign countries yesterday by the foreign exchange offices of the San Pedro postoffice, one of six such establishments in the country. Not all of the Australian-bound mail however, was heart epistles, as business concerns reaching out for more markets originated much of it.

The city of Guatemala is a climatic rival of Los Angeles even if the latter doesn't know it, according to Louis Biglesberger, who returned home on the Panama Mail intercoastal liner Colombia yesterday. He and his father own vast hardwood lumber properties in the Central American republic and are heavy importers to Los Angeles. Guatemala is a mile high, has smart hotels, elegant clubs, golf links and smart fashions, and is attracting pretentious numbers of pleasure lovers and sightseers from the north, Biglesberger said. He confided that the climate is "even better than Los Angeles." Other passengers disembarking were H. M. Gregory, Guatemala agent for the Panama Mail, and Darius Densmore, Wisconsin capitalist and family, returning after a world cruise to their winter home here.

Guardians of the fattest pocketbook ever to enter Los Angeles Harbor are due the morning of October 2, when 150 delegates to the local convention of the American Bankers' Association arrive on the Panama Pacific liner Finland from New York. A few of the passengers are Charles H. Adams, Union Trust Company, Detroit; George R. Baker, Chatham & Phoenix National Bank, New York City; C. P. Bilen, Philadelphia Girard National Bank; John B. Byrne, State bank commissioner for Connecticut; W. M. Nettleton, Covington National Bank, Virginia; W. A. Schneckenberger, manager of the Federal Reserve Bank, Buffalo; Luther D. Thomas, Fidelity Trust Company, Detroit; E. D. Voorhees, Broad street National Bank, Trenton, N. J.

An eighty-five page booklet has just been issued by James Robertson, local manager, describing Raymond & Whitcomb Company's next world cruise on the Carinthia which arrives here from New York October 29. The 20,000-ton Cunarder will give its several hundred passengers more than a full day ashore, sailing thence for the Far East via the Antipodes and Korea. Several score additional passengers will embark from Los Angeles. The cruise will cover 35,859 miles, touch twenty-four countries of four continents and consume 151 days. A dozen optional side trips are offered on the cruise.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25. (AP)—H. F. Alexander, president of the steamship company bearing his name, was scheduled to leave tonight for his home in Seattle at the conclusion of a brief stay here in connection with several conferences bearing upon the future operations of his company. As one outgrowth of his visit it has been decided to retain the liner H. F. Alexander on the coastwise run this winter. Capt. R. B. Brennan and E. H. Hall, executives of the steamship company, are to accompany Alexander north.

The Panama Mail liner Colombia is due here Monday from New York via the Panama Canal and Central American and Mexican ports. Agents of the company here say the passenger list is composed principally of tourists coming to this Coast for the winter months and European travelers who are making their first visit to the United States.

The Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation plant here today was awarded a contract to build another ferry boat for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. It was the third contract for the construction of a ferry boat to be awarded by the railroad company to the corporation within a few weeks.

Due to heavy cargo offerings, which it was impossible to load aboard ship in time, the departure of the Panama-Pacific liner Mongolia for New York was delayed today one hour. Eastbound cargo offerings, steamship men declare, are taxing the facilities of intercoastal boats, a condition which they say is due to the fact that eastern jobbers delayed the placing of orders for western canned goods prior to the movement of dried fruit and bean shipments.

SEATTLE, Sept. 25.—An increase in Seattle's water-borne commerce last month over August, 1925, was reported today by D. G. McClelland, chief statistician for the Seattle Harbor Department. Imports and exports last month totaled 775,577 tons, valued at $80,567,049, compared to 685,194 tons valued at $63,892,999 in August last year.

The Matson Navigation Company's steamer Lurline, which left Seattle today for Honolulu, is making her one hundred and ninety-ninth voyage to the Hawaiian Islands. Plans are being made here for a commemorative ceremony at Honolulu and Seattle when the two hundredth voyage is completed.

Advices received here today were that the steamer Pacific Maru will arrive in Seattle Thursday from Japanese ports, with 3760 bales of silk and a cargo of oriental oils.

PORTLAND, Sept. 25.—October 10 is the arrival date set for the refrigerated steamer Trojan Star, which will open the Blue Star Line's fall and winter service between Pacific Coast and European ports.

The Gothic Star is expected in Portland October 19. It will be followed by the Doric Star November 1.

Kerr, Gifford & Co. yesterday cleared the Baron Glenconner for Valparaiso with 173,000 bushels of wheat valued at $236,000. This is one of the largest cargoes ever to be started for west coast ports.

The Eurana of the Isthmian Line is expected October 4 to load canned goods and miscellaneous freight for United Kingdom ports.

Sailing hour of the Admiral Dewey was postponed from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. today on account of late arrival of California ports yesterday.

The Canadian Ranger from Antwerp is discharging 800 tons of steel here. The vessel will go on to Seattle and Vancouver after completing unloading.

TACOMA, Sept. 25.—The Munson-McCormick Line steamer Mundelta is due early Monday morning to load 700,000 feet of special Douglas fir timbers for Boston.

The Protesilaus of the Blue Funnel Line arrived here today to load flour for the Orient. She will also take box shooks and lumber.

The Atlantic of the Argonaut Line put in at 7 p.m. from New York, bringing general cargo from east coast ports.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Parece que los Yaquis Quieren ya Tregua

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Septiembre 25.—Al paso que ciertas noticias particulares recibidas hoy aquí de Sonora, dicen que los indios yaquis se están parapetando en la Tarasca, antigua mina de oro y plata de los jesuitas, ubicada al este y a la vista de Guaymas, en las montañas de Bacatete, distrito de Alamos, para resistir un largo sitio de las fuerzas del gobierno, los despachos de prensa, que traen noticias oficiales de Guaymas, Hermosillo y Nogales, apuntan que ya se habla de negociaciones propuestas por los indios y tendientes a celebrar una conferencia entre las tribus rebeldes y el gobierno.

Un norteamericano, que acaba de llegar aquí de Sonora, después de haber viajado por el averiado Sudpacífico Mejicano, dice que la vía herrada, que ya ha sufrido mucho con motivo del levantamiento de los yaquis, ha reportado daños casi tan considerables como los infligidos por los rebeldes, con un continuo aguacero de quince días. Dice el viajero que, durante el viaje, una persona que no pudo ser identificada, hizo fuego sobre él.

Según informes de Guadalajara, la vía está casi impasable, pues los durmientes y los rieles se hallan enterrados en el lodo. Los yaquis levantaron veinticinco millas de rieles del Sudpacífico, y quemaron varios puentes entre las estaciones de Corral y Empalme. Dícese que centenares de federales están atravesando a pie el tramo de ferrocarril que queda por construir, entre La Quemada (Jalisco) y Tepic (Nayarit). Han tenido que marchar por las peñascosas y empapadas montañas.

El viajero norteamericano pudo ver seis trenes militares, todos con infantería que salieron de Guadajara rumbo al norte.

La mina de la Tarasca les fue entregada a los yaquis, para que cuidasen de ella, por los jesuitas, cuando fueron expulsados éstos de Méjico en 1829. Los indios han guardado fielmente esa propiedad, que en otra época produjo gran cantidad de oro y plata. Nunca han dejado subir a nadie a la fortaleza natural de Bacatete, donde ahora se dice que están concentrándose, bajo las órdenes de Matus, para el sitio de resistencia contra los federales.

DETROIT, Septiembre 25.—La Compañía de Automóviles Ford ha anunciado hoy que, tras un experimento de dos meses, ha decidido establecer permanentemente en las fábricas de la companía la semana de cinco días. Los aumentos de jornal sólo se han otorgado por méritos.

Informan en las oficinas de la compañía en Dearborn que, sobre esta base del mérito, hay actualmente algunos operarios que están recibiendo por sus cinco días de trabajo lo que antes recibían por seis.

Se tiene la esperanza, dijo el portavoz, de la compañía, de que el nuevo sistema estimule de tal manera a los obreros, que lleguen todos a ganar en los cinco días lo que antes ganaban en seis.

MeLosh y la señora Babe Daniels, quienes declararon bajo juramento en San Francisco haberse ocupado en fabricar pruebas para substanciar el relato de plagio de la McPherson. Inmediatamente se les condujo a la fiscalía para ser interrogados por el primer teniente fiscal Davis y por sus colegas, los tenientes fiscales Dennison y Murray.

El fiscal Keyes, que había salido de su oficina temprano para in a un sitio retirado a estudiar ciertas pruebas suministradas por los testigos importantes de cargo, para la audiencia de mañana, dejó instrucciones a Davis de que sometiera a MeLosh y a su compañera a severísimo interrogatorio para ver de descubrir el motivo oculto que tuvieran para entremeterse en el asunto de la McPherson.

Ha anunciado Keyes que, a menos de llegarse a una prueba concluyente, que al presente no existe, de que MeLosh sea en realidad el "John Doe Martin", mencionado en la acusación de conspiración presentada contra la McPherson y sus conreos, dará inmediatamente orden de poner en libertad a MeLosh y su compañera, y les permitirá que se vayan a donde gusten.

Según informan en la fiscalía, Benedict será uno de los importantes testigos de cargo, pues es de los que vieron a la compañera de Ormiston en Carmel. Se la citará para la audiencia preliminar, a fin de que declare lo que sepa sobre el incidente de Carmel, y para que desmienta lo afirmado por Rich Woolley, abogado de la McPherson; es a saber, que Benedict no había podido identificar a la evangelista como la "señorita X."

Man Silent for Twenty Years Ends His Life

LONDON, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—"The Silent Man" of Waldegrave street at Hastings is dead, a suicide. For twenty years William Sims evaded every human being. Never throughout all those years was he known to speak except to one man, an ex-police detective.

Whenever he went into a store he pointed at what he wanted. When he was ill he made himself his own remedies. He also did his own cooking, sewing and housework. He left no will, although he had considerable money invested in stocks and bonds. He died without a word.

Boy Kills Large Rattler When It Charms His Dog

HICKMAN (Ky.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Henry Langford, 15 years of age, has killed the largest rattlesnake ever seen in this section. It was four and a half feet long and carried nine rattles.

The boy discoverd the snake in the yard of his home where the reptile apprently had charmed young Langford's pup, which was sitting on the running board of an automobile The small dog seemed about on the point of stepping off his perch into range of the snake's fangs. Then Langford fired the shotgun.

His father, Louis Langford, will have the snake skin, stuffed so as to preserve it as a trophy of his son's marksmanship.

Clothiers Plan Drive Against Slovenly Males

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25. (AP)—Advertising to arouse "dress consciousness" in men was advocated in resolutions adopted today at the convention of the National Association of Clothiers and Furnishers. The advertising campaign will be conducted nationally and locally "to eliminate slovenly habits of attire among men, and to make them realize that neat, correct and fashionable attire is a great factor in achieving success in life."

J. D. Duncan Williams of Chicago, addressing the convention, asserted that the boy of today is stepping out snappily in the matter of clothes.

H. Bert Ober of Lawrence, Kan., was elected president.

Such must have been the thought of the Whittier gridders as their outstretched hands awaited the arrival of Don Williams, the gentleman shown with the ball pressed against his manly bosom. "Duggy" Kimmell, Whittier right tackle, owns the hands which are about to wrap about Don's legs. The other pair of lunch hooks belong to Tom Phelan, Poet halfback. BABE SLUGS WAY TO TWO VICTORIES OVER BROWNS

Bambino Raises Home Run Total to Forty-seven as Browns Succumb and Huggmen Clinch Pennant

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Babe Ruth's battering bludgeon lifted the New York Yankees into another American League pennant today, when his three home runs were largely responsible for the pair of victories which the Huggins men scored over the St. Louis Browns to cinch the league gonfalon. The scores were 10 to 2 and 10 to 4.

As a result, the victorious Gothamites will face the St. Louis Cardinals, National League winners, in the annual diamond classic.

Ruth's feat brings his total for the season to forty-seven homers. His first circuit was in the fifth inning of the first game, with the bases loaded. His second was in the sixth inning of the second game and scored Earl Combs. His third was in the ninth, when he was the first batter up. His double in the fifth inning also accounted for a Yankee run.

Wildness of the Browns' pitchers contributed to the victory. Zachary, Van Gilder and Girard were unable to locate the platter, and together walked fourteen of the Yankee stickers in the first game.

Herb Pennock was the victorious Yankee in the opener. He southpawed his way to victory by keeping the nine hits he yielded well scattered with the exception of the fifth inning, when the Browns scored both of their runs.

Young Waite Hoyt bested Milt Gaston in the second affair, although the Browns outhit their rivals. The Yanks bunched their blows successfully, including a four-run rally, in the sixth, to easily pile up a commanding lead.

Cleveland was rained out again, but even a victory over the Athletics would not have helped the Tribe. The Yankees have one game yet to play, but can lose that without trouble. The scores:

BERKELEY, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) The University of California freshman football team unleashed a world of power today to trample upon San Bernardino High School, 40 to 0. Twenty-five thousand persons attended the frosh triumph with more fans constantly streaming into the memorial stadium to witness the California-Santa Clara varsity contest. It appeared certain that the opening day's attendance would shatter all previous records. Lee Eisan and Ben Lom were dynamos of action for the victors. Eisan twisted and squirmed his way through the preps for several runs of from 20 to 30 yards. Lom showed tremendous drive and was instrumental in many of the California scores. Capt. Ernie Pinckert was San Bernardino's redeeming feature. Pinckert bucked the line, passed, kicked and gained most of his team's yardage. He turned in two 20-yard runs and several minor gains. The second frosh team scored two touchdowns in the third quarter. The game clearly showed that Coach Clint Evans has a wealth of reserve strength.

LOYOLA ELEVEN SURPRISES OCCIDENTAL TEAM, HOLDING TIGERS 7 TO 7 IN GRID TILT

BY AL PARMENTER

Coach Bill Hess's Loyola College football team was a very decided surprise to the Occidental College eleven yesterday afternoon, the Lions playing the Tigers to a 7-to-7 tie. Both teams made their scores in the first quarter, Oxy scoring on the first play after the kick-off. About 3000 fans were in the stands at Patterson Field to see the contest.

SOLLY MISHKIN

Those who arrived in time for the first whistle were the ones who were given the real treats of the tilt. Occidental kicked off to the Lions, who received the ball on their own 8-yard line and were downed in their tracks. They lined up for the first play and with a pass from center that was a little bit high the Loyola back only succeeded in getting his hands on the ball enough to bounce it up in the air and Bud Teachout, Oxy's right end, grabbed it and ran across the goal for the first touchdown in the first two minutes of play. Jack Schweizer converted with a place kick.

With the first touchdown scored so easily the Oxy players more than likely figured they were about to start on a long and thorough trial of all their plays. If they had such illusions the Lions soon put an end to them.

LONG RUN-BACK

Following the touchdown Oxy kicked off again to Loyola and this time the ball was advanced 20 yards on the run-back before the ball was downed. With the line of scrimmage at the Loyola 30-yard line the Lions lined up and Currin had raced through the Oxy line for 8 yards before his headway was stopped and right there he had the hard luck to fumble, George Fusco recovering the pigskin for the Tigers.

Taking the ball 40 yards from the goal line Oxy made 8 yards in gains, lost 5 on penalties and had to kick. Schweizer booted the ball but 20 yards. Loyola took it on their own 15-yard line and gained 18 yards in one play over right tackle. They were held twice for no gain and tried to punt on the third down but the punter juggled the ball and lost 15 yards. On the fourth down the Lions punted successfully but all Oxy did was to gain 8 yards on an end run and then fumble, Loyola recovering the ball on their own 42-yard line.

Here the drive started that netted the visiting Lions their touchdown. A long series of delayed bucks and reverse plays completely bewildered the Oxy line and the Lions made four first downs in a row and ended up with a touchdown when Currin drove over the goal and followed up by converting with a place kick to tie the score. The weakest spot seemed to be the right side of the Oxy line, although the other side was not barred by the Lions when they made their gains of four and five, and sometimes more yards at a play.

GODET SHINES

Mike Godet played a fine defensive game at left end. Currin played a good brand of football at halfback for the Lions and going around Godet's end seemed to be the ambition of this Loyola half. Godet seemed to have decided ambitions to stop the gentleman and the consequences were that every time the play swung that way Mr. Godet and Mr. Currin met with a little more than great gusto. It developed into an argument and both boys were sent off the field. Anyway, they both played good hard football.

Solly Mishkin was effective in the backfield for Oxy on what occasions the team proved effective. He was good for a number of good gains during the afternoon.

Both Al Clayes and Al Klein were in the game. Klein did not last long before he was injured and George

CALTECH SCARES CARDS

"Fox" Stanton's Engineers Hold Stanford Eleven to 13 to 6 Count at Palo Alto

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Stanford University formally opened its 1926 football season this afternoon on the home grounds by winning a doubleheader. The first victim was the Fresno State Teachers' College which succumbed to a score of 44 to 7. The California Institute of Technology was defeated by the close margin of 13 to 6. The first game was a romp for the Cardinals. The second was not.

Coach "Pop" Warner sent in what, at the present time, is considered his best team when the game with the Fresno team began. Fresno kicked off. Long runs were frequent and protracted marches down the field by Stanford were a common occurrence.

GLENN "POP" WARNER

A new set of freshmen were sent in to take care of the Caltech game. Everybody was figuring on another series of sprinting exercises for the Cardinal team and practice in addition for the Stanford scorer. But the lads from Pasadena had other ideas. Also they had been well coached and knew their onions.

In less than a half-dozen plays after the kick-off and with the aid of a big penalty inflicted on Stanford, the visitors had the ball on the Stanford 20-yard line. Stanton, the Caltech captain, caught a forward pass for 8 yards. A forward pass failed and then Muff carried it to the Cardinal 6-yard line. Temporarily the score was staved off when Shipkey of Stanford intercepted a pass on his 6-inch line.

Then Stanford kicked from behind its goal line to the 25-yard mark. Caltech failed to gain and kicked across the line. Out came the ball to the 20-yard chalk mark. There was a Stanford mix-up, the ball went blooey. Sims and Wilten took turns bobbling

SPAULDING'S GRIZZLIES SHOW POWER IN 25-TO-0 WIN OVER WEAK SANTA BARBARA ELEVEN

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Potentially the most powerful football squad the local University of California has ever put on the gridiron, Coach Bill Spaulding's 1926 grid squad opened the season yesterday afternoon at Moore Field by smothering the weak and bewildered Santa Barbara State College eleven, 25 to 0. "Dud" De Groot, ex-Stanford tackle, now coaching the Channel City team, was averse to tackling the Grizzlies and his charges reflected that frame of mind by putting up a spiritless battle.

Spaulding threw a wealth of material into the fray. The varsity line tore the Santa Barbara team into shreds, and the second-string line proved just as capable, but the backfield will need considerable brushing up before it will compare with last year's pigskin carriers, despite a seemingly excellent showing

SCRIBS CONSISTENT

"Scribs" Birlenbach played his usual consistent game at quarterback, while both Joe Fleming, a transfer from Minnesota, and all-State man as a high school back, and Bert La Bucherie, last year's freshman captain and quarterback, stood out in the backfield. Earl Fields, the only fullback Spaulding has uncovered to date, failed to come up to expectations. While La Bucherie's open-field running was brilliant in spots and Fleming hit the line for long gains, the fact remains that any mediocre backfield man could have gone through the holes opened up by the line.

ALL GRIZZLIES

As far as the game giving an idea of the true strength of the Grizzlies—it didn't. It was all Southern Branch from the kick-off. Fleming circled left end for a touchdown within the first five minutes of play, after La Bucherie and Fields had battered their way down the field. Shortly after the second kick-off, Fleming again went over from the 1-yard line on three attempts. The Santa Barbarans opened up like a sieve and Fleming went without trouble. Fleming managed to convert largely through the aid of one of the Santa Barbara players, who tipped the ball through the goal posts.

As soon as the first string got going, Spaulding shoved in his second string. Armstrong and Kebbe were rushed into the game, but "Scribs" continued to hand the ball to La Bucherie, who went over left tackle from the 7-yard line in the second quarter after he had carried the pigskin half the length of the field on off-tackle bucks. Birlenbach failed to convert.

With second and third-string men facing them in the third period, the Roadrunners stiffened enough to keep the Grizzlies from scoring, but seemed

They were recognized, however, and crowds have besieged the hotel. The hotel management is keeping all strangers away from the floor on which the former champion's suite is situated.

He had been in the water five hours and forty minutes, having put off from Long Point on the island. No reason was given for his collapse. The report said Hennessey was within five miles of Wilmington, adjoining San Pedro, when he was taken from the water.

ARGENTINES BEATEN AGAIN

WESTBURY (N. Y.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Argentines ended its polo invasion of 1926 by going down once more to defeat on international field as Devereaux Milburns combined Army-Meadowbrook team at last began to find itself, and made its two handicap goals carry it through to the final round of the Monty Waterbury memorial cup tourney, the last event of the season.

The score on the big field was 10-8, and at the same time Cochrane Field furnished the setting for a first-round encounter, which ended with the exact score, though in this instance Prince Mere gave away two goals by handicap and made them up to defeat Orange county.

Hagen Drops Diegel, 4 and 3, to Win Third Consecutive Pro Golf Championship

MIGHTY "HAGE" IN GREAT FORM

Clips Par to Lead 2 Up at Half-Way Mark

Masterful Stroking Stymies Diegel Many Times

First Golfer to Win Crown Three Years Straight

GARDEN CITY (N. Y.) Sept. 25. (AP)—Invincible Walter Hagen finished a new chapter in American golf history today with the winning of his third successive championship among the professionals.

Brushing aside the opposition of Leo Diegel with the same irresistible stroking by which he conquered Johnny Farrell yesterday, the former caddie from Rochester, N. Y., completed the greatest match-playing record of all time in a fittingly decisive final, 4 up and 3 to play.

The mighty "Hage" thus ran to a glorious end the course along which lurked the ghosts of many failures, breaking down a barrier that for more than three decades had defied the thrusts of the country's foremost linksmen, including great amateurs like Bobby Jones, Walter J. Travis and Jerry Travers, and such outstanding professionals as Long Jim Barnes and Gene Sarazen.

All won two straight championships in either the amateur or professional realms, but it remained for Hagen to become the first three-time title-holder.

GREAT RECORD

Putting aside his link implements for the tournament season tonight, Hagen, the master of match play, was able to survey as the handiwork of his efforts, a four-year stretch of competition without an individual defeat, four tournament triumphs during the campaign of 1926, victories over Bobby Jones and Abe Mitchell, the British star, and a medal-play record of 132 for the qualifying rounds of the eastern open championship.

Hagen, who will be 34 years of age next December, rolled up his fifteenth straight victory in the professional event by his triumph over Diegel today. In sharp contrast to his close matches at Olympia Fields when he was twice carried beyond the thirty-sixth green, Hagen swept through the present tournament at Salisbury without ever being closely pressed, defeating Joe Turnesa, 3 and 2; Dick Grout, 8 and 7; Pat Doyle and Johnny Farrell, 6 and 5, and Diegel by 4 and 3.

As in his previous matches here, Hagen got the jump on his foe today with a smashing round of 69 this morning, and Diegel, in spite of a good 71, found himself trailing at the lunch hour by two holes.

Luck did not favor the defending champion so often in his marvelous approach putts today as in his semi-final contest yesterday for frequently his ball hung on the very edge of the cup. He was in trouble occasionally, but Hagen in trouble meant nothing during that dizzy morning round, for he seemed to lay his pitches closer to the flag out of the rough than from the best of lies on the fair way.

That heart-breaking start seemed to spell defeat for Diegel. If it didn't the outcome became unmistakably plain at the very first hole of the afternoon round, when the New York player tossed his approach far over the hole. The ball rolled into the street and under Hagen's car, which was backed away to reveal the truant pellet nestling in a rut. After hacking away at the ball three times, Leo finally conceded the hole.

Hagen made one of his few slips at the next, a strong wind carrying his ball beyond the green to cost him a 5 and make Diegel only 2 down once more. But from that point on the champion was never threatened.

HAGEN INVINCIBLE

Nothing seemed to daunt him. If Diegel made a marvelous approach within a few feet of the flag, Hagen, usually longer from the tee throughout the match, would excel it. If Diegel dropped a long putt, Hagen was right behind him with another one to head off any possible rally. But perhaps his outstanding shots were made at the green.

At the 155-yard sixteenth, Hagen ran a 35-footer over a rolling carpet of grass to the very lip of the cup for a 2. Here the ball stopped for fully five seconds as the spectators held their breath, and then as Diegel bent to measure his shot, it dropped in. At the twenty-second Hagen was confronted by a dead stymie two feet from the hole. Diegel appeared certain of his win here, but Hagen calmly drew out his mashie and cleverly jumped the pellet over that of the former Canadian open champion to gain his half in par 4.

So it went all through the match, with Hagen always master of the situation, no matter what the circumstances. Hagen's victory today marked his fourth winning of the championship in six starts. He was the first American-born player to win the British open, accomplishing the feat in 1922. He repeated and won in 1924. Hagen has also twice won the American open, becoming champion at the age of 21 at Chicago in 1914, and regaining the crown five years later at Boston.

THREE DRAWS FEATURE ATHLETIC CLUB BOUTS

Robert Rendley and Berando Arros fought six rounds to a draw at the Main Street Athletic Club last night. Arros piled up a lead in the first rounds, but Rendley's finish won him the neutral decision. The bout was fast all the way and a great crowd pleaser.

Antonio Valdatrama and Dick De Hoag also put up a fast fight in the six-round semi-wind-up, with neither having the edge. Jack O'Brien furnished the third draw of the evening, when he evened the count with Frankie Forbes.

Joe Noto kayoed Henry Mendena in the fourth round. Tony De Soto spilled Mickey Orasco in the second round of a scheduled four-round bout, and Bobby Payne knocked out Joe Fenton in the opener.

NEW PASS RULE FAILS TO BOTHER TROJANS OR POETS

BY BRAVEN DYER

The philosopher who coined the phrase about "history repeating itself" certainly knew his onions, as was demonstrated at the Coliseum yesterday afternoon when Howard Jones's Trojans did it all over again, thumping Whittier's representatives by exactly the same score as they rolled up a year ago, 74 to 0.

Our assignment called for "covering" the game from the standpoint of new rules, chief of which deals with the forward pass. The game was so one-sided and the result so evident from the very beginning that any final comment on the new pass rule must be withheld until it has been put to a more severe test.

Briefly the new rule states that in a series of four downs a team can't have two incompleted forward passes without a five-yard penalty. In other words, if the Trojans failed to complete a pass on their first down and then tried again and failed on their second, third or fourth down they were penalized five yards. However, if they failed the first time and were successful in completing their second attempt there was naturally no penalty.

The rule seemed to bother the two teams not at all for they both used the aerial attack frequently, U.S.C.'s first touchdown coming via this method. It has been claimed by coaches and critics that teams will withhold their passes until the third down—especially long passes—but the Trojans failed to adhere to this policy, scoring their opening touchdown on a lengthy toss from Williams to Badgro, the play coming on the second down. The Whittier backs did not expect the pass, playing in close with the result that Badgro had no trouble outdistancing them.

It looks as if it will be up to the quarterbacks more than ever to outguess their rivals, which was what Williams did in this instance. It was a dangerous play, or would have been in a close game, and we doubt if Williams would have tried it on the second down had he been up against Stanford or California for had he failed the critics would have panned him for not smashing away at the line.

Neither team was afraid of being penalized for failing to complete its second pass. The Trojans tried three in a row in the third quarter and none of them connected. This brought about the only U.S.C. punt of the day, Williams booting the ball. Whittier worked two passes in a row in the fourth quarter, thereby making one of their three first downs. On one occasion the Quakers failed to complete a pass on the second down and then tried another immediately following, Kaer intercepting it.

The referee helped to mix fans up a bit by taking extra large steps when dealing out penalties. As a result he sometimes penalized a team six yards for failing to complete its second pass, while on one occasion when the Trojans got two penalties in a row they were shoved back a grand total of 13 yards. What with all this measuring going on in our games these days it looks as if the referee will have to be provided with a slide rule or a tape measure.

In a game such as yesterday's the popularity of the forward pass seemed never to be in danger. Whether teams will curtail their aerial attack in more important struggles remains to be seen.

Some fans got mixed up and did not know when the referee was penalizing for off-side and when he was dealing out the longs steps for failure to complete the second pass. Some method of letting fans know by a sign what the penalty is for will undoubtedly be appreciated.

"BRICK" MULLER'S GRIDDERS PLAY CHICAGO TEAM TODAY

"BRICK" MULLER

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—When Brick Muller, all-American end from California, dips into his bag of trick plays and pulls forth several fifty-yard forward passes, the Cardinal backfield will have to do more than run in circles if they expect to win the grid contest tomorrow with the Los Angeles Nationals.

Muller, member of the unbeaten California team which swamped Ohio State, 28 to 0, in 1921, will lead his cohorts into Chicago in a determined effort to repeat that spectacular performance.

While the invading eleven is placing faith in the art of turning long passes into touchdowns, the Cardinal team also has something of a reputation at the aerial game. "Red" Dunn probably has no peer in the Midwest in casting the pigskin, and the Dunn-to-Erickson combination is about the best in the Middle West.

Three all-American tackles are listed on the Cardinal roster, Gillies, Weller and Ellis, with Bloomer, all-Missouri, another capable man, at present drafted to serve at one of the flank positions.

Although the south-side team trounced the Tigers from the Buckeye State last Sunday, there was a flash of offensive strength in the first quarter which is reminiscent of the power which carried the team through a long string of victories last season.

With an added week of practice, the Notre Dame style of attack, which the Cards have adopted, should be running more smoothly. If so, Capt. Brick Muller may have a busy afternoon at his end of the scrimmage line.

POMONA COLLEGE MAT STARS DRAW

Several interesting boxing bouts and one grappling match featured the smoker held at Pomona last night. Relman Morin and Cliff Swanson wrestled for twelve minutes to a draw, both put up a whale of a battle.

The initial boxing bout was a draw. Bob Billings a freshman and Will Munn, a sophomore going three rounds at 124 pounds. Leo Sawyer, a sophomore, defeated Don Davis a freshman, in three rounds. The boys fought at 145 pounds. Fred Shawhan won a three-round decision over Stew Gregory. Both are sophomores.

Lions Drive Sixty Yards to Earn Touchdown

Fusco was put back into the line-up. Clayes made a pair of sensational runs, entertaining with a bit of open-field running on one occasion in running back a punt that gave his team a gain of 30 yards.

LINE EFFECTIVE

The Loyola linesmen, who look as though they might average 170 pounds from tackle to tackle, persisted in breaking through the Tiger forward wall and messing up Oxy's plays so that at no time during the game were the Bengals able to make a sustained drive down the field. Instrumental in this work of smearing the work of Coach Exendine's men were the center and right guard of the Loyola outfit, Sherwood and Donaghue. Sherwood is small but he had lots of ginger.

Coach Hess put in a backfield that was full of drive. His combination of Lowry and Currin with Mannion and Tunney to run interference is one that need not be apologized for.

The line-ups:

Naval Eleven Collects From Southwestern

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) Flashy broken-field running by Cy Walton, Southwestern University backfield star, failed to put the collegians in scoring distance and the naval training station football team scored an impressive 33-to-0 victory over the Los Angeles aggregation here today.

Walton was easily the star for the visitors and wormed his way through the Boot line for repeated short gains. His shiftiness accounted for his team's five first downs and made the collegians a constant threat.

The Boots worked the ball straight down the field after the opening kick-off but lost the ball on a penalty in the very shadow of the goal. Behrstock immediately kicked to midfield and the Boot forward march was begun again, with Young going over for the first touchdown. Durnell scored a second touchdown in the first quarter on a fumble.

J. Harris contributed another touchdown in the third period and Gerstenlauer and Reedy scored in the final frame. The line-ups.

The final touchdown in the fourth period was the prettiest of the day. Birlenbach scored on a long run around left end from the 5-yard mark on a neat sneak play. Fleming made the play so realistic that half the Santa Barbara team were on him, while Scribs scored without opposition. Fleming again failed to convert.

Spaulding has plenty of bad places to smooth over between now and the San Diego State game, two weeks away. Against a strong squad, the Grizzlies would have been in for a bad afternoon. In the first place, Spaulding will have to develop a kicker. Missing three out of four chances for the extra point, and rather weak punting and kick-offs showed the Grizzlies to be lacking in that department. The few passes that were tried were knocked down with the exception of two from Birlenbach to La Bucheries, a combination that looks good.

FROSH LOSE

The opening game of the afternoon, between the Branch Frosh and Glendale High School, was won by the latter, 7 to 0. Capt. Brooker of the Dynamiters carried the ball over on a criss-cross from the 5-yard line in the third period, and Clarke converted. Fred Oster also seems to have a corking good team, that only needs experience.

GERMAN INVADER HAS BEATEN NURMI

Dr. Otto Peltzer, the great German runner, it is hoped, will appear in competition in this country this winter as a result of efforts now in progress to let fans of this country see him in action. The marvelous German has now not only beaten Douglas Lowe of England, who was considered the best half-miler in the world, in world's record time, but he has added Paavo Nurmi, the Olympic champion and world's record holder for 1500 meters, and another wonderful runner, Wide of Sweden, to his list of victims. It appears Dr. Peltzer is capable of a mile in 4:10.

MARINES ACTIVE

The United States Marine Corps athletic council has fixed a program of athletic activity for 1927, which will include football, baseball, basketball, soccer, tennis, hockey, lacrosse, polo, rowing, swimming, boxing, wrestling, track and field, monthly physical tests, rifle and pistol contests. It is the greatest program ever mapped out and will aid the individuals and whole corps.

TROJANS ROMP TO EASY WIN OVER WHITTIER IN COLISEUM

field line-up in the big games of the season.

Williams runs the team in good fashion, and seems to pick his holes better than Kaer, though the latter has greater speed and is more elusive of foot.

However, the Kaer super elusiveness may be denied by Williams's supporters, who will point to the way the Santa Ana boy ran back punts yesterday, while the Whittier eleven was still fresh and full of vim and vinegar.

Young Don certainly put the fear of something or other in the hearts of the Poet tacklers the way he sped up the field after receiving boots. What he left spread out over the turf must have resembled the general effects of the Florida hurricane.

However, Kaer outscored him in the number of touchdowns, the Red Bluff boy hanging up four while Williams garnered three.

The other touchdowns were accounted for by Bonham, who made two in the last period, Elliott and Badgro, one apiece.

Undoubtedly the most spectacular run of the day was Kaer's 60-yard dash down the field to a touchdown in the third quarter. Receiving a punt, which he fumbled temporarily on his 40-yard line Kaer then streaked down the left side of the gridiron sidestepping, dodging and outrunning the whole Whittier eleven.

Once before Kaer got away with a punt that he probably would have converted into a score but for the speedy Mr. Pendleton of the Whittier last line of defense, Pendleton, who is something of a sprinter, proved that he can run just as fast, if not faster, than Kaer when the Red Bluff boy tried to outspeed him.

POETS ARE WEAK

While U.S.C. exhibited plenty of speed and power Whittier was something of a disappointment. The blocking and tackling of the Poet linemen were weak, and the Trojans just simply smashed right through them. On two of his touchdowns Williams crossed the line with three men ahead of him and nobody touching his interferers. The same thing was true when Kaer made one of his touchdowns. The Trojans didn't waste much time running the ends. In only one or two instances were there wide dashes. The boys took the shorter course and swept straight ahead.

Leo Callands's athletes managed to hold the Trojans to four touchdowns in the first two periods, but in the last two they were brushed ruthlessly aside and went to pieces, and the Trojans made seven more touchdowns.

The opening of the season was delayed somewhat by Morley Drury's kick-offs. First he booted the oval outside, then somebody was offside and it was not until his third trial that the festival officially got under way.

Whittier was unable to gain and Pendleton punted to Williams. U.S.C. took the ball right up the field, but Whittier was stubborn and held on the goal line. However, Pendleton's boot was short and the Trojans were left in scoring territory. Williams shot a beautiful pass to Badgro and the redhead touched the ball to the ground over the goal line for the first touchdown of the year. Drury then added one of the 6 extra points which he contributed to the score by kicking goals after touchdown.

A 30-yard run-back of a punt by Williams and a 25-yard run by Laraneta soon put U.S.C. in the scoring zone again, but Williams's pass to Behrendt was too high, and Williams had to run back another punt 25 yards. Then Drury, in two plays, about the only times he carried the ball all day, packed the pill to the goal line and Williams plowed over.

In passing it might be mentioned that Mister Drury, while being an infrequent ball-toter, was conspicuous on the kick-offs because upon booting the ball he was generally the first man down the field to get the runner.

The third touchdown arrived after Kaer, Max and Lloyd Thomas and Field Thompson had entered the fray. This was in the second quarter. Kaer galloping 25 yards to a score around Whittier's left end behind a perfect bank of interference. Two long runs by Kaer brought the fourth touchdown.

With the score 28 to 0 in U.S.C.'s favor, Coach Jones sent his so-called first team back into the game to start the third period. Two end runs by Williams soon brought another score, and he also accounted for the sixth touchdown, a whole flock of interferers crossing the line with him.

Out went Williams and Heiser, and in came Wheeler and Kaer to take their places. This made no difference in the scoring, for Wheeler grabbed a forward pass which Rassmussen muffed, and ran to the Whittier 17-yard line, whereupon Kaer circled Whittier's left end for a touchdown.

Kaer went out and Elliott came in as the third period closed. The ninth, tenth and eleventh touchdowns were scored in the last fifteen minutes of play, Elliott making one and Herschel Bonham, star of the freshman team last year, a couple. The last score was made when Brice Taylor, the colored guard, recovered a fumble and Bonham successfully smashed the Poet line.

There were a few casualties among the athletes, but the saddest was that incurred by the meaty Mister Francis Daugherty, the distinguished umpire. Francis was caught in a shuffle, and emerged with a charley horse which rendered him unfit for pedestrian or other activities. He was forced to hobble ignominiously to the sidelines and a substitute took his place.

STRELINGER SAYS TITLE GO WOULD FLOP IN CALIFORNIA

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—A return bout between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, as proposed by two Long Beach (Cal.) oil operators, would be a "flop" in California because of the dethroning of the spectacular Jack, in the opinion of Capt. Seth Strelinger, chairman of the Golden State's Boxing Commission.

CAPT. SETH STERLINGER.

A. T. Jergins and J. R. McKinney, the two men reported to have offered a $750,000 purse for such a fight, are unknown to the chairman, and, as far as he knows have never put on a fight of any kind in California.

On his way home to Los Angeles, after attending the championship fight at Philadelphia, Capt. Strelinger stated that several proposals for a meeting between the two men had been made by other promoters prior to the unexpected outcome of the recent one. Since the crown changed hands, however, it would be a poor business venture for any California promoter, he said.

"Jack Dempsey was the greatest heavyweight attraction in the history of the game," Capt. Strelinger said, "and he was the one who drew 130,000 persons into the Sesqui stadium. Tunney will never draw such crowds because he's not the spectacular fighter that Jack was."

The night of the fight the two California oil men were said to have wired the principals offering the purse for a bout to be staged in Los Angeles. Neither of the men have ever been licensed by the California board, according to the chairman.

Asked his opinion of the Philadelphia fight, Capt. Strelinger remarked, "It was rotten."

La Verne Wins Easy Contest From Saints

SANTA ANA, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) Ragged football on the part of the Santa Ana Junior College, especially in the fumbling department, and in the selection of plays, enabled the La Verne College to win from the Dons today by a score of 21 to 7.

The Dunkards scored their first touchdown in the first quarter when Capt. Glick intercepted a forward pass and galloped 55 yards to the goal line, and converted. Glick made another touchdown in the third quarter when a punt by Clapper of Santa Ana rebounded, and was recovered by La Verne on the 7-yard line. Glick bucked the ball across and converted.

La Verne's last touchdown was scored by Glick in the fourth quarter on a series of line bucks. He again converted. Santa Ana's lone marker came just before the whistle blew, when Clapper, on a left-end run, took the ball across and converted. It was the first game for both teams.

and trying to pick up the ball. Cravitz, the visitors' quarter, took advantage of the situation by falling on the ball for a touchdown.

A few minutes before the close of the first period Stanford got the ball on her 32-yard line. Then began a straight march for a touchdown in exactly six downs.

No scoring was done in the second period. As a matter of fact, the play was all in Stanford territory and Warner's second-string men were not getting anywhere and 6 to 6 was the way the teams stood when they walked off the field at half-time.

The score that broke the tie came to Stanford when the final period was about two-thirds over. Murphy caught a punt on his 42-yard line and ran it back 14 yards. Hoffman took the ball three times for a total of 16 yards. Murphy grabbed off 6. Then Hoffman was called on three successive times for a total of 16 yards and the ball was on Caltech's 4-yard line. Hoffman then took it over. Murphy kicked the goal and the score was Stanford, 13; Caltech, 6, and there it stayed to the finish.

otball Race in Southern California Conference Shapes Up as Terrific Battle

FAVORED BUT FOUR RIVALS IN THE RUNNING

OBSERVATIONS
BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER, BILL HENRY

"WELL," said my husky friend from Stanford, as we were reclining beach the other day, "I'm not betting quite so strong on the old alma mater against U.S.C. this year. Of course, if that 2-to-1 money I hear about is floating around I'll grab that and I think Stanford has a good chance against U.S.C. or anybody else, but I'm a little more scared of the Trojans this year, because they've got that guy Herd coaching the varsity with Jones. That guy certainly turns out fighting football teams, and that's all they lacked last year, so I have a hunch they will be tougher this time."

There are more fights and arguments about football floating through the air this year than ever before. Predictions of a bigger and better football season are pretty sure to come true. They tell us out at U.S.C. that the Stanford-U.S.C. game is likely to be sold out completely more than a month before the game takes place, while nearly everybody you meet is figuring on going north for either the California-U.S.C. or the California-Stanford game. And not a few are figuring on taking in the Stanford-Washington fracas, which promises to be a blood-curdling battle after what happened last year.

One reason we know that the football season is here is the presence of Harry Minor, the Nebraska Tornado, who rushes out of hiding around this season of the year and talks Nebraska and football whether you want to hear it or not. Strange to relate, Harry is all het up over some things besides football this year, and in this particular case it happens to be the case of Locke vs. Paddock, sprinters extraordinary. Harry, being, as we said before, from Nebraska, thinks that Locke can whip Paddock any time the two get together, and he thinks Charley is afraid to run against the elongated Cornhusker.

His latest acquisition is a letter from Henry Schulte, the great track coach who developed Scholz and Simpson at Missouri, and Keith Lloyd and Locke at Nebraska. Schulte says "Locke can make any man make records if they ever run together. In fact, I'm inclined to think that Locke can lick any man in the world. He is going to run unattached next year, and I hope to see him do the things that he is capable of, that is, run the 100 in faster time than he has ever made, and smash the 220 all to smithereens." This would seem to dispose of the rumor that Locke was going to play professional ball and indicates that the Nebraska flyer is to continue on the track for another season.

While the Trojans are howling loudly for everybody to watch Don Williams scintillate this year, we hear rumors from every place else. Apparently every college has some particular bright and shining star who is to burst into the limelight and make everybody else look as though they are wearing hobbles. Last year the sensations were Howard Elliott at U.S.C., Walton at S.B.U.C. and Denny at Whittier. Elliott and Walton proved to be "morning glories" who faded badly toward the middle of the season, while Denny managed to be something of a hero most of the year.

Now we hear that Williams is to star, and if he shows anything like the stuff he did as a freshman, he ought to be a bright and shining light. Out at U.C. at L.A. they have a big halfback named Fleming who is said to have all of Walton's elusiveness and about twice as much weight. Reports from Occidental tell of great work by Al Clayes, ex-Stanford freshman star, while Pomona says Harold Merritt is going to be as good as his big brother—which would be plenty.

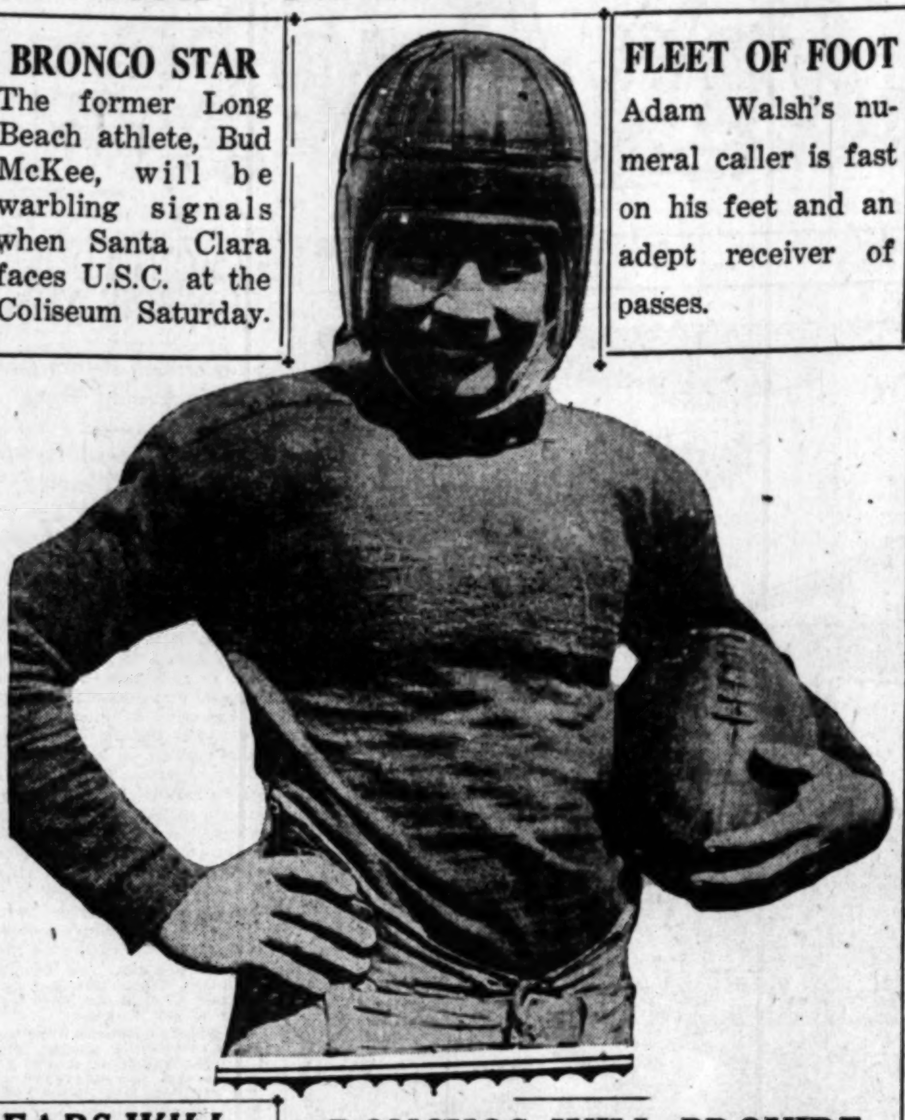
Individual stars are the things that attract crowds, but it is a pretty sad fate to be chosen as the one who is going to shine because if you do—they expect it of you, and if you don't—well, you're just a big bum. Far more fortunate are those who are just expected to get out and play a good steady game, because too much is not expected of them.

FIVE PITCHES, FIVE HITS

Jimmy Dykes, Mack infielder, set a freak batting record on October 2, last year against the Yankees. Dykes hit safely the first ball pitched to him five times, including a homer and triple in his singles. The first four hits were made off Braxton and the fifth off Pennock.

TEN INNINGS, NO HITS

The Coast League record for no-hit, no-run ball is held by Carson, a Portland hurler, who blanked the Angels without a hit for ten innings on July 22, 1909. Only one Angel player reached first base.



BRONCO STAR

The former Long Beach athlete, Bud McKee, will be warbling signals when Santa Clara faces U.S.C. at the Coliseum Saturday.

FLEET OF FOOT

Adam Walsh's numeral caller is fast on his feet and an adept receiver of passes.

BEARS WILL HAVE FRESH GRID TEAMS

Price to Specialize With Speedy Backs; Will Run New Sets Frequently

BERKELEY, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Providing that the plans of Coach "Nibs" Price do not go astray, players carrying the football for the Blue and Gold this season will be fresh at all times.

An even dozen backfield men are being carried with the first and second-string varsity squads. In addition to this, Price also has a half-dozen ends of first-rate caliber who will worry the opposition as pass-receiving threats.

The first-string backfield is comprised of a tough gang, including Capt. Bert Griffin, Dick Blewett, Earl Jabs, Paul Perrin and "Dutch" Clymer, regarded by many as the bright light of the Golden Bear backfield this season. Clymer was a star with the unvanquished freshmen last year. He plays quarterback and does a mean job of punting.

In the second-string backfield are Breckenridge, Cockburn, Evans, Gill, Dixon and Von Hern. The first two men were prominent throughout the babe schedule last season. Breckenridge has a highly polished shiftiness in his favor, while Cockburn, Gill and Dixon will be strong bidders for the first squad because of their line-plunging ability.

Bancroft, Phillips, R. Dougery and Killian compose a quartet of ends with smashing power. Bancroft and Phillips are two of the biggest men seeking to fight for California as regulars. Their hard tackling has recalled for many critics the famous Muller and Berkey combination of another day. Killian was the star and thrill-provider of the Stanford frosh battle of last season. He tallied both California touchdowns.

Missing Stars Daze Sagehen Football Coach

POMONA COLLEGE, Claremont, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Disaster stared Coach Eugene Nixon squarely in the eyes last night and the Pomona football coach is still a bit dazed, albeit unscathed. When the varsity turned out, as it usually does at approximately 3:30, it was noticed that four players weren't among those present. Three finally showed up, and the fourth came around in his civilian clothes and watched the workout. All were hurt.

Duke Neher, half, Ken Pinney, subquarter, Manley Natland, end, and Stew Baird, sub-end, were all unable to scrimmage tonight due to injuries that may incapacitate them for three or four days. Neher is suffering from a badly-bruised shoulder, the muscles having been strained in scrimmage. Natland's foot isn't well enough to use. The muscles in Pinney's right leg are swollen to about twice their usual size, while Baird is out because of a bad arm.

By all rights, all but Baird should be out again by Tuesday or Wednesday, but whether they will be able to scrimmage or not is another thing. Nixon has been driving the squad hard and long and some of the men are beginning to get sore.

LESLIE, ELDRED MET FOR DOUBLE HONORS

Roy Leslie and "Brick" Eldred put up a terrific battle against each other for Coast League two-base hit honors in 1923 and 1924. Eldred won in '23, getting 71 doubles to Leslie's 70, but the present Hollywood first-sacker turned the tables in 1924 when he banged out 73 to Brick's 71.

Paul Waner broke Leslie's record last season when he rattled the boards with a total of 75 two-baggers.

BRONCHOS WILL PROVIDE TROUBLE FOR TROJANS

Adam Walsh Hopes to Produce Set of Ball Packers Similar to Famous Four Horsemen

Shades of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen!

That is what Adam Walsh is planning to present to local grid fans when he leads the Bucking Bronchos from Santa Clara into the Coliseum next Saturday afternoon to mingle with the Thundering Herd from U.S.C.

Walsh has stated that it is not his intention to build his team around any one man but that he hopes to build up a combination of backs all of whom can kick, carry the ball and pass. If he should succeed in this, it would make Santa Clara a dangerous opponent. That was the method of attack used by the famous Horsemen.

A backfield made up of McKee, quarter, Capt. Cassanova and Barsi, halfbacks, and Valine at full would be a triple-threat backfield. All of the men can punt and besides that Bud McKee is an exceptional drop-kicker, having made every try last season. His drop-kick in the U. S. C. game last year from a difficult angle on the 35-yard line was one of the most spectacular plays of the coast season.

Cassanova, Barsi and Valine all average over forty-five yards in practice and Cassanova's ninety-nine-yard punt in the St. Mary's game two years ago is still one of the longest seen on the Pacific Coast.

This being their second year under the Notre Dame system all of these men are proficient in the art of forward passing and it is doubtful whether the new five-yard penalty rule will restrain them.

Walsh recently cut his list of hopefuls from about sixty to forty-five. Walsh is badly in need of an assistant so he cannot afford to waste time with men of but little varsity caliber.

With forty-five good men all fighting hard for berths on the first team Walsh should be able to mold a pretty fair college team with the material at hand.

Following his last year's system Walsh will make use of four complete teams. It is unlikely that he will try to emulate Rockne's system of making a substitution of a complete team at one time, but men from any of his four strings are apt to see service in varsity games. The squad:

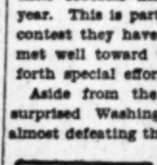
HUSKIES WORKING HARD

Bagshaw to Get Real Line on Squad With Squabble Against Oregon on October 9

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The colleges in the northern end of the Pacific Coast Conference are making a special effort to get their football machines in good running order early in the season this year. This is particularly true of Oregon and Washington, due to the early contest they have scheduled in Portland on October 9. They have usually met well toward the end of the season, so that both schools are putting forth special efforts to get their stride early.

Aside from the fact that Oregon surprised Washington last year by almost defeating the Huskies, it would seem that Coach Bagshaw has nothing to be uneasy about in this game. Washington has most of her old team back, with the exception of Wilson and Elmer Tesreau, while Oregon, although it has a strong group of veteran players at hand, is facing the difficulty of rounding out in a few weeks a style of play under a new coach, Capt. John McEwan.



Enoch Bagshaw

It will take a demonstration of several real competitions to answer the question of whether Washington can hope to repeat with another championship this year. Bagshaw has plainly hinted that, with Wilson and Tesreau out, he considers the outlook far from encouraging.

Bagshaw has always been given to somewhat pessimistic statements in his public announcements, but it is certain that much of the confidence is gone, not only from the Washington coach but from the campus followers at Seattle as well. The Huskies could not possibly have annexed a championship last year without George Wilson, and his loss is just as serious a blow to the team as that felt at Stanford over the departure of Nevers.

Washington's backfield strength this year will be centered in Capt. George Guttormsen at quarter. Guttormsen was no small factor in the Huskies' success last year, and it will give the team a lot of confidence to have such a capable player and field general at the helm. Harold Patton, Wilson's running mate, is back after his old job, and Mike Hanley, two-year veteran, is a likely prospect for the other half, although Sharlin Carroll, freshmen graduate, will have to be considered. Longy Butler, last year freshman star, John Dahlquist and John Strombaugh, who was ineligible last year, and Bill Charleston, who was Tesreau's understudy, are other backfield possibilities. Then there is a possibility that Louis Tesreau, brother of Elmer, will make up scholarship requirements in time to participate in some of the later games. At quarter there is John Geehan, a capable man, to serve another year as an understudy to Guttormsen.

But there is no backfield combination that can be figured from this group that seems to compare with Washington's backs last year. It is next to impossible to plug a hole like that left by Wilson, while the playing combination of Wilson and Tesreau had been functioning for so long that the Huskies will seem like a different organization without them.

BIG TEN TEAMS START SEASONS

Michigan Again Expected to Have Great Squad

Predict Illini to be Strong Despite Red's Loss

Eastern Squads Get Going in Opening Struggles

BY WALTER ECKERSALL

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—After two weeks or more of intensive training, every team of football importance throughout the country will engage in the first struggles next Saturday although a smattering of elevens played their initial contests yesterday.

As in the past these early session contests may result in the proverbial surprises and losers eliminated as contenders for sectional titles. In most cases, however, the supposedly stronger elevens are expected to win handily and at the same time give an idea of their 1926 offensive and defensive strength.

KNUTE ROCKNE

Members of the western conference or Big Ten, will officially open their season but none of the elevens will meet each other. In most cases the coaches look upon the struggles as practice affairs which will fit their teams for the later and important clashes with members of the organization. The squads have been hard at work since September 15 and most of them are expected to play a fair brand of football on the weekend.

MICHIGAN PLAYS

Michigan, the 1925 champion and recognized as one of the best teams in the country, will open against Oklahoma A. and N. at Ann Arbor. The Wolverines are shaping up as one of the most powerful in the Middle West and if they complete the schedule undefeated should be entitled to national championship consideration.

Chicago will play an intersectional game with Florida as an opponent. The game will be played on Stagg Field and the Maroons will have a task on their hands to come out on the long end of the score. Coach Stagg has very few veterans back and must develop a team from mediocre material.

Purdue will journey to Annapolis to meet the Navy in another game of intersectional importance. This game will be watched with interest not alone from a Purdue standpoint but also because the Navy will come into the West to meet the Army in Chicago on November 27. The same interest will follow the Army encounters as thousands of fans in the Middle West are already trying to secure tickets to this social football clash.

Wisconsin, which should be a contender for Big Ten honors, will meet Cornell College of Iowa at Madison. Coach George Little has some players of known ability and if they be supported by others of promise, the Cardinal should make a strong bid for honors.

ILLINI STRONG

Illinois, which should be represented by a better team than the one of last year despite the loss of Grange, will play its first game of the season against Coe College coached by McRay Eby, a resourceful football teacher. Illinois should have one of the best balanced elevens in the Big Ten this year.

Northwestern, with many veterans for a nucleus, will get under way against South Dakota at Evanston. Prospects at the Purple institution are brighter than in any year since the war and indications are Northwestern will be hard to beat providing early season injuries do not overtake some of the stars.

Minnesota, another promising aspirant for the conference championship, will play North Dakota at Minneapolis. Coach Spears has some promising material this season and if it develops as expected the Old Gold and Maroon should be a championship contender.

Ohio State, which has an important early season intersectional game with Columbia in New York City on October 16, will engage Wittenberg at Columbus in its opener. Coach Wiles will be assisted this year by Oberlander, last year's star of the Dartmouth eleven, and Sam William, who coached at Amer in recent years. Prospects are very good at Columbus and Wiles can be depended upon to make the most of the men placed at his disposal.

Iowa, coached again by Burt Ingwersen, will open with Colorado State Teachers at Iowa City. The outlook at Iowa City is not any too bright and Coach Ingwersen has a task on his hands to develop a team which will make a creditable showing.

De Pauw will be Indiana's opponent at Bloomington and a lot of interest will center around this struggle because the Roosters will be coached for the first time by H. O. (Pat) Page, the former Chicago athlete who has been connected with Butler University of Indianapolis in recent years.

IRISH OUT

Notre Dame will meet Beloit on Cartier field and an idea of the strength of Rockne's eleven will be known by nightfall. The Notre Dame coach must depend largely upon the players of last year's squad some of whom showed pleasing possibilities.

Every team in the Missouri Valley conferences will play opponents expected to test the offensive and defensive powe rof the valley elevens. The same is true of the teams in the Pacific Coast conference and those in the South.

Along the Atlantic seaboad, Yale, Harvard, Princeton and all other elevens of note will engage in actual struggle and from now until the curtain drops on the season with the playing of the Army-Navy game in Chicago football will occupy the spotlight as far as our institutions of learning are concerned.

HORNSBY LOSES CROWN

After leading the National League batters for six consecutive seasons, Rogers Hornsby, manager and second-sacker of the St. Louis Cards, was forced to relinquish his crown to "Bubbles" Hargrave, Cincy catcher, this year. However, Hornsby piloted the Cards to St. Louis's first pennant in thirty-eight years so he probably doesn't mind.

Deny Charges of High Cost of Grid Teams

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Travel, equipment, coaching—all the elements that go to make up a college football season—averaged $188.75 for each player in the Big Ten Conference, or $23.30 a single game, in the fall of 1924.

Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner for the universities in the Western Conference and a leading football authority of the country, cited these figures before members of the Collegiate Club today in refutation of certain assertions that the game is becoming alarmingly commercial.

"There are some people," said Maj. Griffith, "who fear that football is becoming commercialized, and that it is a menace to other college interests. It has been stated by one writer on college athletics that 'while it costs $8000 to condition a race horse for a derby, it costs $25,000 to condition, train, equip and put a single football player into a single college game.'

"So for the purpose of learning the average cost in the 'big ten,' a budget analysis was made for the year 1924-25, and it was found that the average cost of training a man for a football game was only $23.30.

"It may be interesting to know how these figures were reached. In that year 2418 varsity and freshmen were trained in the ten conference colleges. This means an average of 241.8 per institution. These universities spent that fall $50,073.19, or an average of $5007.32 on team travel, making the cost per man for traveling, $20.71. The average cost of each college for scouting was $945.40, or $3.91 for each man.

"The average game expense, which included ticket-selling, erecting additional seats, pay of gate men and police and laundry service was $9169.30 or $37.92 for each man. The officials cost $1988.37 or $8.45 each. Printing and advertising cost each university $3151.41, or $12.60 a player. Football equipment and supplies cost $6871.29 or $28.42 for each varsity and freshman athlete. The average expense of providing medical care for the men was $1749.03 for each university, or $7.55 a man. The medals and awards amounted to $919.58, or $3.40 each.

"Miscellaneous expenses, including equipment repairs, rain and liability insurance amounted to $1160, or $4.88 a man. The average cost of caring for the grounds and maintaining them was $1572.49, or $6.91 a player. The coaching cost of each institution was $13,057.55, or $54 for each individual for ten weeks' instruction."

Loss of Boone and Cole Hits Missions Hard

The Mission Monks will be in a weakened condition for the remainder of the season with two of their leading stars, Ike Boone and Bert Cole, out of the game in the last three weeks of play.

Boone, who provides the Monks with most of their punch and is their leading hitter, was lost to the club when he suffered a fractured jaw when hit by a thrown ball in Oakland last week. Cole, the Missions' star southpaw who has won twenty-eight games this year, has been suspended for the balance of the season for a run-in with Manager Bill Leard. Cole, who has been sold to the White Sox, asked to be relieved in a recent game at Seattle and when Leard refused to take him out the big portsider called the pilot a "bush manager."

POMONA CAGERS OUT

POMONA COLLEGE, Claremont, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Capt. Eddie Millet will call Pomona basketball players out this week for light workouts to continue until football season ends. Inasmuch as Colvin Heath and Earl Merritt are the official varsity casaba coaches and at the same time teaching the boys all about football, the squad will be under Millet's tutelage.

TIGER ELEVEN, CARDS TANGLE

Contest Tops Off Important Grid Battles

Whittier, and La Verne Meet in Torrid Game

Pomona Opens Season Against San Diego State

With the preliminary warming up contests over, a week of ironing out the kinks lies ahead of the Southern Conference grid squads before they plunge into the heavy work. Several potent games are on tap next Saturday which should furnish some idea of the teams' relative strength and what can be expected of them.

ALBERT A. EXENDINE

First and foremost among the tilts, although not a conference battle, is the Occidental, Stanford clash at Palo Alto. As the Tigers have a fairly heavy fighting outfit that is expected to capture the conference championship this season, the tilt is attracting a great deal of interest.

Although Coach Exendine is not harboring any illusions concerning Occidental's chances with Pop Warner's warriors, the Tigers are expected to give the Cards better than a good work-out. Oxy boasts of the best backfield material in a number of years, but Exendine is still experimenting with his material, and many men who were conceded first-team places are playing on the second and third squads.

With Gregory, Al Klein, Mishkin, Fusco and a flock of other veteran backfield men back, Exendine should have little trouble picking a winning combination.

While Oxy is visiting Palo Alto, Whittier, another widely heralded outfit, travels over to La Verne for a game that should be exceeding close and interesting. La Verne with fifteen letter men back from the powerful team of last year should give the Poets a hot afternoon, although Leo Calland's men will be at the long end of the odds.

San Diego State, which, along with La Verne, is playing its first year of conference football, will open Pomona's season at Pomona. The Aztecs should be strong enough to force Coach Nixon's hand and give the fans a good look at the team expected to be the dark horse of the conference season.

Caltech has a game scheduled with the tough little Christian College eleven. The Vermont-avenue squad has played several close preseason contests and appears to have a scrapping team capable of giving the Engineers a good workout.

NATIONAL SQUASH TOURNEY ON SOON

The national senior A.A.U. squash singles and doubles tournament will be held at the Hollywood Athletic Club starting on October 4 and will continue for four days.

The senior matches will find players like Dick Hinckley, defending his senior title, and Dan Jones present holder of the junior championship, Tom Gallery, junior champ for 1923, David Butler, runner-up in the senior event last year, Bill Stone of the Dallas Athletic Club, Bill Tilden, Vincent Richards, Howard Kinsey, A. R. Chapin, Jr., battling each other and the competition will be fast enough to make it a great event.

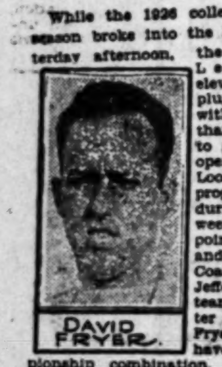
DEMOCRAT TEAM DEVELOPS FAST

Fryer's Squad to be Tough Football Outfit

Poly Still Looks Good With Three Weeks to Go

Outlook of League Elevens Remains Unchanged



DAVID FRYER.

While the 1926 collegiate football season broke into the limelight yesterday afternoon, the local City League prep elevens are still plugging along with a little less than three weeks to go before the opening games. Looking over the progress made during the past week, one salient point stands out and that is this. Coach Fryer's Jefferson football team looks better every week. Fryer may not have the championship combination, but he has a mighty tough football team.

It still looks like a Polytechnic year with Coach Voyle Brennan getting the best out of his big fellows. Under Eddie Rich's direction the green Roman material is shaping up nicely, and Los Angeles may be a lot better than advance publicity might indicate. In fact Coach Rich would like nothing better than to have his team underestimated, and then pull a few surprises. Coach Frank Hess is working hard with the Franklin squad, and the Printers may also be in the money this season, although the prospects are none too bright. Manual Arts is up and coming under Jim Blewett's hands, and the Artisans remain a potentially strong aggregation. Hollywood, despite an annual string of troubles should have a fighting aggregation if nothing else. Coach Vic Kelley is working under a severe handicap, but the season ahead is not all darkness for the Crimson.

Coming back to Jefferson, one important change has been made that may be for better, or for worse. That is the shifting of Capt. Noel Scott, who played a brilliant game at end last year, to the quarterback job. As Scott is one of the best punters in the loop, as well as being a passer and ball toter of no mean ability, it is probably Fryer's idea to make a triple threat man out of the lanky end.

Besides Fryer has two good men at ends in Bradley and "Red" Dobbins, a graduate of Clarence Ebers's lightweights. Although Dobbins lacks weight, he makes that up and then some in fight and head work. A natural football player, the youngster should make a name for himself in the wing berth before the season closes. The Democrats will have a husky line in the center with Didion, Briggs, and "Buck" Buchanan back at tackle and guard. Capt. Jenkins will be missed from center, but Fryer has several good subs.

All of the preps have staged a number of scrimmages, and several important preseason games are on tap within the next week or so, which should furnish a better line on the various team's ability under fire.

BRUIN MENTOR SETS NEW FAD

BERKELEY, Sept. 25.—Having already established himself as the football coach extraordinary through his radio talks every Friday evening from a San Francisco station and also through his designing of the Golden Bear football uniform, Coach "Nibs" Price is marking himself down in the books of history as a fad setter.

While coaching his footballers, Price wears a baseball cap. His lead has been followed by Don Nichols and "Fat" Clark.

BEARS HAVE FIFTY OUT FOR CREWS

Freshmen Get Particular Attention; Many Stars in Turnout

BERKELEY, Sept. 25.—A formidable swarm of fifty young giants turned out Monday for California's first varsity crew practice. Among those present to greet Coach Ky Ebright were twenty-five men who made the trip to Poughkeepsie last spring.

Both Ebright and Russ Nagler, the freshman coach, have been busy with the frosh the last month or so. Ebright wanted to make certain that the peagreeners were given a good start along the Bear system of stroking before he turned his thoughts to the varsity huskies.

Some letter men who have returned to confound Washington University and other strong institutions of the country are Von Tillow, Hutchinson, Maynard Toll, Hoover, Berlin and Moe. Other big fellows of experience who have once more flocked together under the Blue and Gold banner are Beck, Valentine, Dunwoody, Rydlander, Dresser and Cercon. Ken Holland is one of the few valuable rowers who did not show up this season.

As Ebright has considerably better than an average return of letter men, and other formerly prominent rowing schools have lost a majority of their best men, including Washington, principal Bear rival of the estuary, a heavy showing is expected from the Blue and Gold varsity during competition this spring.

Brooklyn Buys Statz; Ex-Buc May Be Leader

Some of those on the inside of the baseball game believe that the Brooklyn Dodgers' recent purchasing of "Jigger" Stats is a sure sign that Max Carey will be named as manager of the Robins next season. "Uncle Wilbert" Robinson, present skipper, has long threatened to resign as pilot of the Robins, but so far has failed to do so except for a brief time when he let Zack Wheat guide the club.

Carey, whom the Robins grabbed for the waiver price when the Pittsburgh Pirates let him go for his part in the asserted dissension on the Bucs, is a center fielder and so is Statz. The wise ones claim Carey will quit playing and be a bench manager of the Robins when Robinson steps out.

YOUNG CORBETT IN WIN OVER FERACI

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Young Corbett, Fresno southpaw, was given the judges' decision over Charlie Feraci, New Orleans lightweight, in the ten-round main event here last night.

It was a rousing fight from start to finish, with Feraci getting in some telling short rights to the head and body. Ringside critics gave four rounds to the New Orleans boy, three to Corbett, with the other three even.

INDIANS TRACK STARS TO TRY FOR OLYMPICS

By reason of the great performances this year by the Indian tribes of the Zunis and Hopis athletes on the Arizona and New Mexico reservations in distance as well as sprinting events, it is probable Uncle Sam will present several natives as members of the 1928 Olympic track squad. In recent intertribal meets held in Gallup, N. M., the following performances were recorded: marathon race over twenty-six miles 385 yards, won by Andrew Chimeny (Zuni) in 2h. 51m. 59 3-5s.; ten-mile race won by Ray Honakukui (Hopi) in 59m. 29 3-5s.; five-mile run won by Ray Honakukui (Hopi) in 28m. 41s.; one-mile run won by John Zansa (Hopi) 4m. 54 3-5s. 100-yard dash won by Stewart Tubineghthey in 11 [illegible]-5s.; 220-yard dash won by Roy Cherespory (Hopi) in 26 3-5s.

PICK PASADENA REGULARS

Coach Milholin Selects First String as Coast League Grid Season Looms Near at Hand

Coach Harry B. Milholin, of the Pasadena High School football squad has about selected his first-string men. Stiff scrimmage given the past two days has brought the kinks out of his preps and has developed some new material both in backfield and line.

Maxey, Shove, Beck and Reynolds, it seems, have landed in the backfield, Shove calling signals and Beck and Maxey seem best as backs. Reynolds, playing fullback the last few evenings, has displayed some kicking ability, and is favored to start against Huntington Park there. The passing of Reynolds has also greatly improved. Mallory has been shifted from tackle to the backfield, and then to right end, looking better at the latter position than in any other. He is especially good running down punts. Griffin, on the other end, is good. Both these ends weigh about 170 pounds, but are remarkably fast. Capt. Ashton played a high-class game as tackle, and McNeil and Stevens both got a chance at the other side. Hess, Richardson and Barnett are working in the guard positions, and Cole seemed good at center, although Anger was used, also.

SETS CASTING RECORD

Fred Arbogast of Akron, O., established a new world's record in fly-casting at the annual meet of the National Association of Scientific Anglers' Clubs, held recently in Chicago, when he sent the quarter-ounce bait 240 feet. Walker Newcomb, Buffalo, N. Y., holds the half-ounce record of 302 feet.

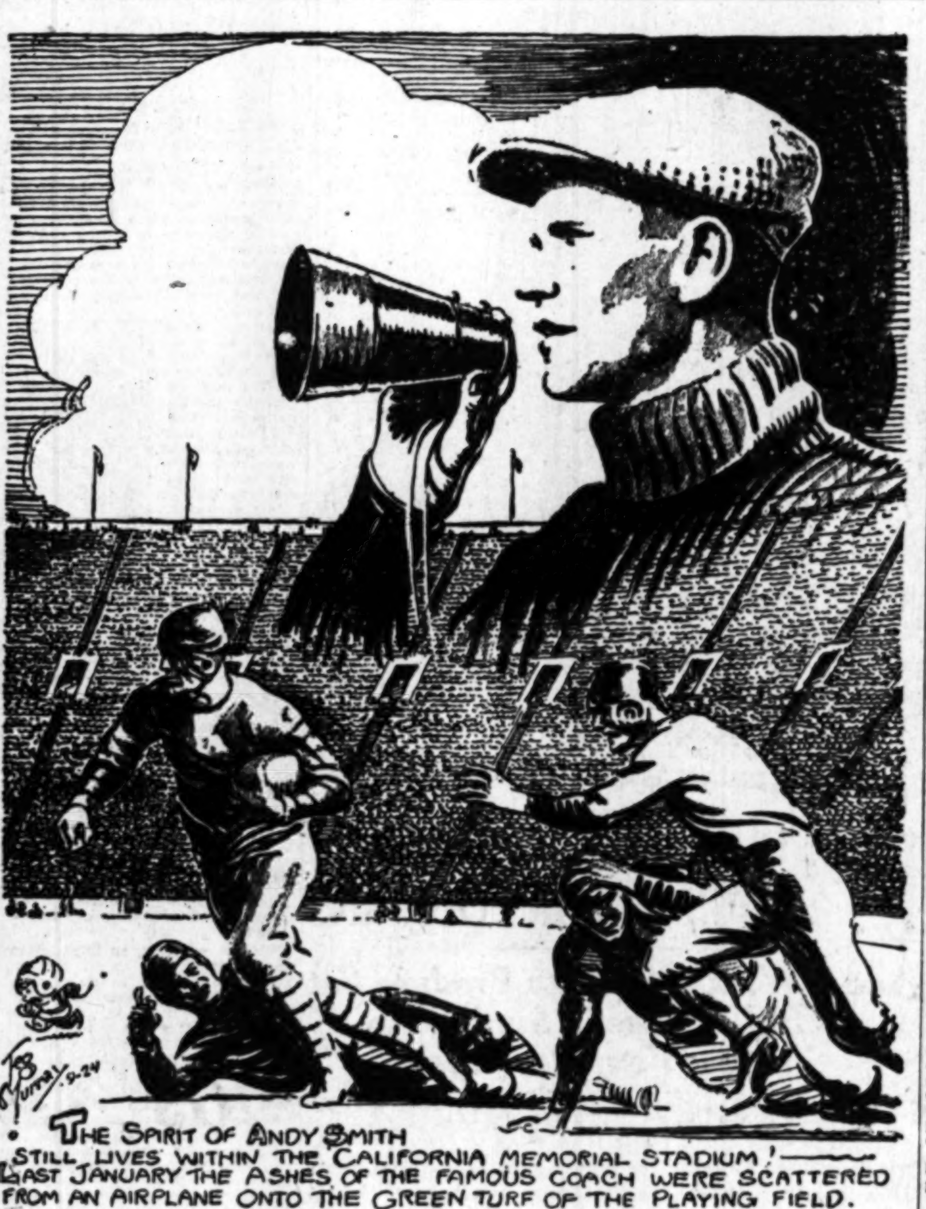
BEAR FROSH SQUAD HUSKY

BERKELEY, Sept. 25.—As is the good fortune of their varsity brothers, freshman football men of the University of California are able to proffer their coach, Clint Evans, as fine a string of backfield material as it is believed any Coast Conference mentor will have this season.

Some of the State's finest ex-prep stars are in the collection that is daily working out under Evans, and his high-powered assistants. Among the thirty-five backfield aspirants are Bruno, star halfback of Bakersfield's State title squad last year; Lom, of Mission, Iverson, from Napa and Thornton from Hollister.

Two leading bidders for the quarterback's job have landed in the front ranks in the persons of Etsan and Rice. Evans has enough linesmen to capture Mexico City, complaining citizens and all.

ANDY'S SPIRIT LIVES - - - BY FEG MURRAY



THE SPIRIT OF ANDY SMITH STILL LIVES WITHIN THE CALIFORNIA MEMORIAL STADIUM!— LAST JANUARY THE ASHES OF THE FAMOUS COACH WERE SCATTERED FROM AN AIRPLANE ONTO THE GREEN TURF OF THE PLAYING FIELD.

Copyright, 1926, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

When the University of California football team plays its home games this fall in its magnificent memorial stadium, a most unusual as well as a most dramatic situation will occur. Those of the team who played last year or the year before and learned their football from the late Andy Smith, will literally be playing in the ashes of their beloved coach!

Truly the spirit of Andrew Latham Smith will hover over the beautiful playing field of the million-and-a-half-dollar edifice there in Strawberry Canyon, for the earthly remains of that great coach, in the form of his ashes, were scattered on the green turf between the goal posts from an army airplane piloted by a friend of the dead leader last January, while the bells of the campus campanile tolled the hour of noon and a small crowd stood bareheaded in the empty and silent stadium.

Capt. Griffin, Earl Jabs, Dick Blewett, and other stars of Andy Smith's last team will fight as never before, once their cleats bite the sod upon which the ashes of their friend and tutor lie, for they cannot help but be inspired by the fact that the playing field is Andy Smith now, and that he is still around somewhere, kneeling at the sidelines with dipper of water in his hand, or barking out directions through his little megaphone.

Coach "Nibs" Price, who knows the Smith system of coaching better than any living man, will be there to carry on as Andy's successor. But the fire and spark of the tall, raw-boned "Big Swede" will be greatly missed, and "Nibs" Price will have to be a patient, tireless, inspired coach to equal the work of his predecessor, whose teams went undefeated for five years at the University of California.

FOR GENTLEMEN ONLY

The American Soccer League, the twelve-club professional organization of the East and New England, finds and suspends players for ungentlemanly conduct and also uses five officials to conduct the games. In addition to the referee, two officials run the line and two others are goal judges. A player sent off the field of play is kept out of the game five, ten or fifteen minutes with the goal referee keeping time. So that in some games the match may start with a player or more missing.

MONROVIA CHANCES GOOD

Hobs Adams Developing Fighting Squad; Wild Cats Meet Covina in Opening Game of Season

The Monrovia High School Wildcats under the leadership of Harold (Hobbs) Adams, former athletic star of the University of Southern California, are scheduled to open up the second year of the San Gabriel Valley League, when they tackle Coach Wallace (Chief) Newman's 1925 Southern California football champs on their home grounds in Monrovia.

This game promises to be a battle from the start to the finish. The Covinans have a slight edge over the Monrovians because they have the most of their last year's team on the eleven this season while the Wildcats had but a few letter men remain over for this season.

Coach "Chief" Newman and his Covina Colts are feared the most by the Wildcats, and Covina, it is understood, fears Monrovia as their toughest opponents. Covina, having the most of their squad returning from last year's Southern California champs, seems to have an edge over the rest of the San Gabriel Valley League contenders.

Coach Adams has had four or five kickers out practicing nightly in order that the Wildcat squad will have a man able to boost some high twisting spirals into the opponent's territory. The heavyweight men start out each night with a little charging on the charging dummy. The boys then snap into signal practice, usually lining up against each other, developing defensive as well as offensive plays. Hobbs has two bands tearing through each other, every fellow on the jump every minute.

The lightweights under the leadership of Coach Pfaff are being put through some stiff workouts each night. Pfaff comes to the Monrovia institution from El Monte, where he coached last season. He seems to be getting very promising results out of his 130s, and will make it hard for the rest of the San Gabriel Valley League contenders.

The season is young yet and the prospects for the three Monrovia High teams in the S.G.V.L. look very promising so far.

Coach Harry Campbell's Montebelloans will be strong contenders with six letter men returning. Citrus Union appears as the dark horse of the San Gabriel Valley League. Last year's squad finished in second place and lost to the Covina Colts by a close margin.

Little is known about the rest of the members of the league, Excelsior, Downey and Puente, the first two schools being new members in the league, but all are expected to give good accounts of themselves before the season is far advanced.

Pomona Will Place Light Team in Race

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) Sept. 25 (Exclusive)—Eugene Nixon, strategist of the first water, who shows ambitious young men on this campus the ancient and honorable game of football, will have a light team this year. Consequently it may be logically supposed that Mr. Nixon will employ fast, open-field tactics, rather than the battering, line attacks that are the feature of some teams which weigh a lot, but don't move so very fast.

Three men weigh 180 pounds or more on this year's Sagehen eleven. Fritz Hezmalhalch, tackle; Rodecker, guard, and Neher, half, are the three big boys. All the rest fall down the list to Manildi, quarter, Pinney, end, and Bell, end, who are in the neighborhood of 150 pounds. Here's how the squad shapes up:

Name and Position.	Weight.	Age.	Exp.

ALL-JEWISH BACKFIELD

Coach Gil Dobie of Cornell may present an all-Jewish backfield on the Big Red eleven, which he expects to make a good showing. Harold Gassner and Lester Rosenberg, veteran halfbacks, are expected to retain their positions with Irving Cohn possible fullback and Morty Beck, quarterback.

BELMONT LOOKS FOR FINE YEAR

Six Letter Men Return from Championship Team

Weight and Speed Feature Hilltopper Eleven

Fraternity Trouble Ruins Fairfax Prospects

Thirty-five candidates have reported to Varsity Coach Joe Hollinger at Belmont High School to defend the league championship won by the Hilltoppers last season. Six letter men drew suits, six others have seen service, while the rest just at present are getting on speaking terms with the pigskin. Letter men are Capt. George Grodinsky, tackle; Jim Rousseau, halfback; Charles Bennet, halfback; Harry Cohn, tackle; Jack Byers, guard; Francisco Alonzo, center. They are all consistent players and little else than a "beef trust." Other likely players, either new or having some experience, are Stewart Van Sickle, Herman Ginsburg, Howard Tipton, Art Byram, Bill Campbell, Don Collins, George Shambeck and Jack Petty. Weight and speed is the keynote of the foregoing.

All players have tried some position or other in practice. The quarterback position, vacated by Provero, has narrowed down to Jim Rousseau, who played halfback last year. Eddie Nave will do the reserve work at barking signals. Alonzo, Byers and Cohn are expected to do heavy duty on the line. Outside of this it is up to Coach Hollinger to pick the Loyola starters when the Green and Black plays the Lions on the 28th inst.

Howard Tipton is the local dark horse. In tackling practice recently he ripped a leg off the tackling dummy. Tipton is a track man, tips the beam in the vicinity of 160 pounds, is 15 years of age, and has three years to play football. His experience on the team last year just fell short of earning him a monogram. Others have taken on a decided shade of dark, but Howard Tipton will probably do most of the damage in defense and center plays.

FREMONT SCHEDULES PRACTICE TILT

A game with the Woodrow Wilson High School team of Long Beach played at Fairfax on October 1 opens the football season for Fairfax. Although, due to fraternity connections, practically all of last year's active squad have been barred, the gaps so far as numbers are concerned are well filled. Forty new men are out for the squad. To date no position on the team is cinched, but will be open for competion throughout the season.

The finest turf football field in Southern California is being completed at Fairfax High School. The new field will not be finished until late in the season, but the football games scheduled to be played at Fairfax will be played on a temporary field in the southeast corner of the grounds.

GRIFFIN GOT START ON EIGHTH ELEVEN

BERKELEY, Sept. 25.(Exclusive)—The bottom of the ladder is a long way down, but there are those who understand the system of climbing to the top rung. Take the case of Bert Griffin, captain of the University of California football team, as an illustration.

When Griffin commenced his playing for the Blue and Gold as a freshman, he was one of the many "stars" of the eighth squad. Promotions did not come any too fast. There were numberless varsity games when Griffin spent most of the afternoon on the bench.

Largely through his stellar work in the big game with Stanford last season and by virtue of other fine showings in the pinches, Griffin was elected to lead the Bears. There are those grid experts who believe that Griffin, three years ago an eighth-squad peagreener, will rate as one of the outstanding backfield men of the Pacific Coast during the coming season.

BRUIN SCRAPPER NEVER DEFEATED

BERKELEY, Sept. 25.—Sammy Gold, captain of the University of California boxing team, and incidentally brother of the pugilistically famous Jimmy Duffy, has never been defeated in a fistic encounter throughout his college career. Gold hopes to lead the Bruin mitt experts to great heights this season with several experienced glove flingers back at school.

WHITTIER PROSPECTS PROMISING

Seven Letter Men Back for Poet Prep Team; Practice Sessions Feature

WHITTIER, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—With seven letter men returning, Coach Don Douglas is looking forward to a good year at Whittier High. Out of the seven returning men four are working with the backfield placing most of the work on the development of the line. Differing with past years the Poets are planning on having a fast light line with a moderate sized backfield.

Although a number of changes will be made before the Moors open up in their first league game with Pasadena on October 14, the best bets in the backfield are Hill calling signals, Pentleton and Rich at halfs, and Crooks at full. On the line Hoosey and McGory at tackles and Boster at guard are the returning men. Turner and McMasters, two light but fighting prosperts, are making strong bids for the tackle positions.

Whittier opened their practice season working out with the Whittier College squad. Friday they traveled to Covina to tangle with Chief Newman's squad. Next Friday they will entertain the Fullerton Jaysee team at home, ending their practice games with Monrovia on October 7.

The Poets now boast of one of the best turf fields in the Coast League.

HANFORD LEGION TO HAVE GRID ELEVEN

HANFORD, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The Legionnaires of the San Joaquin Valley are going to put a lot of pep into football during the season just opening up. The team of Hanford Post, which made an excellent record last year, has just entered the newly formed Valley Football League and has appointed William Gilber coach. Men not veterans can get on the Hanford team, which begins practice next Sunday morning. The teams in the new Valley Football League will be from posts in the following named cities: Visalia, Hanford, Porterville, Dinuba, Exeter and Fresno. A schedule of games will soon be announced by a committee having the matter in charge.

BEAR GRIDDERS ARE STRONG FOR GRAPPLING

BERKELEY, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Since Capt. Bert Griffin and Roy Niswander, guard, both of the University of California football varsity, have openly asserted themselves as favoring wrestling as a conditioning exercise, Jimmy Dixon, for the past three years a great star with California elevens, has come forward in favor of bag punching.

Dixon has made unusual progress with the punching bag. He is so proficient in "striking up a tune," in fact, that L. G. Wentner, punching instructor at the university, is considering starring him in several exhibitions. Wentner reports that most football stars quickly acquire the knack of bag punching.

NAME BEAR CREW

BERKELEY, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—A temporary first boat has been selected by Russ Nagler, coach of the Bruin freshman rowing crew. Those named to the first shell are Wall, Workman, Barovetto, Smith, Martin, Collins, Daily and Cherry. Most of the frosh crew is put through a stiff practice of some two or three miles of rowing on the Oakland eustary daily.

POMONA EXPECTS STRONG CAGE SOUAD WITH THREE VETS BACK

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Three letter men, a few good varsity subs and the entire freshmen team of last year, will be out for the Pomona football team when Coach Colvin (Beefy) Heath sounds the call within the next six weeks. Wilson, forward, and Jesson, guard, were the only ones lost by graduation.

"BEEFY" HEATH

Heath is looking forward to a successful season again this year. His quintet was defeated only by Whittier and Southern Branch last year and Beefy is of the opinion that the material on tap for him will be better than before.

Capt.-elect Eddie Millet, the long, rangy center; Herb Osborne, forward, and Harold Merritt, guard, are the three letter men. In addition, Lew Patton, who was playing regular forward last year, until forced out on account of grades, is coming out and should cinch his position.

The main struggle will center around guard. Jim Felton and Grid Meade were varsity subs last year, while Morin, Hagmann and Alvord, coming up from the frosh team are all hot after the same job, so whoever gets it should be good. Other players coming up from the 1926 frosh team, which lost but one game, are Shannon, center; Ritter and Wilkins, forwards, and Mills, forward.

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25.—San Fernando High School eleven faces the prospect of going against Burbank in the first official game of the season, October 15, with seasoned linemen, but a weak backfield, according to Jack Hughes, coach. GENE GREETED BY SHRIEKING AT TRIUMPHANT HOMECOMING

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Shrieking a wild paean of praise and affection, one of the most vociferous hordes of sport lovers ever to welcome a conquering hero milled in Pennsylvania station today when Gene Tunney, the new heavyweight champion of the world, came back to his own. He arrived at noon. For three hours the crowd had been collecting to cheer the Greenwich Village boy who wrested the world's title from Jack Dempsey. Traffic was stopped for blocks around the station. "Gene is coming," was the shout from every lip.

Then the new champion, the only heavyweight titleholder ever to claim New York as his native city, battled his way into a closed car and the triumphant parade to City Hall started.

"Tunney Tunney! Tunney!" A mighty roar arose. Wave on wave, it carried down the packed avenue, as the cavalcade bearing Tunney plowed through Greenwich Village down to City Hall, where Mayor Walker, another Greenwich Village boy, waited to welcome the conqueror home.

Mr. Alexander McHardy is giving the solution below to sustain the original terms. To the first one to prove a Black win Mr. Hardy will present a copy of Banks's "Scientific Checkers."

Black 3, 12; Kings 10, 27.
White 8, 19, 20; King 7.

VITALITY INCREASED

Article CCXII.

The human body is made up of millions of cells, and all of these cells should possess vital force. When they do they prevent disease germs from lodging in the body. When they do not, it is comparatively easy for germs to invade and undermine the system.

The person who preserves his vital force has plenty of energy, good health and finds life well worth living.

The life cells are changing every day, and their vital power varies from time to time. It is possible to store up extra force in these cells but usually it is allowed to diminish, especially after a certain age.

The power in these cells depends upon the kind of food eaten, the exercise indulged in, the amount of rest taken to replace the energy consumed and the kind and quality of air breathed, but the kind of food with its digestion and assimilation is the foundation of vitalizing energy in these cells.

Thanks to the many food experimenters, we can tell the amount of vital power that man can derive from certain food, before he eats it. Menus can be arranged so as to supply the necessary cell salts, nuclein and vitamines, in just the quantities of these elements that each person needs. The amount will of course, depend on the size of the person, the work he does, etc.

The person that possesses his full share of vital forces need not be afraid of disease. If its germs enter his system they find no place to lodge and are carried out again. Just as long as his cells are fully charged with vital energy no disease can gain a permanent foothold in his system. The vital force will simply destroy all disease germs as fast as they attack vital organs of the body.

If your system is supplied with the vital foods, you can expend a natural amount of vital energy without noticing its loss or feeling unduly fatigued.

It is really not difficult to keep the vital energy in the cells, if you select and combine the proper foods, take proper exercise, breathe correctly and properly adjust yourself to your environment.

Carlson is also a swimmer and will probably take part in the conference swimming meet.

RISKO TO BOX HUFFMAN

Joe Levy Signs Johnny to Tackle Sailor in Main Event at Olympic Auditorium on October 12

Joe Levy, matchmaker of the Olympic Auditorium, last night announced that he had signed Johnny Risko of Cleveland and Eddie Huffman for a bout at the Grand-avenue arena October 12. Both men are in the light-heavyweight class.

Risko is the chap, who a few months ago gave Paul Berlenbach a real lacing at Madison Square Garden when Paralyzing Paul held the light-heavyweight title. Risko came in a few pounds heavier than Berlenbach, so the title did not exchange hands.

The Cleveland fighter is also said to have beaten Gene Tunney before the latter attained his present prominence.

Huffman has not fought here since he was beaten by Tiger Flowers, the middleweight king, in a spectacular battle in which the ex-sailor floored the negro title-holder with a terrific punch and then tired so badly he was unable to finish his opponent.

Levy said the Risko-Huffman match is one of several big battles which he has planned for the Olympic Auditorium during the winter months.

MANY STARS FOR SOCCER

The Bethlehem Steel Company soccer team, holders of the National Cup, will have availab : two sets of forwards to present during the American League and National Cup contests. Archie Stark is the center forward of the new combination Manager Luther Lewis will depend upon, the same as last year.

NAMES BABY AFTER TUNNEY

Los Angeles claims the honor of naming the first baby after the new heivyweight champion. He is Joseph Tunney Salas, born shortly after the radio announced that James Joseph "Gene" Tunney had defeated Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight championship of the world in Philadelphia. The proud father, Joe Salas, is a protege of George Blake and Fidel La Barba's stablemate. Salas meets Bobby La Salle at Vernon a week from Tuesday flight in the semi-wind-up to the La Barba-Brown battle. The new arrival has upset Joe's training somewhat.

Why Overland's amazing Price Cuts are possible

—on the two most successful cars of their size and price class

Retail sales during July and August were the largest in Willys-Overland history. Over 39,000 cars were sold in these 2 months.

The original Whippet production schedule laid out in July called for 500 cars a day. Within 60 days it has been increased to 650. And now, at these amazing new low prices we anticipate a volume of 1000 Whippets a day—and from every present indication it will be quickly attained.

Sales of the Overland Six have also been gaining in tremendous volume. Over 60,000 were made last year. Each month sees another record broken. And at these startling, low prices we believe Overland Six production will reach 100,000 this year.

Big volume makes low prices possible. Low prices bring big volume. This in brief is the economic reason behind this amazing price reduction.

If orders are placed at once prompt deliveries can be made. The time to buy is NOW!

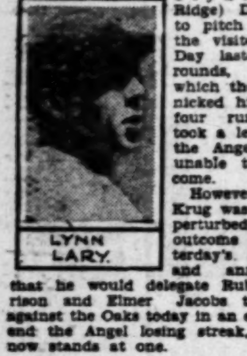
Oaks Finally Win One From Angels, 6 to 4; Cards Lose to Giants, but What of

TWO HOMERS BY LARY AID IN UPSET OF KRUG CREW

Buzz Arlett Also Wallops One Out of Lot With Man on; Clyde Day Fails to Puzzle Visitors

BY BOB RAY

It has been said that it's a long worm that has no turning, so Ivan Howard's Oaks, who are neither worms nor exceptionally long, turned on Marty Krug's league-leading Angels and finally won a ball game, tripping up the Seraphs by a 6-to-4 score. The victory gave the Acorns their second win out of eight games with the Seraphs, so you can see that it was about time for them to put on their turning act.



LYNN LARY.

Skipper Krug, probably figuring that the Oaks were due to turn, helped the act along by sending Clyde (Pea Ridge) Day in to pitch against the visitors. Mr. Day lasted four rounds, during which the Oaks nicked him for four runs and took a lead that the Angels were unable to overcome.

However, Mr. Krug was greatly perturbed at the outcome of yesterday's struggle and announced that he would delegate Rube Yarrison and Elmer Jacobs to twirl against the Oaks today in an effort to end the Angel losing streak, which now stands at one.

CONTINUE CAMPAIGN

The home-run campaign opened by the Angels and Oaks in Friday's twin bill continued unabated, but the Acorn athletes did all the continuing. Lyn Lary, flashy Oakland shortstop, led the latest attack on pedestrians in the neighborhood of Wrigley Field by clouting a couple of homers. Buzz Arlett swatted out the other homer of the afternoon, his drive coming in the first inning with Gene Valla on the paths.

Howard Craghead, youthful Fresno flinger, hurled the first four frames for the Oaks, yielding two runs in the first inning. Ivan Howard became uncertain as to Craghead's ability to hold the enemy and sent in Joe Oeschger at the start of the fifth to finish the job. Tex Weathersby, young Angel southpaw who recently returned from a summer's seasoning in the Montana Copper League, hurled the last five rounds for the Krugmen and got by in fine shape until the ninth when the Oaks put over their final two runs.

An error by Johnny Mitchell put Gene Valla on base in the first and the wide throw was converted into a couple of runs by the enemy when Arlett homed into the bleachers after the side should have been retired.

The Angels got those two right back in their half, an error by Arlett helping along the local cause. Statz reached second when Arlett muffed his fly and scored on Staley's single to right. Weis sacrificed Staley to second and Gale came home on singles by Taitt and Ray Jacobs.

PUT OVER ANOTHER

Oakland put over another in the third, when four singles were bunched off Day's offerings. Baker lined to Johnny Mitchell with the sacks full and the Seraph shortstop turned the drive into a double play to prevent any more scoring in the inning. Lary's first homer, a terrific clout over the left center-field wall, accounted for the Oaks' fourth run off of Day in the fourth inning.

Los Angeles nicked Oeschger for a digit in the fifth, when, after two were out, Taitt singled and romped home on Jacobs's two-base drive against the bleacher screen.

From this point on the scoring ceased until the ninth, when Weathersby weakened. Lary opened the inning with a home run over the right-field screen. Oeschger also scored when he singled, reached second on the hit when Staley dropped Weis's throw, took third on Valla's infield tap, and socred on Arlett's single.

The final Angel marker came in the home half of the ninth. Brazill, batting for Weathersby, was hit by a pitched ball, and made the circuit on two infield outs and Weis's single to center. Score:

FT. WORTH ANNEXES MOST "DIXIE SERIES"

The Fort Worth Cats, managed by Jakie Atz, have won the "Dixie Series" five out of the six times it has been played. The series brings together the Texas League and Southern Association winners. The Cats won the Texas pennant six years in a row, starting in 1920 and winning every season up to the present, Dallas having copped this year's flag.

Fort Worth trimmed Little Rock in 1920 and won from Memphis in the following year. Mobile trimmed the Cats in 1922, but the next three series went to Fort Worth—New Orleans, Memphis and Atlanta being the victims.

RED SLUGGERS LEAD CIRCUIT

Hargraves and Christensen Show Way to Rivals

Manush Leads Ruth in Race for American Honors

Uhle Leading Twirler With Twenty-six Victories

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Closing games of the majors season find two Cincinnati Reds in a neck-and-neck race for the 1926 individual batting championship of the National League.

"BUBBLES" HARGRAVES.

Sunday's final efforts may juggle the official figures somewhat, but well out in front are "Bubbles" Hargraves, veteran catcher, and Walter Christensen, St. Paul's Association outfielder, who found a regular place in the Reds' line-up when Bressler had to retire.

Christensen has had an excellent first year as a majors regular and is in a fair way to finish with an average around .350, while he would top the 1925 Association season with a .325 percentage. Hargrave is well ahead of his last year's performance, crowding .360, where he finished the previous season at an even .300.

WANER CLOSE

Two Pirates are ahead in the run-getting averages released released today and including Wednesday's games, showing Cuyler and Waner to be the only league players over the century mark in tallies. The veteran Cuyler has also unofficially captured the base-stealing crown worn last year by Max Carey.

"Hack" Wilson of the Cubs leads in home-run slugging, with Bottomley of the Cardinals his nearest rival. Waner is ahead in triples and Bottomley leads the list of two-bagger specialists.

Kremer of Pittsburgh, shown by today's averages with twenty victories and five games lost, and Rhem, credited with twenty-one games won for St. Louis and seven defeats, lead the moundsmen. Root to Chicago and Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn are fighting for the year's strike-out record.

The spurt under the wire in the American League leaves Manush awaiting only the aproval of final official figures to remove the American's individual batting crown from Harry Heilmann's locker in the Detroit clubhouse to his own.

HEILMANN FOURTH

Despite a current faltering in his stride, the Tiger outfielder promises to wind up the year with a slugging average around .375, and is well in the lead. Heilmann, who carried off the honors in 1925, ranks fourth among the regulars.

Babe Ruth, striving with virtually no chance of success to equal his world's record of fifty-nine home runs, places just below Manush in hitting and is well out in front in run getting. Averages including Wednesday's games and released today credit him with 134 scores but also show Goslin of the Senators, Mostil of Chicago, Gehrig of the Yankees, Combs of New York and McManus of St. Louis as having reached or passed the century mark.

Johnny Mostil of the White Sox has considerably better than a chance of retaining the league base-stealing title. Burns of Cleveland is safe with a new all-time doubles total, and Gehrig leads in three-base clouting.

Among the pitchers today's averages show George Uhle with twenty-six games won and ten lost for Cleveland. His nearest rival is Herb Pennock of the Yankees, with a 21-12 record for the year. "Lefty" Grove of the Athletics is crowding a 200-strikeouts total. The average:

PIRATES RELEASE M'INNIS

Veteran First-Sacker Given Walking Papers by Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—John J. (Stuffy) McInnis, veteran first baseman, was today given his unconditional release by the Pittsburgh Pirates, according to an announcement made tonight by President Barney Dreyfuss. The release was handed to McInnis in Boston and he was permitted to go tonight to his home in Gloucester, Mass.

McInnis is generally credited with having been the member of the Pittsburgh team who revealed that a vote had been taken on whether Vice-President Fred Clarke should be asked to quit the bench.

This vote, it will be recalled, was followed by the unconditional release of Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee and the asking of waivers on Capt. Max Carey, who was turned over to the Brooklyn Robins via the waiver route.

According to "inside dope" on the Pirate flare-up, the Pirates were warned before the vote was taken that any member of the team who revealed what had gone on would be given his release.

Assist Record at Third Tied by Ray Jacobs

When Ray Jacobs filled in at third base for the Angels in the first game of Friday's double-header he equalled the Coast League record for assists by tossing out ten men. During the excitement of the twin bill, in which Caveney rapped out three homers and Wally Hood two, Jacobs's record-equalling feat was overlooked.

The present mark of ten assists by a third-sacker was established in 1922 by Willie Kamm, who is now performing with the Chicago White Sox. Eddie Mulligan, another San Francisco player, tied Kamm's mark on July 4, 1924, when he also had ten assists at the hot corner.

LaCoste Takes Net Cup From Old Homestead

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Rene La Coste, youthful French tennis star, today is taking the national singles cup, symbol of individual tennis supremacy in the United States, on its first ocean voyage in forty-five years.

La Coste, with his countryman, Jean Borotra, swarmed through the ranks of American singles players last week at Forest Hills. For a year, at least, the famous cup, long the possession of William Tilden, will rest in France.

All four members of the French Davis Cup team, La Coste, Borotra, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, were passengers on the liner France.

"AND THE SAME TO YOU"

Say Babe Ruth and Miller Huggins while congratulating each other on their achievements yesterday. The Bambino knocked out three homers to help the Yankees cinch the American League pennant, hence the reason for Huggins's congratulations, while Huggins piloted a championship club, which ought to explain to one and all why the Bambino is returning the compliments. PRESENT SEALS SPOIL SAN FRANCISCO MARK

If the present San Francisco Seals finish in the cellar, which seems most likely, they will spoil a perfect record previously boasted of by the Bay City. Since the Coast League was organized in 1903 no San Francisco club has finished on the bottom of the heap and never were the Seals below sixth place.

The Angels, apparently 1926 champions, wound up in the cellar in 1911, but never have they finished below sixth place before or since then.

BOEHLER JUST FAILS TO HURL NO-HIT TILT

George Boehler, former Oak who comes to the Angels next season as a part of the deal that sends "Jigger" Statz to Brooklyn, just missed entering the Coast League hall of fame last season in a game against Sacramento. Boehler didn't allow a hit or a run for nine innings, but lost out in the tenth, 2 to 0. Frank Shellenback was Boehler's opponent and he succeeded in blanking the Oaks all the way, although he was touched for several hits.

Rally Decides See-Saw Clash for Senators

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25. (AP)—A run in the ninth inning gave Sacramento a 7-to-6 victory over San Francisco here today in a see-saw ball game. The Seals were out in front until the fifth inning ended. In the sixth the Solons drove in four runs, another in the seventh and the winning one in the ninth. San Francisco batsmen scored two runs in the first, repeated the performance in the sixth and again in the seventh. Kunz relieved Lang on the mound for the losers, but he was unable to fool the visiting batsmen and was charged with the defeat. Score:

COOMBS IS HOLDER OF FINE MARK

Former Athletic Hurled Five World Series Wins to Set Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—The world's series pitching record of five victories and no defeats, held by the old Colby Cannonader, John Wesley Coombs, is menaced by only one man, Herb Pennock, in the approaching baseball championship classic. And it would take three triumphs by the frail, willowy Yankee southpaw to equal the mark of Colby Jack.

Chief Bender, old team-mate of Coombs on the Athletics, holds the distinction of gaining the most world's series victories, six, but the famous Chippewa Indian tasted several defeats. Coombs's perfect record was achieved as the result of three victories in 1910 and one in 1911 with the Athletics, his fifth coming in 1916, when he had transferred his allegiance to Brooklyn.

Coombs's mark of three victories in one series is shared by three other mound heroes, the late Christy Mathewson, who gave added luster to his 1905 feat by making all of his games shut-outs against the Athletics; Babe Adams, who registered three triumphs for the Pirates over Detroit in 1909; and Stanley Coveleskie, three-time victor for Cleveland over Brooklyn in 1920. "Covey" had a chance last fall to tie or surpass Coombs's mark but was beaten in both of his starts for Washington against the Pirates.

Pennock got his first baptism of world's series fire in 1914 when he was a youngster with the Athletics but it consisted only of three innings' work as a relief twirler. His big effort was in 1923, when he pitched the Yankees to two victories over the Giants and helped clinch the world's series for the Hugmen.

Outstanding facts on world's series pitching follow:

Ed Reulbach of the Chicago Cubs allowed the "hitless wonders," the White Sox of 1906, only one hit.

There have been five two-hit games, pitched by Ed Walsh of the White Sox; Mordecai Brown of the Cubs; Eddie Plank of the Athletics; Bill James of the Braves and Waite Hoyt of the Yankees.

Walter Johnson of the Senators in 1924 equaled Ed Walsh's 1906 record for strikeouts in one game, with twelve on the opening day of the Giants-Senators series, a 12-inning battle.

Jack Coombs issued fourteen passes in the 1910 series, nine of them in one game.

Art Nehf of the Giants, has allowed 31 bases on balls in the four series in which he has appeared.

Jeff Tesreau had three wild pitches in the Red Sox-Giants battles of 1912.

The late Wild Bill Donovan hit three, batsmen in the series of 1907 between the Tigers and Cubs.

Four pitchers have suffered five defeats in the baseball classics, Plank, Mathewson, Rube Marquard, and Joe Bush.

Babe Ruth, home run slugger of the Yankees, has a world's series record aside from his efforts as a batsman. He lefthanded through 29 scoreless innings for the Red Sox in 1916 and 1918.

MAY GO UP AGAIN

"Doc" Wright has been pitching such phenomenal ball for the league-leading Angels this year that there is a possibility that he may get another shot in the majors. Wright is at present leading the Coast League hurlers and his work has attracted the eye of Bill Essick, New York Yankee scout.

As the 1926 major-league baseball season draws to a close and preparations are under way for the coming post-season games, a brief glance at some world-series records should help to while away the time between games.

It isn't always, the best-known players who make the record performances. Names like Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker occur infrequently in the list of world-series records published in that interesting volume, "The Little Red Book," one of Spalding's Athletic Library. The immortal Ty is down only for "most times stealing home base—one," which honor he shares with Mike McNally and Bob Meusel.

Tris Speaker, the former two-base-hit king, is down on the books for hitting the most three-baggers, total series—four, and the most triples in one series—two, which latter record he shares with many others.

Babe Ruth fares better, however, for he holds, with "Home Run" Baker, Eddie Collins, Wally Schang and Everett Scott, the record for playing in the most series—six. (Scotty was eligible, but didn't play for the Senators last year.) He also shares with Tommy Leach the record of scoring eight runs in one series. Then the Bambino is tied with Leon Goslin and Joe Harris for the most home runs in one series—three; and with Harry Hooper for the most homers in one game—two. He holds the record for "most extra bases on long hits, total series—eighteen," and, ditto, "one series—twelve," and "game—six." Then he stands supreme with eight bases on balls in one series as a tribute to the fear in which he was held by opposing pitchers, or John McGraw, in 1923. Babe even breaks into pitching records with twenty-nine scoreless innings, twirled in 1916 and 1918 for Boston.

The name of one grand old veteran fairly emblazons the pages of the world-series records. For Eddie Collins, besides sharing the record for most series played in, holds the marks for most runs, (total series—twenty; most base hits, total series—forty-two; most singles, total series—thirty-three; most total bases, total series—fifty-three; most sacrifice hits, total series—eight, and most stolen bases, total series—fourteen.

Christy Mathewson's name dominates the pitching performances, for, besides his twenty-seven scoreless innings against the Athletics in 1905, he pitched four shut-out games altogether, pitched the most innings, total series, 103 2-3; and one series—twenty-nine and two-thirds. "Big Six" also shares with Plank, Marquard and Joe Bush the record for most defeats, total series—five.

Other interesting performances are Art Nehf's walking thirty-one batters in four series; Carl Mays's feat of pitching three full games in one series without passing a man, and Ed Walsh's striking out twelve in one game. Frank Frisch batted .300 or better in four series, and scored two runs in one inning in 1921. Bob Meusel scored three men on a single in 1923; Casey Stengel won two games with home runs, and George Kelly struck out ten times in one series. And Nick Altrock, the comedian, holds five world-series fielding records for pitchers. Laugh that off!

HUGGINS GETS RESULTS

Yankee Manager Has Piloted New York Americans to Four Pennants Since Taking Job in 1918

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Miller Huggins has brought the New York Yankees to the top of the American League playing heap four times since he joined the club as manager in 1918. Twice the team ran third under his management; once it finished fourth, the first year that he was at the helm, and last year it bogged down to seventh place when the team cracked and crumbled from sheer old age.

The feat of bringing the Yanks back to a pennant from a seventh-place club in one season might establish Miller Huggins as a miracle man. But the Yankee pilot is still plain Mister Huggins who sits back in the dugout and simply manages. Huggins eschews the limelight; is rarely seen on the coaching line and as he seldom talks for publication baseball fans know little of him. When things go wrong Huggins gets the blame; otherwise the credit goes to Babe Ruth and Company.

MILLER HUGGINS

Huggins is a student of baseball. Small of stature he made his mark as a smart ball player when he made his debut with the St. Paul club in 1901. Three years later Huggins found himself with Cincinnati, his home town, where he remained until 1910 playing second base. Traded in 1910 to St. Louis, Huggins four years later succeeded Roger Bresnahan as manager of the Cardinals.

His successes with second-rate ball players was the talk for years in the National League circuit where he twice brought his club up to third place. It was while Huggins managed St. Louis that Rogers Hornsby came to the club, a youngster from a Texas town. Huggins saw at once that he had a star in embryo. He personally corrected Hornsby's batting stance and saw the young Texan rise to baseball stardom under his own guidance.

Huggins this year confounded the experts. Few picked the Yankees to finish even in the first division. Two holes in the infield to be plugged up, shortstop and second base, and with a rookie first baseman with less than a year's experience, the task for the midget Miller looked hopeless.

Koenig, a shortstop obtained from St. Paul, played only a few games with the Yanks at the end of the season and he was a problem. Lazzeri, bought from the Salt Lake club, was made over into a second baseman. Koenig, with a high-strung temperament and always overanxious, demanded Huggins's constant attention, but Lazzeri fitted into the keystone without difficulty.

With much coaching and tutoring the defense held together while the team's heavy batting carried it along to victory.

"PONGO" CANTILLON'S "FISH" PROVE TO BE DUCKS; FEDERAL AGENTS DEEPLY INTERESTED

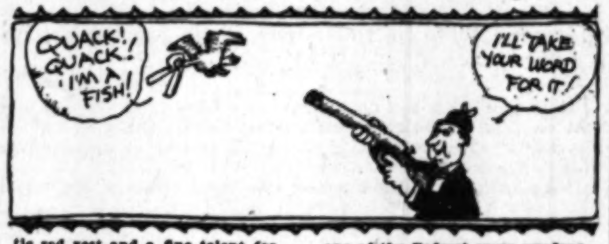
CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) Joseph "Pongo" Cantillon, who managed the Washington team in the American League for many years, is old enough to know the difference between ducks and fish, but he is being hounded by Federal secret-service men because of his ignorance in zoology.

Trouble began for the old baseball impresario, with his hectic red vest and a fine talent for animal husbandry, when he acted on the erroneous supposition that a duck is a kind of fish. According to the complaint filed by Uncle Sam and on which Mr. Cantillon was today cited before U. S. Dist.-Atty. Olson, Cantillon shipped some ducks from Hickman, Ky., to Tip O'Neill, former president of the Western League and president of the Woodlawn Bards.

Secret-service men, assisted by various game wardens, overtook Mr. Cantillon somewhere between Kentucky and Chicago and surprised him by the information that his shipment of "fish" had turned out to be ducks, shot out of season.

"I shipped fish," he protested, "fresh fish; I remember the label perfectly."

"The label was all right," said one of the Federal game wardens, "but your fish were ducks."



QUACK! QUACK! I'M A FISH!
I'LL TAKE YOUR WORD FOR IT!

"They both swim," protested Cantillon, feebly.

"These ducks do not," replied the warden. "These ducks are dead and the District Attorney wants to know about it."

So Cantillon was made defendant in an action begun by the government today and the case will be threshed out next month.

CARDS WON ON CONFIDENCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Confidence, the fourth dimension of athletics, enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to wrest from the clutching fingers of its competitor teams, the coveted pennant of the National League, is the opinion of Rogers Hornsby, slugging second baseman who piloted his club to the place of honor.

"We felt confident from the beginning," Hornsby told the Associated Press today. "It was confidence that won for us; that's half of any battle. The boys got nervous at times, but what cost us the most in games lost was the inexperience of some of the players. Douthit, for instance, came to a championship contender practically straight from college. He will be the greatest outfielder in the world next year."

Whose Goat Will World Series Get?

BILL WAMBSGANNS MADE TRIPLE PLAY UNASSISTED IN 1920 WORLD SERIES
ELMER SMITH HIT HOMER WITH BASES FILLED IN 1920 WORLD SERIES-CLEVELAND VS. BROOKLYN

BY AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher, New York Giants)

Every world series has its goat and its hero. Last year Roger Peckinpaugh, who was voted the most valuable player in the American League, proved to be the goat of the series and Max Carey, the hero. Waivers have been since asked on both of these men, showing the unusual uncertainty and fickleness of baseball as a profession.

In the 1912 New York Giant-Boston Red Sox world serise, Fred Snodgrass made that famous muff that cost each player $2000, the difference between the winners' and losers' share of the receipts.

Ball players realize that errors of omission and commission are part of the game and the player making them loses no prestige in their eyes, but the public labels them bonehead or goat, and the player contributing to his team's defeat in a world series carries the stigma the rest of his career and even afterward.

Crandall Has Great Record With Seraphs

The veteran Otis ("Doc") Crandall has hung up a record that will probably never be equalled in Coast League ranks in his ten years of pitching for the Los Angeles Club. Doc joined the Seraphs in 1916 and since then has hurled phenomenal ball for the Angels.

In his ten seasons of toil with the Seraphs the veteran spitballer has turned in a total of 197 victories and has been beaten 115 times. That gives Crandall an average of .635 for his ten years of chucking for the Cherubs. Doc's record for this season is 20-8 .714. His best year was in 1919 when he won twenty-eight games and lost ten, finishing with a .737 average. If Crandall turns in three more wins this year he will have attained his two-hundredth Angel victory.

ROGERS HORNSBY IDOL OF BASEBALL-MAD ST. LOUIS

Courts and Business Houses May be Closed While World Series is on in Excited Missouri Metropolis

BY JACK GALLAGHER

"Times" Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—In this year Anno Domino 1926, Los Angeles may be the fastest-growing spot on earth, New York may be the metropolis of the world, Chicago may be the greatest manufacturing and rail center in existence and Calvin Coolidge may be the President of the United States, but—

The somnolent city of St. Louis, Mo., along the banks of the historic Mississippi, cares nothing about that. It has just won a baseball pennant, the first in thirty-eight years, and it is telling the world today that St. Louis, Mo., is undeniably, irrefutably the baseball capital of the whole universe.

ROGERS HORNSBY

One is not off the train five minutes until he is somewhat forcibly impressed with the fact. Every man, woman and child tells it to you, yells it to you and then repeats it to one another. Calvin Coolidge may be the Presiden of the United States, but young Rajah Hornsby is the exalted emperor of a kingdom that sprang up overnight. And his subjects are legion and loyal, not to say vociferous.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Rajah and his brave battalion will not return home from their fields of victory until after two games of the world series have been played. But what a homecoming it will be! Plans conceived long since, have been perfected and are being rehearsed by the more fanatical followers of the Cardinals, that will rank with the most enthusiastic demonstrations ever staged here.

Millionaires and newsboys, bankers, merchants, brokers, barefoot tots, stenographers, girls and women are prepared to join in the mad throng to celebrate the arrival of their Cardinals.

Other fans are organizing rooter clubs and hiring bands to be on the reception committee when the Cardinals return home. Mayor Victor Miller is going to have a gold key made to present to Rogers Hornsby, while many circuit judges have made the suggestion of closing their courts and calling a recess throughout the world series here. Merchants are arranging to close their stores and generally a holiday session will be declared while the world series is in progress.

WAITED SINCE 1888

Such a thing as this pennant has been too much for the merchants and the fans. Just think: they have waited since 1888 for this occasion and way back yonder, thirty-eight years ago, a pennant and a world series was not as prominent as it is today.

St. Louis becomes the last city in the two major leagues to win a pennant since the organization of the American League. They have all had their turn at this event, but St. Louis, and now comes St. Louis, and St. Louis is putting on her fine feathers with a vengeance.

SEATS AT A PREMIUM

Meanwhile, seats for the big performance are at a premium, and requests are pouring in from every point of the compass, but particularly from the South, where natives have waited, like St. Louisans, for many years for an opportunity to see a royal battle for the world championship of the national pastime.

New Sportsman's Park, which was constructed last winter, has a seating capacity of 32,500. Officials of the Cardinals, fully convinced by the mad rush for tickets that their park is sadly inadequate, are hurriedly constructing seats for 10,000 or probably more additional seats.

NICE SWIM, TOO

To swim the English Channel, whether a success or a failure, involves an outlay of between $2000 and $3000 for training expenses, attendants, the hiring of an ocean tug and other necessary items.

NEW ONE FOR THE BOOK

One of the newest sporting novelties in England is soccer on motorcycles played at the Crystal Palace, London.

SACS NEXT OPPONENTS OF ANGELS

Slipping Senators from Sacramento Here Tuesday for Seven Games

Marty Krug's league-leading Angels, who are rapidly closing in on the first pennant that a local club has won since 1921 when Red Killefer piloted a flock of ancient and honorable men to the gonfalon, open a seven-game engagement with the slipping Senators from Sacramento at Wrigley Field next Tuesday.

BUDDY RYAN

Perhaps one of the most outstanding features of the Sacramento club now is Mr. Buddy Ryan, the Sacs's bone-crushing, umpire-mangling manager. However, it is doubtful if Ryan will get to show his ability before local fans for he is at present on the suspended list for putting Umpire Roy "Noisy" Van Graflan to sleep without the aid of a lullaby. It is likely that Buddy will be out for the rest of the season, for, according to Angel players, the Solon skipper copped a "Sunday" on Van Graflan while the arbiter had his back turned. Prexy Harry A. Williams doesn't like to have his umpires sleeping on duty and he intends to make it tough on Ryan for forcibly making Van Graflan take a nap on the field.

For a while, Ryan had the Senators up in the first three with a possible pennant chance, but a trip to the Northwest about a month ago started the Sacs on the downgrade and they're still skidding. Already they have hit the second division and don't figure to give the Angels much trouble the way they are playing now.

Ray Rohwer, former Seattle and Portland outfielder, and a young hurler, Suncari, are now with the Solons, so the Sacramento outfit will be bringing some new scenery. Rohwer was traded to the Sacs along with Pitcher Max Rachac for Bill Hughes, a good twirler with a bad temper. Rachac joins the Sacs next spring.

The Hollywood Stars shift the scene of their activities from Portland to Seattle where they will face Red Killefer's Indians this week. The Stars took the measure of the Suds down here recently and figure to repeat, even if Oscar Vitt is only using his young pitchers.

Other series opening Tuesday find the Oaks and Seals tangling in San Francisco, and the Missions and Beavers clashing at Portland. The latter series will be a battle for third place, the Ducks having risen out of the second division ruck with a recent winning spurt.

LAST YEAR FOR FERRY

University of Michigan will use Ferry Field for football for the last time this year. It is the oldest in the Western Conference. The Big Ten institutions will provide more than 400,000 regular seats and 120,000 temporary stands for matches this fall.

BIG PRICE FOR COLT

William Du Pont, Jr., recently purchased The Satrap, the fastest 2-year-old racing colt of the season in England, for a record price of $100,000. Under the terms of the sale Satrap is prevented from ever racing in the United Kingdom.

BROWNS' $125,000 BEAUTY

Here's Fred Shulte, star outfielder and leading hitter of Milwaukee Brewers, who was purchased for a fabulous price by the St. Louis Browns. All of the major league clubs were after the brilliant star, but the Browns crossed Owner Otto Borchert's palm with the most dough and landed Shulte. The Brewers also get three players as well as a cash amount.

Silver to Meet Thompson at Olympic Auditorium; Goldstein Makes Bow at Hollywo

LIGHTWEIGHTS IN LIMELIGHT

Both Olympic and Hollywood Feature 135-Pounders

Three Ten-Round Scraps Are Billed by Joe Levy

Film City Arena Lucky in Getting Goldstein Bow

BY KAY OWE

Long Jack Silver, the in-and-out lightweight champion of the Pacific Coast, is headlined at the Olympic Auditorium this week with Jack Thompson, one of the black boys who is hailed as an even greater coming sensation than Baby Joe Gans.

JOE LEVY.

This is to be one of the three ten-round battles with which Joe Levy expects to tickle the palates of the fight populace at the big downtown mansion of maul. The other bouts will see the returned Young Nationalista and Teddy Silva tangling and Young Harry Wills meeting Billy Adams.

GOLDSTEIN DEBUTS

Lightweights are also featured at Hollywood this week, Ruby Goldstein being scheduled to make his first appearance on the Coast Friday night against Paul Demsky, the funny Australian who looks easy, but has never been stopped in any of his local bouts.

Against the hard-walloping Goldstein, who had a beautiful string of knockouts until Ace Hudkins moved into his backyard and ruined him, Demsky will be forced to use all his skill to stave off disaster.

What Goldstein does to Demsky, if anything, will determine his rating hereabouts. While Tommy O'Brien won from the Australian, he was unable to put him away with his terrible right, and if Ruby can accomplish this result, he will stack up high in the minds of the fans.

TOMMY O'BRIEN.

The main event at the Olympic this week promises plenty of action because both Silver and Thompson will be fighting for public recognition.

UP AND DOWN

Silver bounded to the heights when he beat Mushy Callahan in San Francisco, and then lost a lot of his prestige when he lost to green Paul De Hate because of a burst of over-confidence.

In Thompson the Bay City boy will be meeting another of those dark-skinned lads who have found it difficult to obtain recognition from the matchmakers, although authorities like Pop Foster say he shows more possibilities than even Baby Joe Gans, and that's a whole lot.

Both of the other ten-rounders promise considerable action. Young Nationalista has always been a crowd pleaser with his whirlwind style of fighting, and his foe, the clever little Portuguese, Teddy Silva, has one of the most dangerous right hands among the banties.

Young Harry Wills is the San Diego colored flash who was giving Paul De Hate a licking when he let a wild one go several weeks back and fouled his antagonist.

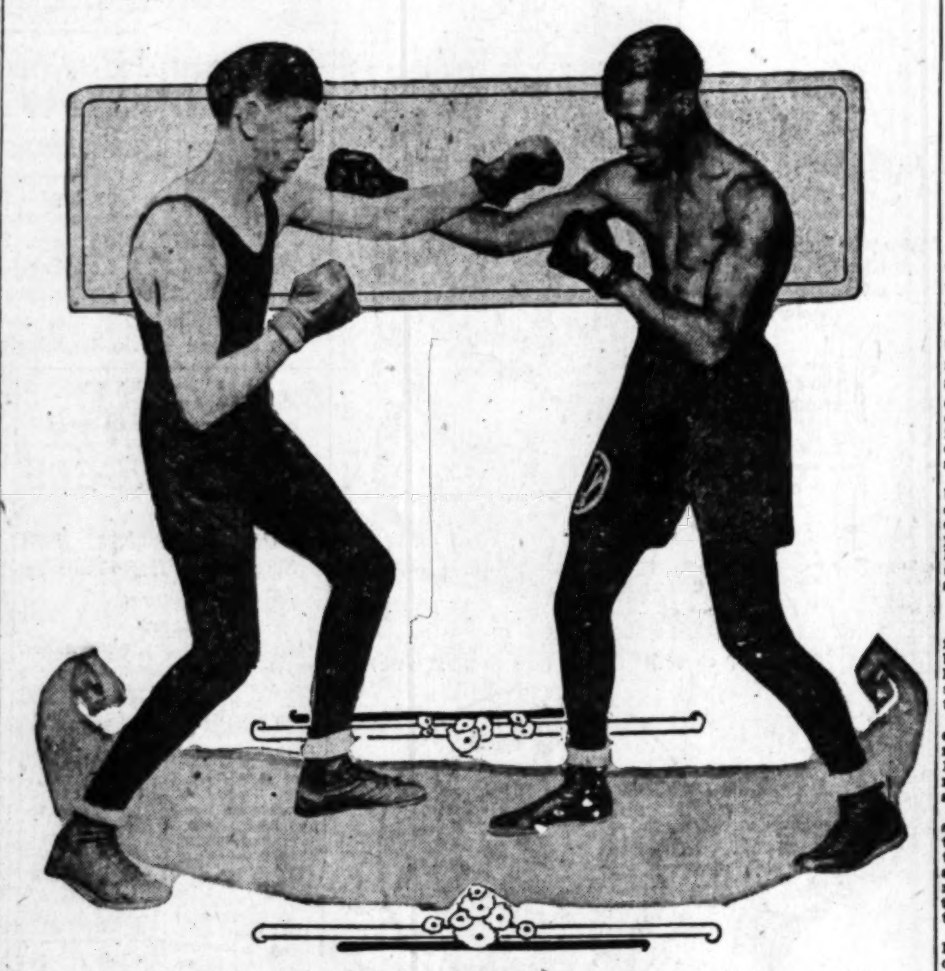
Wills's foe, Billy Adams, scored a decisive victory over Johnny Reissler at the Olympic last week. He all but stopped him.

COSTLY HANDS

The Chicago Cubs recently paid $50,000 for Elwood English, 19-year-old Toledo Mudhen shortstop. The youth's hands are said to be the largest ones in organized baseball.

ANOTHER CASE OF JERUSALEM VS. ETHIOPIA

Here are Long Jack Silver of San Francisco and Jack Thompson of Los Angeles, who will furnish the fireworks in the top spot of the trio of ten-round soirees at the Olympic Auditorium Tuesday evening. Thompson is hailed as another colored lightweight sensation of the Baby Joe Gans type.



Railroad Teams Will Battle for Baseball Title

The championship baseball team of the Union Pacific Athletic Club of Los Angeles left on a special Union Pacific train last week to represent the West in the world's railroad championship series at Philadelphia, which will be staged the last three days of this week under the auspices of the Sesquicentennial International Exposition.

The team had just returned from Cheyenne, Wyo., where it won the championship of the Union Pacific System league, by defeating the Omaha team, 14 to 4, and the Seattle team, 19 to 8.

Teams from Scotland, England, Australia, Canada and from fourteen other railroads in this country will enter the competition. The Los Angeles team of the Union Pacific is the only one to represent the West.

COLLINS TO HEAD NINE

John Collins varsity pitcher was elected captain of the 1927 Stanford University nine. He was honored on the high sea, the selection being made as the squad was returning from Japan, where they played a series of games during the summer. It was a unique distinction for the brilliant hurler.

COACHES ARE BENEDICTS

University of Alabama football coaching staff is composed of married men. Shorty Propst, Johnny Mack Brown and Russ Cohen joined the benedicts since the 1925 season. Wade, Cohen and Crisp are looking after varsity material, and Propst, Brown and Hagan, the freshmen.

BROADWAY COX PASSES A FEW REMARKS ABOUT SIMON PURES

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Sept. 22.—For years Crawford (Broadway) John Cox, the halter man, spent some years prowling along the R.F.D. routes, lassoing and haltering corn-fed citizens of quarrelsome tendencies for exhibition in the ring, but of late he has noticed a brisk trade in amateur athletics and he states that he intends to organize a stable of amateurs.

C.C. PYLE

"Wherever I go," Mr. Cox asserts, "I see the amateurs doing a big business and I ask myself why I should go nickeling along all the time, riding the day coaches and eating out of paper bags, handcuffed to some chump of a fighter who is probably very ignorant and unrefined and doubtless a bum as a fighter, too. I don't know whether all the good amateurs have got managers already, or not, but I shall make inquiries, and if they have, I will arrange to trade fighters for tennis players and golfers and foot runners. I would be willing to trade a dozen head of assorted prize fighters for a strictly first-class tennis player, and I would hurl in a couple of extra welterweights for a first-class tennis player with some numbers after his name, such as Windsor T. Tawksberry, II, because I think it gives a fellow a touch of class to be called somebody "I" something, the second.

SHIES AT PANTIES

"I am not very well up on these white-pants games like tennis or these bloomer-pants games like golf," Mr. Cox said, "but I soon could pick up enough knowledge to protect our interests at the gate, which is the manager's place, after all.

"I was talking to a fellow the other day and he tells me the game is not only very refined, but very simple, too, I understand that all guys are called mister, and when it is your first sock, at the ball, they don't call it your sock, but your serve. The way this games, you take something, the second, socks it back and it goes along that way, sock-sock, sock, sock, sock, until one game socks it out of the joint.

"At this point, Mr. Cox said, "the referee yells 'fifteen love' and, of course, a lot of my low acquaintances in the fight business would probably yell back: 'Yoo-hoo; give us a great big kiss;' but if you are smart you keep your face shut because you only make a mug of yourself if you go yelling 'yoo-hoo; give us a great big kiss.'

"Of course," Broadway Cox continued, "I am mainly interested in the way these tennis clubs twist the boys around the gate because they only give them expenses, as they are called, and never pay off according to the turnstile tally. These expenses are pretty good, I am informed, and sometimes when a fell is playing in Florida you would think from his expense account that he rode down from New York in a taxicab. But I think it is wrong to give the amateurs only their expenses because George Carpentier once got his expenses and a purse of $5000 for attending a banquet in New York, but he is still an amateur gater.

FAVORS BLOOMERS

"Of course, we would have to use discretion with the bloomer boys in golf, because they tell me they play this game right out in a field where people can crash right in. I understand this makes it necessary for a number of the boys to sell bonds or life insurance or subscriptions to magazines in order to get any dough out of the game at all, and I would attend to that in a business-like way. It seems to me that if I had a bloomer boy who was a good card, I would make them buy a certain amount of bonds or insurance or magazines before I let my boy hit a single ball. Or the club could arrange to pay off by sending out some stiff of a bloomer boy who couldn't hit a mush-melon with a bed slat to play against my boy at $1000 a hole just as a refined side bet.

"I am refined," Mr. Cox said, "that this has been tried successfully in a small way and that guy can do it and still be an amateur.

"There is no question," Mr. Cox said, "that refinement is the coming thing in the sport business and I, personally, am all for it because a refined guy is usually a sucker for a smart fellow who has been around to any extent."

GOLF STRATEGIES THAT WON

Macdonald Smith, Metropolitan Champion, Once Purposely Bounced a Ball off the Water to Win a Close Championship

BY BUNKER

One thing was lacking in the Professional Golf Association championship which ended yesterday at Salisbury, L. I.

This was the presence of Macdonald Smith, who, on his 1926 record in tournament play, will have to be seriously considered for the No. 1 ranking among the professionals.

Participation in five important tournaments—three of which he won—in a very short space of time, wore Smith out and cost him a lot of weight. By mid-September he was weary of competitive play and even the prospect of a P. G. A. title was not alluring.

"I felt the strain the more," Mac told me recently, "because it happened that in each tournament I was in the running practically all the way."

Naturally the now far-famed Metropolitan championship, which he won only after three play-offs with Gene Sarazen, was the most nerve-wrecking affair of all, although the Canadian open, because of weather conditions at the finish, was mighty trying.

In each of these important championships a bit of head work at the right time was extremely valuable.

In the second play-off after the Metropolitan, Sarazen had Smith 1 down with two holes to be played.

SARAZEN EXPLODED

Gene had only to halve the seventeenth and eighteenth holes to retain the championship which he had won in 1925. But on the short seventeenth, measuring 165 yards, he dropped his tee shot into a sand bunker at the right of the green, under a steep bank, while Smith was on the green, fifteen feet at the right of the cup.

All that Gene could do was to explode his next shot. His ball ended up at the rear of the green, and he took two putts for a 4.

With his ball only fifteen feet from the cup, and with a perfectly level surface to cross, Mac might have tried to hole in a 2.

"If I make a 3, I'll square the match," he said to himself, "and that's enough, considering the break I've already had in my favor. Let future holes take care of themselves."

He putted six inches short, sank his 3, and carried Sarazen to a third play-off. Then Mac went wild and uncorked a wonderful 66, seven under par, against which Sarazen had no chance.

Undoubtedly, patience is a grand quality in a golfer.

Mac also did some fine strategic work on the seventeenth hole at the Mont Royal Golf Club, on the occasion of his victory in the Canadian open.

SHOT IN RAIN

It is not a fact, as reports the next day said, that due to his early start, Smith played the final round in sunshine, while his principal rivals finished in a downpour of rain. The circumstances were that, coming in on the final nine, Mac encountered a regular downpour, and when he reached the seventeenth hole water was falling by the bucket.

He was shooting for a 70 and to do this it was necessary to get a birdie on the 530-yard seventeenth hole.

"The field wasn't far behind me," says Mac, "and I knew if I could get my 70 it would be mighty discouraging to the boys who had a chance, like me, to win.

"If the word went back to them, 'Mac Smith got 70 on his final round,' they'd naturally feel a lot different than if they heard that I had gotten a 72 or a 73, or more. In the latter event one of them might have been so encouraged that he would have caught me

"However, when I played down the seventeenth fairway it looked as though I wouldn't get my 70. My second shot was thirty yards short of the green.

"My lie was a bit downhill, with a shallow hollow between me and the green. But the rain had given me my greatest difficulty.

WATER CROSSES GREEN

"It had started a current of water four or five inches deep and six or seven feet wide flowing across the fore part of the green. To get to the cup, which was on a sort of terrace, I must play past it.

"Now it happened that the cup was not more than ten feet beyond the edge of this current. I couldn't pitch my ball and stop it near the hole. If I was short I'd get into the water and, while I could pick out, I would then have to play on a slope either at the right or left. I could easily take six strokes where I wanted four.

"I thought things over. Then I took a No. 3 straight-faced iron and played a low one right on the top of the water. The ball skipped over and stopped eight inches from the cup, leaving me an easy 4.

"That was one of the finest shots I ever made. But the mere fact that I had analyzed the play correctly gave me greater pleasure than the shot itself.

"It probably meant the championship to me, too. If I had taken a 6 on the seventeenth, I could have slipped some more on the eighteenth. Then Sarazen, who finished with 286 to my 283, might have caught up with me, or beaten me."

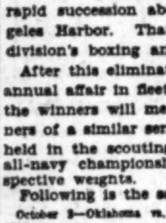
PESEK TO SUB FOR LEWIS

Lou Daro Seeks Services of "Tiger Man" to Replace "Strangler" Lewis Against Stecher

Lou Daro yesterday wired John Pesek, the famous "Nebraska Tigerman," terms for a bout with World's Champion Joe Stecher. Afterward Daro held a conference with Tony Stecher, brother-manager of the champion, in an effort to line up a bout between the Scissors King and the "Tigerman."

The Stecher-Pesek match will be for the best two out of three falls and positively to a finish if it is held, it is announced. It will replace the previously scheduled clash between Champion Stecher and Ed Lewis which was called off when Lewis reported that he had hurt his arm in training and would be unable to go through with it.



LOU DARO.

Pesek and Stecher have met twice during the past year. Their first battle was held in St. Louis on May 29. It will go down in history as one of the outstanding matches of the age. Stecher won after five hours of the most gruelling wrestling matches ever witnessed anywhere, gaining the victory by virtue of a fluke fall.

The bout proved conclusively, however, that Pesek is one of the greatest mat men of today. Many fans who have seen him in action in Los Angeles are of the opinion that he is a greater wrestler than Lewis, and might even be able to beat Stecher in a tussle to a finish.

In their last bout, staged at the Olympic Auditorium two months ago, neither Stecher nor Pesek was able to score a fall.

The average flying speed of most of the varieties of smaller birds is from 25 to 28 miles an hour.

BAD BREAK FOR CHICAGO BOXING

Rosenberg Fiasco Sours the Fans of Windy City

Huncke Resignation Creates Additional Distrust

Sport Needs Cleaning Out of Vicious Elements

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—During the war the value of boxing as a means of training and conditioning soldiers was very evident to the officers, both in the Army and Navy. Since then the boxing game has been accepted as a real sport in all parts of the United States and instead of men sneaking out to barns, etc., to witness matches, they now go to the finest arenas in the world and enjoy the sport in opera chairs and with bands of music to entertain them between bouts.

For over thirty years Chicago has been barred to the boxing game because of the gambling element and efforts to "fake" contests. The past year has witnessed the passage of a law legalizing boxing in Illinois and since its enactment some splendid shows have been held.

A BAD BREAK

Now, just as the game is getting a fine foothold and the reformers have been hied away, the game is given a hard kick from the very people who should be doing everything possible to help it.

The calling off of the Charley Rosenberg-Bud Taylor championship match, which had been set for the 16th inst., has brought out some nasty reports in connection with the same.

The report of the Boxing Commission that efforts had been made by the Rosenberg parties to intimidate the commission and to control the appointment of the referee brings to mind the scandal in connection with the McGovern-Gans fight that killed the game in Chicago in 1892.

The resignation of Chairman Oscar Huncke from the Boxing Commission on top of all the trouble, due in a measure as Mr. Huncke said, to threats from gunmen, etc., shows just how matters stand.

The commission is to be praised for its stand in the matter and Chairman Huncke also deserves great credit for the way he has conducted affairs.

The people of Chicago want boxing, but not the kind that certain elements would dish out; rather than that brand the fans would prefer to have none of it.

New York has had similar troubles with the boxing game, but the men at the head of the sport have been strong enough to beat them off.

STAND TOGETHER

There is no doubt that every commission in the country will stand by the Chicago boxing body and assist in fighting off the enemies of the sport.

The awarding of the bantam championship to Bud Taylor and barring Charley Rosenberg for life, was even more drastic than some of the penalties dished out by the New York Commission. Rosenberg and his manager were given every chance to make good their forfeits, etc., and have only themselves to blame for their misfortune now. Had they come out and had everything open and above board there would have been no such trouble.

Many fans hold that Rosenberg was blameless in the matter; that he was merely the boxer and had nothing to do with the posting of forfeits, etc. That part is to be regretted and no doubt if he can convince the commissioners that way they may later show leniency toward the little New Yorker.

Ike Armstrong, famous football coach of the University of Utah, told me the other day about a funny thing that happened in a game between the University of Utah and University of Colorado at Boulder, Colo.

"The teams were lined up with Utah in possession of the ball," said Ike. "The Utah right tackle made a dive across the line for a two-dollar bill he saw lying on the field across the line of scrimmage. The head linesman blew his whistle and called him offside. The tackle came up with the bill and showing it to the head linesman, announced triumphantly that he didn't care whether he was offside or not as long as he rescued the two spot.

"And then on top of this the Colorado left end wanted him to split with him.

"And I wonder," said Armstrong in conclusion, "whether in these days of hair-splitting if that would make a man a pro?"

EX-HEAVY CHAMPIONS SHOW CLASS

Jeffries and Sharkey in Great Condition; Physical Culture Boosted

Spanning more than a score of years, after dropping from the spotlight of boxing supremacy into retirement, and still retaining in their 50's nearly the identical measurements of physique are the extraordinary achievements of two striking examples of physical perfection, Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey, famous heavyweight boxers of the last generation, who are appearing at the Hillstreet Theater this week.

JIM JEFFRIES

A comparison of the physical measurements of these two great athletes shows an almost unbelievable similarity through a period of twenty-five years. It means that if we live properly we can look and feel as well at 50 as at 20. How? Physical culture will do it, say both the fighters.

Below is a table of the physical measurements of Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey. One side shows how they measured up in the prime of their fighting careers, and the other side lists the measurements taken by a medical examining board in New York just a few weeks ago. This table shows the comparatively slight changes that the years have made in the stalwart frames of these great stars of the prize ring:

ALEKHINE CHALLENGES CAPABLANCA TO MATCH

Jose R. Capablanca replied a challenge of A. Nimzewitsch of Copenhagen is entitled to first consideration. A deposit of $500 is required from the challenger and by December this match may be arranged.

CARLARIS DUE IN MEXICO

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK (Mex.) Sept. 25.—Carlaris, the "wonder horse" of winter racing last season, is coming back to Tia Juana. This mighty son of the English sire, Pharlaris, will, in three weeks, be on his way back to the scene of his last season's conquests where, at the Tia Juana race track, he was the winner of the Tia Juana Derby and the Coffroth Handicap. Those two stakes netted W. T. Anderson, his owner, $23,775 and $70,700. Owner Anderson has just informed the Tia Juana Jockey Club that his big string, including Carlaris, will be shipped from the East.

Once a mighty horse, a phenomenon as thoroughbreds go, Carlaris, after attracting world-wide attention at Tia Juana last season, was a keen disappointment to all turfdom this summer. He failed to carry his speed over a distance of ground. In the Raceland Derby and later in the Coney Island Derby, Carlaris did not show that stamina which marked his victories at the Mexican track. He never seemed to reach last winter's form.

FLEET GRID TEAMS BUSY AS HORNETS

Dopesters Pick Favorites to Capture Title Won by "Prune Barge" Last Year

With the fleet football schedule well under way, the question that is uppermost in the minds of the 20,000 men who man the battle fleet is, "Will the California again win the championship?"

For the last two years the Prune Barge has always been represented by a strong eleven. She emerged successfully last year after defeating the U.S.S. Pennsylvania by a scant margin of one point in one of the most hectic struggles yet staged at Trona Field.

This year there are four teams that are looked upon as having an equal chance of walking off with the laurels. They are the Idaho, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and California. Wise followers of the manly art of busting legs aver that the team in this quartet that gets the breaks will win.

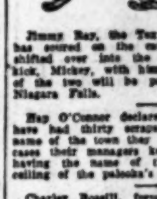
Two of the Navy's outstanding exponents of the gentle art of busting beezers will sever their connections with the Navy in the near future and seek new laurels in the U.S.S. Outside. Harry Reed of the Idaho, looked upon as one of the greatest lightweights the Navy has yet produced, will receive his discharge in ten days. Harry is fighting the semifinal at Hollywood Friday night and his shipmates will be on hand to cheer him on to victory.

Danny Toomey, one of Harry's shipmates, will be discharged today and will return home to the family fireside in Camden, N. J., before again donning the gloves. Danny was a big favorite both at Hollywood and Wilmington, where he always gave a good account of himself, having met and defeated some very good bantams in this neck of the woods.

Ritchie King, who won the all-Navy championship for three consecutive years received his discharge last year. During his sojourn in civilian circles he placed himself under the management of Johnny Kilbane, ex-featherweight champion of the world.

Ritchie will soon be seen in action locally, as several matches are now pending. Here is a kid who joined the Navy four years ago, forsaking the coal mines in Scalp Level, Pa., and four years later left Uncle Sam flat with $8000 to his credit in the bank and three coveted pants holders. The Navy wasn't bad to him at all.

There's a new find on board the Prune Barge by the name of Frankie Tondorf, who is looked upon to be Ritchie's successor this year. He has only had four official bouts, but he handled himself like a veteran in each start. Last Saturday night, at the Main-street palace of give and duck, he sent Freeman Black of Oakland back home with a double-coated varnishing.



CAULIFLOWE ALLEY NOTE

Jimmy Ray, the Tex Rickard of Long Beach, has soured on the cauliflower game. He has shifted over into the movies, taking his side kick, Mickey, with him. The first movie stunt of the two will be painting advertisements on Niagara Falls.

Hap O'Connor declares that after most boxers have had thirty scraps, they hardly know the name of the town they invade. In most of these cases their managers keep their skulls clear by having the name of the town painted on the ceiling of the palooka's sleeping room.

Charley Roselli, formerly the toast of Little Italy, and a whale of a feather in his day, was out at Vernon last Tuesday night eating up the festivities. Charley has three curls under his chin and was advised by Carlo Curtis to have them bobbed. Many will remember the great Roselli-Mendo bouts of years agone. Here was where not only the hair flew but also the skin, in about a fifty-fifty division.

Eddie Mahoney installed himself as a prime favorite with Vernon patrons. He totes a crusher in each mitt and is full of fighting ferocity at all times. An eye should be kept on this bird for he appears to be of that fiber from which champions are evolved. It is Mahoney that put Fresno on the fighting map.

Tommy O'Brien carries a lot of gray matter into the roped precincts with him and back of this gray matter is a bulkhead of courage that usually tides him over many a fistic squall. Last week at the Manhat he showed a right mitt that looked like Mt. Lowe and Old Baldy rolled into one. The knuckles were flirting with the wrist and the wrist with the knuckles. Then Tommy, in his quiet little way, called a friend aside and swung this over the back of his hand—"In my last five or six fights I've gone through them purely on my nerve. I could no more have used my right than fly." O'Brien is probably aware of the fact that most of his opponents are really scared stiff before they enter the ring.

Abdul the Turk graced Spring street with his presence last Tuesday afternoon right under the nose of Mike Fusco, the cauliflower philosopher. Abdul was some scrapper in the good old days of Uncle Tom. He is one of the few that holds a decision over Philadelphia Jack O'Brien. It was down in the classic haunts of Naud Junction. After Jack had about spent his energy in freezing Abdul's mask, the Turk began sharp shooting on his own hook. In a fast flurry, Jack fouled Abdul and was disqualified. The Turk declares to this day that Jack was all in about the fifth round and could not have lasted much longer.

Billy Uvick, the famous "Butcher Boy," is pretty well wised-up on squared-circle stuff. In

PEDLEY GREAT HO

BY JOHN LYMAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—This has been a great week of polo. International field has been the scene of more surprises in the sport than has Brook. Last Saturday there was an unusually large crowd on hand to welcome the return of young Eric Pedley, the Californian, who came east at the invitation of Laddie Sanford to play on the Hurricanes.

Certainly the return of Eric was a bright spot in Laddie's team, for he bolstered it up in every way. It was Pedley who scored the first goal in the game against the dashing Princemere team and it was again Pedley who scored the winning tally on a beautiful set-up from Capt. Roark. And then it must be taken into consideration that Pedley had not the practice in team play of the other players, so more is expected of him in the coming matches.

Against Princemere, Eric played a

States Marshal Sittel, upon fell the task of housing this captive army pending a trial, considered the County Jail at Santa Ana. The Sheriff over there or somebody must have had other plans for the jail.

"Ha! ha!" exclaimed the marshal, "I have an idea. I have often heard that the marines have landed—but I have never heard what it was they landed. They can land this army!"

Forthwith, the army was hustled into the marine barracks at San Diego, Gen. Smedley Butler, commanding. Now, it will be recalled that among the other things for which Gen. Butler became famous, was his task of cleaning up Philadelphia. It appears to have been some job, too

But as for this army of Mexican "revolutionists."

Well, we haven't seen the official log on the thing, but it can readily be imagined that it went something like this:

A big tall sergeant of marines steps briskly into Gen. Butler's offices, walks over to the general seated behind his desk, snaps into a fine salute, and then after looking about cautiously leans over and whispers into the general's ear.

"Great Scott, no!" exclaims the general incredulously.

"On the level, general, it's a fact!" says the sergeant, having resumed his proper stance.

"One jumped on Private McCarthy who was guarding their quarters last night."

BUTLER GOES INTO ACTION

Whereupon Gen. Butler went out to the quarters occupied by the Mexican army and took a look for himself. He hurried back to headquarters and sent a wire back to Washington. In sum and substance, his comminique said:

"I have met the enemy and he is lousy. Take him out of here!" (Of course, it should be noted that Gen. Butler, being a gentleman and something of a purist, would not have used those exact words. He would probably have referred to the condition complained of as "acute pediculosis," or some such.)

The general, you may be sure, knows his Washington as well as anyone, and so he did not cease activity with the filing of his report. He knew that the pediculosis might become

ANTIQUE EXHIBIT PLANNED

Los Angeles Residents Urged to Contribute to Historical Loan Display at Museum

Days of the tallow candle, the flint-lock musket and the quilted petticoat, of the covered wagon and its sparse content of household treasures are to live again in the historical loan exhibition to be shown by the Los Angeles Museum, Exposition Park, during November and December.

It is believed that, hidden away in storage places and forgotten in odd corners, there may be discovered a store of significant treasures. Out of some garret what historic newspaper, ancient snuff-box, or rifle carried by a pioneer ancestor may not emerge? What store of relcs—a table upon which Washington signed his undying name, a bed in which Pio Pico himself may have slept, the beautiful old bedspread designed and woven by great-grandmother.

Especially desired for the exhibition are possessions about which the owners can provide authentic historical data, or which are conspicuous for their historical associations, but objects known to be genuinely antique, although not covered with the glamour of famous associations, will be welcomed for their own sakes.

AIMS RECITED

This is the purpose of the exhibition—to present as extensive a group of American historical objects as possible, that from them may be drawn a more complete understanding of the social and economic aspects of our American history, too often held in mnd as simply a series of political events to the exclusion of the thought that American history is the story of American people.

The aim of the exhibition is to bring together from private collections, dealers and any available source all objects relating to American and Californian history prior to the Civil War which may be found in this vicinity. Articles antedating the Civil War from any section of the United States will be considered for exhibition, and it is planned to make the early California and Southwest sections of particular significance.

CO-OPERATION URGED

Of all these things the museum wishes to bring together as many as possible, to obtain one dramatic and exceptional view of the ensemble of historical material which this city can provide. Such an event will be an opportunity of rare occasion to the student, collector, historian, artist, to school children and every appreciative member of the community. For its success the co-operation of every interested member of the community is requested.

Any individual or society able to supply information as to the location of such material or willing to loan possessions is requested to communicate with the museum at once by personal visit, letter or telephone HUmbolt 0693 and 0694. Articles for exhibition will be received at the Los Angeles Museum, Exposition Park, any time up to October 25, and in cases where it is inconvenient for owners to deliver loans, careful transportation will be arranged.

School to Give Reception Day Before Opening

Los Arboles School, Pasadena's exclusive home of instruction for young people, specializing on pupils between the ages of 6 and 16, will open its regular season next Tuesday, preceded on Monday by a reception, tendered by Edna Rogers Ritchey, in charge, and her staff of instructors.

Mrs. Ritchey announces some of her teachers this year as follows: Mrs. Artilla E. Bailey, piano; Raymond Townsend, violin, and Miss Emma Saboni, art. Others have been retained in English, mathematics and other standard courses.

The school, this year, will be conducted in one of Pasadena's famous old residences, surrounded by beautiful grounds. The reception, Monday, to patrons and friends of the school, is intended to acquaint them with the large, commodious and pleasant schoolrooms, as well as the delightful environment.

The school is located at 1430 North Marengo avenue, Pasadena.

RECLAMATION PLANS GIVEN

Arid Land Conference Here Declared to Mark Epoch in Development of Resources

Assurance that the "Winning of the West" conference to be held at the Biltmore on October 14 would mark an epoch in the development of national resources was given the Chamber of Commerce committee of fifty which is arranging the conference, by Arthur S. Bent, chamber president, yesterday, in outlining the great scope of the reclamation project to be launched.

More than 1000 delegates, representing from twelve to fourteen States, including Governors, United States Senators, Congressmen, reclamation experts and civic leaders will be welcomed by the committee. Every facility will be given them to study the problem of bringing into productiveness the remaining arid lands of the West, Bent said.

TREAT NEEDS AS WHOLE

"We propose to treat the irrigation needs of the country as a whole," the chamber president explained. "There is no intention of centering upon any one project, but to treat the desert as an entity, which may be brought under cultivation as the nation requires new food-producing area.

"No nation has ever undertaken a public work at all approaching this in magnitude or in its importance to the welfare of the people."

Dr. Elwood Mead, Federal Reclamation Commissioner, has indorsed the conference and accepted a place on the committee of arrangements. Another active worker is Thomas E. Campbell, formerly Governor of Arizona and chairman of President Coolidge's committee of special advisers on reclamation. Campbell is making a tour of the West explaining the purposes of the meeting to the State officials and others who have been invited to take part.

SCATTERED OVER WEST

The 18,000,000 acres of land, which it has been estimated can be irrigated profitably, are scattered through California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Western Nebraska and Western Texas, Bent set forth. There are other vast stretches, the reclamation of which is problematical from a financial standpoint.

The conference is expected to start a national movement which will bring under cultivation every inch of these lands which expert opinion deems advisable.

STUDENTS CONDUCT COMMERCE SMOKER

A commerce smoker was held at the Delta Sigma Pi house Tuesday evening, with Gordon Crane as chairman, and Dean W. M. Cunningham of the College of Commerce of U.S.C. as the speaker. The Commerce Women's Club met at the Theta Omricron house Tuesday with Jessie Grant, vice-president of the commerce student body, presiding. Dr. F. May Morse spoke on the organization of an Ad Club on the campus, with all men and women interested in advertising, commercial art, merchandising, and allied professions as members. Miss Edith M. Weir, head of the University Appointment Bureau, talked on vocational bureaus. Aims and requirements for membership in the two commerce sororities, Phi Chi Theta and Gamma Epsilon Pi, were presented by Miss Frances Wihlen. (Both groups met Tuesday evening.)

FESTIVAL SUPPORT PLEDGED

Number of Stage and Film Stars to Appear in Cast of "Soul of World"

Support of virtually every woman's club in Southern California, as well as many other civic, educational and foreign organizations, has been pledged to the production of "Soul of the World," the "Festival of Nations" to be presented by the Council on International Relations at the new Polytechnic Auditorium the first week of November.

CLAIRE MACDONALD.

Chalmere Brooks Fithian, producer of symbolic pageants, is general director of the "Festival," which will have a cast of more than 500 persons. All nationalities are represented in the production.

Mrs. J. B. Lorbeer, president of the District Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Alice A. Kantel, chairman of the international relations committee of the women's organization, have pledged the active support of the 200 clubs in the federation to the production. Besides this, nearly every civic, social and educational organization in Southern California has assured the Council on International Relations of their willingness to co-operate.

Among the stage and screen stars to be included in the cast are Claire MacDowell, who will appear as "The Bearer of the Torch"; Charles Hill Mailes, who will have the role of "The Past," a symbolic character; Miss Carlisle Tupper, who will have an important ingenue part; Miss Adele Sherry, to be in the Russian episode of the play; and Doreen Turner and Laon Ramon, both 8 years of age, as child leads.

BANNER TOURIST YEAR PREDICTED

Travel Current Swinging to Southern California

Summer Increase Expected to Continue in Winter

Carriers and Hotels Prepare for Record Influx

With Southern California's tourist traffic this summer showing a material increase over that of 1925, which was a good year, and with abundant evidence at hand pointing to an influx of visitors during the coming winter greater than in any previous year, Los Angeles hotel and railroad men are confident that 1926 will go down in history as a record tourist season in this territory.

Hotel managers report increase of anywhere from 10 to 25 per cent in this summer's business over that of last year. The hotels catering to the more wealthy class of tourists report not only an unusual number of inquiries from prospective visitors but also a large number of advance reservations. A significant thing about the inquiries received by the railroads is the fact that a large proportion of them are interested only in one-way tickets, the inference being that the prospective travelers intend to make this section their future home.

"One of the astonishing things about this summer's business has been the great number of unused return-trip tickets that have been turned in," said Charles E. Miller, advertising manager of the Union Pacific. "The visitors have found California so much to their liking that they have resolved to stay."

The same point was stressed by James B. Duffy, passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe, who stated that in 1925 some 7000 unused return-trip tickets were turned in and that this year the number would run greatly in excess of that figure.

"The tourist movement this year has been unprecedented and the inquiries reaching our offices indicate that it will increase as the season advances," said R. B. Robertson, assistant traffic manager of the Union Pacific. "These inquiries come both from prospective visitors and from persons who expect to become permanent California residents."

HARRY E. ANDREWS was not only a great editor, but a great teacher.

There are a lot of successful writers who look back to their reporter days on The Times, under Mr. Andrews, as their university training.

Emma Lindsay Squier, Julian Johnson, Frederick Bechdolt, Gordon Ray Young, Willard Huntington Wright and many other novelists and playwrights served their apprenticeship under him; and are free to say that they learned about writing from him.

SEEING THE POINT

I wish it were possible for me to pass Mr. Andrews's lessons to young writers.

One of the most valuable of these was to know the point of a story.

In those days we young reporters used to come bursting into the local news room to pour into his sympathetic ear the facts that we had found.

"Nothing in that," he would say, leaning back in his chair with his hands clasped behind his exceedingly handsome head.

Suddenly he would tilt forward in his chair. "Now! That's the story!"

INTERVIEWING BUFFALO BILL

For instance, that Buffalo Bill's adventures with the wild red Indians held no dramatic thrills; but Buffalo Bill's amazing remarks about literature was a point to which his quick mind leaned.

Just so, he impatiently waved away Lillian Russell's opinions about drama; but he tilted forward when I told him that she said that no girl could be safe in the world without a religion. Any kind of religion—just so she believed it hard enough.

One thing you learned in short order from Mr. Andrews . . .

State Students Win Prizes in Poster Contest

W.C.T.U. Survey of Former Saloon Sites Recited

Real Estate Values Boosted by Knell of Barroom

BY VALERIE WATROUS

Any discussion of prohibition, like charity, ought to begin at home.

There is much to be said about California, according to Mrs. R. Scott Duncan, press chairman for the national convention of the Womans' Temperance Union which is entering today upon its fifty-fourth annual session.

One of the things she has to say is that two of the first prizes in the national poster contest in which school children throughout the country participated were won by daughters of California. Little Evelyn Pieri, a Santa Inez fourth-grade student, won first prize for the best reproduction of a temperance story, and Miss Juliet Heilborn, Gurneyville, won the first prize offered to the high schools.

In a survey of cities and towns recently made by the W.C.T.U., to determine what kind of enterprises now occupied the sites formerly held by saloons, some interesting facts were revealed.

The 119 places where liquor was sold over the bars in Los Angeles before 1918 are now given over to stores, barber shops, markets, banks and other kinds of business.

REALTY VALUES BOOSTED

Real estate in the sections where the saloon formerly flourished has increased in value. This is not only true in Los Angeles, which has enjoyed a phenomenal growth since 1918, but it is true of towns and cities throughout the country.

Sacramento, which in 1924 had an estimated population of 72,260, supported 146 saloons prior to the Eighteenth Amendment. The survey map shows that these were clustered about the Southern Pacific Railroad yards, and since their disappearance they have given place to stores, barber shops and a number of factories. Here also real estate values have increased.

Fresno, with a population of 58,000, had but twenty-four saloons. Service stations, drug stores, restaurants and real-estate offices are now established there. Fresno draws its activities from the fertile fruit orchards that surround it, and an agricultural population never has been an inebriate one.

Glancing over Mrs. Duncan's survey maps, Madison, Wis., a university town, with an estimated population of 46,385 in 1924, had ninety-four saloons in 1914. These were voted out of existence before 1918 with a marked increase in bank deposits, in savings accounts, and in the ownership of homes. Those licensed liquor dispensaries sites are now occupied by six factories, four garages, eighteen hotels, several playgrounds and schools, markets and banks.

It is interesting to observe that the majority of these saloon locations are now housing food shops rather than stores dispensing other merchandise.

Wherever the south of Europe had contributed generously to a city's population, there the licensed liquor venders were not so well supported and they were fewer in number. Not that they were more abstemious than peoples from the northern section of the hemisphere, but they were drinkers of wine in their homes rather than whisky and beer bought over the bar.

SCHOOL TAKES OVER SITE

An old-time saloon site in Cincinnati now holds a night school where foreigners receive instruction in Americanization. A large hospital, a Boy Scout headquarters and a community center have replaced some of the saloons in Council Bluffs. In Youngstown a brewery has become a cold-storage plant, and in another Ohio city an ice cream plant with a capitalization of $500,000, which sends its product into three bordering States, is housed in a brewery.

A children's home occupies a former brewery in Galion, O.

"Having made the children homeless it is but justice that they should find shelter under its roof," observed a national delegate as the survey was being discussed.

Vermillion, O., presents the paradoxical spectacle of huge wine casks converted into summer cottages. No change has been made in the shape of these 60,000-gallon containers and, of course, "you cannot know the wine by the barrel," nor "judge the tenant by corners of his house."

Indeed, one wonders if the occupants of these strange summer villas, on occasion declare: "I have no ivy out . . . the nectar of good wits will sell itself."

Some time ago a writer in one of our national magazines charged the W.C.T.U. with having discontinued its educational campaign after the Eighteenth Amendment became a part of our Constitution.

This is denied by Mrs. Duncan. According to the reports of Miss Cora F. Stoddard of Boston, director of the department of scientific temperance instruction, this work has gone persistently on. Four years ago 25,000 young people engaged in the essay contests conducted by the W.C.T.U. as against 250,000 in 1926.

"There is not a State that does not have some form of temperance education in its schools," said Mrs. Duncan. "Not only are we working among the junior and senior high schools, but among the colleges, and our workers report that in many the Patriotic Roll, which of course is the upholding of every article of the Constitution, has 100 per cent of the students' signatures."

LAKE CLUB PLANNING ACTIVE FALL SEASON

With the return of Bertram D. Lackey, president of the Malibou Lake Club, from a month in the high Sierras plans are under way for an active fall season at the club, which numbers in its membership many of the leading sportsmen of Southern California. As a curtain raiser to the fall and winter activities a cabaret dinner-dance will be given next Saturday evening, and President Lackey announces that every week-end from now on will bring an elaborate entertainment program. Trap shooting, tennis and water sports on the expansive Malibou Lake call forth a throng of members each Sunday, while those with a penchant for quail and duck shooting are looking forward to the opening of the season with special interest this year.

POMONA FAIR TO SURPASS ALL OTHERS

Great Exposition Opens Doors to Public Tuesday

CALIFORNIA'S great fair opens Tuesday at 8 a.m. at Pomona. The Los Angeles County Fair has grown in the years of its existence to be the largest in the West in the number and quality of exhibits and entertainment. During the week of the 28th inst. to October 2, it is estimated 2,140,000 people will visit the exposition. Every horse with any record of consequence in California will appear in the afternoon racing programs on the fast half-mile track. More than 200 horses from the best-known stables of the United States will appear each evening in the largest night horse show yet attempted in California.

Horse Events Feature of Program

Above, Bounder, owned by Revel English, Chino, with Miss Ruth Burns up, clearing the hurdles at the night horse show. Center, a finish of the last heat of one of the fastest races ever held on the Pomona track. They are in order, Santa Chrysta, Col. Pointer and Dr. Nick. They all have wonderful performance records. They will meet again on the Pomona track this week. Below, country maidens anticipate the milkmaid contest at the county fair. The milk-pail champion will be awarded a trip to the Pacific Slope Dairy Show at Oakland at the expense of the fair association.

The agricultural and horticultural display will include plate, rack and feature displays of practically every fruit and vegetable grown in the Southland. Citrus fruits, apples, pears and grapes will predominate. This department is housed in a tent covering three acres of ground, equal to three circus tents. The decorative scheme in this main tent is the most elaborate and dazzling ever attempted by a fair or fruit exposition in Southern California. The design is Japanese throughout. All the available Japanese crepe in Los Angeles and San Francisco was purchased to effect the scheme and a large order was received from New York, 16,000 yards in all.

It will be the closing week of the California racing circuit. Winners from the various shows throughout the State will meet for the last showdown of the season. The fair association increased the purses this year with the result that thirty more horses are entered than ever before and the fastest horses in the West are participating. Some record events are in prospect. The champion five-gaited saddle horse, Edna May's King, which won the $10,000 world champion stake at the Kentucky State Fair last week, will appear in the night show with many others.

The live-stock section of the fair, cattle, sheep, swine, goats, fat stock, has been enlarged and extended. These departments have proven to be the best marketing mediums for pure-bred live stock in the West.

The rabbit, pigeon and poultry departments rival any on this continent.

Special excursions will visit the fair from different sections of the Southland during the five days of the exposition. Many cities of the county will furnish the entertainment on their respective days. Long Beach, Santa Monica and Huntington Park bands will be heard in programs during the week.

COMEDY SLANT GIVEN 'REVOLT'

epidemic before Washington would move. He ordered another great "clean-up" of conditions. But he did not have much luck, according to press reports. At best the victory of the general and his men could be described as a tactical one in which "our forces retired to already prepared positions."

It was one time when the marines had landed, but didn't have the situation very well in hand. Marshal Sittel came to the rescue and bundled the army of insurrectos aboard a train and brought them to our new scientifically built and equipped County Jail. Reports of the "army within an army" did not frighten Jailer Frank Dewar and his men. The insurrectos were put through the disinfecting process as were their clothes. They reported they could find no pediculariès or whatever they are.

Now, if you ask Juan, Pedro, Jose or any of the rest of the "army" if it is true they had cooties on them, they will either shrug their shoulders and reply "no spick Eengliss," or they will stoically deny it. No, they did no carry any "las pulgas" with them. "But the authorities say you did," you protest with surprise.

Oh—si—si—mebbe one-two los nombres had some "pulgas"—but that is all.

In passing, it should be noted that this asserted "army" is not made up of the rag-tag and bobtail that you might expect. Those in jail are much above the average Mexican you see lounging about the Plaza. The government says there are some very good soldiers among them, some truck drivers, mechanics, men men who know how to handle firearms. Most of them were living around Los Angeles before they started on the journey south. There are a few Americans and European soldiers of fortune among them.

QUILL CLUB TO MEET

Membership in the Quill Club of the University of Southern California will be decided on October 15, according to Marjorie Hull, Trojan co-ed and Keeper of the Parchments of the Quill Club. According to Milton Booth, Chancellor of the Quill, membership in the literary fraternity at U. S. C. is based entirely on creative ability, and original manuscripts are required for candidacy.

cific pointed out that the convention of the Traveling Passenger Agents' Association, now in session at the Alexandria, and the convention of Railroad Ticket Agents, to take place in San Diego next month will do more to increase travel to California than any other conventions conducted in this territory for years past.

"The last meetings of these associations took place in Florida just before the heavy movement to that State," said Mr. McFaul. "They were thoroughly sold on Florida. These men are the salesmen who come in actual contact with travelers and tourists all over the United States and who make up the passengers' itineraries.

HUNDREDS OF DELEGATES

"There are about 500 delegates to the Traveling Passenger Agents' convention and there will be about 1800 delegates to the Ticket Agents' meeting. Each association will spend about ten days on the Pacific Coast, most of it in Southern California. It is the plan of the railroads to so thoroughly imbue these delegates with the charm and opportunities here that they will go back home California enthusiasts."

Mr. Duffy of the Sante Fe stated that his road's California tourist business during the present year has been from 15 to 20 per cent greater than in 1925. "The heavy summer business has been in part due to the advertising of the All-Year Club and in part to the excellent business conditions existing in the East and Middle West," said Mr. Duffy. "To stimulate the winter business, the railroads are now doing a vast amount of advertising of the new sixty-three hour train to Chicago, which will go into operation on November 14."

All the transcontinental roads are featuring the new fast-time train. It will not replace any of the trains now running but will be an additional train, carrying all new equipment.

The hotel managers of Los Angeles are no less optimistic than the railroad men over the prospects for the coming winter season.

"The Biltmore already has a large number of advance reservations, and every mail brings a large volume of new inquiries," said Charles Baad, the manager. "Our summer business in 1926 has been the best in the history of the Biltmore. In June we ran about 10 per cent more than last year, in July 12 per cent, and in August 25 per cent. Thus far in September the business has run considerably ahead of the same period in 1925.

"One of the outstanding features of this year's summer business has been the high class of travelers. I believe the efforts of the All-Year Club have been in a large measure responsible for this business, because it has been made clear to the eastern traveler that California's summer climate is equal to that of the winter season."

"The year 1926 has shown a very definite increase over 1925 in practically every phase of our business at the Ambassador and Alexandria," said A. Frank, vice-president and general manager of the Ambassador Hotels Corporation.

"The comprehensive national advertising carried out by the All-Year Club and the Chamber of Commerce, the cutting down of the time on the railroad schedule between here and Chicago, the great increase in the diversity of attractions offered to tourists who come here have all contributed toward making 1926 a typically 'California' year.

"During a great part of June and July the Ambassador was occupied almost to capacity. Our advance reservations for the coming winter season assure us that this season will bring not only to us but to all hotels and the city generally an influx of tourists, perhaps never before equaled."

CLUB SUPPORT URGED

Mr. Frank suggested that he believed the All-Year Club should be more liberally supported than it has been in the past in view of the good results that have followed its work. "There is no question but that the business men of this city have profited greatly in the past through the subscriptions they have made to the club and I believe that if the annual fund could be increased to $1,000,000, the returns would be in proportion to the amount invested in national advertising and promotion of this community," he declared.

F. M. Dimmick, manager of the Clark Hotel, stated that the business of that institution for September had run about 25 per cent more than in 1925, and that the hotel already has many advance reservations for the winter months as well as a large volume of daily inquiries.

"Summer tours have been a feature of this season's business," said Mr. Dimmick. "I do not recall that they have ever before been so numerous or composed of such large groups of travelers.

D. H. Hart, one of the owners of the Rosslyn, placed the excess of this season's business over that of 1925 at 10 per cent. "July and August were particularly good months with us," said Mr. Hart. "We have entertained an unusually large number of groups on tour. I am inclined to the belief that this year's business may run very close to the banner year of 1923."

H. C. Wagner, the manager of the Hayward, stated that his house has done a larger summer business than in 1925, despite the fact that the building has been undergoing enlargements and improvements, which at times has materially interfered with the business.

"Our hotel has a large commercial trade and we are able to form a pretty good idea of general business conditions in the city from the length of time the traveling men stay in the house," said Mr. Wagner. "Since the first of August it would appear that the business of mercantile establishments has been unusually good for many of the commercial travelers have remained with us sometimes for weeks at a time."

To cut out introductions—not to "lead up" to anything.

He taught you to make a headlong dive into the middle of the subject.

"Play your trumps first," he said. "Don't tell what you are going to tell; just tell it."

SHORT SENTENCES

Perhaps the most valuable thing any of us learned from him was to put what we had to say in short, sharp, direct sentences.

Never to mix two statements into one sentence. Say one thing at a time and let that sink in.

Also not to try to be profound.

NEWSPAPER COURAGE

Personally, the most that I got from Mr. Andrews was a species of intellectual courage—of which he had a lot.

I remember at the outbreak of the World War he told me to get up a series of articles—one a week—on the strategy of the war.

I dug up a retired army officer who appeared to have invented military strategy. He knew all about "attacks in echelon" and many other profundities.

When I came in with my proud discovery Mr. Andrews laughed.

"Oh, forget your army officer," he said. "Go, get a military map and tell the folks what the war is about."

THE POWER OF RIDICULE

Something else that we all learned from him—as writers—was the terrible power of ridicule.

I recall one political campaign in which a local politician organized a series of marching clubs throughout California in behalf of his candidate. Upon examination we discovered that there wasn't anybody in the marching clubs except himself.

Never shall I forget the fun that Mr. Andrews had with that phantom army.

He used to issue war bulletins of their doings until the originator was on the verge of flight or suicide—he couldn't decide which.

THE MIRACLE WORKER

Another time I remember that a fake miracle worker came to town. He gave public exhibitions of his "healing."

Along with other reporters I was prepared to fight him with solemn references to Scripture, etc.

But when I told Mr. Andrews of the celerity of the miracle worker he looked up with a twinkling laugh and said: "Flips miracles like flapjacks."

The next morning after Mr. Andrews's flapjack story the fraud packed up his tents and silently left for parts unknown.

"MAKE IT SPLASH"

The last lesson has clung to me the longest of all.

Whatever you write, write it quickly. Mr. Andrews had no patience with fussing over stories. He said that most writers mauled their stories to death and suffocation.

"Oh, just sit down and tear it out," he would say. "Write it before you lose it."

His own thoughts worked like greased lightning. And he held that good narrative should go with a rush.

And you can't rush a story by using a literary microscope and a watchmaker's tools.

LIBRARY AFFECTED BY SCHOOL OPENING

The new and improved public library is just beginning to be affected by the fall semester of the various schools and colleges in and around Los Angeles, officials of the institution declare.

According to statistics compiled in the old building, the circulation during October, 1926, increased one-third over that of summer months. It is predicted that the October, 1927, circulation will jump one-third to one-half. Summer attendance was declared to be unusual, but that is attributed to the departments added, increased number of volumes available and general inducements of the new building.

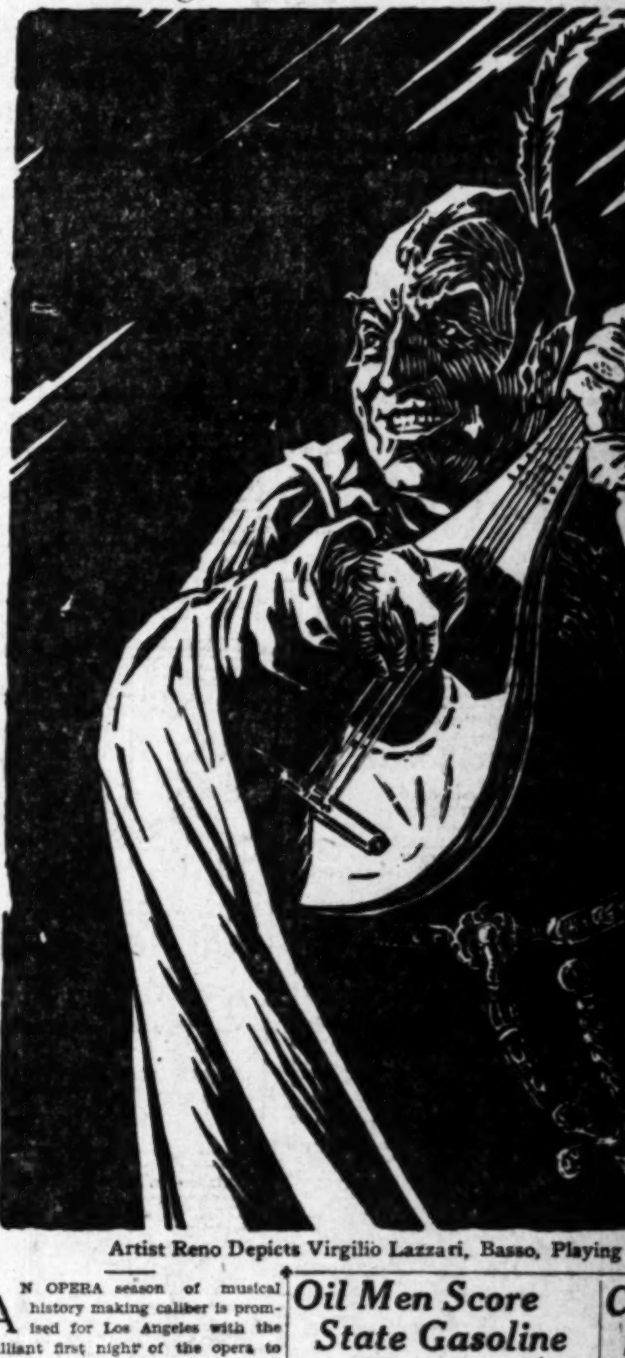
OPERA SEASON OPENS HERE NEXT

Outstanding Artists to be Heard in Sing



Artist Reno Depicts Virgilio Lazzari, Basso, Playing Mephistophele

AN OPERA season of musical history making caliber is promised for Los Angeles with the brilliant first night of the opera to be given by the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association in the Shrine Auditorium scheduled for a week from tomorrow, October 4.

Famous stars from all corners of the world are to be in the leading roles and are on their way or have already arrived in Los Angeles. The chorus, comprising California singers making their debut in opera, is trained to a fine point and has been given enthusiastic praise by Giacomo Spadoni of Chicago opera, and Richard Hageman, general director of the season, who hails from the Metropolitan Operahouse, New York.

Workmen are busy this week installing the elaborate scenic settings and designs, painted by the scenic artist of La Scala Grand Opera Company, Milan. Ballet dancers, under supervision of Theodore Kosloff, are in final rehearsals.

The ticket sale has been beyond expectations. With 6400 seats in the Shrine Auditorium, good locations for buyers of every price ticket have been assured and the opera association office has been a scene of activity lately with purchasers coming from long distances. Seats are now on sale at the Philharmonic Auditorium box office.

ARTISTS MAKE DEBUT

The debut of Aroldo Lindi, tenor, of Milan, who scored a sensation on the continent last year, the presentation to the west coast of Luella Melium, acclaimed "the new coloratura" of Chicago Civic Opera, and introduction also to the Pacific Coast of Marcel Journet, basso, the artist, who paired with Caruso, are particularly eventful evenings of the season.

Lindi is to be heard in two of his best-known roles, "Aida" and "Il Trovatore." Journet is going to sing in one of his greatest roles, made historic by his association with Caruso in it, in "Samson and Delilah."

CHICAGO SINGERS IMPORTED

The association is paying $57,000 alone for stars.

Practically all of the outstanding singers of the Chicago Opera Company are on the lists, including Tito Schipa, tenor; Louise Homer, contralto; Georges Baklanoff, baritone; Luella Melius, coloratura soprano; Rosa Raisa, soprano; Virgilio Lazzari, basso; Charles Marshall, tenor; Giacomo Rimini, baritone; Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Richard Bonelli, baritone; Florence Macbeth, soprano; Paul Althouse, tenor; Edouard Cotteuil, basso; Desire Defrere, baritone; Antonio Cortis, tenor; Claudia Muzio, and Elsa Alsen, sopranos, not to mention the directors.

Baklanoff is one of the great names among present-day singing actors. A first baritone of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, he sings every summer in the leading operahouse of Germany.

Raisa is a dominant figure in opera and has opened the Chicago season for six consecutive years. She has been selected by Toscanini for his La Scala premieres. Lazzari is one of the finest bassos of today. Marshall, the heroic tenor of Chicago Opera, is to be heard in Los Angeles in "Samson and Delilah."

Preliminary to the opening of the season, a series of free opera talks will be given, beginning tomorrow, at the Philharmonic Auditorium, between the hours of 12 and 1 by Ethel Graham Lynde, noted musical lecturer. These talks will cover the repertoire of the season, telling the story of each opera, and explaining the music and drama. The operalogs will be given each day during next week at the noon hour.

DEBATERS ORGANIZED

A co-ed debating squad is in the process of organization at the University of Southern California. Last year the Trojan team, composed of all men, ended the season with no defeats in thirty debates. The Trojanette orators are to be drawn from the feminine contingent of the student body of the school of speech of U. S. C., of which Ray K. Immel is dean.

Oil Men Score State Gasoline Tax Increase

According to an announcement issued recently by H. H. Maxson, secretary and manager of the Independent Petroleum Marketers' Association of California, the oil companies, refiners and marketers of that association, are opposed to any increase in the tax rate on gasoline, and urge the public to vote no on this initiative measure calling for a 3-cent tax, which will appear on the ballot next November.

The Independent Petroleum Marketers' Association opposed this measure at the last session of the Legislature with estimates setting forth the future earnings of the present 2-cent gasoline tax and showed that the natural increases in the amount of highway revenues would supply adequate road funds.

Since that time, the actual growth of the gas tax, revenue has exceeded the estimates of the oil association. The annual revenue is now more than $16,000,000, it is stated, and greater than the gasoline tax collected by any other State of the Union.

CHORAL CLASS ORGANIZED

To further high ideals of tone quality, interpretation, and the artistic phase of choral work, a new student choral class is being organized at the College of Music of the University of Southern California, under the direction of Prof. Arnold H. Wagner.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO STORM RELIEF RECEIVED BY KHJ

Broadcast Listeners-in Swell Fund Being Collected for Victims of Florida Disaster

BY MAE PRYCE BROOKS

Evidence that the great storm which cut a swath of death and destruction across the State of Florida has opened the hearts and purses of sympathizers throughout the country has fully materialized at the studio of KHJ during the past week. Numbers of contributions to help the growing Times fund have been sent in through this studio and numerous incidents of self-denial among the friends of the station have come to light.

One KHJ friend, a woman 80 years old, came downtown to buy a hat, learning that funds were being received at the studio, she decided to wear last year's headgear and contribute the purchase price to the fund.

A contribution of $500 came from one who desired to share with the storm unfortunates.

A visitor from Dallas, Tex., Magness, 7-year-old reader of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's "Land," was a guest at the children's hour.

A golden-haired lassie whom KHJ friends know as the "Sunshine Girl" and who comes on the air Saturday evening from this station is declared to be making quite a name for herself. Little Nona Clapp, who is but 5 years of age, has won silver cups for her dancing, and she is a member of the Juvenile Quartet of KHJ. This quartet comprises four little girls—two who sing, one who plays the piano and one the violin. They will appear at the Philharmonic Auditorium on Sunday in a very effective miniature act. Nona is the soprano of the quartet and has a voice of rare sweetness. Last night she sang "Dream" and gave a recitation.

"The Tale of a Mouse" by Marshall was nicely done by Flora Julien, 5 years of age, and a pupil of Kate Noel Forte. Rosetta, also 5 years of age, read "Faith, Hope and Charity," and related a number of jokes. Dolly, "Dolly of Radioland" gave recitations; Arthur Stevens, "Arbor of KHJ" and Marjorie Lowe both gave readings.

The noon hour presented the Stewart-Warner Trio in semiclassics, Ellis, pianist, pupil of Dr. Hall; Ed Robinson and his ukulele and Madge McConnell in popular songs.

Following the regular noon program Art Pabst held forth for half an hour, telling his stories and singing his mirth-provoking songs.

Perry and his orchestra of Smiles furnished the dance at the close of the day's broadcast.

Radio listeners-in will have the privilege of hearing the Levings Trio. These young ladies are musicians of the highest type, each one being a finished artist. The personnel of this trio comprises Grace Wheeler Warren, violin; Marcia Levings, 'cello and Doris Levings, piano.

AVIATION RADIO FIELD GROWING

New Science to Take Leading Part in Air Progress

Great Strides Being Made in Communication Methods

Problems Similiar to Those of Marine Navigation

It is evident that the comparatively new science of radio will have a steadily increasing part in expediting flying and increasing the safety of air navigation, this modern means of transportation. This is the opinion of Dr. J. H. Dellinger, radio expert of the Bureau of Standards, who is giving a great part of his time now to perfecting aircraft radio communication systems. The regulation of commercial flying and the country's airways, as well as radio, are now under the supervision of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, and he is utilizing the best services of the experts under him to solve the air traffic and communication problems which confront the organization of a national system of airways.

Commenting on the application of radio to air navigation before the aeronautical division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at Philadelphia recently, Dr. Dellinger pointed out that among the major uses of radio was communicaiton with aircraft, in which service, as with marine craft, it was the only practical means of receiving and sending information. In his talk he spoke in part as follows:

"The applications of radio to aircraft are now going on with great rapidity and are similar in principle to the marine uses, but very different in the actual working out. Both for marine vessels and for aircraft radio provides the ideal means of exchanging messages, of providing navigational aids, and of remote control. There is but little field of usefulness for remote control except in military practice.

DIFFERENCES IN FIELDS

"In its important functions of carrying messages and of providing aids to navigation, there are clear lines of differentiation in the evolution of radio for marine and for air use. These depend largely on the essential differences in speed, size and weight limitation. Another difference is the special problem of landing which the airplane offers. Whereas an airplane is a small, light, rapidly moving object, a marine vessel is, from the radio viewpoint, but little different from an island. It can carry any type and amount of radio apparatus and can be as leisurely as it pleases in using it. Lighter-than-air craft is intermediate between the airplane and marine vessel in its radio requirements. It can use any of the radio aids that an airplane can and some of those adapted to marine vessels in addition. Airplanes are principally in view in this discussion, particularly because the problems which require attention at the present time arise out of the need of developing radio aids to airplane navigation on the existing and rapidly developing civil airways.

"It is generally agreed that the primary and most urgently needed application of radio in air navigation is simply that of communication. The great problem of the airplane at the present time is that of landing. The maintenance of communication so that the pilot, regardless of weather conditions, may be kept advised of suitable landing places is the first requisite. Comparing airplane radio communication with that applicable to marine vessels, it may be stated that aircraft require telephony instead of telegraphy, and that the communication be at higher frequencies, and, generally speaking, over shorter distances than for marine vessels. The use of continuous-wave radio telegraphy is inherently a more economical method of communication than radio telephony and is the natural means of communication for ships. This, however, requires the use of an operator trained in the telegraphic code. Most airplanes now have no crew other than the pilot and this condition will doubtless be true for a long time to come. It is not to be expected that the pilot will also be a telegraph operator, and it therefore follows that radio telephony rather than telegraphy will be the system used on aircraft. Higher frequencies will be used than in marine communication because of the relatively small size of air planes. It is inconvenient and undesirable to use long antennas on airplanes. Short antennas work most efficiently with high frequencies. It is therefore, to be expected that relatively high frequencies will become standard for aircraft radio telephony.

SHORT DISTANCE WORK

"I mentioned that aircraft communication is characterized by shorter distance work than marine communication. This is true both because of the weight limitation on transmitting or receiving apparatus carried on the airplane and also because of the interference to reception produced by the airplane engine ignition system. A shielding system can and should be used on all airplane engines which largely eliminates this interference but the perfection of this shielding is limited by the additions to the total weight. It may be said furthermore that there is no good reason why great distances need to be covered in aircraft communication. Here we have an essential advantage over marine navigation. On the airways of the country radio, telephone-transmitting and receiving stations can be placed at convenient and relatively short intervals. These will be advantageous for the aircraft and incidentally will be a more economical system than the use of a very few stations of great power placed great distances apart. In this respect aircraft communication has an advantage over marine communication.

"It is generally agreed that communication to the aircraft is much more important than communication in the other direction. It will add immeasurably to the pace of mind of the pilots and the safety of flying when all airplanes carry radio receiving sets and there is an adequate system of ground stations telephoning information as to weather, landing conditions, etc. As the airways develop and passenger carrying becomes more common, there will be increasing use of radio telephony from the aircraft as well. Two-way communication will, of course, be a great advance. There is a great variety of technical problems involved in this and all the other applications of radio to air navigation.

"It would be impossible to prophesy the limit of possibilities of radio in connection with air navigation. In addition to radio telephony, the directive beacon, and the marker beacon, there remain the further possibilities of field localizers, direction finders and landing altimeters. Research is in progress on those additional aids. They all offer difficulties but will doubtless be worked out forms to aircraft use."

"SLEEP BABY SLEEP" VIA RADIO

Morpheus Now Voyages on Air Waves

Josephine Norman and Pickaninny

"ROCK-A-BYE MY BABY," and other crooning lullaby melodies from the old South take on a new meaning when Miss Josephine Norman, De Mille actress tunes them in via radio to put a real pickaninny to sleep.

"It was a new sensation to me," explained Miss Norman, "and no doubt it was not exactly according to Hoyle for the child either, but anyway, it worked. I don't know whether or not it was better than his mother's variety of lullaby, but he at least went to sleep in a very few minutes after we tuned in."

Which is just another use for radio. Radios have been used to give us morning exercise, lessons in housekeeping, lessons in bridge, French and what not, for dinner programs, for bed-time stories and for dancing parties. Now they put the children to sleep. Just when they will be used to put the cat out or rout the prowling burglar has not as yet been ascertained.

Miss Norman used a Stewart-Warner radio in her latest experiment. It is known as a "matched unit" in that all the different parts and accessories are made to match each other. A standard navy hook-up is used in the circuit which largely accounts for its excellent tone and distance-getting abilities. Ungar and Watson distribute the Stewart-Warner in Southern California.

DISTANCE CONTEST OPENED

South African Newspaper Offers Unique Prize for Amateur Radio Communication

JOHANNESBURG (South Africa) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—A silver replica of an African springbok, a variety of small antelope, and the national symbol of South Africa, has been offered by the Rand Daily Mail, of this city, as the prize to the United States, Canadian, or Hawaiian amateur who effects the greatest number of two-way contacts on short waves with South African amateurs during the months of September and October.

The tests a being held under the auspices of the American Radio Relay League of Hartford, Ct., and the South African Radio Relay League, with headquarters in this city. Any amateur in either country with a transmitting station is eligible to participate, and the only requirement of the contest is that each American, Canadian or Hawaiian station work just as many South African amateurs as possible during the two months. If an American station works the same South African amateur more than once in a given week, only one contact will be counted toward the total. The making of schedules between stations is prohibited, in addition.

At the close of the contest period the two national organizations will collect the records in their respective countries and submit them to the contest judges. The board of judges is composed of the editor of the Rand Daily Mail; the editor of QST, the magazine of the American Radio Relay League; the communications manager of the ARRL; the secretary of the South African Relay League, and the chief engineer of the broadcast station located here.

For about a year various American amateurs have been talking with a limited number of South African amateur radio stations, but this communication has been confined to a few of the more prominent stations both in this country and America.

It was to overcome this condition and get a large number of stations in each country to communicate with each other that the contest was planned, and already the preliminary returns show that a far greater number of contacts are being effected than ever before.

New Stations Licensed and Changes Made

Five new stations went on the air last week with licenses issued by the Department of Commerce, and ten established stations changed their wave lengths. The new stations are located in Newburgh, N. Y.; Monroe, Mich.; Jersey City, N. J.; Carthage, Ill.; and Prescott, Ariz. They are all small stations, the Jersey City broadcaster being the largest and having only 200 watts power. The new broadcasters bring the total number licensed since July 1 to four and the total on the air to 571. There were no licenses issued during the preceding week.

Of the ten changes in either channels, two do not amount to anything, since they show changes of only one kilocycle, an amount of space impossible to estimate on a receiving-set dial. Unfortunately, however, these two shifts take stations WDRC and KSBA off the standard channels established by the Department of Commerce radio supervisors leaving only nine kilocycles separation between them and some stations on adjacent waves. On September 18, total shifts of wave lengths numbered forty since the authority of the department to assign definite wave lengths was denied.

The John Day Company published on September 15, "Less Than Kin" by Charles Caldwell Dobie, author of "The Blood Red Dawn" and "Broken to the Plow," "That Last Infirmity" by Charles Brackett, author of "Week-End;" and "My Heresy" by Bishop William Montgomery Brown, whose "Communism and Christianism" was one of the causes of his deposition from the Protestant Episcopal ministry.

Sweden Makes Great Strides in Radio Field

Next to the United States, a report shows, the United Kingdom has gone the furthest into radio development with 35 sets per 1000 population. Sweden ranks next with 30.3 sets per 1000 population, followed by the Union of South Africa, Denmark, Austria, Germany and France.

The development of radio in Sweden has been outstanding, the report reveals. Up to about the beginning of 1924 there was practically no market at all for radio equipment, largely because of the total lack of broadcasting and government restrictions. On March 31, last, almost 200,000 sets were licensed throughout the country.

EXPLORER TAKES SET INTO NORTH

Another Expedition Selects Popular Receiver for Hard Service in Polar Regions

The dependability of Atwater Kent radios is again proven by its selection for use on another Far North exploring expedition, according to Ray Thomas, Southern California distributor for Atwater Kent radios.

"George Palmer Putnam, explorer and publisher is leading an expedition to Greenland to collect material for the American Museum of Natural History," Thomas stated, "and his ship, the Effie Morrissey will be cut off from civilization many months—except for its radio sets.

"In the past, before radio became dependable, polar expeditions were about the most monotonous experience men could endure. A few months out of port and topics of conversation were all exhausted and then everybody was bored to death.

"Now all that is changed. All recent expeditions have been equipped with Atwater Kent sets, and no matter where the explorers are, they can keep in touch with civilization, know all the news as it happens, and always have something to think and talk about.

"Putnam's shpi will have several Atwater Kents and speakers and when parties go ashore for long periods they will take a receiving set along to keep them in touch with the world."

The Voltaire who engages Mr. Chase's pen is not the deist and skeptic, but the human, vivid Voltaire, the idol of French court society, wit, poet, dramatist, historian, social revolutionist and master maker of publicity.

RADIO SAFETY RULES ISSUED

Bureau of Standards Provides Code to Govern Installation of Equipment

Safety rules for radio installations have just been issued by the Bureau of Standards in the forms of a handbook supplementing the National Electrical Safety Code.

The work provides rules for the installation of transmitting stations, electrical supply stations, etc., and the construction of antennas. These rules were formulated and approved by a sectional committee organized according to the rules of procedure of the American Engineering Standards Committees.

Local Engineer Brings Out New Radio Receiver

A. J. Faulck, local electrical engineer who gained national prominence with his invention of the Faulck radio speaker has recently developed and brought to perfection a greatly simplified radio that operates entirely without batteries. The necessary current is obtained from ordinary house lighting current. The set plugs in like an electric iron or any other household electrical device. This new invention of Faulck's is declared to be practically fool proof, requiring no special care and no attention. It is simple in manufacture and is sold at popular prices.

One tube is used in the compartment that displaces the batteries and five tubes are used for the radio proper. The tone is very good. The set is operated and stations are selected with a single dial. The Advance Electric Company on East Second distributes this radio in Los Angeles.

NEW DEALER POLICY WILL GO IN FORCE

Company Plans to Put Permanency in Field of Radio Distribution

Putting permanency into the business of building, distributing and maintaining radio receiving sets is the chief feature of the Freed-Eisemann policy as outlined by Arthur Freed.

Freed left Los Angeles last week after spending several days with J. A. Hartley, president of the Pacific Wholesale Radio Company, Southern California Freed-Eisemann distibutors, completing plans for the immediate inauguration of the permanent-dealer program.

"The day of the itinerant radio representative is fast fading," said Freed. "Radio owners naturally prefer to deal with established representatives who stick to one high-grade line of sets, year after year. Our new plan of permanent representation is built along the same lines as that used in the display and distribution of automobiles.

"You have motor-car dealers in this city who have handled the same line of cars for years. They have built up a permanent following among motorists and sell their patrons new models of the same make of cars at regular intervals.

"That is exactly the idea Freed-Eisemann is putting into effect with radio sets. The owner of a Freed-Eisemann radio receiver can come back to the same place month after month, year after year and find the same Freed-Eisemann representatives ready to serve him and show him the newest Freed-Eisemnn models.

"Our new line is so graduated in power, appearance and range that the most exacting radio devotee can start with the smallest, least costly model and run the gamut of satisfactory radio reception without deviating from Freed-Eisemann, get all that is obtainable today in radio operation and satisfy every desire for beauty of exterior, simplicity of control and sincerity of reproduction."

Willard Experience Built This Radio Power Unit

The same organization that perfected the Willard Radio "B" Battery is behind the Willard Radio "B" Power Unit.

This different Power Unit gives its owner: Steady Power from the light socket because it is designed to rectify both sides of the wave in house-lighting current.

Real Economy because current is used only while your set is in operation—and there are no tubes to replace.

Safety because the solution is non-acid; harmless even if spilled.

EA MONSTERS

Two Newport Beach swimmers started off all greased up for a twenty-seven-mile swim to Catalina Island, and were six or seven miles on their way when they called it off suddenly because of a school of whales in the immediate vicinity. These denizens of the deep later proved to be navy submarines. At any rate they wound up the day's water sports.

RUNNING AMUCK

In Constantinople there are few, if any, traffic laws. The native motorists run through town at forty miles an hour, passing street cars on either side, charging among pedestrians in any old way, careening around corners and violating every rule of safety. Now if we only could export some of our flivver drivers to Constantinople.

AN IDEA FOR MUSSOLINI

Premier Mussolini of Italy has presented an organ to the Parthenon, where are the tombs of Italian sovereigns, as well as that of Raphael, the great artist. The organ is to be so placed that it will not mar the beauty of the ancient structure. So all's well, providing Mussy does not decide that he is the best composer in the world and insist on the organist playing only the tunes he turns out.

SOFT SOAP

It takes 2,500,000,000 pounds of soap per annum to wash up 25,000,000 families in America and keep them in standing collars, says Dr. N. R. Whitney, economic research expert of a well-known soap factory in Cincinnati.

And it seems to have required more in 1925 than in 1924. Either there has been an increase in population or else a larger sanitary mind has developed.

However, from all appearances soft soap has had the largest output in this loved land. Nor has it been a scented toilet article. It seems that a republic cannot be run successfully without an abundant supply. Soft soap has a picturesque appeal to the American people.

Although the elective franchise may be wise to the fraud, yet it enjoys self-imposed delusion and revels in that comfortable feeling engendered by flattery. Julius Caesar said that we believe what we want to believe, and proved his proposition.

While much may be claimed for soft soap before election, yet it does not possess any remarkable cleansing quality. Not much comes out in the wash. However, people have short memories and their pride hides the pesky things in the back yard.

The increase of news and conscience has worked havoc with the soft-soap output at times; but human nature does not change and still enjoys having its whims coddled. Flatter the public and it will stand much. There is a suspicion that much of the Senatorial tribute in Pennsylvania and Illinois went for soft soap and whitewash.

BROOKHART AGAIN

A charge made by S. W. Brookhart, Iowa radical candidate for United States Senator, that big business was "tipped off" to the post-war deflation policy of the Federal Reserve Board and that the farmer was left in ignorance to his detriment, has been exploded by figures produced by a former Secretary of Agriculture. These show that banks in the agricultural sections actually expanded their loans at a time when those in the large industrial and financial centers were making drastic curtailments. Denials from two large packers and an oil company that had been named by Brookhart accompanied the figures.

A refutation of this statement was hardly necessary for anyone who followed newspaper accounts of business and banking affairs during the period immediately after the war. Deflation began with the big "buyers' strike" of 1920, not with any action by the bankers, and it was industry and not the farmers who suffered the first effects. Several large industrial concerns, including two of the greatest automobile manufacturing companies, obviously had had no prior notice, for their financial troubles were matters of widespread comment. One of these companies weathered the storm without a change of ownership, the other did not.

It was the same with hundreds of industrial concerns of lesser importance. The "buyers' strike" was an unpredictable and unpredicted event. Some extremely acute business men may have sensed its coming and trimmed sail accordingly. Industry nursed its own wounds and said nothing for the most part, and has by this time completely recovered. Agriculture is also now making its recovery; and that recovery will become more rapid as the farmers discover the virtues of the principle of co-operation, exemplified most fully in California.

The recovery of agriculture obviously is hindered by the output of blatherskites of the Brookhart type, who will say anything, no matter how little founded in fact, in order to get votes. The real friends of the farmer are pointing out sober and practical remedies for his difficulties and would be listened to and heeded were it not for the noise made by the demagogues.

THE OATH OF ATHENS

In these parlous days of national unrest and of civic corruption such as is being constantly called to public attention and for which divers political nostrums are suggested, it is with a deep-breathed amazement that one rereads the historic oath of Athens, to which the Greeks of the most illustrious period of Hellenic prosperity subscribed. The effect is as of a cool drink from one of the snow-fed springs of "many-fountained Ida," or a wind blowing from the heights of Olympus:

> We will never bring disgrace to this, our city, by any act of cowardice, nor ever desert our suffering comrades in the ranks; we will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city, both alone and with many; we will revere and obey the city's laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in those above us who are prone to annul or set them at naught; we will strive unceasingly to quicken the public sense of civic duty. Thus in all ways, we will transmit this city not less, but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us.

For ethical ideals and personal responsibility, that parallels the Boy Scouts' pledge of this modern Christian era. In fact, it suggests that there must have been many "good scouts" in ancient Athens, both out of political life and in it.

Would that all of us in privileged Los Angeles, which has been called by some the Athens of America in natural advantages and in cultural progress, might emulate the civic ideals of those who swore both to revere and to obey their city's laws and to do their best to incite a like reverence and respect in those prone to set them at naught—whether the offenders be above or below us in standing! Traffic tragedies would then actually come to be classed as an outrage instead of a mere breach of manners. Bootleggers would have to cower on the dark side of the alley instead of scorching the boulevard pavements with cut-outs open and sirens going full blast. Reputable professional people and social queens would not open their dinner parties with cocktails all around and snicker over the underhanded way in which they obtained the "makings." No public-school teacher, while avidly clutching at a State-paid salary, would inculcate insidious doctrines of anarchy in the impressionable minds of the potential citizens in their classrooms.

Other hoary institutions besides the Athenian Oath possess their good points. Rome had her Tarpeian Rock, upon which offenders against the state were invited to step out and be pushed off. There are several admirable locations in the Sierra Madre and the San Bernardino mountains where Los Angeles could establish a corresponding jumping-off station, from which the jumper would be guaranteed never to return by order of a pardon commission and make further trouble for his authority-respecting survivors. This ought to prove, if not a popular innovation, at least a paying one, as motion-picture concessions could be let by the city at a profitable figure. Rather more circumspect might all of us become under such a heroic regime, from the mere citizen-bystander naively tampering with legal evidence to His Honor on the inerrable woolsack.

Jerusalem, too, has had her features worthy of modern emulation. But where could Los Angeles establish a suitable Wailing Place for those who sincerely mourn the city's impaired purity and self-respect? It would have to be a wall erected somewhere between the City Hall and the harbor. But it couldn't be built under city contract before time to shift the location.

Perhaps one shall say that times have changed. Times may have changed! But purity of purpose and dignity of soul under persecution have not changed, from pagan Socrates to Christian Tyndale. And it is still true that, while innocence may be slain, it cannot be polluted in the citadels of its own inner temple.

AN ELIOTIST

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, recently deceased president emeritus of Harvard University, did more than choose a five-foot shelf of books. An enthusiastic Eliotist has an ambitious program for life. He has a way of carrying through as well as seeing through.

"Go to church" was the first ingredient of his prescription for a long life. This will appear fantastic to many. "Keep a clean heart and a good conscience" ran on his recipe. "A calm temperament, expectant of good!"

The majority imagines that retirement in spirit, mind and body will lengthen life. Few folks regard a daily dozen for the brain as important for longevity.

But Eliot said, "Give your mind exercise as well as your body—really think." An active mind keeps the heart pumping blood up to the highest levels in both soul and body. His 92 years appear to prove it.

"Exercise regularly, eat in moderation and take a full allowance of sleep," was his precept for the body. "Avoid indulgence in luxuries and the habitual use of any drug whatsoever." He even tabooed tobacco, tea and coffee.

Naturally he and his confrere, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, could not agree on many things. Possibly Butler has reached the point of saturation through his environment; Eliot may have partaken of his dry-as-dust literary atmosphere.

The world is "on the brink of a vast ocean of undiscovered truth" is an Eliotism in scientific adventure. He was a youth to the end of his years and was ever tiptoeing into the future.

Indeed, innovation was his constant policy. He was a progressive in education and was ever shocking the formalities of the highbrow world.

Some men die at the top—and others at the heart. He was alive at both top and bottom. He could talk with equal information and acumen on international questions or baseball.

Although a savant, he was greatly interested in industry. He regarded the closed shop, the boycott, the union label and limited output as "undesirable for the union itself as well as for the community."

Child labor, birth control and restricted immigration invited some of his keenest shafts of wisdom: "A child should have no part in any machine industry indoors—never!" "Our country needs the labor of every honest and healthy immigrant." "The satisfactions of life depend upon the number of children."

His religious reactions easily fall into a creed that could unite Christendom. Prophecy has always been a lay employment. It is possible that he is far enough removed for perspective.

"The church of the future will have more reverence for the personality of Jesus" was one of Eliot's prophetic utterances. "It will prefer liberty to authority. It will see neither deities nor demons in the forces and processes of nature. It will rob death of its terrors. It will dwell on goodness, life and truth. The brotherhood of man will be its outcome."

Eliot was familiarly known as "the grand old man." Roosevelt said of him, "He is the only man in the world I envy."

Some of less worth shunt him from the columns of the press. Notoriety often usurps the throne of fame. Others may speak louder at this hour; but he will be heard through the years.

After His Vacation

President Coolidge: "You Should Have Seen the One That Got Away!"

CHAMPIONS OF THE CONSTITUTION

That thoroughly American organization, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, has honored the metropolis of the Southwest by choosing it as the rendezvous for its national convention this year. Los Angeles extends a hearty welcome to the earnest Christian women from every State in the Union who today have gathered here to uphold and extend the religious principles for which their union was created.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, their national president, sounded the keynote of their convention in the clean-cut declaration, "We are here to demonstrate our faith in prohibition." As Christian soldiers who have waged a hard and ceaseless war for a sober and temperate America every delegate will subscribe to their leader's slogan and will continue to keep their forces on the fighting line that respect for the law as exemplified in the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution shall not be lowered in the eyes of the civilized world.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the face of strenuous opposition, sometimes unfortunately from members of the finer sex, has stood squarely for the enforcement of the law of the land in respect to the prohibition of intoxicating liquors and in doing so has proven itself a true friend to the cause of law and order and a valiant champion of the Constitution. After contributing so largely to the eradication of the saloon the women united in the name of Christianity and temperance have announced their determination to stand by the law they helped to bring into being and have made their confession of faith through the lips of their national president.

Los Angeles is a city of homes and churches, the large majority of whose people share with our visitors the views they hold on making and keeping this American nation safe for mothers and wives and children. The delegates will receive a heartening response from the religious and law-abiding elements from other States, especially those of the great Middle West, that have made Los Angeles and Southern California what it is today. The reception of our visitors will convince them that in choosing our city for the holding of their convention they made no mistake in conferring this honor upon us.

WHITE ANTS

Chief Building Inspector Putnam of Glendale reports that the white ant, or termite, that has been proving troublesome in Pasadena, where some old wooden structures have been attacked, has arrived in his bailiwick. Even if the ants do no damage, Putnam admits that they must be pretty fair travelers.

PROFESSOR PLAYS SAFE

What Prof. Samuel H. Knight of the University of Wyoming says is a turtle of the Miocene Age and from 1,000,000 to 4,000,000 years of age has been discovered near Cheyenne. Which beats down all contradictions to his assertions, as he leaves us a leeway of 3,000,000 years to ponder over.

IMPROVING THE RECORD

A survey of motor fatalities in cities of 100,000 population or over, made by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, discloses that Los Angeles is now fifth in the number of such tragedies of the larger cities of the country.

Leading the list is New York City, with 543 deaths listed as a result of motor accidents for the first seven months of the current year. Next is Chicago, with 354. Philadelphia and Detroit are next and just precede this city. Here there were 128 fatalities from January 1 to July 31.

The type of accident in which the largest number of deaths occurred were those in which a pedestrian was struck by an autoist. Most of these were children crossing streets against traffic rules or playing in the street. Next were adult pedestrians jaywalking.

Los Angeles provides protection, even a large degree of prevention, for these causes of motor fatalities. Pedestrians are required in downtown sections to obey traffic signals. School children are furnished with pedestrian zones at street crossings near their schools and in instances where there is heavy traffic these crossings are presided over by traffic officers at hours when the children are going to and from school.

As a result of these and other protective measures Los Angeles is one of the few cities of the country which show a decrease in auto fatalities. Despite the large increase in population and in number of cars, there were seven fewer deaths here for the first seven months of the year than in 1925.

NO MORE CRIME PICTURES

By James J. Montague

For years, very little was doing
In the bandit or burglary trade,
It was seldom we saw an infraction of law
Like a robbery, hold-up or raid.
There were very few crooks in the cities
The people with wealth to assail,
For the reason that they had been all sent away
To the handiest prison or jail.

It was then that we turned to the movies
And spent a large part of our time,
And feasted our eyes with delighted surprise
On abundance of cinema crime.
For even in folks of refinement
There always is likely to lurk—
So we've often been told—a wish to behold
A thief at his dastardly work.

But now one can stroll 'round the corner
And hark to the strident commands
Of a man with a mask who is pausing to ask
Some person to hold up his hands.
We can see, if we walk a bit farther,
A thug of the very first rank,
A criminal star, who has come in his car
For the purpose of looting a a bank.

No longer we go to the movies
To learn how the gangs do their stuff,
No longer we long to see people do wrong—
Right around us they're doing enough.
And if to the movies of evenings
By our children we're ever beguiled,
We make sure we shall look not at bandit or crook,
But at scenes which are kindly and mild.

THE RIDDLE OF THE SOUTH

BY ARTHUR FARWELL

I

A New York friend, past his threescore and ten, who has far, seen much and thought deeply, and who has spent months in Southern California, remarked to me a few Farwell, I believe that this country is destined to type of men and women, of physical, intellectual and and womanhood, and the finest civilization, that the world has

"With its tremendous stretch of ocean and mountains and the intervening valleys, fertile beyond expression, you are, I believe, destined to produce here an infinitely greater Italy, stretching from Alaska to the tip of Lower California.

"Facing, at the East, our own older American civilization; at the West, the civilization of mysterious Mother Asia, and within or near your own domains the most ancient American civilization, that of the Aztecs and Mayas, which is only now being revealed to the world, you are already beginning to reflect and combine these civilizations most delightfully in your architecture, literature and other arts.

"Remembering that material prosperity must precede, recognizing your remarkable development in that respect (though this, because of your material resources, is only a shadow of that to come,) it seems to me that already is being born here a strongly advanced, ardent, impetuous spiritual and intellectual life, with infinite promise for the future.

"Why not?" my friend continued. "You stand 'in the forefront files of time, the heirs of all the ages.' You are descended from the purest strains of the original American settlers, they, themselves, bold and adventurous spirits, the children of the boldest and most adventurous spirits of all climes and all times. Coming here from what is doubtless, racially, the most heterogeneous city in the world—so famous an authority as Oscar of the Waldorf-Astoria said to me, 'But New York is no longer an American city.'

"Coming from the modern Babylon, nothing has struck me more forcibly than the fact that this country is peopled almost entirely by Americans of the pure original stock. They are from every State in the Union, but more especially from the Middle West and Western States, from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario and the Western Canadian Provinces—all pure original American stock; people who, pushed by the intense European invasion, migrated beyond the Alleghanies and Appalachians, retaining all the old-time virtues of the race, but shedding many of the old-time narrownesses and intolerances, then migrated into the regions beyond the 'Father of Waters' and the 'Big Muddy,' and finally across the Sierras and the Rockies to the Pacific Slope, where, as Perley Poore Sheehan so well puts it, 'the Aryan race is making its last stand.'

"Here, these widely diverse representatives of the original stock are destined to reunite and, flavored by the best of many other races, as were their forbears for a thousand years, to build up the finest conceivable type of men and women, as of civilization itself.

"Let us not forget that our forefathers, in coming to America, followed the banner of spiritual and intellectual freedom, not the banner of material prosperity, though in this respect Divine Providence has blessed the American people to a degree never before witnessed in the history of mankind.

"I pray that we may prove worthy of our high opportunity. Nature favors this new civilization immensely—the ocean, the mountains, the fertile valleys, the extensively adopted diet of fruit and vegetables, the vast sunshine, the temperate climate, the great amount of time spent in the open air, rational dress (I wish the men could be as wise as the women,) the cultivation of the play instinct—all this on so superb a foundation, combined with an ever-increasing knowledge of the laws of health, is destined, I believe, to build up here, in the course of generations and centuries, a race of men and women, and a civilization, such as the world has never before witnessed."

FOUNDATIONS OF OUR FAITH

Thus spoke my vigorous friend in his eighties, from New York. But before embarking, on our own account, on the expansion of so Homeric a theme, and one offering such savory food to our Californian amour propre, let us here make one matter plain beyond all misunderstanding. So much of a superlative nature has been said by the promoter, so much inflated and loose talk indulged in, that outsiders, to say nothing of many of our own people, have become a bit skeptical, and have tended to become somewhat hardened in an attitude which hinders a normal advance of the evolution of the civilization of the Southwest on the basis of facts and considerations with genuine credentials to present. Discounting, then, all that the promoter commonly invents or reiterates, let us, in the interests of our earnest hope of a truly great coming civilization in the Southwest, look seriously at the indisputable facts of the matter and consider by what rational and deeply grounded foundations our faith may be sustained.

Why is it that the spirit which animates the life of the planet selects from the vast available area certain spots upon which to rear civilizations and cultures which stand out from all others and trail clouds of glory forever after in the memory of the race?

Egypt . . . Greece . . . Italy. Small enough areas, indeed, but not many names of spots of the earth's surface come to mind so richly charged and surcharged as these with magical and compelling associations of the splendor of human achievement. Are such brilliant outbursts of life predestined, are they determined by a beneficent Providence as examples or prophetic indications of the possibilities of human life, or in Southern California! If

A NEW GLORY

A new race, a new

The mere present of the many mouths agape. Why oneself to probe prophetically dubious supercivilizations of the future, when the present alone little less than staggering if we look back one hundred, or even few as twenty-five years? Noth color and quality of the civiliza generations shall have brought it a measure of homogeneity.

The glamour which irradiates the vision of a phenomenal civilization in the Great South west does not arise from the thought of material grandeur, from the thought of those things which material can make possible—a new spirit a new attitude to life finding pression in a new type of civiliza tion—of manifold and wondrous arts which will arise to set a crown of glory upon material achievement. What shall profit will be to note such substantial reasons as present themselves for believing that we stand in a highly favorable circumstance regards the attainment of an ex character in the development of the Southwest, and to take such measures as may be possible round out the present foundations upon which alone such a high and well-proportioned spiritual, tural and artistic structure arise in the future.

Project Will Preserve Precincts Dear to Lover of Wilds

BY BILL HENRY

SPEAKING strictly from the standpoint of the sportsman, the lover of nature in her virgin state and admirer of the rugged stillness of the West, the building of good roads has not been an altogether unmixed blessing. Civilization, riding a countless fleet of motor cars along thousands of miles of highways, has spread from Atlantic to Pacific like a great scourge, leaving behind a country pock-marked with gas-stations, hotels, tourists and tin cans until scarcely a trace of the great West that once was remains.

However, there are spots of virgin wonderland still free from the taint of too much modernity, where the spirit of the Old West still breathes and one, at least, of these has come into the possession of a group of men who propose to preserve it in its original state for generations to come.

This particular piece of property is the historic W. H. Bartlett ranch, a vast domain as large as the State of Rhode Island, located in Southern Colorado and Northern New Mexico. It contains an area of several hundred square miles or 340,000 acres. There are 700 miles of fence on the property.

Among those interested in transforming this magnificent estate into a privately owned and exclusive club, to be known as the Vermejo Club, are some of the leading characters of the financial, industrial and political world. Local men include Henry M. Robinson, George I. Cochran, R. D. Clarke, Harold L. Arnold, R. C. Gillis, Harry Chandler, Dr. Harry Dietrich and Bernal H. Dyas. Other well-known members are Will Hays, Freeman Ford and Keith Spalding of Pasadena, Paul Shoup of San Francisco, Cecil B. De Mille of Beverly Hills, Dr. Will Ellerbeck of Salt Lake City, F. W. Matthiessen of Chicago and Glenn L. Martin of Cleveland, O. These names are representative of the list of men composing the organization, and membership is only available to those proposed by a member of the club.

To describe the property is futile without first offering an explanation of how it happens to exist. Back a generation ago a man named W. H. Bartlett engineered a "corner" in the wheat market and made

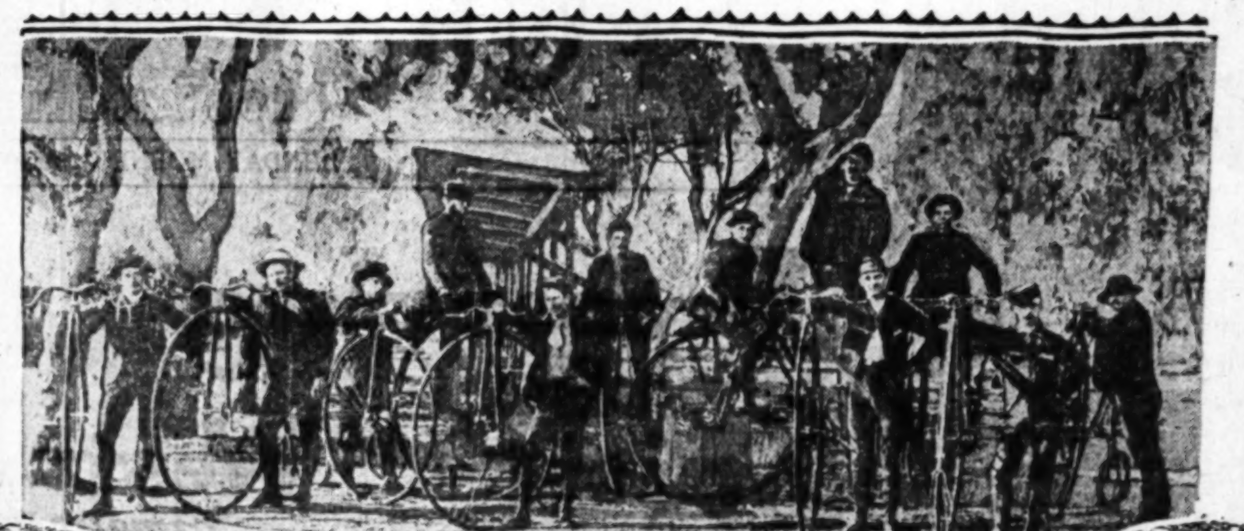
SPEED DEMONS OF FORMER DAYS TO HAVE REUNIO



Hollenbeck Heights Once Was Home of Pioneer Aristocrats

By Isabel Claire Lopez

THE beauty and romance which the Spanish names, conferred on our cities, mountains and rivers by the first settlers of California, conveyed is twofold in the instance of "El Paredon Blanco," meaning the White Bluff, now known as Hollenbeck Heights. The soft accent which the Spaniard gave it and the significance of it seemed to breathe the exotic grandeur of the heights, which were then covered with tiny white pebbles, glistening in the California sunlight.

Formerly the place of residence of the aristocrats of the city, is now habited by colonies of people of all nationalities. No longer do the spreading vineyards of those colorful days lie at its white feet. Gone are the orchards, its waving fields of grain, the shops of the thrifty shoemaker, goldsmith and the pliers of other trades who sang lilting Spanish melodies as they worked.

The glamour of those brilliant yet useful days were fitfully described to me by Francisca Lopez De Bilderain, who was born and reared there, and my readers may derive much of the pleasure I enjoyed in the listening by reading her account of its history and her description of the land.

"Sitting in the council chamber in 1826, officiating as Alcalde, or Mayor, of the town of Nuestra Senora Reina De Los Angeles, was the illustrious Claudio Lopez, son of noble Spanish parents, and his son Estaban, a Councilman. The latter, being a good judge of land values, established his home on Paredon Blanco in 1836. The land was granted to him by the Los Angeles Ayuntiamiento on September 28, 1835.

Don Estaban's possessions on the east side of the river embraced many acres, some of which he divided among his children, reserving for himself and his second wife that part between what is now Second and Fourth streets. He built his home on the bluff about thirty feet south of the present site of Second street. It was built of adobe, faced the west and overlooked his possessions. Although modest in structure, it was comfortable.

Vast Orchards

Immediately after the completion of his house, he began to prepare the land for setting out fruit trees, vineyards and other crops. Soon thereafter Don Estaban established his younger son, Don Geronimo, on a piece of land south of where Seventh street runs at present. There another attractive home was erected and there two children were born, one of whom J. J. Lopez, has been manager of Tejon Rancho for over fifty years, or ever since Gen. Beal owned it.

North of him one of his sisters, Manuela L. De Ruis, had her house and fine orchard and garden, while another, Josefa L. De Garrion, built her home on the very spot where the late Mr. Hollenbeck's residence stands on the edge of the bluff. Her son, Saturnino Carrion, sold the property to Mr. Hollenbeck about the year 1874. Another daughter, Maria De la Concepcion, married Don Ygnacio Palomares, owner of the huge Rancho De San Jose, where the city of Pomona stands. Still another daughter was the wife of Dr. George Rice of Boston, Mass., who went east with his family in 1835.

"Don Estaban in the year 1837 gave his son, Francisco, known as Chico, a large tract as a wedding endowment. The plot was alongside of that of his father, only a narrow ditch dividing the two properties. It took Don Francisco but a few years to transform it into a veritable paradise. In the autumn of 1849 he exported grapes to San Francisco, selling them for $10 per 100 pounds.

"Don Mateo Keller, who came to Los Angeles in 1850, was the purchaser for several years and later an Italian by the name of Trabuceo from San Francisco. Don Francisco also made wines from the grapes that were left and brandy of the sugar cane. In 1851 he made a contract with Phineas Banning for hauling freight from San Pedro to Los Angeles, using a train of over twenty-five carretas, or ox carts. He also furnished lumber for building and took contracts for the same.

"Some time in the early '50s he and Don Keller planted a field of cotton on the west of the city, which yielded a fine crop. His first house was built at the foot of the bluff. It was constructed of adobe and had five large rooms. Here his children were born.

"Near-by were the granaries, workingmen's quarters, toolroom and silversmith shop where two men made silver and gold filigree jewelry. The house had a long, wide corridor and in front was a large shady grape arbor, the floor of which was kept covered with white sand, and many a joyous reunion took place in this charming spot.

"In the year 1855 Don Francisco enlarged his already extensive holdings by the addition of a twenty-five-acre orchard with all kinds of profitable fruit trees, sugar cane and a vineyard. The latest acquisition extended north to Aliso street, now Summit avenue, and east to where Pleasant avenue now runs.

"The second house was built in the year 1857 on the high bluff, the site being seventy-five feet from the edge. It was also adobe. Its stout pillars were entirely covered with vines, which in their growth interlaced so as to form a homing place for linnets, robins and tiny humming birds in their bright plumage. A huge pepper tree stood thirty feet away from the wide corridor and here and there were bright bunches of red berries, forming in all a huge bouquet. Our home was exceedingly pleasant, as it stood fronting the grandeurs of the west and its sublime sunsets. It was indeed a land made ready by God for human hands to embellish!

A Charming Vista

"The twenty-five-acre holding referred to was given to one of Don Francisco's doughters, Juanita Lopez De Warren, grandmother of Eugene Biscailuz.

"I will try to portray as truly as possible what I know of the old home on the bluff in which I was born, and will relate what I remember of it in 1863 when I was but a small child. In my dream I stand once again on the high bluff and look again over the valley which lay between the east side of the Los Angeles River and Paredon Blanco. I see hundreds of fruit trees, each patch of which I could designate from the hues its foliage wore. There was the sugar-cane patch, from which a specie of white sugar was made, and in the orchards were all my favorite fruits — peaches, rosy-cheeked pears, oranges, lemons, sweet limes, citrons, walnuts, pomegranates, almonds, apples, mulberry trees, plums! The Mission figs when so ripe their skins cracked were never so good as when I ate them sitting high on a stout branch of a tree, hidden by huge leaves. There were long rows of these trees along the border of the zanja, or water ditch, that ran along the foot of the bluff. Near-by was the flower garden, profuse with gorgeous white and pink moss roses, lilacs, snowballs and hollyhocks, verbenas, marigolds, violets and daisies. There were two baths by the side of the zanja, one near the house and the other in the middle of the orchard. They were made of wood, lined with tin, the zanja filling them by means of flood-gates. The water from the so-called baths emptied into pools used for swimming.

"The trapiches or sugar mills were built 150 feet northeast of the house and were rudely contrived, being worked by a horse hitched to a pole, which, when the animal went around, crushed the cane, extracting the juice, which was received in a wooden trough. It was then cooked in huge kettles. Round moulds carved out on long thick planks were used for hardening, after which the product was packed for export.

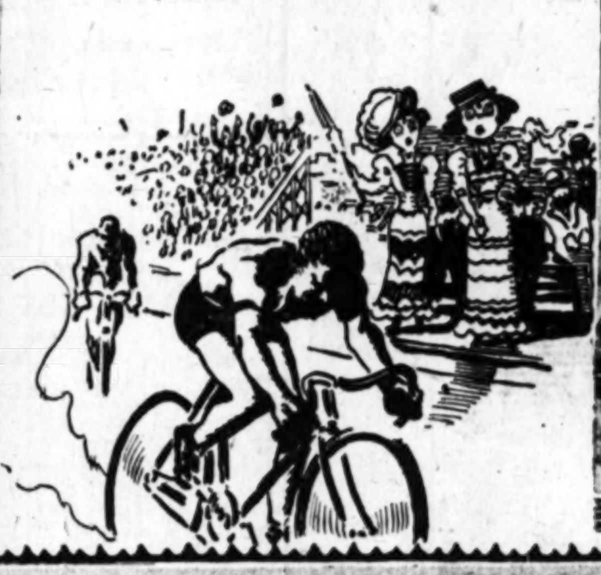
"In the year 1858 the late Don Estaban Lopez's widow, who had remarried, advertised for sale her part of the land which the council had granted her first husband in 1835. It so happened that a new arrival in town was seeking a site suitable for a home. He was none other than the affable and jovial Irishman, Andrew Boyle, who saw the land and took a fancy to it. The key of the adobe house was turned over to him in a short time and with Maria, his only child, and her maiden aunt moved into the new home. In 1862 he commenced the manufacture of wine, the labels on the bottles bearing the name, 'Paredon Blanco.'"

To go on with the story of the development of this great section properly it is fitting to continue with the story of her father's activities and the "doings" of friends and neighbors so aptly related to me by Mrs. W. H. Workman, daughter of Andrew Boyle and mother of Boyle Workman, one of the city's most prominent citizens today.

"Mr. Boyle passed away in 1871. The floods became so numerous that residents of San Gabriel, Downey, El Monte and other towns finally succeeded in securing legislation providing for the building of bridges, one of which crossed the Los Angeles River at Macy street. This was in 1872.

"In 1876 Mr. Workman conceived the idea of opening the section for settlement, subdivided a large tract of land from the bluff eastward. He brought an eight-inch water [illegible] street along [illegible] the river, [illegible] built the [illegible] over and along [illegible] his subdivision, [illegible] Boyle Heights [illegible] father.

"In 1886 a [illegible] cured for a [illegible] on First street [illegible] Evergreen Cemetery. [illegible] great occasion [illegible] the road the [illegible] turned out for a [illegible] tion. Fine [illegible] pretty homes [illegible] and in 1889 [illegible] opened and an [illegible] built from Third and [illegible] streets over Fourth [illegible] Cemetery."



In These Days of perfected motive power, glimpses of the old "bike" excite more amusement than admiration. But in the heyday of the bicycle and the cinder path, road races were among a group of Los Angeles wheelmen as they appeared in Agricultural Park (now Exposition Park) in 1887. The lower view is of members of the Los Angeles Wheelmen riding on the beach in front of the old Santa Monica bath house a generation ago.

Cyclists to Recall Era of Road Races and 'Safety Bike

M-M-M. Ancient history is dry stuf[illegible] these days of fast automobiles, [illegible] and flappers it's refreshing to hark [illegible] the time when the boys leaned against the wind [illegible] tramped on the pedals over the cobblestones of [illegible] Angeles of thirty years ago and the then dusty [illegible] Southern California. These good old days will [illegible] vived for a night when the Wheelmen of the Pa[illegible] tury meet at their second reunion of the twentie[illegible] tury at the Ambassador Hotel on Saturday, Octo[illegible]

From the rocking chair and fireside the word has been passed that the men who thirty years ago were plugging over the roads on the old high wheels, ordinaries and safeties will be present at the reunion if they have to come on crutches. Over 150 famous pedal pushers of those days, led by L. "Dee" Sale and William "Billy" Jenkins, noted road racer of California and world-wide fame, head the list of cyclists who used to get up at the first show of dawn and streak it for Santa Monica and other points.

Such men as Tracy Q. Hall, now treasurer of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, and William A. Tufts, president of Tufts, Lyon Arms Company, who as "Butch" Tufts in those days won the first Santa Monica road race; L. D. Sales, president Western Wholesale Drug Company; Frank Barnes, vice-president of Barker Brothers; Ralph Hamlin, head of Hamlin, Inc., automobiles; Billy Jenkins, associated with Harry A. Miller, Inc. manufacturers of automobiles; Carl McStay, field secretary Automobile Club of Southern California; J. Phil Percival, head of the Percival Steel and Supply Company, and William Weir, credit manager of the May Company, are on the committee in charge of the affair.

Yes, all of these men leaned against the wind in those days. Most of them are men who were proud to wear the uniform of the Los Angeles Wheelmen. According to Billy Jenkins, they thought nothing of riding 100 miles in a day. Now they call themselves the Wheelmen of the Past Century. Billy Jenkins is said to have rode the first bicycle with pneumatic tires in Los Angeles. The tires never held out more than an hour, Jenkins said the other day.

J. Phil Percival rode the first dinky star ever used. He created a sensation at that time with his cycle. The high-wheeled cycle of those days with the big wheel in front such as ridden by [illegible] Wedgewood of the Los [illegible] Wheelmen, was as well [illegible] that day that it was [illegible] the "ordinary." Famous Ranch to Become Sportsmen's Club an enormous fortune. Ill health brought him to the exhilarating climate of the Southwest, where he purchased a portion of what now constitutes the Bartlett Ranch, and there he managed to stretch the six months of life assigned to him by his physicians into something like eighteen years.

Bartlett was a real sportsman and he wanted to entertain his friends when they came to visit him in becoming fashion, so he spent the eighteen years and literally millions of dollars in adding to his vast holdings and in developing them into a veritable paradise for sportsmen.

Within the boundaries of the estate are found something like a dozen lakes, each of which was carefully stocked with a particular variety of fish. Mr. Dyas's 11-year-old son pulled out a twenty-eight-inch rainbow trout and thought he had a whale. For those who like to whip the swirling waters of a mountain stream there are miles and miles of bubbling rivulets whose waters have seldom been fished.

Every variety of game is to be found in the woodlands and meadows. Wild turkey roam the country in flocks, ducks rise lazily from the lakes at the sound of a gun and settle back after a few turns, herds of elk and deer graze in the meadows and gallop through the trees; wildcats, lynx, wolves and even bear are to be found within the confines of the great domain. Dotting the entire territory are hunting lodges, connected with the main ranch by telephone and furnished in the most sumptuous fashion.

In strange contrast to the wild life of the region is the domestic air lent by herds of blooded stock. In one corner of the property is a corral as western as the West can be. Close together are separate stables, one for English riding horses, the other for "bronc" and other truly western mounts. Excellent roads and trails furnish a place for those who love to ride horseback. Vast meadows filled with beautiful wild flowers not only add to the color and beauty of the scene, but make a most excellent landing place for airplanes which frequently land and take off.

At the main headquarters of the ranch Barlett provided all the comfort and luxury that money could buy for himself and his friends. There is a single main building which was nothing more or less than a club, and adjacent to it are a number of luxurious private dwellings fitted up with every comfort and convenience that his wealthy guests could find in their own homes. These will house members of the Vermejo Club on their visits to the property. Buildings are, virtually without exception, constructed of native rock with tile roofs.

Surrounding the main building and members' homes is a miniature city which houses the young army needed to look after the comfort of the guests and the management of the estate. There are servants' quarters, a commissary, kennels for the members' dogs, a squab house, a powerhouse which supplies steam heat and electric energy for the club from coal mined on the ranch property, garages, rabbit warren, fish hatchery, tackle and arms house, express and postoffice, a school-house for children, and everything else imaginable.

Inside the huge clubhouse itself is all the comfort and the luxury to be found in a metropolitan club. The builder spared no expense to provide everything his guests might desire. Having an unexcelled property for their outdoor happiness, he matched it with indoor comfort that is almost beyond belief.

Luxurious lounging rooms with inlaid floors and ceilings, huge marble pillars, oriental rugs, velours harmoniously blended provide a warm cozy atmosphere of combined regalarity and simplicity. Broad and inviting esplanades ideal for bridge teas, afternoon luncheons and evening parties make the club one that can be enjoyed by all members of the family. A library of 10,000 volumes, many of them original manuscripts, is available, together with billards and clubrooms and every other imaginable convenience.

And this entire area is now being transformed into a genuine western country club, a club of complete distinctiveness, with all the luxury and exclusiveness of the finest New York or California clubs and the true atmosphere of the West which has so nearly disappeared.

The historical West as it was pioneered has been preserved and kept aloof for its natural beauty, a picturesque wilderness in whose remote fastnesses a man may become a real explorer, a retreat secure from the noises of civilization. It is a club for all of the family to use and enjoy for the present and is one spot where the spirit of the West will be preserved forever from the onrush of motorized civilization.

The Family Air Flivver

Will Flying soon be a Daily Pastime?

ands will have to battle wife for the use of the in the morning to go office in and with his for the use of the air to go to the golf course distance."

but with the increased Mr. Business Man can get extra round of golf," one of reporters cheerfully suggestyes, oh, yes," Mr. Wetblanket groaned, "that's another aspect of the problem I had not thought of. It will increase the number of golf bugs. Why, the air flivver will even change our style of residential architecture. All our roofs will have to be flat in order to afford landing space. We will have to have two and three-story garages to accommodate the cars and airplanes. In order to keep in the swim—or in the air, as it were—a family will have to have not only a chauffeur but an air pilot.

"We will have our airplane thieves and our bandits will rob, murder and pillage with impunity. They can make their getaway in their planes and be over in the next state before the police can get on their trail.

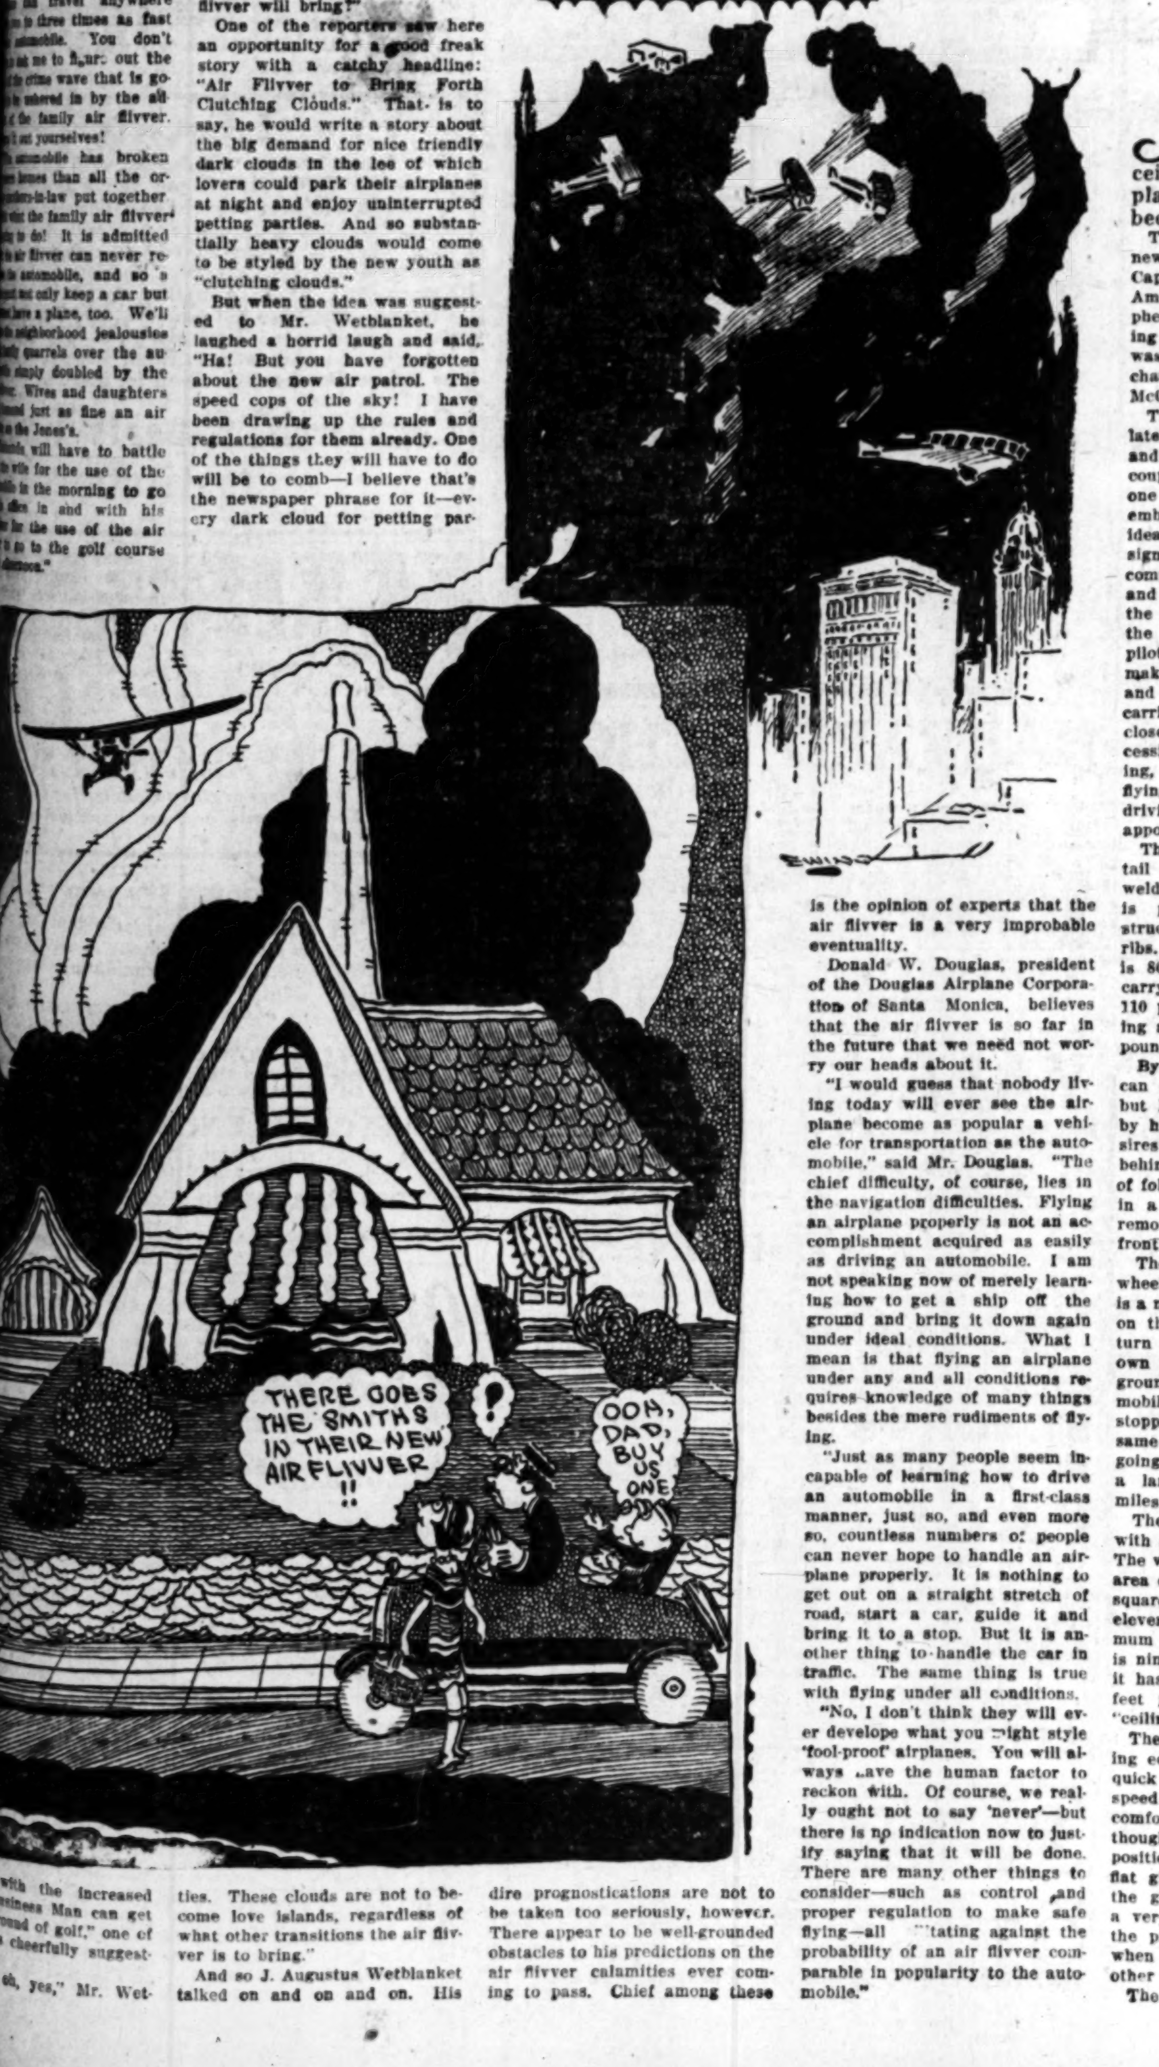
"With a thief orc rook taking the air, the sky will be the limit, that's all. Just think of the enormous increase in extradition proceedings to bring the crooks back. Heaven knows that half our police and sheriff's forces already spend their time seeing the country bringing crooks back from other States.

"And who knows what new kind of necking parties the air flivver will bring?"

One of the reporters saw here an opportunity for a good freak story with a catchy headline: "Air Flivver to Bring Forth Clutching Clouds." That is to say, he would write a story about the big demand for nice friendly dark clouds in the lee of which lovers could park their airplanes at night and enjoy uninterrupted petting parties. And so substantially heavy clouds would come to be styled by the new youth as "clutching clouds."

But when the idea was suggested to Mr. Wetblanket, he laughed a horrid laugh and said, "Ha! But you have forgotten about the new air patrol. The speed cops of the sky! I have been drawing up the rules and regulations for them already. One of the things they will have to do will be to comb—I believe that's the newspaper phrase for it—every dark cloud for petting parties. These clouds are not to become love islands, regardless of what other transitions the air flivver is to bring."

And so J. Augustus Wetblanket talked on and on and on. His dire prognostications are not to be taken too seriously, however. There appear to be well-grounded obstacles to his predictions on the air flivver calamities ever coming to pass. Chief among these is the opinion of experts that the air flivver is a very improbable eventuality.



THERE GOES THE SMITHS IN THEIR NEW AIRFLIVVER !!
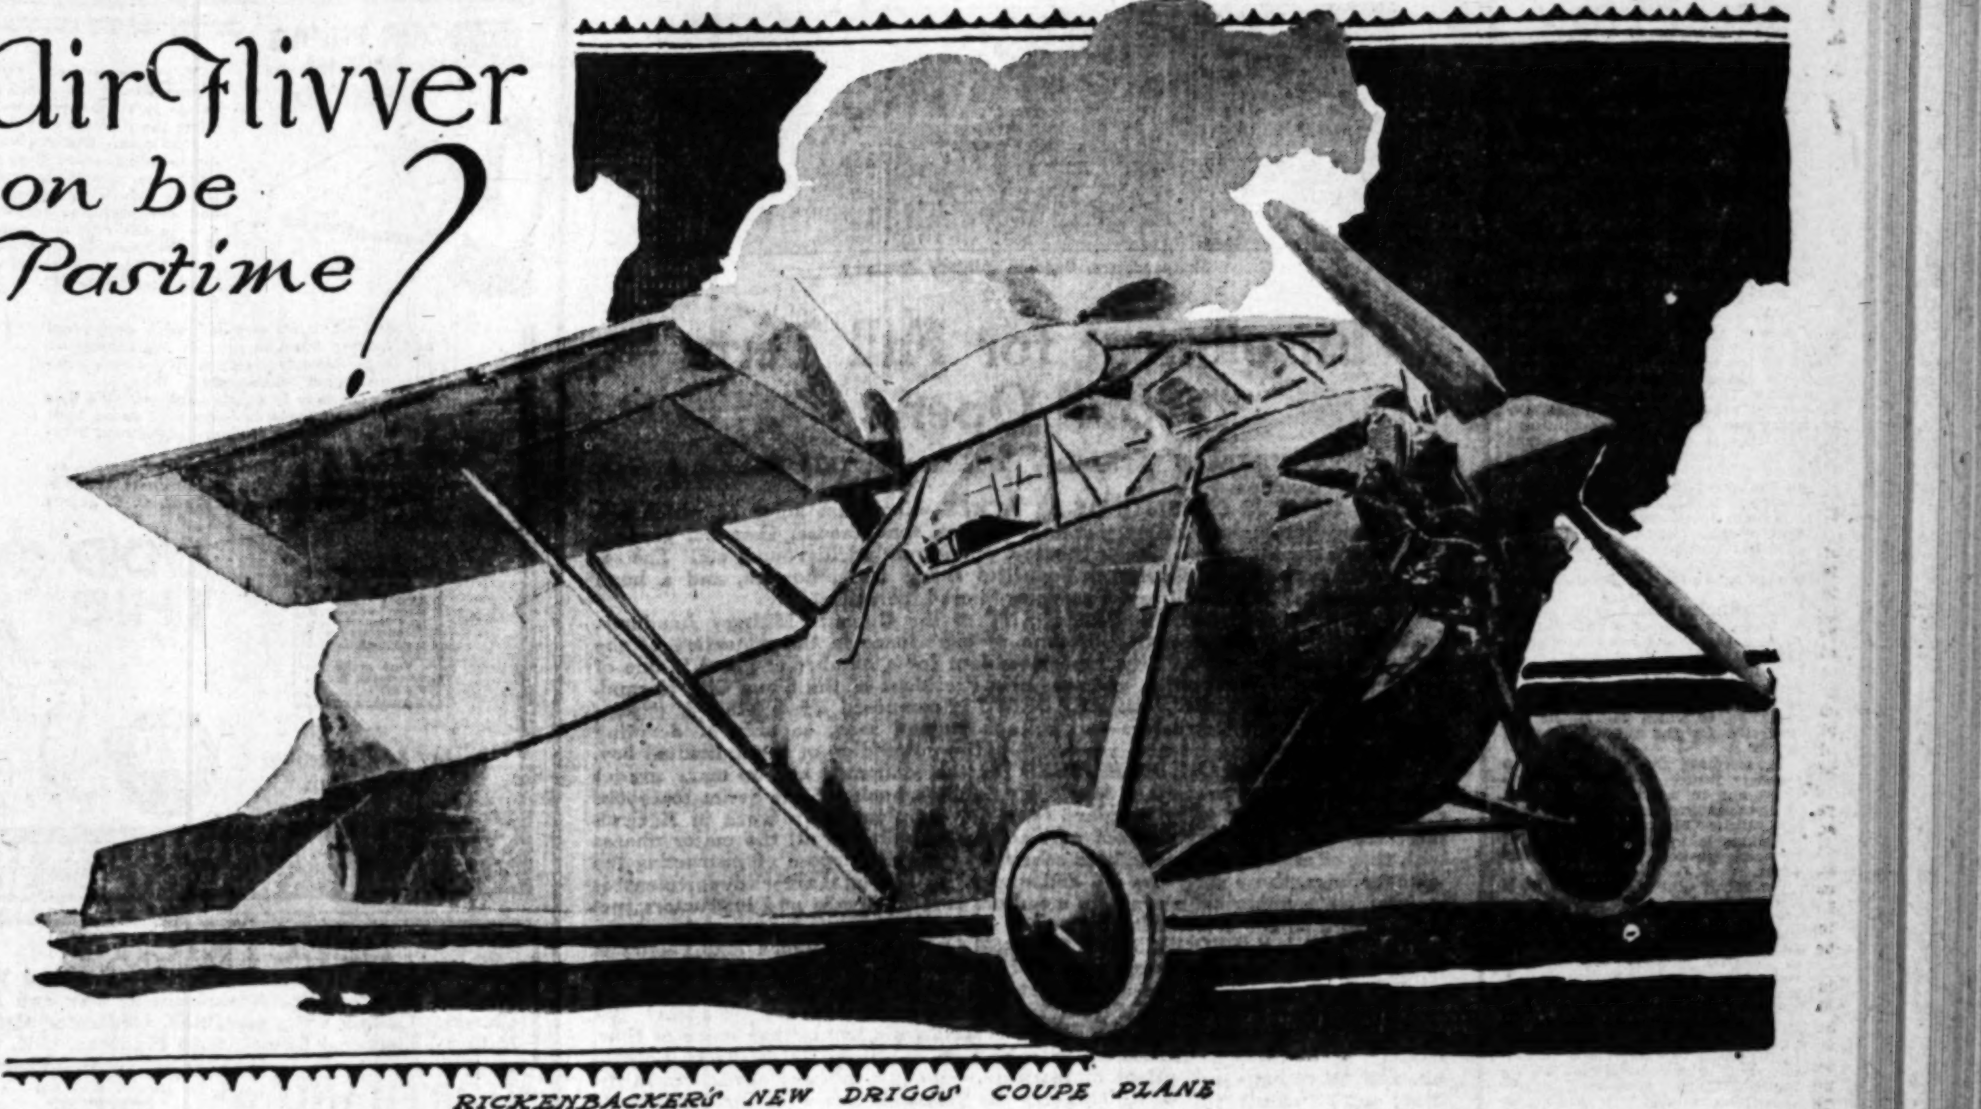
OOH, DAD, BUY US ONE

Donald W. Douglas, president of the Douglas Airplane Corporation of Santa Monica, believes that the air flivver is so far in the future that we need not worry our heads about it.

"I would guess that nobody living today will ever see the airplane become as popular a vehicle for transportation as the automobile," said Mr. Douglas. "The chief difficulty, of course, lies in the navigation difficulties. Flying an airplane properly is not an accomplishment acquired as easily as driving an automobile. I am not speaking now of merely learning how to get a ship off the ground and bring it down again under ideal conditions. What I mean is that flying an airplane under any and all conditions requires knowledge of many things besides the mere rudiments of flying.

"Just as many people seem incapable of learning how to drive an automobile in a first-class manner, just so, and even more so, countless numbers of people can never hope to handle an airplane properly. It is nothing to get out on a straight stretch of road, start a car, guide it and bring it to a stop. But it is another thing to handle the car in traffic. The same thing is true with flying under all conditions.

"No, I don't think they will ever develope what you might style 'fool-proof' airplanes. You will always have the human factor to reckon with. Of course, we really ought not to say 'never'—but there is no indication now to justify saying that it will be done. There are many other things to consider—such as control and proper regulation to make safe flying—all "'tating against the probability of an air flivver comparable in popularity to the automobile."



RICKENBACKER'S NEW DRIGGS COUPE PLANE

New Plane Presages Ship for Home Use

By P. Whitcomb Williams

A NEW small type aircraft made its initial bow at Detroit recently and, if the reception it received by those who speak with knowledge in the airplane industry is a criterion, the little ship is destined to become an important unit in the industry.

The engine which pulls this new model was produced by Capt. "Eddie" V. Rickenbacker, American ace, and it has proved phenomenally successful. Assisting in the designing of the engine was Glenn Angle, formerly in charge of the engine section at McCook Field, Dayton.

The engine is mounted on the latest Driggs type monoplane, and will be known as the Driggs coupe. It represents more than one year's development work and embodies the most advanced ideas of commercial airplane design and construction. With its completely appointed, inclosed and roomy cockpit, the coupe is the final word in an airplane for the pilot-owner. Seating the pilot and passenger side by side makes for the greatest comfort and pleasure. Conversation is carried on with ease. The inclosed cabin eliminates the necessity of donning special clothing, goggles, etc., and makes flying more pleasurable than driving the most luxuriously appointed automobile.

The fuselage, landing gear and tail surfaces are constructed of welded steel tubing. The wing is plywood, covered upon a structure of spruce spars and ribs. The weight, when empty, is 800 pounds. The plane will carry a load of 320 pounds and 110 pounds of fuel and oil, making a total flying weight of 1230 pounds.

By folding the wings the owner can store the coupe in a space but little larger than that used by his automobile. If he so desires he may tow the airplane behind his car. The operation of folding the wings can be done in a very few minutes by the removal of two pins, one on each front wing spar.

The use of brakes on the front wheels with the rear tiller wheel is a marked advance in handiness on the ground. The coupe will turn in a circle smaller than its own span and runs along the ground easier than a light automobile. The plane may be stopped in approximately the same distance as an automobile going at the same speed. It has a landing speed of thirty-five miles per hour.

The span is thirty-five feet, with a length of twenty-two feet. The wing area is 144 square feet; area of horizontal tail twenty-six square feet, and vertical tail eleven square feet. The maximum speed of the little aircraft is ninety-five miles per hour and it has a climbing ability of 500 feet per minute. The absolute "ceiling" is 15,000 feet.

The high lift wing with trailing edge flaps makes for a very quick take-off and low landing speed without sacrificing riding comfort in rough weather. Although with the flaps in neutral position the airplane has a very flat glide, with the flaps down the glide is very steep and at a very low speed. This allows the pilot to utilize all his field when coming in over trees or other obstacles.

The engine is of five cylinders, sixty-horsepower and air-cooled motor. Although the Ford Motor Company and the Continental Motors Corporation are now experimenting with air-cooled aircraft engines, the Rickenbacker is the first Detroit-built engine of this type to be put into production. It is also the only sixty-horsepower air-cooled motor built in the United States.

Ivan H. Driggs, designer of the plane, is probably the foremost light airplane engineer in America. His experience dates back to the old Wright days, and he was associated with Orville Wright for many years as his assistant. Later he was associated with the government at McCook Field, but since 1921 has been associated with the Wright Aircraft Corporation at Dayton in building light planes which have proven phenomenally successful.

"The motor, designed by Capt. Rickenbacker, is just what we have been looking for," declared Mr. Driggs. "With its simple maintenance and great accessibility it certainly fills a great gap in the ranks of American aviation engines."

The little ship was brought to Detroit recently from Dayton by Pilot J. H. Laass. The distance flown was 220 miles, and the time consumed was two hours and a half. During the flight a cruising speed of approximately eighty miles per hour was maintained on an average of between fifteen and sixteen miles to the gallon of gasoline, and just a little less than a pint of oil was consumed for the distance flown.

Pilot Laass said they test flew the ship once, found the motor working nicely, and then headed for Detroit.

"It shows plenty of confidence to do that with the motor just off the block," said the pilot. "Another thing that I like about it is that I don't know of any other motor of only sixty-horsepower that ever pulled that load, with an extra passenger, off the ground, much less carry it at the rate of eighty-five miles an hour through the air."

Those high up in aeronautic knowledge unhesitatingly indorse the new aircraft as the ideal type of plane for private family use. The engine is designed with complete disregard to military requirements, military specifications or military limitations. Up until the present time all engines used in so-called commercial aircraft were designed principally for military uses and their application to commercial aircraft resulted in compromise so serious as to render anything in the nature of commercial use or economical operations difficult. It is certain that no man living is better qualified to determine the qualities that are needed in such an engine than Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, who is famous throughout the world as the American "Ace of Aces," and one of the world's greatest aviators who has flown airplanes powered with practically every engine made in Europe as well as America.

Modern Schools Provide All Forms of Education

BY MARGARET BYRKIT

Of the 350 elementary schools of Los Angeles one might say, as Caesar did of the inhabitants of Transalpine Gaul, "All these differ among themselves in customs, manners, and laws," or, using the phrase of modern advertising, there are fifty-seven—yes, six times fifty-seven—varieties. Children are alike the world over, so it is said, yet they are not alarmingly similar. Circumstances alter not only cases, but children, also. In the schools in one part of the city one will find clean, well-bred, well dressed American children; in another, dirty, ill-mannered American and foreign-born children; in still other schools are found the very finest of the offering of other lands to ours.

The cosmopolitan nature of Los Angeles is reflected in the public schools. Giuseppe, Guillermo, and Wilhelm rub elbows with William. Lum Looey Loy, who, by the way, informed a visitor that he was Italian, started a fight on the playground. His not unwilling opponent was Manuel. A young Booker T. Washington, a member of the yard committee, separated them, sayin, "China, you sit down there; Mexico, you sit over there," indicating benches some distance apart. They sat, glowering at each other, but there was obviously nothing else to do but sit. They even omitted their customary "He fight me first." In this same school, negroes, Mexicans, Japanese, Americans, and the twenty-five other nationalities work side by side in classroom and school cafteria, in which the girls do all the work, and they play together in playtime.

The teachers in one school tell the visitor that there is not one American child in school. This school is a veritable home for everyone in the neighborhood. It is more than a community house: each person feels that it belongs to him, and so it does. Mothers are taught to sew and to cook American style; babies are cared for while the mothers work; children who are ill or undernourished, or unable to pay for proper food are cared for and fed at a nominal cost, or free, if the case demands it.

In this school, as in the others, milk is furnished free or at a low cost to those especially needing it, the need being found by careful investigation. Here the children are taught to be good citizens, and one may hear them sing lustily "Speed Our Republic," or "America is the Land For Me"—not one child of native-born parents, remember — and they mean what they sing. Many of them have a basis for comparison of United States and some other country.

More vocational work is carried on here than elsewhere, relief work of all kinds, and even a "community bath-tub" is present, in the form of an indoor plunge, where the children, in small groups, frolic once or twice a week, under supervision of teachers, and after taking a thorough shower. For some of the children this, no doubt, is the only opportunity for bathing. Private contributions promote the effectiveness of this school as a community enterprise, in addition to the funds received from the State and the school district.

A little further east an entirely different type of children is seen. Tow-heads; surely these are from the Norse countries! A glance at the teacher's register, however, reveals the fact that most of the names end in "ski," for many of the people of Northern Russia are pure blondes.

Not only is the personnel changed, but the character of the children themselves. Like other North Europeans, these Russians are thrifty, industrious, and serious-minded, but not without a sense of humor. The children are clean, neatly but plainly dressed, and seem to realize that they are in school for a purpose. In another school Italians predominate: beautiful, artistic, but fun-loving Italians. It is surely true that at least the higher classes of Latins excel in music, drawing and any form of artistic expression, although they may be less ambitious along other lines.

Everywhere the type of school and the nationality of the pupils are determined by the nearby industries, each of which attracts one nationality more than another.

Going now to the opposite side of the city, one will find some schools with an overwhelming majority of negroes; in others, black and white are nearly equal; and in other cases the white Americans are reinforced by Greeks and Russian Jews. "The Portugese and the Argentines" are far less numerous than "the Greeks." For the most part, the different nationalities form separate communities, and unless there is a large population in the district, necessitating two or more schools, or the school districts overlap, each school will be practically homogeneous.

Unusually interesting is the work for blind children. Little Mary is a bright and clever child, but she is handicapped by blindness. She cannot go to school with the other children, for she cannot do the work they do, and the teacher has not the time to give the necessary instruction. What is Mary to do?

There is one of the city schools which is aided directly by the State in materials and instruction, which has a "blind room." The children are brought in by automobile from all parts of the city, and Mary goes with them.

When she makes sufficient progress in this room she is alowed to go to the room where are the children of her own age, for a certain time each day, and there she studies and works with the others. It is pathetic, yet inspiring, to see how tenderly the other children assist in every way possible to make life easier for their unfortunate fellows. When Mary goes home, she acts as guide of the expedition. Once when there was a substitute driver of the automobile, Mary was able to tell him where to turn to reach the home of each child by the use of that mysterious sixth sense common to the blind.

Special classes for the defective in speech are also given attention here. There are schools, of course, which are practically the same as those to which everyone is accustomed, in which very little unusual work is carried on. All of the schools have sewing and cooking for the girls, and sloyd and agriculture for the boys, in addition to the regular classroom work. One school goes so far as to offer cooking for the eighth-grade boys, and the results justify the experiment. Drawing and music and nature study are welcome and interesting variations of the regular routine—welcome, especially if there is a special teacher, and the regular teacher is not burdened with these subjects.

The city also conducts special schools for the children, who, because of mental incapacity, or incorrigibility—yes, "mental incorrigibility" is applicable—are best separated from other children. Such schools are especially interesting from a sociological point of view. There is also a school at Juvenile Hall, one at Juvenile Hall Hospital; special classes are held at the Orthopedic Hospital, and the city school system furnishes tutors for classes of movie children at the studios.

NEW BENCH SELECTION APPROVED

Public Urged to Support Judge Finlayson Named to High Court Vacancy

The following statement was issued yesterday by the campaign committee of Judge Finlayson:

The appointment of Presiding Justice Finlayson of the Second District Court of Appeal as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of California to fill the vacancy in the last-named court caused by the recent death of Justice Lennon, was received with general approval by the public, the bench and the bar. This appointment runs only to the November election. It is necessary, therefore, that the name of Judge Finlayson be placed on the ballot to fill Judge Lennon's unexpired term of four years.

William J. Hunsaker, former president of the California and Los Angeles Bar Associations, is chairman of the campaign committee which is promoting Judge Finlayson's candidacy.

In 1910 Judge Finlayson was elected a judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county and was re-elected in 1916.

In 1919 he was appointed presiding justice of the District Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Two, to which position he was re-elected for the twelve-year term in 1920.

In accepting the appointment as associate justice of the Supreme Court and in becoming a candidate for the unexpired term of Justice Lennon, Justice Finlayson gave up the remaining six years of his term as presiding justice of the Appellate Court.

On behalf of the committee, it is stated:

Judge Finlayson is a man of the highest integrity and possesses exceptional qualifications for the office of associate justice of the Supreme Court. His successful career as a lawyer, his legal learning, his long record of judicial ability and industry as a judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court and as presiding justice of the District Court of Appeal, concur to fit him for elevation to the Supreme Court. Only long judicial experience, coupled with native ability qualifies a man for the position of justice of the Supreme Court; Judge Finlayson has both. His election, in addition to being a reward of merit for faithful service to the people, would bring added strength to the Supreme Court.

COLLEGE MONTHLY TO HAVE SPECIAL NUMBER

The "Nursery Number" of the U.S.C. Wampus, Trojan College comic monthly, will make its appearance on the campus on Wednesday. Dedicated to the freshman students at Southern California, and decked in verdant green, the current Wampus will include a Frosh Primer, "Intelligence tests" for Frosh, a literary page with book reviews by Ralph Holly, El Rodeo editor, and Morgan B. Cox; a desert love story by Elvalie Powell, as well as work of Julia Susky, Bob Crosby, Don Mike, Bryant Hale, John Post, "Auguliar," and "Connel." Wampus is described by the editor, Milton Booth, as "the official monthly organ in which those competitors of Mark Twain and Irving Cobb on the campus are allowed to relieve their pent-up genius."

Sharpshooters, Oneonta Military Academy

Enrollment for Fall Term Still Open

ONEONTA MILITARY ACADEMY is located at 1970 Fremont Avenue, South Pasadena.

THE CAMPUS CONSISTS OF 22 ACRES—about six acres of which are occupied by the main building, pergola, chapel, schoolhouse, showers, garage, athletic equipment rooms, Greek theater, playground, drillground, etc. The remaining 16 acres are laid out with beautiful shade trees, flowers, and a huge athletic park. Oak Knoll and Pasadena Short Line trains.

M. CANYON SMITH, PRESIDENT of the Oneonta Military Academy, qualifies for his work through a lifetime of experience in the education of the boy. Formerly served as City Superintendent for a number of years in one of the large Middle West cities, and was also President of the Sioux City Normal.

THE FACULTY OF THE ACADEMY is composed of a staff of experienced and efficient instructors—all college trained men, capable of devoting constructively their time and resources to the upbuilding of the individual boy.

THE CURRICULUM PRESCRIBED for the grammar and primary grades follows closely the prescribed work for public schools. State Series textbooks are used, supplemented by standard texts for supplementary work in Agriculture. Likewise, the high school curriculum is similar in all the major phases with that offered in the public high schools. For the purpose of instructing the younger boys, those six years old and under, a special junior department is maintained, numbering among its members several nurses and instructors specially qualified for this work.

A DEFINITE, PROGRESSIVE COURSE in Military Science and Tactics is prescribed for the school year, such instruction coming under the supervision of Army-trained officers possessing tact and ability in handling boys.

WITHIN A PERIOD OF FOUR YEARS Oneonta Military Academy has accomplished what no other like school in California has in that space of time, namely, recognition as an accredited school by the State University of California and other high institutions of learning. But few miltiary academies in the State enjoy this distinction, which generally demands years of preparation to meet the standards set forth. Write, phone or call for detailed information.

The rule in making mayonnaise

Is to add the oil a little at a time. The mixture will get out of your control and separate if you add it all at once. This same principle of control is followed in roasting Hills Bros. Coffee. A little at a time is roasted, and the matchless, uniform Hills Bros. flavor is the result.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

EVERY step is controlled. The perfectly blended coffee is roasted a few pounds at a time. Never in bulk. Even temperature is rigidly maintained during Hills Bros.' patented continuous-roasting process. Clean, fresh air circulates constantly through the roasting coffee.

Hills Bros.' precision is what makes Hills Bros. Coffee top the heights in excellence. How quickly you realize it. You open the vacuum tin and what rare fragrance fills the air! You drink a cup a few moments later. "That's it," you say . . . "that's real coffee . . . it couldn't be finer."

Today, the great western empire drinks Hills Bros. Coffee. Relishes it. Takes pride in serving it. Insists on getting it. And back East they talk about it . . . "That wonderful western coffee!" You simply cannot forget the flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee . . . or match it!

CHEST DRIVE READY TO BE SENT ON WAY

Preliminary Preparations for Annual Fund Appeal Completed by Officials

Actual preliminary preparations for the Community Chest's third annual appeal for funds have just been completed.

This is the advice received yesterday from Joseph Scott, campaign chairman, in the forthcoming campaign, November 9 to 23. According to Scott, personnel of the executive staffs has been appointed, and comprehensive details are now being worked out.

With the 143 agency members under the wing of the Chest signifying their intention of participating in the Chest for the coming year; with men and women of local prominence volunteering their assistance, and with 15,000 workers rapidly enlisting to form a great army, a successful culmination of the appeal is anticipated by Chest officials.

The Community Chest, which collects and distributes maintenance funds for 143 social, welfare, charity and relief agencies, has proved, after three years of successful operation, that it is a dominant factor in the social welfare work of Greater Los Angeles, Chest officials declare. Ninety-four cents out of every dollar collected in the annual appeal is actually being sent to charity and but 6 cents out of every dollar is being used for year-round administration of the Cest and campaign expenses.

Instead of hundreds of drives, campaigns, "tag days" and appeals, the Chest has come with a new solution one appeal once a year to take care of all necessary charities.

From point of geographical area to be covered, and from number of agency members, the Los Angeles Community Chest is the largest in the United States, according to Scott.

BAND HEAD RECEPTION ARRANGED

Final Preparations Made to Welcome Abe Lyman on Return Tuesday

Final preparations are being made for the reception to be accorded Abe Lyman, composer and orchestra leader, when he arrives in Los Angeles from Chicago Tuesday at the head of his musical aggregation.

Music from twenty bands is expected to welcome the musician when he steps from the train at the Santa Fe station at 2 p.m., and civic officials, stage and film folk, and personal friends will be present to greet him.

Escorted by motorcycle officers, a parade of trucks and automobiles will lead the director and his band through the city to the Ambassador, where they will open an extended engagement in the Cocoanut Grove on Thursday.

Lyman had a portable piano placed in his drawing room on his trip west, and has spent much of his time composing a number to be dedicated to Gene Tunney. Lyman postponed his trip west to attend the fight in Philadelphia.

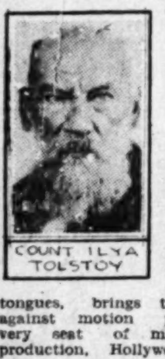
During his sixteen months' absence from this city, Lyman broke many attendance records while playing at the College Inn of the Hotel Sherman in the midwest metropolis and at Dell's, a fashionable cafe in the Evanston district of the Windy City.

Opportunities to play in a number of New York night clubs and to tour Europe with principal engagements in London and Paris were refused by Lyman in order to return to the Ambassador, where he formerly held sway with his baton over dance lovers of the Southland.

AMERICAN FILMS INDICTED

Count Tolstoy Here to Assist "Resurrection" Making Attacks Haste in Production

American movies show the signs of haste. They lack the finishing touch that spells genius. Producers with one eye on the "shooting schedule" and the other on the box office, are producing what is termed "pattern movies."



COUNT ILYA TOLSTOY

These strictures do not emanate either from disgruntled sources or from the camp of the reformer. They are entitled to serious consideration because they come at once from a widely traveled foreigner and from a man of mental eminence.

Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of the famous philosopher, Leo Tolstoy, and himself prominent as an author and a lecturer in both the Russian and the English tongues, brings this indictment against motion pictures at the very seat of major cinematic production, Hollywood, where he has come to act as literary adviser to Edwin Carewe in the filming of his father's sensational masterpiece, "Resurrection."

"The accomplishments of the cinema are truly wonderful," said the distinguished Russian. "The massiveness of the effects achieved are breath-taking. But there is such a marked absence, both in histrionic scenes and in settings that dictate the mood and often the tempo of these scenes, of those little touches that add that artistic filip which brings the glow of wonder, of admiration, of soul satisfaction to the spectator and which denote real genius in the art of film making.

"It is the supplementary and incidental touches that mean so much which, I contend, are lacking on the screen today. And where are the masters to apply them and make the American film as great a success artistically as it is financially? They may be among those who sit in the pit watching the films on the screen; perhaps some humble assistant or underpaid technician on the motion-picture set is our genius of tomorrow. Who can say? But until the man of detail and finesse becomes a factor in the American films they will not be the perfect gems that they might so easily be."

It was this argument that greatly aided Edwin Carewe in his decision to bring Count Tolstoy to Hollywood. Carewe, in conjunction with Inspiration Pictures, is shortly to produce "Resurrection." It will be made on a lavish scale. Tolstoy knows his Russia. He has the fine points of mannerisms and customs of his native country at his finger tips. He will be of valuable assistance to Carewe, who, like the distinguished addition to Hollywood, believes in the fine points in the cinema as well as the box office and production value problems.

New Playground Bond Issue Need to be Discussed

A number of representative civic organizations that have already forwarded indorsements of a bond issue of $1,500,000 to be placed on the November ballot, for from fifteen to twenty more playground sites, are arranging the organization of a citizen's committee to direct an educational campaign in behalf of this proposal. At a luncheon meeting to be held Tuesday, at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, plans for the directing of this campaign will be formulated.

Members of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Commission will attend the luncheon and outline the need of this sum to acquire recreation areas, equitably distributed throughout the city, before land values have soared to a prohibitive point.

Present at the luncheon, will be representatives of the Council of the Promotion of Boys' Work, Boy Scouts of Los Angeles, a number of service clubs interested in boys' welfare, Campfire Girls and other girls' organizations, police and fire departments, and leaders from a number of outlying sections particularly interested in the establishment of new play centers.

ERRANT APE BECOMES SPECIMEN FOR CLASS

Jocko was a very live monkey in San Diego Park. Longing for the wide open spaces, he escaped and made his home all over town. Supposedly tame, the monk became very wild upon his escape, and to prevent his attacking and injuring children, Jocko was killed. Then Dr. B. M. Harrison of the biology department of the University of Southern California was notified that a specimen was available, and he immediately procured Jocko. Weighing thirty pounds, the black monkey of the French Gambia variety will be used in the comparative anatomy class of the biology department of U. S. C., according to Professor Harrison.

CLUB MEETS TODAY

New offices and plans for the year of the campus Cosmopolitan Club, composed of students from all nations are to be the result of a meeting on today at the "Y" hut of the University of Southern California, at 5 p.m. Dr. Clarence Case, faculty adviser, is meeting with the student group.

World Flyer Sets Pace

With Lieut. Leslie Arnold, only member of the sextet of army flyers who circled the globe two years ago now in Los Angeles, setting the pace, a field of starters that promises to outclass anything yet attempted in a sky regatta on the West Coast, will get under way at 1 p.m. this afternoon. Approximately 100 planes are expected to leave at ninety-second intervals thereafter to circle the round-the-Southland course that begins and ends at Clover Field and includes as ports of call—Long Beach, Santa Ana, Arlington, and Alhambra.

Entries have been received from major army fields west of the Mississippi, one in particular from New York—the special Fokker that came across the continent carrying six persons. This craft is the counterpart of the planes used by Lieut. Wilkins in his Alaska-North Pole explorations, and has not been seen before in Southern California.

Los Angeles city and county police as well as officers from Beverly Hills and Santa Monica will co-operate throughout the day in eliminating traffic jams among the thousands who will journey to Clover Field for the great sky carnival. Admission to all fields is free and renewed interest in this year's meet is expected to call 300,000 to the various fields.

PRIZES OFFERED

More than $42,000 in cash and merchandise prizes will be awarded the victors in the various classes, in addition to handsome trophies that head each division of the race. In the sweepstakes competition, the $10,000 Santa Monica American Legion trophy is the chief incentive.

Military and naval entries are divided into two classes—observation and training. For the first class the Packard trophy donated by D. E. McDaneld, chairman of the contest committee of today's meet, is the award, while for the second class Cecil B. De Mille has donated a silver cup.

THREE CIVILEAN CLASSES

Planes outside the army and navy craft are divided into three classes according to horse power—above 185 horsepower; 110 to 185 horsepower, and under 100 horsepower.

Trophies for each of these classes come from as many sources—Burnett Brothers, jewelers; Western Flying Magazine, and Reginald Denny, Mullen & Bluett, Weatherby-Kayser Company, Silverwoods, Western Auto Supply Company, Tufts-Lyon, Desmond's and Union Oil Company, together with several others who have donated merchandise prizes.

Today's meet will mark the last big function at Clover Field in which Lieut. Horace Kenyon, Jr., commandant of the field, will have a part, as Kenyon leaves shortly for Honolulu to begin his three years of foreign service.

Tonight the pilots and their observers, together with officials of the National Aeronautic Association, under which the meet is held, will attend a dinner at Paulais on Broadway when the prizes will be awarded.

CLUB IDEAS SOUGHT

Organization Head Makes Tour of Coast on Visit to Institutions

To obtain the very latest ideas in architecture, facilities and equipment of city, country and seaside clubhouses for the trinity of edifices to be built by the Breakers Club, Harry L. Lewis, president of the organization, is making a tour of the Pacific Coast, visiting every metropolis that boasts such institutions.

On the tour Lewis is scheduled to visit San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane and Vancouver and Victoria in Canada.

The beach home of the Breakers at Santa Monica already rises four stories above ground and workmen are rushing construction that the eight-story edifice may be completed by the first of the year.

Lewis is particularly anxious to obtain the newest ideas for the city club of the Breakers, to be erected at Sixth and Loomis streets, overlooking the retail shopping district of the city.

"MOVE ON!" SAYS OFFICER LIFE

(The International Sunday-school Lesson for October 3 is "Journeying Toward Canaan"—Numbers x:11-36.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS

"I do not know where I am going; but I know I am on the way" is a colloquial phrase with deeper meaning than is commonly given to it. For that is life; to be on the way, even when the destination is uncertain. Progress is one of the imperative laws of nature: not to be advancing is the one real failure. "Move on!" is the stern command of Officer Life. A heritage from the war is the stout British phrase, "Let us carry on." Dr. Maltbie D. Babcock once gave a world counsel in an acrostic:—

"Go
Working."

This lesson is the story of the Children of Israel moving from the Mountain of the Law toward the Land of Promise. They left a sure place for an uncertain one. As a matter of fact, their journey was into a stony wilderness, where the going was harder than it had been hitherto. But beyond lay Canaan. A great goal justifies the journey's jolts. Back from ten months of travel in all the wide spreading lands of the Bible, I find my mind turning often to the philosophy of travel. Difficulties, dangers, perplexities, unknown ways to uncertain objectives, cold, heat—all these made up a trip that is now all satisfaction in retrospect. For I have accomplished that which no man before me ever did—the circuit of all Bible Lands in one comprehensive journey; and, far better, I have got a grip upon the greatness and unity of the purpose of the Author of the Book.

Israel was in no position to judge its pilgrimage: that would come after Canaan had been attained. No more is any one of us competent to appraise his own life: only the end proves all. While travel itself is a reward and a goal, yet arrival is the real test. Anything else is only like a pleasant whirl in a merry-go-round, which puts you off exactly where you got on. The ultimate object of progress is to attain. Alas for Israel, that only two men out of the whole host proved fit to enter Canaan!

QUITTING COMFORTS FOR THE MARCH

As an experienced world wanderer, may I impart the real secret of successful travel? It is the possession of an objective. What dreary hosts of unhappy tourists I have met in the past year who were merely indulging in foreign travel! They had no definite goal or purpose or interest; they simply moved restlessly from place to place, their first thought comfort and safety. To extract the real joys from travel, one must be bound somewhere, with a genuine reason for going. This incentive was before the Israelites; but oftener than not, they forgot it. As the modern tourist is prone to tarry in a comfortable hotel in a balmy climate, so the Jews were apparently loath to move from Sinai.

In front of the Mountain of the Law is a great camping ground, a plain suited to the needs of the host of Israelites. It has water in abundance. Trees grow there, and fruit

Those chronic grum the Children of Israel, did not the order to move on after they become settled in this comfor valley amidst the mountains, their majestic and mysterious ries. "And the people were as murmurers," runs the record.

What Israel did not see, and most of us today do not see, is God was shaping a character in who were his care. King Feisal, Irak, once told me that when he a little child his parents sent away from their palace home on to live in the tents of the ouin on the desert, that he might hardened. THE MAN WHO KNEW

Thrust into this lesson's dry rative of the order of Israel on march is a piquant personality; newspaper men call the "human terest" touch. Moses had a in-law, son of Jethro (whose name was Reuel: nobody who his Orient will ever be baffled changes of names;) and this Hobab had lived all his life on the Sinai Peninsula. He knew its and its waters, as the Bedouin today knows his barren world, an intimacy that is wonderful "civilized" man. When I reached heart of this region, it was to obtain the services of two soldiers, to be guides as well guards. Moses, the city man, in the wisdom of the Egyptians, to look to this "countrified" for help. "Thou shalt be to stead of eyes."

So the host moved on. permitted to imagine the hardships involved in this There was continual grumbling nevertheless, the people to Paran, with the cloud of as guide and guard. Next shall find them at a wonder the wilderness, Kadesh-Barnea.

the members of the younger Los Angeles and Pasadena who have achieved special honors door sports is Miss Louise the subdeb daughter of Mrs. Hugh M. McFarland Godfrey) of Oak Knoll granddaughter of the late M. McFarland and Mrs. Mc- of Ellendale Place.

McFarland although but 16 of age recently won the na- junior tennis championship in Philadelphia tournament at the Club, defeating Miss Clara of Cincinnati. This her teens, captured the junior title victory carried many of us back to the days when May Sutton, then in some years ago. It seems we may have another tennis world champion from Southern California in the near future.

Miss McFarland left soon after her victory for New York where she is entering Miss Bennett's School at Millbrooke this fall. She was accompanied east by her mother, Mrs. Hugh McFarland, and sister, Miss Virginia, who witnessed the tennis games, and who are returning home today. Miss Virginia is resuming her studies at Girl's Collegiate in Glendora, where she will be graduated next summer.

A recent addition to social circles of the Southland is Miss Elizabeth Jackson, attractive niece of Amiral Richard H. Jackson, comander in chief of the battleship fleet, who came from the south last spring to visit her uncle and is remaining here. Miss Jackson is the "official" hostess at all of the Admiral's affairs and is one of the most popular members of the naval colony at Long Beach and San Pedro. When the fleet went north in the late summer Miss Jackson motored up with Mrs. A. D. Streuble, wife of Lieutenant-Commander Streuble, joining her uncle at Bremerton, and returned with the fleet this month.

One of the most attractive visitors to the Southland this season is Miss Consuelo Pani of Mexico City, daughter of the Minister of Finance of Mexico, who with her family has been enjoying the summer in Los Angeles and its environs.

Miss Pani has been much entertained during her visit here, one of the brilliant affairs given in her honor being the smart luncheon over which Miss Mary McAlister of Alta Loma Terracepresid ed, the affair taking place at Club Casa Del Mar, Santa Monica. The decorations were especially artistic and attractive and thirty-five guests responded to invitations to honor the visitor who is making many warm friends among the younger set in Southern California.

Honoring her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Donald P. Weller (Marion Krebs,) a bride of June, Mrs. W. W. Weller entertained recently with a beautifully appointed bridge-tea at her home in South Moreland avenue. She was assisted by Mrs. R. C. Krebs, mother of the bride, in receiving the guests.

The house was transformed into a bower of early fall blossoms and ferns, zinnias in large baskets being attractively arranged with potted plants and ferns about the house, twenty-five guests being bidden.

The marriage of Miss Krebs to Lieut. Weller was an event at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Everett Lundin, in Berkeley. Lieut. Weller, who went north with the fleet on its last cruise, returned the 15th inst. and is detailed to San Diego, where Mrs. Weller has gone to join him.

Visiting friends and relatives here and being the honor guest of many attractive affairs, Mrs. Neal C. Johnson, charming wife of Capt. Johnson, U.S.A., has returned to Los Angeles this fall and, with her husband, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Davir Williams, 315 West Fifty-first street, and of Capt. Johnson's mother, Mrs. N. C. Johnson, 411 West Forty-first street. For the past five years Capt. and Mrs. Johnson have been making their headquarters in New Orleans, where the former has been detailed.

One of the most popular members of the younger set to attend an eastern school this winter is Miss Maurine Honey, subdeb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Honey, 1600 Kings Road, who left last Friday for the national capital, where she will enter the Holton Arms School for Girls. Miss Honey assisted her mother at a reception and tea given recently by Mrs. Honey at their home.

One of the beautifully appointed weddings of last month was that of Miss Mary Marjorie Moncure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Moncure of Richmond, Va., and Lieut. James Michael Fitzmaurice, United States Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Fitzmaurice of Hollywood, the ceremony taking place in Washington, D. C., August 9. Lieut. Fitzmaurice was graduated from West Point class of 1923 and is detailed with the air service. After an extended bridal tour Lieut. and Mrs. Fitzmaurice will be at home at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., about October 15. This attractive young bride is making many delightful friends here, as she and her husband are visiting at the home of the M. J. Fitzmaurices, 1600 Kingsley Drive, for two months, and are being much entertained as well as visiting all the various points of interest in Southern California during their sojourn.

Another attractive visitor who is being much entertained is Miss Florence Koetter of Peoria, Ill., who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Mary Cobleigh, at her home, 1935 South Figueroa street, and also her cousins, the David Edgar Llewellyns, at their Muirfield Road home.

Miss Elizabeth Von KleinSmid, the charming young subdeb daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Rufus Bernard Von KleinSmid of West Twenty-eighth street, is one of the most popular members of the younger college set at University of Southern California, where she is a junior. Miss Von KleinSmid accompanied her parents on a extensive tour of the eastern States, returning home just in time to enter the fall semester at the uni-

Now Is The Time To Beautify The Home

The season of real home enjoyment is upon us. With the coming of longer, cooler evenings, the family will seek the cheer of the fireside—friends will grace our homes more frequently—dinner parties and other social occasions will be planned.

Surely it is important that the home should provide the fullest possible degree of comfort and charm within our means—and that the home should be a source of pride and appreciation.

Perhaps a new Sofa is needed—or an inviting Arm Chair—or a Fireside Bench—or a Coffee Table—or a Floor Lamp, or a fine Mirror—or a Bookcase—or some other accessory—or maybe a new Rug—or new Draperies.

Whatever is lacking to give the home its strongest possible appeal should surely be supplied now—approaching the season when home is to play such a great part in our enjoyment of life.

You who are interested in beautifying your home will find many interesting suggestions at the "California", where the newest and best are always found. Even though you may not have any specific need in mind, a visit here will give you many helpful ideas—and it will acquaint you with the trend of styles in home furnishings.

We want you to feel free to come, entirely apart from any intent to buy—and we hope you will make it a point to compare values—for we know you will find prices here at least as low as elsewhere.

The wedding is planned for Saturday morning November 13, the ceremony to take place in the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale at 9 o'clock and will be quiet, owing to the recent death of Miss Carter's father, the late Rev. Dr. Carter was the former pastor of First Baptist Church of Los Angeles and the family is one of the prominent ones of our Southland while the Mac Boyles are very well known in the northern bay region.

Assembly Dinner Dance

One of the most delightful features of the early winter's affairs in the young married set will be the assembly dinner dance to be given at the Biltmore, November 5, when fifty of the young matrons will entertain. This will be the first of annual dinner dances which are to take the place of the affairs given for the past three or four years by the Dinner Club.

It will be a formal event and promises to be as brilliant as the Cotilions used to be in the late '80s and early '90s at the old Turnverein Hall on Spring street; the most exclusive entertainments in the history of our social life here.

At these affairs each hostess is to invite a very few guests and the invitations will be issued very shortly. SOCIAL AFFAIRS OF THE NAVY

Every season brings a series of brilliant navy balls given at the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, each being under the auspices of the officers of one individual ship of the fleet. This year there are to be held six of these dances, which have always been among the most important of all the various social affairs which take place ashore when the battleship fleet is in Los Angeles Harbor.

The first of the navy balls occurred on Friday evening, and brought together a great many officers and their families and friends. The lobby and ballroom of the Virginia were tastefully decorated with potted plants and flags, which, together with the gold lace of the officers and resplendent gowns of the ladies, made a picture long to be remembered.

This ball was sponsored by the new commander-in-chief of the battleship fleet, Admiral Richard H. Jackson, and the officers of his staff and ship, the U.S.S. California, and set a high standard for subsequent sponsors to attain. Many dinner parties preceded the dance, given for the most part in the hotel dining-room. Chief among these was that given by Admiral Jackson, whose guests on this occasion were his sister, Miss Clara Jackson, his niece, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Capt. Joel R. P. Pringle, chief of staff to Admiral Jackson, and Mrs. Pringle, Commander and Mrs. Charles L. Brand, Commander and Mrs. Ormonde L. Cox, Commander and Mrs. Russell S. Crenshaw, Commander and Mrs. F. L. Palmer, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Arthur D. Struble, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. S. F. Robinson, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Norman Bryant, Lieutenant-Commander Scott, Lieut.-Col. Raymond C. Stephenson, U.S.M.C., Lieut. and Mrs. R. B. Carney, Lieut. and Mrs. C. W. Brewington, Lieut. and Mrs. Gordon Jessup, Jr.

Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Ziegemeier had as their guests Capt. Harlan P. Perrill of the U.S.S. Arizona and Mrs. Perrill, Capt. Willis McDowell of the Oklahoma and Mrs. McDowell, Capt. Thomas S. Owens of the U.S.S. Pennsylvania and Mrs. Owens, Capt. Clarence Kempff of the Nevada and Mrs. Kempff, Commander and Mrs. Russell Willson and Mr. and Mrs. George Charteris.

Others noticed dining at the hotel were the following officers of the U.S.S. Procyon, and their wives. Capt. and Mrs. M. C. Cooke, Commander and Mrs. Joldersma, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Louis C. Montgomery, Lieut. and Mrs. A. Noble, Lieut. and Mrs. J. H. Keefe, Lieut. and Mrs. J. O. O'Donnell Richmond and Lieut. and Mrs. T. D. Ross.

Jackson, Miss Clara Jackson, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Rear-Admiral William Woodward Phelps, Capt. George Loring Porter Stone of the Tennessee and Mrs. Stone, Capt. Thomas T. Whittier

"Among the interesting social affairs at Whittier during the week, was the marriage of Miss Ellen Dixon and Mr. Hugh E. Kirkwood, Jr., which was solemnized at Plymouth Congregational Church Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, before an assembly of a half hundred friends. The church was beautifully adorned with pastel-shaded roses and asters and an improvised bower of bamboo formed a pleasing background for the decorations. Mrs. A. F. Wiese, Mrs. Lynn Persing and Glenn Edward Persing were in charge of the decorations. The nuptial music was by John Painter who played the Mendelssohn Wedding March for the professional, and the "Indian Love Call" and other appropriate music while the congratulations were being showered upon the young couple. The bride, a beautiful brunette, was gowned in shell pink georgette embellished with rhinestone embroideries and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and maiden-hair ferns. Her bridal veil, ankle length, was held in place by a coronet of rhinestones and pearls. She was attended by Miss Dorothy Davis, as maid of honor. Miss Davis was gowned in a pastel shade of green georgette and carried roses. The single ring ceremony was performed by Dr. E. E. Day, pastor of the church. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Edwin B. Greenbaugh. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dixon of Marshall, Ill., and the romance which so happily led to the altar began some five years ago when she was visiting relatives on the Coast. Mr. Kirkwood is one of the best known and most popular young men of the Quaker City and comes from a pioneer family, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh E. Kirkwood of 123 East College street. He was prominent in athletics while in high school and was graduated with the class of 1922. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood will be at home to their friends at 235 North Bright avenue, Whittier.

The marriage of Miss Rose Rabin, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Rabin of 3316 East Anaheim street, and Gus Jaffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jaffe, of 1545 Linden avenue, was solemnized Thursday evening beneath an arch of palms and roses in the Ebell clubhouse lounge, by Rabbi Julius Leibert. Gardenias and roses made an effective decoration. The bride, who was given away by her mother, wore a white duchess satin gown trimmed in lace and pearls. Her long veil was caught with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley and she carried a shower of roses and ferns. Wearing a peach colored georgette and carrying orchid sweet peas, Miss Gertrude Jaffe was maid of honor, the bridesmaids being Miss Fannie Jaffe and Miss Rose Glasbee. Little Helen Rabin dropped rose petals and Lillian Rabin carried the veil. Max Jaffe was best man bee and Louis Rabin the ushers. PLATFORM OF WOMEN ACCEPTED

State Republican and Democratc Conventions Indorse Program

A committee for the California League of Women Voters consisting of Mrs. J. C. Whitman of San Mateo, and Mrs. Carrie L. Hoyt and Mrs. Paul Eliel of Berkeley, appeared last Tuesday before the platform committees of the Republican and Democratic conventions meeting in Sacramento. Mrs. Ernest Wallace of San Francisco was also a member of this committee, as well as being a delegate to one of the conventions.

A wire from Mrs. Whitman, legislative chairman of the league, says that the Republicans have accepted the league program, of which the leading points are an institution for delinquent women, the raising of the age of majority for women to that of men—twenty-one years—and a community-property bill.

The educational bill which the leagu- will sponsor will take more definite form later, and a fifth place is left for an emergency measure, since indorsement of but five measures at a session of the Legislature is their practice.

Mrs. Whitman's wire says further that the Democratic committee is also pledged to the acceptance of the league program.

Convention Here Draws Nation-Wide Interest

Committee on Arrangements for National W.C.T.U. Convention

The stage has been set by the Southern California W.C.T.U. to make the national convention in Los Angeles, which opened today and continues to October 3, the greatest national W.C.T.U. convention ever held. Particular interest is being shown in this convention by all prohibition and civic forces owing to the vote in November on the repeal of the California prohibition-enforcement law, the Wright Act.

For many weeks the various organizations have been at work preparing for the convention. Chambers of commerce of eleven Southern California counties have arranged exhibits to be displayed at the convention. These exhibits will later be permanently placed in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce Building.

The convention is being held in the First Methodist Church, Eighth and Hope streets, and indications are that 2000 delegates and visitors will be in attendance.

Many distinguished visitors from the United States and foreign countries are at the convention. Mexico is sending a representative in the person of Senorita Ernestina Alvarado, who has been appointed by President Calles to represent the Mexican government at the convention and will also attend a series of border conferences to be held in San Diego and Calexico after the national convention in Los Angeles.

ORCHESTRA PROMOTION DISCUSSED

Women's Philharmonic Group Outlines Work of Winter Season

The executive committee of the women's committee of the Philharmonic Orchestra met recently for the purpose of outlining the winter work. This committee concerns itself with promoting in every way possible the Philharmonic Orchestra. It was voted from the committee funds to give a scholarship of season tickets to worthy musical students.

An interesting luncheon for the members of the committee and their friends is being planned for tomorrow at 12:30, at the Biltmore and a group of distinguished speakers will address the committee on this occasion.

The committee is striving to function as competently as the women's committees of the Cleveland and Philadelphia Orchestras have done.

Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor, was given a luncheon by the women's committee of Philadelphia this summer after his outstanding success in conducting the orchestra at the Sesquicentennial.

The executive committee consists of Mrs. Cecil Frankel, general chairman; Mrs. Force Parker, vice-general chairman; Mrs. Hansen Moore, secretary-treasurer. Department chairmen, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Ralph W. Buckham, Miss Gladys Caldwell, Mrs. Caroline B. Eager, Mrs. E. H. Furman, Mrs. W. F. Howard, Mrs. Kent Parrot, Mrs. William Read, Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Mrs. Robert I. Rogers, Mrs. James G. Scarborough, Jr., Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, Mrs. Leafie Sloan-Orcutt, Mrs. Alfred Stern, Mrs. Harold B. Wrenn, Mrs. John Cook, Mrs. Harry H. Culver, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, and Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish.

In recognition of her valuable service as chairman of the women's committee in its early organization period Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven was appointed honorary vice-chairman by Mr. W. A. Clark, Jr., at the request of the women's committee.

VILLAINOUS CAREER

Robert Ober, who has been a prominent leading man on both stage and screen for several years, seems definitely to be a villain as far as Universal is concerned. His present "heavy" role in Universal's "Held By the Law" makes his third at that studio. Others were in "The Whole Town's Talking" and "Butterflies in the Rain."

Mrs. Ridley Taylor

Mrs. Loren B. Curtis

Active in Musical Affairs

Mrs. Nickell is president of the Opera Reading Club of Hollywood. Charming Mrs. Hargraves is first vice-president and chairman of extension of the Opera Reading Club of Hollywood. Mrs. Huntington is chairman of hospitality, and on the board of directors with Mrs. Gilbert. Mrs. Morris, a well-known soprano, will sing the role of "Salome" in the opera "Herodiade" for the club, Monday, October 4. Mrs. Buckman is past president of the club, and now recording secretary for the California Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Curtis was first president of the club, while Mrs. Ridley Taylor, a member of the board of directors, is now chairman of luncheons.

DRY RALLY CALL SENT OUT

Women Here to Wage Intensive Campaign Against Movement to Repeal Wright Act

Calling on all the women of the community to rally to the cause of prohibition, Mrs. J. C. Urquhart has announced that the Women's Law Enforcement Committee of Southern California will wage an intensive campaign against the effort to obtain a repeal of the Wright Act.

Under direction of Mrs. Dora A. Stearns the speakers' committee will endeavor to talk before every woman's organization in this county, on behalf of the Wright Act.

A series of allegiance teas have been started and women are urged to give informal gatherings at their homes when the protection of the Wright Act will be the only topic of conversation. Mrs. Stearns will supply a speaker for any such gathering. Mrs. Urquhart is giving two teas at her home within the next week to start this phase of the campaign.

The Women's Law-Enforcement Committee will also give a reception to the national and State officers and delegates to the national W.C.T.U. convention in session here next week. The reception will be held Wednesday from 4:30 to 6 p.m. at the Hotel Figueroa, invitation by card only.

Weekly luncheons will be held throughout the campaign by the Women's Law-Enforcement Committee, these being given every Tuesday at 12 noon at the Chamber of Commerce. At that time plans for the ensuing week will be developed.

PROGRAM TO OPEN YEAR ANNOUNCED

Matinee Musical Club Schedules Initial Affair of Season's Activities

Members of the Matinee Musical Club are planning a program of unusual interest as the initial event of their new season.

The affair is scheduled for Thursday, October 7, at 2 p.m. and will be given at the Ambassador Theater, being open to members and friends of the club alike.

This opening event, presided over by Miss Alma Dorothy Priester, president, will include a special reception at which a group of distinguished folk will be the guests of honor.

Included among these latter will be Director Walter Henry Rothwell of the Los Angeles Philharmonic; Maestro Cimini, noted operatic and symphonic conductor; Hugo Kirchhofer, Madam Cimini and Peggy Hamilton.

Leonida Coroni, famous baritone, will be vocal artist, while Will Garroway, pianist, will present a few numbers.

SHE INHERITS CASTLE

Dorothy Devore is enjoying a short rest following completion of "Money to Burn" in which she was starred for Gotham Productions. Her characterization in the vehicle was that of an American school girl who inherited an old English castle. Her claiming the property forms a fast-moving plot of conflict and intrigue.

CLUB OUTLINES MONTH'S PLANS

Auditor's Report to Come Up at Initial Meeting

School Official to Address Tuesday Session

Committees Give Program of October Activities

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

With an annual gross income of well over the $100,000 mark and taxes and interest of more than $32,000 the auditor's annual report of the Friday Morning Club assumes a prominent place on the program of the opening meeting of the club to be held this year on October 1.

The first of the Tuesday committee programs to be given this year will be presented Tuesday, October 5, by the public affairs committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. John J. Abramson with Mrs. J. Pirnil Davidson as secretary. The subject discussed will be, "Women of Other Lands—Their Aspirations and Achievements." Miss Madeline Veverka, supervisor of kindergartens of Los Angeles public schools, will be the speaker. "Are Women Making Good with the Franchise" will be discussed from different angles by the following club members: Mrs. Arthur C. Weir, Dr. Elizabeth L. Wood and Miss Eloy Galpin.

The literature committee, Mrs. Wells Smith, chairman, will have their first meeting on October 12, when Helen E. Haines will review "The Decline of the West," by Oswald Spengler and the discussion will be led by Josefa Tolhurst.

On October 19, Eugene O'Neill's play, "The Great God Brown," will be presented in an interpretative reading by Alice Hunnewell, assisted by a group of readers who will take the important parts, thus making the play more understandable and far more interesting than any single reader might do. Dr. Dorothea Moore is chairman of the drama committee for the year. This is the most popular department of the club work.

Mrs. Richard C. Farrell, who made the club art galery so interesting last year, will again be art chairman.

The October meeting will be "A Tour of the Studio of John Hubbard Rich," a prominent portrait painter in Hollywood.

Mrs. Charles Flavel Turner, president of the Friday Morning Club, announces that this year she will maintain regular office hours from 10 to 12 a.m. every Tuesday and Thursday.

STUDIO CLUB REPORTS ACTIVITIES OF MEMBERS

Among the interesting goings and comings in the Hollywood Studio Club is that of Miss Marjorie Williams, director of the organization, who left last week for New York City to attend a conference of the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association. Mrs. Arthur Heineman, has just returned from Hanford, where she spent the summer. Mrs. Pruyn Harrison of Philadelphia was a week-end guest of Miss Eleanor Larsen at the club. Miss Mame Ober Peak, Washington correspondent of the Boston Globe, had as recent dinner guests Mrs. Wilfred Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. M. Phillips.

LEAGUE MEETING PLANNED

Women's Institute of Government and Politics Arranged Here for October

The second annual institute of government and politics of the California League of Women Voters will be held in the Assembly Room of the Friday Morning Club, October 6, 7, 8 and 9, and the great success of last year's institute, which was held at the Women's Athletic Club for five days of last November, augurs well for interesting sessions.

The subject this year will be "The Democracy of the United States—How Shall We Measure Its Failures or Successes?" and this subject will be approached from different angles by the six eminent speakers who will take part in the institute.

The opening session at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, October 6, will be conducted by Graham Allen Laing of the California Institute of Technology, from the standpoint of history. Mr. Laing's college is the University of Liverpool, from which he graduated with high honors in the school of history and economics. He has been secretary of the Department of Education in British Columbia, director of technical education in Vancouver, statistician of the United States Shipping Board in San Francisco, and is now professor of economics and business administration at the Institute of Technology.

GIVES ECONOMIC VIEW

Thursday morning at 10 a.m., Dr. Frederick W. Roman of New York University, well known through two previous visits to Los Angeles, will discuss democracy from the standpoint of economics, and the discussion following Dr. Roman's talk will be led by Mrs. Charles F. Nelson of the Friday Morning Club. Dr. Roman will be in California for some months as director of instruction of the California Association for Adult Education. He holds degrees from Yale, Berlin and Paris.

Thursday afternoon William Conger Morgan of the University of California, Southern Branch, will discuss democracy from the standpoint of the development of science, and the leader of the following discussion will be Mrs. H. G. Redwine of the Hollywood Woman's Club.

Friday morning Lyman Lloyd Bryson of the University of California, Southern Branch, will speak from the standpoint of the conflict of races. This Mr. Bryson is particularly well fitted to do, since his travels in connection with the National Red Cross, of which he was formerly director, brought him in touch with other races through Europe and Asia over a considerable period of years. In 1922 he was one of the delegates sent by the International Red Cross on an oriental tour, and was secretary of the Oriental Health Conference in Bangkok, Siam. Opera Club to Open Readings on October 4

True to its slogan to make each succeeding year more artistically brilliant and of higher operatic standard than the year preceding, the Opera Reading Club of Hollywood will open its fifth successful year October 4 with the promise of at least three surprises for the club year.

Owing to the enlarged membership the El Capitan Theater has been procured for all programs, through the civic co-operation of Edward Smith, the manager.

Mrs. W. A. Nickell, president of this organization, said to be the original opera appreciation club of Los Angeles, and the inspiration of many other similar organizations in Southern California, assumes her new duties with a rare background of leadership experience. She has held many offices in State and local clubdom and has earned an enviable record for her efficiency and charming personality. She was the past recording secretary of the Opera Reading Club of Hollywood.

Dr. Frank Nagel has chosen Massenet's "Herodiade" as the opening program for the club season. He will be assisted by a group of singers.

The club, largest organization in the California Federation of Music Clubs, has invited all sister members of the federation to send honor guests to its open meeting of October 4 at 10 a.m. in the El Capitan Theater.

The following officers and board of directors will serve this year with the president, Mrs. W. A. Nickell, Mrs. Richard Hargraeves, first vice-president; Mrs. L. Frank Baum, second vice-president; Mrs. Louis H. Jacques, recording secretary; Miss Eileen Marshall, corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. G. Grennwood, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur E. Huntington, Mrs. Malcolm Craig Mason, Mrs. Charles S. Reed, Mrs. Steele S. Sandberg, Mrs. William H. Gilbert, Mrs. Frank M. Strowbridge, Mrs. Martha B. Richardson, Mrs. Ridley F. Taylor, Mrs. Henry J. Kirschstein, board of directors.

SOCIETY OF CINEMALAND

BY ISABEL STUYVESANT

Mrs. Clarence Brown was the charming hostess at a luncheon given Wednesday at the Montmartre in honor of Dorothy Dwan who has just returned from a long location trip in the Southwest outside of California. At a long table centered with an oval bouquet of pompom dalhias in orchid shades, blue delphinium, asters and maidenhair fern; covers were laid for Mrs. Tom Mix who was smartly clad in white sport costume with a white felt French barrette cap; Mrs. Jack Ford, costumed in the new chenile red, big hat and bigger sleeves; Kathleen Clifford in a cream and rose chiffon silk made picturesquely to match her pink picture hat; Jackie Saunders in royal blue satin and rose-colored flowers and sash; Ruth Collier in a sports model of mauve and ashes of roses shaded to a pale tan, Mrs. Andrew Jergen, Mrs. Victor Schertzinger, and Helene Chadwick.

Dorothy Dwan, the honoree, was girlish and lovely in a costume of deep rust rose and black.

Hedda Hopper was hostess at luncheon the same day. Among her guests were Carmelita Geraghty, Julanne Johnston, Mrs. James G. Saper, Miss Ethel Gardner and Mrs. Walter Schmidt.

Joan Crawford, striking in midnight blue satin and silver modishly fashioned for a smart cafe luncheon, entertained Blanch Sweet, Mary Fleury and Betty Jane Young. In the evening, clad in pale blue, dark-eyed Joan entertained Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morosco (Corinne Griffith,) Paul Bern, Ernie Tagler and Betty Jane Young.

At the bachelors' table were noted at noon of the same day Josef von Sternberg, Elliot Dexter, Edward Earle, Harvey Priester, Arthur Edeson, Peter Diege, Sam Wood, Danny O'Shea, Rockliffe Fellowes, Jules Furthman, Hoot Gibson, Ray Hallor, Bernie Fineman, Johnny Walker, Max Marcin and Marshall Neilan.

Mrs. Robert Frazer entertained in honor of Mrs. Wilton Silsby. Her guests were Mrs. Herbert Bartlett, Lady Jane Lewis, Katherine Lewis. Sally O'Neill entertained Pepi Lederer. Peggy Hamilton entertained Ruth Clifford.

The noon hour was notable, too, for the number of small, intimate parties observed here and there. Viola Dana lunched with Jerry Miley and Norman Kerry, and Charles Maigne was with his wife, Ann Cornwall, Reed Howes and Anne Cudahy lunched together and danced every dance.

Others entertaining were Lottie Pickford, Mary McAllister and Alyce Mills.

Blanche Sweet is one of the most striking patrons of the cafe these days. She has acquired a coat of tan almost three shades darker than her blond hair—and with the pastel-colored sport dresses she affects, looks as if she had stepped from a page of Vanity Fair.

Elsie Janis was the honor guest at a luncheon given by Ruth Roland. The guests included Mrs. Janis, Blanche Sweet, Mrs. Tom Mix, Bessie Love, Daisy Moreno, Florence Lawrence, Elza Schallert and Peggy Hamilton.

John and Sam in Ice

Hugh Crumplin, clever screen actor, lately from England, who was one of the guests present at a dinner given recently by Mme. Elinor Glyn, the affair being in honor of Lady Ravensdale, noticed besides the many distinguished guests who were there and the general charm of the affair, that Mme. Glyn had introduced a clever idea. On each side of the tea wagon were two figures made entirely of white ice. One of them was "John Bull" and the other "Uncle Sam." Too bad to have them so chilly, but they made up for it by the obvious warmth of the handshake across the sweet things in the center of the wagon. The idea was to convey the spirit of welcome which is being given by Hollywood to its illustrious English guest.

Newcomers and New Home

Count and Countess Ilya Tolstoi have purchased a lot in Beverly Hills upon which they will build a handsome residence. It will be Russian in architecture. In addition to other residence lots in Beverly Hills, the Count has purchased a ranch near Santa Monica, comprising thirty acres, a part of which is upon the ocean front. The Tolstois plan to make their permanent residence in the film colony. At present and for the coming year Tolstoi will assist Edwin Carewe in the production of his father's novel, "Resurrection."

Count Ilya Tolstoi made his first public appearance when he spoke before the Women's Association of Screen Publicists at the regular dinner at the Writers' Club.

Miss Pearl Rall, chairman of the evening, presented an interesting program. Among the other speakers in addition to the famous Russian were Miss Alice Evans of New York, secretary of the National Board of Review, and Miss Mayme Ober Peake, representing the Boston Globe.

Among the guests and members attending were Count and Countess Ilya Tolstoi, Mayme Ober Peake of Boston, Alice Evans of New York, Dorothy Yost, Leslie Mason, Mrs Harry Perry, Ruth Waterbury of New York, Mrs. Dallas Halverstadt of Coronado, Helene Hurst, Harry Woods, Mrs. Grace MacGowan Cook, Ruby Blackburn, Dorothy Dwan, Larry Semon, President Elizabeth Reasdon, Pearl Rall, Edith Ryan, Nancy Smith, Dorothy Spenseley, Carolyn Wagner, Margaret McCall, Margaret Kimball, Adeline Alvord, Frances Deaner, Katherine Albert, Agnes Kerr Crawford, Agnes O'Malley, Shirley Moorman, Helen Starr and Franc Dillon.

In Beverly Hills

Mrs. Albert H. Zimmerman visiting here from South Bend, Ind., formerly Miss Bebe Lucero, was the honoree at a charming dinner-dance given by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Curry at their home, 521 Beverly Drive in Beverly Hills. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Chaplin (Lita Grey) Miss Lillian Grey, Miss Mamie St. George, Mrs. C. L. Lucero, Mrs. W. L. Bartlett, Miss Gwendolyn Lucero, Mrs. G. K. Kubel, Miss Louise Curry, Philip Kubel, Clair Overholtzer, Charles J. Hall, Henry V. Wetherby, John McNamara, Edward K. Bartlett, and Harry Phillips.

June Mathis Entertains

Mrs. Sylbano Balboni (June Mathis) was hostess at a luncheon at the Montmartre last Thursday, honoring Elsie Janis. The two have been friends for many years, and indulged in many interesting reminiscences during the luncheon hour.

Guests besides Miss Janis were Mrs. Janis, Laura Mathis, Grace Gordon, Ruth Roland, Mabel Taliaferro, May Allison and Winona Winter.

For the Misses Dale

One of the past week's delightful affairs was the luncheon and bridge party given by Ruth Clifford in honor of her cousins, the Misses Norman and Louise Dale. Guests invited to meet the visitors included May McAvoy, Laura La Plante, Colleen Moore, Patsy Ruth Miller, Virginia Roye, Helen Ferguson, Mildred Davis Lloyd, Julanne Johnston, Bessie Love, Helene Chadwick, Kathleen Key, Jobyna Ralston, Carmal Myers, Ruth Roland, Billie Dove, Mrs. Reggie Morris, Bobbie Vernon and E. Hall.

Miss Clifford's Beverly Hills home was made a bower of ferns and flowers for the affair which proved to be one of the most delightful of the early fall season. Card games and dancing was enjoyed. Several of the guests gave impromptu solo dances of grace and cleverness.

At Club Casa Del Mar

One of the most charming affairs of the week was the bridge-luncheon with which Mrs. Tim McCoy entertained at the Club Casa Del Mar last Tuesday. Guests included Miss Ruth Chatterton, Mrs. Chatterton, Mrs. Karnes, Mrs. Jack Holt, Mrs. Ernest Torrence, Mrs. Conway Tearle, Mrs. Alec Francis, Mrs. George Burry, Mrs. Dan Brown, Mrs. Thomas Patton, Mrs. Bob MacIntyre and the Misses Charteris and Fraser.

Now I know that Vilma Banky lives at the club, and I know that she goes to parties, and I know that her blonde head is usually seen with the most select, but I never expected to see her shyly watching the dancing and contests, in a gown made entirely to comply with the rules of what every farmer's daughter should wear. Naturally she could look nothing but lusciously lovely.

Vilma Banky also entertained with luncheon Tuesday. Her guests included Mrs. Peter B. Kyne, Mrs. Victor Varconi and Mrs. A. Lehr.

At dinner that evening Mr. and Mrs. Victor Varconi entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lubitsch, Hans Kraly and Vilma Banky.

Wedding Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvano Balboni (June Mathis) gave an unusual wedding dinner last Friday evening at their home on Laurel avenue, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Dan Thomas, who were married two weeks ago, and just returned from their honeymoon at Yosemite.

A color scheme of pink and gold was carried out, with a miniature bride and bridegroom as an attractive centerpiece.

Among the guests were Lincoln Quarberg, Harry Wilson, Laura Mathis and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sper (Winona Winter.)

Harvest Home

Opening the autumn festivities with a harvest dinner and hard time dance, the Club Casa Del Mar in Santa Monica presented a gay spectacle last Thursday night, when many of the elite of Cinemaland misplaced their dignity and became "rubes" for the evening's frivolity.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mix entertained a party of twelve. Mrs. Mix, who is usually the most georgeously gowned of any of the cinemalite, complied with the rules of the evening that no one be allowed in the club in anything but the approved Corntassel garb, and looked girlishly blond and happy in a little gingham dress! Tom seemed to have a glorious time experimenting with the various farm implements peeking out from behind the tall corn stalks that encircled the long ballroom.

And you should have seen the Eric Von Stroheims, with their party of eight! Removed from the dignity of uniform or dress sut, the popular actor-director became "farmer" for a few hours, while Mrs. Von Stroheim laughingly looked on.

Of course Clifford Robinson was there, with a party of four.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Varconi, who are among the cinemalites who live at the club, sat most of the time on the boxes and boards that served for seats around the edge of the floor, and watched the antics of their friends.

Those who say that Jack Holt look equally well in dinner suit or cowboy outfit, should surely have seen him Thursday night! There would be a sudden great demand for films concerning the strong young farmer of the Middle West, with Mr. Holt as ye farmer Mrs. Holt was charming in a very dainty gingham frock.

And speaking of frocks. One of the most original and laughable of the costumes, was that worn by a Mrs. Ocha. Made from the want ad and automobile sections of the Sunday Times, and cleverly made to show certain sentences and phrases on the paper, it provoked laughter whenever one was near enough to stop, look and read.

Then of coure Julia Faye, Anita Stewart, the Tom Gallerys (Zasu Pitts) and the Manuel Reachis (Agnes Ayres) were seen among the dancers, under the electrically twinkling stars.

And by the way, those stars were quite fascinating. Coming in from out of doors, where the usual beach fog was disporting, one found over the ballroom a canopy of dark blue cloth, through which tiny electric stars blinked and twinkled.

The affair was distinctly a success, and a fitting opening to the fall festivities in Cinemaland.

Reception

Honoring Sidney Olcott on the occation of his birthday, Valentine Grant gave an elaborate reception last Sunday evening at the residence of Robert Vignola in Whitley Heights. Among those present at the interesting affair were Mr. and Mrs. Edwards Davis, Eugene O'Brien, Bess Meredyth, Mr. and Mrs Edwin Carewe (Mary Akin,) Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miranda, Miss Peggy Hamilton, Mr and Mrs. Crawford Kent, Mr. and Mrs Gino Corrado, Miss Belle Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Mindreth Lord (Marguerite Namara,) Mr. and Mrs. Caesare Gravina, Miss Leah Baird, Mr and Mrs. Edwin Schallert, Herbert Molton, Grace Kingsley, Mr. and Mrs Robert Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edeson, Mr. and Mrs. Pat O'Malley Mr. and Mrs. Jean Hersholt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McDonald.

The Week's Marriage Circle

Virginia Bushman, charming young daughter of Francis X. Bushman, is now Mrs. Jack Conway. After their marriage Tuesday at Mr. Conway's home, 5950 Foothill Boulevard, by Superior Court Judge Hollzer, they motored north and are spending their honeymoon at Pebble Beach. Upon their return they will make their home in Hollywood.

Word comes from Paris of the wedding of Miss Jean Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennett, and John Marion Fox of Los Angeles and London. They were united in marriage the 15th inst. at St. Luke's Church, Chelsea, London. Mrs. Fox is a graduate of St. Margaret's School and has just completed a year's study at L'Ermitage in Versailles, France. Mr. Fox is the son of Robert R. Fox of Los Angeles. He is a graduate of Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., and of Columbia University, New York City.

Among weddings of the future, cinemalite may enjoy the one of Laura La Plante and William A. Seiter; Dorothy Gulliver and Wynn DeVito; Ena Gregory and Al Rogell. Then there are Doris Kenyon and Milton Sills. Any day now or even before this sees the dark of print wedding bells may ring for them. Mrs. Bob Leonard was the lovely bridesmaid among others at the Locke-Brown wedding, which was the event of the month in Los Angeles society.

The Magnificent Premiere

The highlight among premieres for the beginning of the autumn season is the one Wednesday night, when "Bardelys the Magnificent" will be shown at Fred Miller's Carthay Circle Theater.

Among those who have signified their intention of being included in the society affair that promises to be memorable are:

Jack Gilbert, Greta Garbo, King Vidor, Eleanor Boardman, George K. Arthur, Roy D'Arcy, Claire Windsor, Rupert Hughes, Fred Niblo, John Robertson, Irving Thalberg, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Moreno, Louis Mayer, Clarence Brown, Lew Cody, Mabel Normand, Owen Moore, Theodore Kosloff, Dorothy Phillips, Mae Murray, Phylis Haver, Lloyd Hamilton, Roscoe Arbuckle Irving Hellman will have as his guests Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mix and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan St. John.

The New Idea

In London smart women and those of cinemaland who have crossed over, when they want to be frightfully extravagant and chic, are having their hosiery specially spun for them. The idea was started by the Princess De Polignac, who was formerly Miss Alice Weisinger of New York. When her stock runs low, so Sylvia writes me, she visits a little store in the aristocratic seclusion of Hanover Square and has her leg "charted." When the measurements have been taken they are handed over to the silkworms—at least it seems as though they must be, for the stockings when spun and put on, look as if they had been spum around the ankles and legs. Justifying her extravagance, the Princess has been telling her friends "One hopes ankles vary; and they need to be fitted as well as one need to have a suit specially fitted."

Latest in Hollywood among the stars and starlets is a black and white beaded bag. On one side is the silhouette, in black beads against white, of the carrier of the bag and on the other side is her fiance. Jean Ross is the black and white artist.

DOES OWN COOKING

Walter Tennyson has returned from a two weeks' auto tour of Lower California and Mexico. Tennyson carried a complete camper's outfit on a trailer and did his own cooking and housekeeping. He is the nephew of Sir Alfred Tennyson, famous British poet, and recently completed one of the outstanding roles in Paul Sloane's production, "Corporal Kate" at the De Mille studios.

HATTIE HUSKER IN HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY JONES

The old Husker place, known throughout Ioway,
With its cupola barn and its iron stag at bay,
Is where I found harbor for near twenty Junes,
Until I was swept by the movie typhoons;
And now out in Hollywood, I've come to port,
In a thing called a Hollywood bungalow court.

For a cell built of stucco and painted bright pink
You can get at the rate of—well, what do you think?
Or rent one of heliotrope speckled with green—
A payment's no more on a new Ford machine.
They call them all gardens; they're cosy and cute—
The landlords are Irish, Greek, Hebrew, or Jute;
But the courts are Italian; Sorrento and Rome
Is the place that Pat Murphy rents out for your home.

So I rented of Pat, parlor, bedroom and bath,
While I waited in vain for the bright primrose path
That leads up to stardom, and so the weeks fled,
While I wrote to Cob county to be clothed and fed.
And though Dad is on the Superior bench,
And his hogs are all winners, I fear 'twas a wrench
To send to his Hattie the ransome Pat asked
Of those who in light of his luxuries basked.

It's instructive to live where partitions are thin
In a town where 'tis said they all know how to sin;
For it's easy to learn how your neighbors disport,
If you live in a Hollywood bungalow court.

Actor Absorbs Nautical Tang in Sea Picture

"Ships that pass in the night." This expression has a new meaning for Raymond Hatton, now playing with Wallace Beery in "We're in the Navy Now," a Paramount production based on the life of two naval recruits.

Hatton, with other members of the company, is working at San Pedro with Uncle Sam's Pacific Fleet as "props" and he seen so many ships in the past few days, has trod so many different decks and been aboard so many different boats that he is beginning to dream about them.

Hatton asserts that he has gone so far as to say "Ahoy" instead of "Hello" when answering the telephone.

Tasks of Film Cutting Taken Up by Director

Paul Sloane is experiencing his "post-war troubles." Following cessation of camera work on "Corporal Kate," which Sloane is producing for the Cecil B. De Mille company, the director is spending ten hours daily in the cutting rooms, where he is editing approximately 95,000 feet of film into a [illegible] nine or ten [illegible]

TRANSPORT UNIT BUILT IN DESERT

Great Amount of Detail Enters into Preparation to Take Western Scenes

No picture lover ensconced in a luxurious theater can appreciate the detail necessary to produce the pictured story nor appreciate the cost of making a great photodrama such, for instance, as "Three Bad Men" an epic tale of civilization's advance across the wastelands of the West in the search for homes and gold, which was recently completed and which is now in the third week of its successful run at the Figueroa Theater.

Some of the principal scenes of this picture were made in the heart of the desert, five miles from the nearest town, and more than 15,000 actors, extras, Mexicans, Indians, cattle, bison, horses and wagons were assembled there. Each week thirty fat beeves and twenty hogs were killed and these were merely supplemental to game that professional hunters supplied. Trucks rolled through clouds of dust day and night from Victorville bringing other supplies and one hundred cows furnished the daily supply of milk and cream. The commissary was in direct charge of the Union Pacific Railroad, which detailed a crew of twenty-eight expert kitchen men and fifty waitresses and waiters.

Desperadoes of the bad man type infested that section fifty years ago, and prototypes of some of the notorious "killers" will be seen enacting the wild deeds of the desperadoes. Tom Santschi, J. Farrell Mac Donald and Frank Campeau are cast for the three desperadoes from which the picture takes its title and other outstanding players are George O'Brien, Olive Borden, Lou Tellegen, Jay Hunt, Alec B. Francis, Otis Harlen, George Irving and Priscilla Bonner.

Thankless Role Induces Best Screen Acting

Thankless roles! That most Thespians wouldn't want! Yet Louise Fazenda doesn't sidestep them! And even says she likes 'em!

"Good bridge players make poor cards take tricks. Hands that play themselves reflect no skill. It's just the same," says Louise, "with the actor. I'm human and do my inward groaning when I have a mediocre part to negotiate. Then I pull myself together and use my brain. I make every move count. I won't let myself slip. Nor forget. I know where the ice is thin and I watch my step.

"This is wonderful training. You can't get this in actor-proof parts that demand no finesse. To conquer a bad part and make something out of it becomes most satisfactory in the end. It's a test of ability and technic!"

Louise Fazenda acquired her pantomime in a difficult school where she had to use her wits.

"And a person like that," some one remarked of her recently, "is never caught napping!"

COMEDIENNE IN ROMANTIC ROLE

Mathilde Comont

Mathilde Comont, who has added mirthful tonnage to many films, is now filling her most romantic screen role. Matty is playing the one-time dream girl of Jean Hersholt, star of Universal "The Wrong Mr. Wright." A dream girl whom the years have blessed with many pounds and children.

With versatility remarkable in so weighty a player, Mathilde Comont has interpreted a list of hilarious characterizations restricted neither by race lines nor sex-lines. One of her most notable appearances was as the Persian Prince in "The Thief of Bagdad." She was also Rosita's Italian parent in the Pickford play while the Jewish mother in Phil Rosen's "Rose of the Tenements" is a very recent achievement of the comedienne who was formerly a Parisian star.

Theater Owner Gratified With Public Response

With the closing of "The Volga Boatman" September 27, after a five months' unusually successful run at Fred Miller's Carthay Circle Theater, the thought comes forcibly forward that there is reason for more than the normal amount of joy over a picture's success.

"Each day my gratitude and elation grow over the surprising way people have entered into the spirit of the theater and its first program offered to the public. All of the doubts that were involved in the creation of the Carthay Circle have been swept away and with the opening of "Bardelys The Magnificent" with John Gilbert the 29th inst. I know that the public knows that the standard we have established will insure it of the finest type of entertainment to be secured. Carli Elinor has no rival in arranging musical scores. His choice and adaptation of themes for "Bardelys" will be as perfect as those for "The Volga Boatman." Jack Laughlin, whom I consider a genius in creative work, is rehearsing a prologue that will be heralded as something entirely new.

'Pieces of China' in Second Week at Auditorium

"Pieces of China" is now launched upon its second week at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

I. O. Upham, the producer, went to great pains to assure an artistic success. The huge rolls of film which he brought back from his 10,000-mile jaunt through China were titled and cut by the Anthonys of Hollywood, Walter and DeLeon, father and son.

His atmospheric prologue, featuring the giant Liu Yu-Ching, was written by Moon Kwan, while the music for both film and prologue was assembled from Chinese sources by J. P. Schinhan.

In this thoroughness Upham was carrying out the program he made for himself when he began the film in China. In the interior he traveled by road and river with the entourage of an oriental governor, his impedimenta including a constant guard of soldiers supplied by his powerful friends in Peking.

Among his Chinese friends Upham counts the strong Marshal Wu of whom the republic expects so much. He is seen in striking surroundings in "Pieces of China."

Colleen Moore Film Continues Run at Criterion

"It Must Be Love," starring Colleen Moore and now having a continued first-run showing at the Criterion Theater, deals with the struggle of a middle-class girl to live without friction in a distasteful environment. Because she lives in back of her father's delicatessen store the girl can not invite friends home without a feeling of inferiority. When she attempts to point out to her father that he is not giving her a fair chance for happiness in her social set, he misunderstands her attitude, construing it as contempt for her parents.

This misunderstanding as portrayed by Miss Moore and that inimitable character actor, Jean Hersholt, gives such an atmosphere of inevitable parental injustice that dry eyes are scarcely possible with the average audience. Yet, despite the pathos of this theme, a flash of the Moore eyes and a perk of the indescribable nose cause the same sobs to be choked off in gasps of hilarious laughter.

Actress in East First Time Since Gaining Stardom

Evelyn Brent is in New York for the first time since she attained stardom. She is playing the featured lead for Paramount in "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" at the Astoria studio under the direction of Frank Tuttle.

"I am enjoying an orgy of shopping and picture-taking, both for movies and portraits," writes the popular little star. "Hollywood creates fashions in the films. New York manufactures them in quantity and is the market center for them. Hollywood is the creative source of almost all important film productions, too, but again New York is the marketing center. Here the multitude of prints of each picture are made and disseminated. The pulse of the industry is best felt in New York and, transmitted to Hollywood, controls the life of the industry."

Miss Brent's first picture since she became a free-lance star is the John V. A. Weaver play. She is expected back in Hollywood within four weeks.

Film Continues First Run at Local Theater

John M. Stahl's latest picture, "The Gay Deceiver" is now enjoying a continued first-run showing at the Criterion Theater, where this popular picture has been moved following its successful run at Loew's State.

The background of this picture is laid in Paris and France. It concerns a man who discovers at the heyday of a great stage career, when the world is his oyster, that there comes a time in every man's life when he isn't the man he used to be, that there are certain advantages in a home, a fireside and a faithful and loyal wife that can not be offset by the adulation of the general public, nor the fickle devotion of will-o'-wisp ladies whose love is directed toward the achievement rather than the achiever.

Lew Cody plays the leading role in "The Gay Deceiver" and has in his support, Carmel Myers, Dorothy Phillips, Roy D'Arcy, Malcolm McGregor and Marceline Day.

Actress Favors Studio System of Loaning Out

Marian Nixon advocates the "loaning out" system as employed by modern motion-picture studios.

Miss Nixon is under contract to Universal, but she has been loaned by that organization to other companies. Among the pictures she has appeared in under banners competitive to Universal have been Paramount's "Hands Up," starring Raymond Griffith, and Embassy's "The Devil's Island," starring Pauline Frederick.

"Being loaned out gives a player a new outlook on his or her work," Miss Nixon believes.

Miss Nixon is at present engaged in a featured role in Gotham Productions' latest feature, "Heroes of the Night." She has two leading men in this picture in the person of Cullen Landis and Rex Lease. Frank Condon, who directed her in "The Devil's Island," is once more on the small end of the megaphone.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

If your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

PIERRE KEY'S Music Article

BY PIERRE V. R. KEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Translated rather freely from the Italian into our tongue, the name Fortunato Gallo becomes Fortunate Rooster. And he is all that. Whatever comes comes, and Mr. Gallo has always sought to make the best of it. So in the case of Pietro Mascagni. The Italian boss of living composers had promised to come to the United States and, for no inconsiderable sum of good American dollars, remain here long enough to give New Yorkers, Bostonians and Philadelphians some idea of how he looks, and behaves, and conducts since he has become older and fatter. But the fates intervened. Mascagni did not come, which put the San Carlo Opera premiere for 1926-27 rather up to others less picturesque.

Back again at the Century, the San Carlo organization found itself in surroundings wholly appropriate for what it has to offer. There was at least a touch of an atmosphere that was lacking a year ago at the Al Jolson Theater.

An audience of considerable proportions was present too, and very evidently pleased with what was offered . . . rather too much so, it seemed, since there was no particular sense of discrimination shown in the applause bestowed.

PERFORMANCE CRITICISED

As for the performance, it had many excellences and was well worth the prices asked for seats. It was a "Carmen" better than the majority which now prevail in Europe, which means that the ensemble was satisfactory in the circumstances, with certain of the principals singing acceptably.

Lorna Doone Jaxon, a graduate from comic opera, was the Carmen. She is said to have been coached by Emma Calve, which appeared likely enough—judging from her action and "business." For it was well conceived histrionically, particularly in the second and third acts (I did not remain for the final scene.) Miss Jaxon, who is to join the Chicago Civic Opera this season, should eventually make this role one of visual distinction; but vocally she was ineffective, because she does not use well a naturally agreeable mezzo-soprano voice.

Much better singing was done by Lois Johnston, a newcomer lyric soprano, whose evident nervousness interfered with the fullest use of a charming and freely given voice. Lorenzo Conati, baritone, who was the Escamillo, also new to us, has an agreeable, if light, baritone. What he lacks is the vocal "resistance" needed to make his tones truly vibrant. A better piece of singing was done by Andrea Mongelli, a round, if throaty, basso, whom we never had heard. Franco Tafuro, with his beautiful tenor, missed many fine opportunities through his crude and slovenly style.

Carlo Peroni conducted in his usual fashion! making some artistic effects in portions of the first act choruses, but permitting, as is his wont, the orchestra to drag behind the singers. I will comment on other performances of the opening San Carlo week here in my next article.

ANENT MASCAGNI

Henceforth, any announcement concerning the "coming" of Mascagni will be taken by the American public with several grains of salt. For it is clear that the Italian has no special sense of ethics. He has proved that, now, to our complete satisfaction.

He has broken his pledged word so often that the pieces are too small to be picked up. The late firm of Liebler and Company could tell something in that respect, and Lee Shubert, too. Now Fortune Gallo is able to add enough to what already has happened when Americans have sought to do business with the composer to make the case unmistakably plain.

Mascagni may explain indefinitely, but one fact stands crystal clear: He is not to be relied on. How different from such men as Caruso and Amato. There were Italian musicians who respected both their signatures and their spoken words. Mascagni respects neither. Wherefore, let the curtain be rung down on him, so far as his "appearances" in the United States are concerned.

CHANGED CONEY ISLAND

In the old days no one ever would have thought of giving opera within gunshot of Coney Island. Which shows that as the world grows older customs change. The performance of "La Juive" which hovers as I write these lines, is for the benefit of the Jewish Sanitarium for Incurables.

Charles Marshall, the Chicago Opera Company heroic tenor, is to have the role of Eleazar, which Caruso made so much of during his last days. Other artists in the cast are not so well known, but they are capable.

Coney Island has become quite perky during the past few years; and there is now a movement started to improve the character of the place to make it a resort more along the lines of Atlantic City. That day may be, as doubtless it is, some distance off, but when a "La Juive" presentation vies with the chute-the-chutes and similar attractions it would appear time to take some notice of what is going on.

CLEVELAND AND ITS OPERA

Cleveland is one of our important music centers. During the past three years it has made some records in the line of opera, bringing both the New York Metropolitan and the Chicago Opera organizations there for pretentious if brief seasons.

Last year, however, a bit more was offered than could be assimilated within so brief a space of time. Ten days of the Metropolitan—when they come one after another—make heavy demands on any community. So there was a deficit—due to the pigheadedness of one man who now, happily, is out of the picture.

It is my belief that there needn't have been a deficit, but that, at this stage of proceedings, is beside the issue. What matters is that Cleveland has a quality of civic pride scarcely to be matched anywhere in this country. And I shall be surprised if there does not ensue a concerted movement to bring back the Metropolitan next spring, and make its performances as gratifying financially as they doubtless will be in an artistic way.

JUILLIARD EXAMINATIONS

Within a few days examinations are to be held at the headquarters of the Juilliard Musical Foundation for the selecting of students who, during the coming year, will be members of its fellowship and scholarship colony. There are still some unbestowed awards, so it behooves our best music talent to bestir itself. Kenneth Bradley, educational director, is the person who will have charge of the examinations.

More than a little interest is being focused on the Juilliard Foundation. Now in its fifth year of activity, it has done nothing to command admiration. In fact, there has been a deal of inquiring as to just what the trustees and their executive secretary are undertaking to do.

More than $15,000,000 is piling up an interest fund which is only used in part. And thus far there is not so much to show, in visible accomplishments, for the money spent. Many persons have begun to ask pertinent questions. Perhaps this year may bring forth a forward movement sufficient to change the existing feeling of speculation into one of a more desirable character.

MacDOWELL DRIVE

The name of Edward A. MacDowell will probably always have a special place all its own in the realm of American composition. He was one of the most gifted creative musicians this country has produced. His influence, too, was in many respects the strongest of any native composer.

Up in Peterborough, N. H., is the MacDowell Colony. In it are buildings and places sacred to the memory of a distinguished musician; a memorial which deserves to be kept fresh and enduring. Mrs. MacDowell herself lives there; and many in the world of fine arts go to Peterborough to pursue their work in an atmosphere peculiarly grateful.

The National Federation of Music Clubs is about to launch a campaign to raise a large sum of money to preserve the MacDowell Peterborough Colony. Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelly, president of the federation, predicts it will be a success, because, as she wisely points out, the drive is to be under the leadership of the federation's junior clubs, and will be designated the children's crusade. Miss Nan Bagby Stephens is chairman of the executive committee, and her executive skill virtually predicates success for this particular endeavor.

CALL SENT OUT FOR DRY RALLY

Committee is in receipt of the following resolution sent them by the Southern California School of Missions:

Whereas, a strong effort is being made to influence public opinion unfavorably on the question of prohibition,

Resolved, that we the members of the Summer School of Missions of Southern California, representing sixteen religious denominations, in annual session convened, desire to go on record as believing that our country has made substantial gains, economic and moral, since the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment; that the law can and should be enforced; and that there should be no modification of the Volstead Act.

Resolved, that this body co-operate in all movements that foster respect for and observance of law, and urge its constituents to actively support such political candidates as announce their intention of upholding law-enforcement legislation.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to our Congressional Representatives in Southern California and to enforcement officials.

Writer of Film Hits Proves to be Unobtrusive

In John Stone has been discovered the most unobtrusive scenarist in the motion-picture field. Altruistic to a fault, he has submerged himself in his work for the past four years at the Fox studios, where he has established an enviable reputation as one of the most successful of original story writers.

Most of the vehicles which Tom Mix has appeared in during the past year were from Stone's versatile typewriter. One of these, "No Man's Gold," showed to capacity houses at Pantages last week.

Another of his recent accomplishments is the adaptation and continuity of "Three Bad Men," which is showing as a special at the Figueroa, and judging from the interest displayed by those who have seen it, it is due for an indefinite stay. The fact that Stone's recent writings have been confined to western locales is by no means a manifestation of a similar limitation to his talents. He has been just as successful with society dramas during his stay with Fox as he has been with pictures of the outdoors.

SUB-DEB-ROSA

by Peggy Nye

Subdeb fan

Today we're announcing a new Gold Star! You know we've been gathering two leading men, two leading women, and other so-forths, with Doug and Mary, Rudy Valentino, Jack Gilbert, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Lucy Beaumont, Helene Sullivan, Louise Fazenda, Gertrude Astor, Roy D'Arcy, John Roche and our sole and only "baby star" has been Joan Renee. You remember Joan in "The Silver Treasure" with George O'Brien.

However, to get back to the heralding of our newest Golden Star, we're mighty proud to have her on our list, and to know her, and tell you about her.

When you see "The Lily," with Belle Bennett, you'll see Reata Hoyt as the ingenue lead. And Reata Hoyt is our new "baby star." She's a blond, with the loveliest gray-blue-hazel (yes they are, Pat says they change color with the lights, but I think maybe it's with the gowns) a perfectly adorable nose and mouth, and well, every time I see her I think "divinely tall and most divinely fair." She was in the Follies, and in Irving Berlin's Music Box Revue, and dances and looks quite accordingly.

Not quite a year ago she came out to California with some friends on a nine-day vacation. She had a letter to Victor Schertzinger that Irving Berlin had given her, but it was only a letter of friendly introduction—Irving had no idea of letting her out of his revue. Furthermore, Reata had no idea of leaving the revue.

Schertzinger took one look at the maiden to whom this letter introduced him, and said: "If you can act like I think you can, and photograph like I think you can, I'll give you the lead in my next picture."

Reata qualified, her tests were perfect, and Schertzinger's next picture, "The Lily" happened to be one of the big Fox specials. Thus did New York lose Reata.

And now we'll tell you a secret. We interviewed her at the Montmartre, that haven of all reg'lar interviewers, and as we waited downstairs for the damsel to appear, we both tried to figure out what she would be like. She'd said over the telephone that she'd wear a black dress and hat, which was responsible for the idea Pat had. A sleeky, slinky blond, was Pat's sniffing suspicion—but I wasn't quite so sure. You see Pat is a blond, and realizing that gentlemen prefer real blondes I think she had some professional, or should I say personal or impersonal jealousy concerning this Reata Hoyt. Anyway, we had quite a discussion about our "lady in black," and in the midst of it, a very sweet young lady in pink sport suit and white vagabond hat dashed into our immediate vision and asked if, by any chance, we were us. (No, she didn't use that kind of English, the typewriter just would write it.) Beings as we were—we admitted it—and right then and there a Pat and a Peg fell desperately in love with a Reata.

Since that eventful moment we've been with her quite a great deal, and we've learned to love her more, if that could be possible.

I think you'll be interested in knowing whence came her name. It's a Spanish family name, that has been carried down in the family for years and years. Reata happened to be the very end of the family, so took the surname of her ancestors for her own first name. And we think it's darling, don't you? Hoyt, of course, is an English name, and Reata was born in England.

Being just the type, we would, in the excitement, forget to tell you that Reata is under contract with Fox, and that she is, at present, working in "The Monkey Talks," and that the Fox company has many plans toward featuring their lovely blond "find."

And that's just about all of that. We're omitting our regular Gold Star addition at the end of this, because of the thrilling occasion of introducing a new one.

You're going to hear a lot more about Reata from us, and if her own loveliness, personality, sweetness and talent have anything to do with it—you're going to hear just as much, and more, about her, from everyone else.

BEAUTY RAPIDLY COMING TO FORE

Reata Hoyt

SUGAR AND SPICE

BY ALMA WHITAKER

No royal princess ever had a grander wedding than Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brown.

Elizabeth's dress was a marvel of shimmering loveliness—and made in four days, with multitudinous tiny silver flowers and seed pearls woven into its fabric by hand . . . in Hollywood.

Months ago the gowns for Elizabeth and her mama were ordered in Paris. When they arrived mother's dress was perfect, but the bridal gown upon which the duty alone was prodigious, fell short of approval. Cablegrams whizzed between Paris and Los Angeles—with Paris haughtily indignant that her taste should dare be questioned! But it was not only questioned but discarded—and Hollywood rushed to the rescue and achieved a shimmering creation of exquisite beauty.

In the excitement, too, the bride left a lovely diamond pin given her by the groom, behind in her dress. Mother rescued it against her return home.

Each of the bridesmaids was a picture of shimmering and expensive loveliness, too. The maid of honor spent countless hours opening the fast-arriving luxurious presents. A whole room had to be devoted to their accommodation. One piece of good taste exhibited was that all cards had been removed and none of the viewers knew who had given which, so that friends represented by fond "widow's mites" were not placed in comparative embarrassment.

The young couple will return to live in a six-roomed bungalow — which could not possibly house all those gifts. There were enough handsome candle sticks and gorgeous lamps alone to light a palace. There were silver dishes, trays, cut glass, fine china enough to spread several banquets.

Mrs. Brown played a naughty trick on the family and appeared in a lovely and highly becoming white wig, with magnificent grande dame-ish effect. And she did not look weepy as bride's mothers are supposed to do. Moreover, papa also looked very gay.

Elizabeth, you see, is a very modern, self-confident young lady and they probably feel that a nice husband will be extremely good for her.

Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt has returned from a long travel trip and celebrated her home-coming with a large and stylish party at the Biltmore. She left about forty pounds of Mrs Sloan-Orcutt behind her on that trip and the proper greeting was "Why, how slim you look!"

All the interesting women in clubland were at that luncheon—quite a reunion after vacation days. And Mrs. William Read of Ebell was proudly exhibiting her sisters, Mrs. Jack and Mrs. Ferguson, home after two years in France, and for whom she is entertaining herself this week.

We accused Mrs. Jack and Mrs. Ferguson of flaunting Parisian confections, but, like Elizabeth, they had found Los Angeles a safer market. They actually sent out here for their clothes while they were staying in Paris! Yes, really.

No, I positively hope it won't become a righteous vogue. One young business woman at that party was handing around her business cards and soliciting patronage . . . and making people sign their names and addresses and telephone numbers.

Yet she is the same young lady who was peculiarly righteously indignant recently when she arrived late at a party and her place had been given to someone else . . . She had she said, never been so affronted in her life!

One of our famous motion-picture actors met a European queen at a London garden party and strolled with her in the grounds. She is to all intents and purposes a very formal queen and our actor had primed himself in court etiquette and high-brow conversation.

But directly they were out of earshot, she dropped her formality and asked confidentially:

"Do tell me, what sort of a young man is Mr. Richard Barthelmess?"

After that, royal conversation was easy.

I have discovered that Rob Wagner has accomplishments outside of clever story writing and fine picture painting. He can turn a double somersault backward when diving and is a marvelous swimmer.

Rob is also a charming person on a trip, exuding gallant thoughtfulness for everybody's comfort. No wonder his wife gets better looking all the time.

Aline Barnsdall is on her way home from her recent European trip in a happy and refreshed mood. She met Mrs. J. J. Carter in Salzburg, who has had a joyous visit in the Austrian Tyrol—and has bobbed her hair. I have a snapshot of that bob and it is highly becoming.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGroarity gave a joyous party in honor of that clever English girl writer, Ida Wylie and her friend, Rachel Barrett.

John called us all "the literati" and put us in good conceit of ourselves and Mrs. John tickled our palates with some of her intriguing Spanish cooking, and the Zoellner Quartet gave us an Indian war dance when they were asked for a Spanish love song (which, of course, is probably the same thing) and the English guests both showed they could make corking good speeches, replete with brevity and wit—so one way and another Ireland was doing England proud that night.

This charming Ida Wylie is interested in everything—and was even overheard giving some girls a recipe for improving the shape of their legs while the skirt shortage prevails. It appears there is a corrugated rolling pin. . . .

And Ida's description of the fellow who sold her a "motor car," emphasizing the salesmanship plea that the tires were in perfect condition because they were worn so shiny.

And her recital of her first visit to an American "shop" which she discovered was a "store" and her other tussles with the American language, kept us all bubbling with laughter.

Someone whispered to me that Ida is making frightfully much money what with her stories and her pictures . . . but apart from that she fitted in quite well with John's "literati."

Friends will be delighted to know that two attractive male individuals have been restored completely to health and fascination—John S. Vallely was in the pink of form at the McGrority party after three weeks in hospital, and Sidney Arundel is giving his bachelor parties again, after three months in a sanatorium.

Charlie and Lita Chaplin are both excellent swimmers and that lovely pool of theirs is the scene of many a merry swimming party. Charlie and Lita love to dive in from opposite ends, meet in the middle and kiss under water.

All reports declare that Lita is an adorable mother and a very happy girl. Only 20 now. And she is faithful in devoting set hours every day to her studies in which she is keenly interested.

One of Lita's striking characteristics is that she has such a serene temperament which positively declines to be impressed or awed by anyone's superiority.

A writer whose wife was away, was treated to a surprise party in his home by some jolly friends of both sexes. It was a gay party, that did awful things to the immaculate housekeeping of the absent wife, but was otherwise proper.

Next morning an anguished husband called up some of the girls and said he dared not have a house looking like that to greet his wife. So two of the girls, both quite celebrated, hopped into their cars and went over and cleaned up—making a first-class job of it. Precious few wives have had their houses cleaned up by a couple of expensive beauties. She arrived home and caught them at it . . . but all was forgiven. In fact, the lady proudly computes that her day's housecleaning was worth just about $1000!

Army Admits Dogs

Though most army outfits keep pets, these animals are not recognized in the service regulations unless it is that provision which requires them to be shot when they become too numerous at a fort or other post. But now the War Department officially admits mascots if they can be used for special work such as pulling sleds, etc.—[Pathfinder.

Princely Prelate Gives Approval to Classic Film

A great prince of the Caucasus, Melik Noushkambai, who abandoned his princely title and the wealthiest estate in Georgia, to become a priest of the Armenian Church, saw "Ben Hur" in the East recently and commended it to be viewed by all his Armenian conutrymen in the United States.

Behind this is a story very unlike the urges to worldly success and commercialism in this country, because Prince Noushkambai, though decorated by the Czar with the order of St. Anne, esteemed the worship of Christ greater than all his wordly ambitions. He became a simple village priest but was advanced, by reason of his own ability, to the headship of the church.

In 1912 he translated the French version of "Ben Hur" into Armenian, conferring thereby a benefit on his countrymen who lacked the modern Christian stories. He also translated into his native Armenian the classics in the Russian, Scandinavian, German and English languages.

Years went by. Archibishop Tirayre, which was his title when elevated, was appointed Primate of the Church of Armenia in North and South America and came here to live, establishing his archepiscopal see in Boston. He little thought of his earlier work in popularizing western classics to his people. But George W. Lederer, manager of the "Ben Hur" company in Boston, looked him up and found that he had indeed translated "Ben Hur" into the Armenian and asked him to be the guest of honor at a performance at the Colonial Theater. Archbishop Tirayre gladly accepted and expressed himself delighted at the picturization.

The archbishop is actively engaged at present in work in behalf of the Near East Education Fund and will in all probability visit California on this mission.

Barrymore to Follow Up on Film Triumph

Extraordinary ability to combine characterization and a romantic role, exemplified by John Barrymore in "Don Juan," has given the celebrated star the opportunity to realize another great ambition of the same order, that of bringing to life "Francois Villon," which is being screened for United Artists under the title of "The Vagabond Lover."

The triumph scored by Barrymore in "Don Juan," now drawing crowds to Grauman's Egyptian Theater, in personifying a legendary hero of romance, considered one of the most difficult roles to essay, led United Artists to undertake a prtentious screen production of the whimsical and carefree wooer who descended to the level of the beggars and thieves in the fifteenth century Paris. Sharing in the success scored by "Don Juan" as the director, Alan Crosland has been selected to direct Barrymore in the new romance.

Barrymore is credited by many with having achieved his greatest role of stage or screen as the madcap lover of the ages in "Don Juan." The celebrated star has stated that it is his most difficult role in that he was required to present a convincing personification of a hero who has held the attention of dramatists, poets, composers and artists for centuries.

Give Yourself a Chance

Be as pretty as you can be

By Edna Wallace Hopper

As a girl I resolved to gain more beauty, and I went to France to find it. As a result, I became a famous beauty and gained a glorious career.

As a woman I resolved to keep my beauty and youth. I go to France every year to keep in intimate touch with the latest beauty discoveries. Thousands who see me on the stage know the marvelous results. I still look a girl of 19.

The best France gave me has been placed at every woman's call. Toilet counters everywhere supply them as Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty helps.

One is my Youth Cream. It combines a number of the best helps French scientists gave me.

These include products of both lemon and strawberry, plus the best that experts know to foster, feed and preserve the skin. I largely owe my youth and beauty to the factors in that cream.

Try it a few days. Watch its effects. The revelation that it brings may change your whole career.

It comes in two types—Cold Cream and Vanishing. I use one at night, the other in the morning. Never is my skin without it. Try it once and I am sure you will always want the results it brings. Sold in 60c jars and 35c tubes.

Wife Is Happy—Can Sleep Well Now

Mrs. B. Brinkley is happy again. She writes: "For 6 years I suffered from gas on the stomach, headache and dizziness. The first dose of Adlerika gave relief and now I sleep well and all gas is gone."

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as sold under the name of Adlerika. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.

Whenever you eat too much heavy food, let Adlerika REMOVE the undigested surplus and leave you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills or tablets but let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

What Doctors Say

Dr. G. Eggers reports Adlerika is the best medicine he has used in 37 years.

Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adlerika.

Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adlerika.

Dr. L. Langlois prescribes Adlerika regularly with GOOD effect.

J. E. Puckett writes: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. AWFUL impurities were eliminated from my system."

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and quick action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.—[Advertisement.

DOROTHY DWAN IS CONTENTED WITH LEADING-LADY ROLE

Let the rest of the screen actresses long for drama and thrilling characterizations; Dorothy Dwan is content to be a leading lady. A good even break on a good story is all she asks.

Eight leading roles in one year is her present record. She has ap-appeared in several comedies with her husband, Larry Semon, as well as free-lancing about in other productions. She just has completed two westerns with Tom Mix and is beginning to cast her eye about for the ninth leading role of the year.

IDEAL PERSONALITY

Dorothy has an ideal personality for a picture actress. She is ambitious and eager to progress as fast as possible. Yet with it all she is sweetly content to take what comes and realize that success does not come with the turbulant speed of the Colorado River on a rampage. It takes time to become a prominent picture star—it takes training—it takes patience.

All this Dorothy realizes and consequently she is a pleasant person with whom to do business. She stages no temperamental fits, and lot of pathos attached to the character.

A lot of fellows have looked like monkeys to their girls, but here's one, alas! who, due to the exigencies of the plot, doesn't dare let his dream-girl know he's a man!

Lerner's interest in apes was aroused in 1911, when he saw two of the animals perform in the Folies Bergere. He immediately began to study them and since has learned so much about them that he plays a monkey more realistically on the stage than any mere monkey could ever hope to do.

DARWIN WRONG

Darwin, he thinks, must have neglected to study simian anatomy when he announced his theory of evolution to a skeptical world.

"Apes are altogether different," he declared, with quick, excited gestures. "Arms, legs, head—all different from those of men.

"Intelligent? Yes. More intelligent than any other animal. They think, and though man is supposed to be the only reasoning animal, I've seen monkeys reason, too."

Lerner very cleverly achieves the feat of impersonating a monkey without having anything other than his small stature to start with. Offstage, he is just a small, alert, intelligent-looking man, speaking English remarkably well considering his short stay in America.

His monkey make-up is something that would make Lon Chaney turn green with envy, if Mr. Chaney were of lesser mettle.

No mask is used. A mass of chimpanzee-like hairiness covers his head; eyes, nose and lips are made up with the appurtenances of the art. During his appearance in the play it was necessary for him to change his disguise three times for each performance. The marvel of it is that M. Lerner has a face left on which to affix his make-up, for each change had to be lightning-like.

And in France, he reminded me, they give nine performances a week!

THEATRICAL LIFE

Lerner is a Frenchman, although born in Russia. His parents moved to Paris and the future Thespian apeman began his stage career at the age of four. At eight he entered a

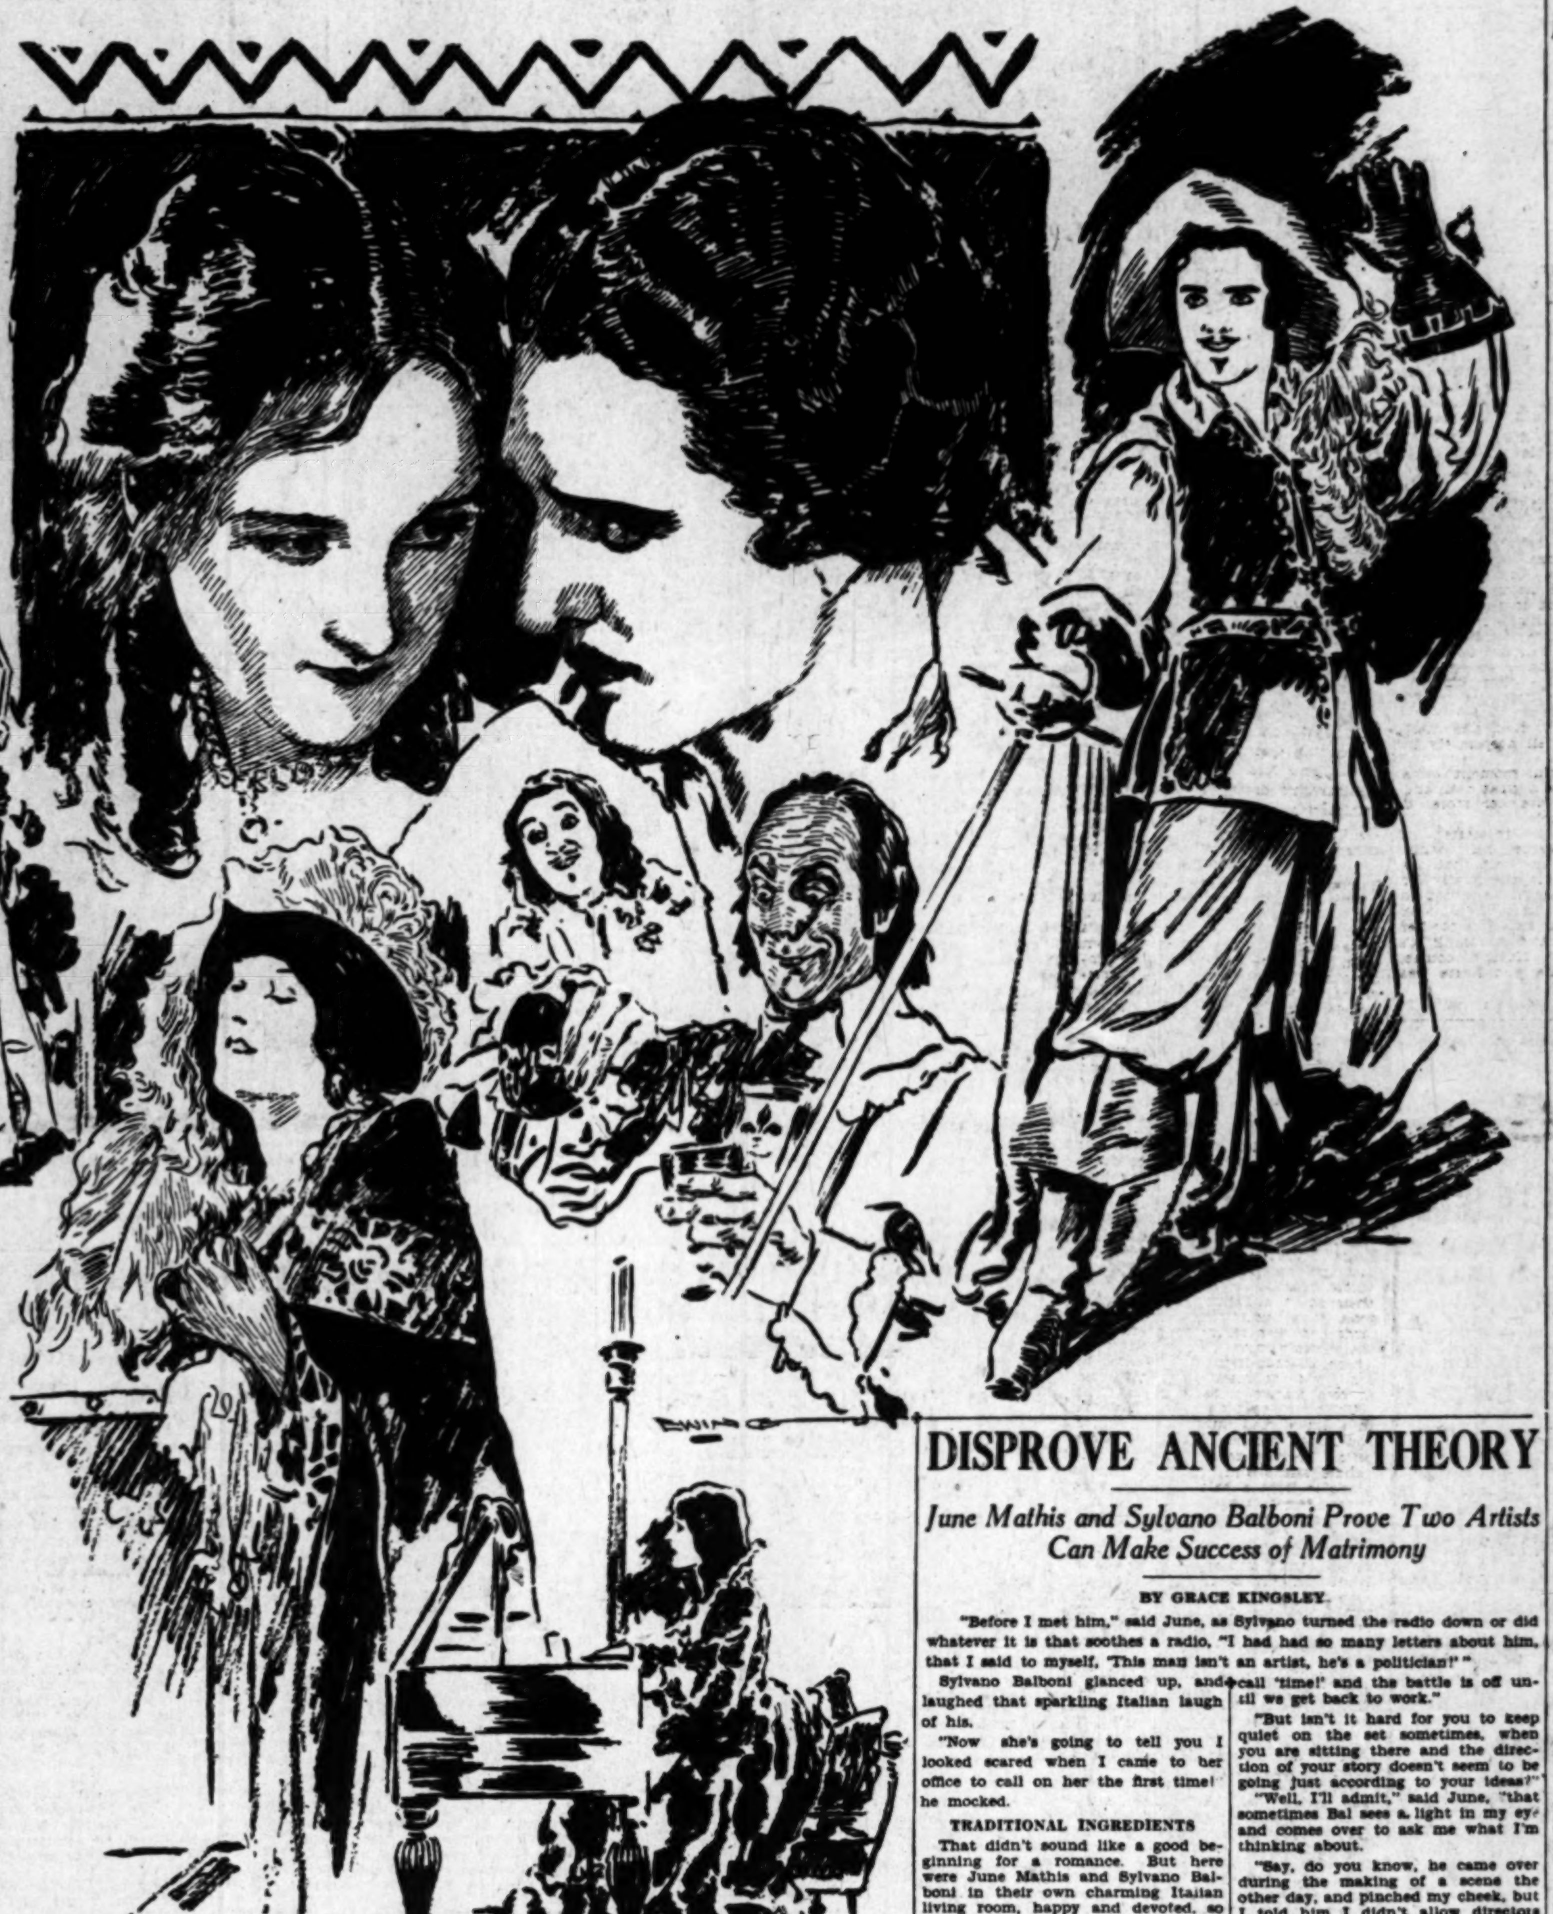
Gilbert Reveals Amorous Technique in "Bardelys"

King Vidor's most recent directorial accomplishment, "Bardelys, the Magnificent," is just one reel of sumptuous romancing after another, set against a glamorous old-world background. John Gilbert and Eleanor Boardman are the principal romantic personalities. Below are Staff Artist A. L. Ewing's impressions of some of the scenes and characters in the production.



BY ALMA WHITAKER

I AM very much afraid that a combination has been formed that knows all about love-making. The combine consists of Sabatini, who wrote the novel; Dorothy Farnum, who wrote the scenario; King Vidor, who directed the picture; John Gilbert, who does all the kissing in it, and Eleanor Boardman, who gets the last and latest "one love of his life" kisses.

I was a very superior person when I saw a preview of this "Bardelys the Magnificent," at 9 a.m. in the morning out at the sumptuous Carthay Circle Theater, where it opens with a grand premiere on the 29th inst. That picture was run expressly for me. Being the housekeeper's day out, it entailed my taking a wise young 6-year-old with me. And the only picture he had ever seen before was "Peter Pan."

It is a serious thing to initiate one so young into John Gilbert's kissful technique. We sat alone in our glory, so talking was no sin. Which is a good job, for my small escort wanted to do a lot of inquiring.

JOHN'S KISSES

"But, mama, why is that man kissing all those ladies?" was the first pertinent question. John begins kissing them right away, to subtitle of "Dark enchantress, can you doubt me?" or "Fair enchantress, can you doubt me?" according as they were blondes or burnettes. Those kisses had no relation whatever to the dutiful pecks my young escort vouchsafes his mother or sundry aunts. His interest lacked enthusiasm. Nevertheless every male beyond my escort's tender years will henceforth endeavor to emulate John's technique.

But when John is not kissing, he is fighting exciting duels—with annoyed husbands, with nefarious rivals, with soldiers galore, and doing fascinating things with the other chap's sword—for he never fails to impudently disarm his opponents and show his handsome gleaming teeth in naughty and radiant triumph.

Yet is spite of all this, and in spite of dashing rides on horses and perilous climbs up ladies' balconies, and some masterly Doug Fairbanks stunts of acrobatic miracles, my youthful escort implored:

"But mama, why does the mens wears ladies' clothes or is they ladies?"

WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD

And we were not convincing when we explained that lords of creation wore picture hats and feathers and tassels on their pants and bows on their tummies when knights were bold and chivalry reigned.

Comes a scene in which John falls from a balcony, and emerges in a comfy bed, with a beautiful lady gazing upon him in infinite tenderness. A couple of flashes later John is up and dressed and embracing the lady with every ounce of superlative technique.

"Oh, is he all well again?" inquired my small escort. Yes, John was certainly well again and registering vitality in the most romantic manner. And later he is at it again in a tantalizing boat scene in which the weeping willows get exasperatingly in the way in the middle of some of the most soulful technique, with Eleanor Boardman very dolce far niente, breathing rapturously with closed eyes. . . . Every lady in the play closes her eyes when John operates . . . it is that kind of a picture.

NOT THE HERO!

"I wish they'd get back on shore," sighed my young escort. He was happier when they got to the hanging—and most disappointed when I endeavored to relieve his anxiety by assuring him that John would not hang.

You see, John was permitted a respite in which to confess his sins—and it took a long, long time—so the King arrived, happily bored, and one could not let such an entertaining rascal as John hang. But I think the righteous young soul of my escort subconsciously knew that John ought to hang—if husbands were to retain any rights in the world, and fair ladies were to love wisely.

My escort was immeasurably shocked at the King's table manners. He certainly picked his bones, licked his fingers, and wiped them on his sleeve, but I explained that the poor King probably had no mother.

In the meantime King Vidor, direc-

DISPROVE ANCIENT THEORY

June Mathis and Sylvano Balboni Prove Two Artists Can Make Success of Matrimony

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

"Before I met him," said June, as Sylvano turned the radio down or did whatever it is that soothes a radio, "I had had so many letters about him, that I said to myself, 'This man isn't an artist, he's a politician!'"

Sylvano Balboni glanced up, and laughed that sparkling Italian laugh of his.

"Now she's going to tell you I looked scared when I came to her office to call on her the first time!" he mocked.

TRADITIONAL INGREDIENTS

That didn't sound like a good beginning for a romance. But here were June Mathis and Sylvano Balboni in their own charming Italian living room, happy and devoted, so of course it really did turn out all right.

Anyhow, there was the moonlight on the Sahara Desert and on the sea later, so one is glad to relate that the props weren't quite all absent from this very genuine romance.

Just about once in so often will bob up the dear old bromide question, "Do art and marriage mix?" For the matter of that, do marriage and the green-grocery business mix, or love and life insurance? Now that nearly all women are seeking a career, a new adjustment is taking place in the home life of our country, and so the old question has a new and real meaning.

With two such brilliant and intelligent people as June Mathis and Sylvano Balboni, how does the combination get along?

"Splendidly," answers June. "You see, we do all our professional fighting at the studio, and when we come home we are just husband and wife,—companions."

"How do you work on the screen together?" I inquired.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

"We work as scenario writer and director,—just as though we were two business individuals working together," answered June. "We have a few discussions about the story when it is first started, and then he keeps perfectly still until the script is finished, after which we battle it out on details. When the picture is being directed by my husband, I do little interfering. I watch the action, and if I have any criticism to make it is in the projection room. When it comes to the cutting of the picture he says nothing until it is over.

"We keep all our artistic scraps out of the home. Also, when we go to lunch or dinner at the studio, even if we are in the middle of a hot discussion, while we are working, we call 'time!' and the battle is off until we get back to work."

"But isn't it hard for you to keep quiet on the set sometimes, when you are sitting there and the direction of your story doesn't seem to be going just according to your ideas?"

"Well, I'll admit," said June, "that sometimes Bal sees a light in my eye and comes over to ask me what I'm thinking about.

"Say, do you know, he came over during the making of a scene the other day, and pinched my cheek, but I told him I didn't allow directors to take such liberties."

Mr. Balboni laughed at his wife's sally. Here is one husband, by the way, who really appreciates his wife's jokes. He is very proud of the

RENEE ADOREE NO FRIGID STAR

Combines Spanish Fire With French Insouciance

Enjoys Today's Comfort After Yesterday's Privation

Aspires to Portrayal of Maid of Orleans

BY KATHERINE LIPKE

Renee Adoree!

The name appears over two motion-picture houses this week. "Blarney" is at Loew's State Theater and "Tin Gods" at the Million Dollar.

It looks a trifle frigid and distant in electric lights, like an inquiring eye behind a lorgnette. But Renee, with one parent Spanish and the other French, is none of these things.

She is warmly gay and flippant because it is easier to laugh at life than let it laugh at you.

She enjoys pleasant comforts because she nearly starved when a child.

Motion pictures are fun, for hasn't she trouped through France with a traveling circus?

ONE MARRIAGE

Men? Ah, she wouldn't wish to do without them. She was married once to Tom Moore, but it didn't last. She doubts whether any marriage can last while a woman has a career.

"The man he is here, the woman she is there. Jealousy! Arguments! Pouf—it is all gone."

But with it all she intends to marry again. Of course, why not? Not to any of the men in outstanding rumors about her, and not soon. But sometime? "Absolutely!"

To the majority of the motion-picture public the name of Renee suggests "The Big Parade." Her interpretation of a French peasant girl was a delightful part of the well-known war drama.

"TIN GODS" PLEASING

However, to the girl who played in it, although a pleasant milestone in her career, it didn't give the satisfaction which came with the role she is playing in "Tin Gods," at the Million Dollar.

"In 'Tin Gods' I am a dance hall girl in South America," states Renee in halting, but meticulous English.

"A little mad, you know. Crazy! Just answers to what she feels within her. I liked her. I am a little mad also. They can't make me a regular heroine. I can't play one. I don't fit in."

I think Rene rather likes thinking that she doesn't fit into the regulation mould—enjoys the thought that she is a little mad. To anyone of the fire and flare of the French, there never can be anything so terrible as being like the throng.

RENEE'S NICHE

And she isn't—this girl who in a very few years has built for herself a very substantial niche in the unstable walls of filmdom.

There is a certain lack of restraint about her acting which is pleasing because it never becomes abandon. It suggests a warm love of life and an infinite indifference as to what the whole inconsequential world is thinking. It is part of being French perhaps. The shrug hasn't become the national gesture of that country for nothing.

The present antagonism between France and America is something Miss Adoree would rather not talk about.

"It comes of poverty and resentment for those who have more," she explains. "When American dollars are squandered so freely over there, the French people, they do not think clearly. All they know is that they are so poor and the Americans are so rich!"

JOAN THE MAID

If Renee could have her wish she would play Joan of Arc. She would rather do it than any one thing. But picture producers say "NO" in all tones and inflections. So this desire is shelved for the time being.

In the meantime she goes from picture to picture at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with a gay little shrug. Some she likes—some she doesn't. She isn't the least reserved about expressing her emotions regarding either.

To be sure, she is temperamental at times. A volcanic combination of national characteristics went into the forming of her disposition.

But she isn't saccharine, nor wide-eyed nor uninteresting. Thank Heaven for that. Neither is she frigid and distant as her name twinkling in frosty electric lights.

Not Renee Adoree!

TONY NOT ROMANTICIST

Moreno, Hero of "Mare Nostrum," Prefers Efficient Hollywood to Glamorous Old World

BY BARBARA MILLER

Spain, the land where we erect our unstable castles of fancy, sent Antonio Moreno to America.

Senor Moreno returned to Southern California some months ago after a lengthy sojourn in his native land and in other countries bordering on the blue Mediterranean.

Surprisingly, he prefers Hollywood—bustling, flourishing "film capital"—to the lands of glamour.

MARE NOSTRUM"

To Nice, for instance, headquarters for Rex Ingram, director of "Mare Nostrum," now showing at the Forum Theater, with Moreno as the rebel sea captain.

Moreno, you see, enjoyed a sort of glorified location trip for the filming of "Mare Nostrum."

For Ingram is a film believer in authentic locales and since Ibanez laid his story about "Our Sea," the Mediterranean, nothing else would suffice.

But Moreno, the romantic hero, is a restless, energetic man of business, who prefers action to meditation, be it in ever so picturesque surroundings.

In a trig tan suit, with a jaunty flower in his button hole, he looked much more like a banker, even a realtor, than an actor.

UNORTHODOX TONY

In a totally unorthodox fashion, he has remained uncontaminated by the "manana" spirit of his own country. Quite the reverse, for has acquired the American habit of doing it today, this very minute, if possible.

"I must keep busy," he explained. "A day or two at home, with nothing to do, and I start telling the garedenr how to trim the shrubs. Then I am back at the studio looking for more work.

"Over there they put off everything until tomorrow, or next week. But I don't like doing things that way."

LENGTHY PROCESS

Too, it takes months to make a picture on the continent, where it would take mere weeks in Hollywood. For, according to Moreno, it is extremely difficult to get efficient studio help

CINEMATIC FARE

Three premieres add interest to the film schedule for the current week.

"Blarney," with Renee Adoree and Ralph Graves comes to Loew's State; "The Campus Flirt," with Bebe Daniels, to the Metropolitan; while "Bardelys, the Magnificent," with John Gilbert, has its premiere at the Carthay Circle Theater on Wednesday evening.

Other attractions include "It Must Be Love," Criterion; "Ben Hur," Biltmore; "Aloma of the South Seas," Rialto; "Mare Nostrum," Forum; "Tin Gods," with Thomas Meighan and Paul Whiteman, Million Dollar; "Three Bad Men," Figueroa; "The Stranger of the North," Hippodrome, and "Don Juan," Grauman's Egyptian.

Premiere at Carthay

"Bardelys, the Magnificent" opens at the Carthay Circle Theater on Wednesday evening with a grand premiere.

John Gilbert is the star of this production, directed by King Vidor. Eleanor Boardman plays the chief feminine role.

The picture will be introduced by a specially arranged Jack Laughlin prologue.

"Blarney" at Loew's

"Blarney," based on Donn Byrne's story, is the new feature at Loew's State, with Renee Adoree in the leading role. James Carabine, the fighting Irishman, is done by Ralph Graves. Paulette Duval plays Marcolina, who casts her spell over young Carabine.

Others in the cast are Margaret Seddon and Malcolm Waite.

Fanchon & Marco offer a new "Idea," with Rube Wolf and his greater band, featuring Oscar Taylor, popular baritone. Helene Grant, Rube's new little playmate, and the Sunkist Beauties also appear.

Bebe at Metropolitan

"The Campus Flirt," starring Bebe Daniels, is being shown at the Metropolitan Theater this week. In this picture Miss Daniels is seen as a wealthy young snob who enters college to find that her kind is not wanted, so she becomes a flirt.

Charley Paddock, "the world's fastest human," James Hall and El Brendel are seen in support of Miss Daniels, while others in the cast are Joan Standing, Gilbert Roland, Irma Kornelia and Jocelyn Lee. Clarence Badger directed, using the University of California as the setting.

On the magic stages, Eddie Peabody appears in "Pep Week."

"Western" at Figueroa

Smashing all box-office records, the Fox western, "Three Bad Men," entered the third week of its engagement at the Figueroa Theater yesterday.

One of the most impressive spectacles ever witnessed on the screen is the race across the open plain for land. Thousands take part in this story of the rush for the Sioux Indian lands in the Black Hills. The picture was directed by John Ford.

Ibanez Film Continues

"Mare Nostrum," Rex Ingram's picturization of the story by Blasco Ibanez, after three weeks showing continues to draw record crowds to the Forum Theater. Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno play the leading roles.

The stage attraction, titled "Secrets of the Sea," is another Henkel Melody Classic and is one of the most unique presentations seen in a long time.

Barrymore at Egyptian

John Barrymore in "Don Juan" continues as the attraction at Grauman's Egyptian Theater.

Others in the cast of this tale of the famed philanderer from Spain include Warner Oland, Montagu Love, John Roche, Estelle Taylor, Mary Astor, June Marlowe, Hedda Hopper and Phyllis Haver.

"Don Juan" is introduced by a spectacular Sid Grauman prologue showing a Venetian festival in full swing.

Northern Film Featured

"The Stranger of the North" opens at the Hippodrome today. Richard C. Travers and Ruth Dwyer are featured.

It is a story of Novia Scotia, dealing with the eternal conflict between two generations—that of yesterday and that of today.

Seven acts of vaudeville are included on the current program.

Whiteman at Million

Paul Whiteman, loved for his jazz, enters his second week at the Million Dollar Theater, with his thirty-two master syncopators.

Thomas Meighan in "Tin Gods" holds over for a second week in conjunction with the band. Aileen Pringle and Renee Adoree play the feminine roles.

"Ben Hur" at Biltmore

At the Biltmore Theater today the picturization of Gen. Lew Wallace's immortal story, "Ben Hur," begins the ninth week of its Los Angeles engagement. The picture is now being shown in ten other American cities and it recently began a run at the UFA Palace in Berlin. The local engagement will continue until the regular dramatic season at the Biltmore begins—the exact date of which, however, has not been definitely set.

"Ben Hur" was directed by Fred Niblo, and among the players are Ramon Novarro, Frances X. Bushman, May McAvoy, Claire McDowell, Kathleen Key, Carmel Myers, Nigel de Brulier, Mitchell Lewis, Leo White, Frank Currier, Charles Belcher, Betty Bronson, Dale Fuller and Winter Hall.

Gilda at Rialto

Gilda Gray's first picture, "Aloma of the South Seas," is now playing at the Rialto. Gilda is seen as the South Sea dancer, striving to fascinate the man she loves, yet knowing his heart is held by the girl back home.

This romance is staged amid white shadows and blue lagoons with Percy Marmont in the leading male role. It is a Paramount picture directed by Maurice Tourneur.

Romance at Criterion

A romance which begins in a ballroom on a pleasure pier is largely responsible for the story of "It Must Be Love," with Colleen Moore, now showing at the Criterion Theater.

People of both the upper and the lower strata of society often meet in such ballrooms, and when Colleen meets Malcolm McGregor, she believes him to be too nice a boy to bring home to her domicile in back of her parents' delicatessen shop.

circus and learned acrobatics. Since then he has traveled the world over, doing everything from dancing in Russian troupes to playing slapstick comedy parts in French farces. Characterization claimed him as he grew older and today he is known as one of the cleverest portrayers of unusual characters in France. His monkey role, however, brought him world-wide fame.

PLAYS WITH REAL ONE

A real monkey appears with him in "The Monkey Talks," and it is necessary for Lerner always to don his make-up in said monkey's presence.

"Otherwise, I am afraid for what would happen," he says. "It would be very dangerous."

He also told me something that has puzzled scientists and anthropologists for years:

What makes a monkey look so sad?

Lerner has studied them for years and thinks he has discovered the reason.

"It's because they have to look at men," he says.

WALTER STARTS WORK

Walter Hiers has started work on his featured comedy role in "The Wrong Mr. Wright," Jean Hersholt's Universal starring vehicle. Hiers's comedy antics in "Hold That Lion," Douglas MacLean's picture which was recently released here are being widely acclaimed throughout the country.

with stage offerings on Broadway just now. They are Bernard Randall, character actor, who is playing in "Honeymoon Lane," a musical comedy due for a long run at the Knickerbocker, and Pierre Gendron, author of a melodrama entitled "Kept," which will have anything but a long run, according to the critics. Still, you never can tell and least of all in New York. And Willard Mack, who scarcely qualifies as a a film actor in Hollywood, although he has tried that form of work here, is appearing in vaudeville at the Palace in a tabloid version of "Kick In," interesting because he plays the role handled by John Barrymore in the stage play lo, these many years ago before Barrymore went romantic and developed a profile.

Emil Jannings sails tomorrow from Cherbourg on the Aquitania and is due in New York a week from today. He will be enthusiastically received, whether officially or otherwise, for his performance in "Variety," which has just ended its run of twelve weeks at the Rialto, has so familiarized the local public with his face that it is not possible for him to go his way unrecognized. After a brief stay here the German actor proceeds to Hollywood for his first picture, to be directed by Rowland V. Lee.

The choice of Thomas Meighan in "Tin Gods" to succeed "Variety" at the Rialto tends to diminish the prestige gained for the theater by the UFA picture, and it is hardly probable that the long run hoped for by Famous Players will eventuate.

GLORIA STARTS

Gloria Swanson actually began work this week on her version of "Eyes of Youth." The latest additions to her cast include Raymond Hackett, one of the three juveniles in "Cradle Snatchers" and Florence Faire, who is otherwise Flobelle Fairbanks, daughter of John Fairbanks. Young Hackett and John Boles, the leading man, will continue their nightly stage appearance while working in the picture. Their production, by the way, is elaborate in the extreme and it is apparent that money is being expended with a free hand. Gloria has completely recovered her health and spirits and has never seemed to me more alert and eager.

VALENTINO REVIVAL

For some inexplicable reason last week's receipts fell off badly at the Broadway theaters' "Red" Grange in "One Minute to Play," after its sensational opening, dropping to the tune of $8000. This week, the third, concludes its engagement at the Colony. Norma Shearer's "The Waning Sex" at the Capitol has captured the best notices of the week. The first of the Valentino revivals occurs at this theater next week when the "Four Horsemen" opens for a tentative fortnight, and there seems not the slightest doubt of receipts big enough to warrant this innovation, which will doubtless be watched by exhibitors all over the country.

Frederick Lonsdale, author of "Spring Cleaning," which Pauline Frederick introduced to Los Angeles audiences two years ago, has arrived from London to deliver a play or two and ultimately set forth for Hollywood to have a word or more to say about Famous Players of "The Last of Mrs. Cheney."

Although D. W. Griffith won the verdict in his suit against Al Jolson for alleged breach of contract, Broadway looks upon it as a victory for the actor, for while Griffith sued for more than $500,000 the actual losses sustained by him because of Jolson's defection were shown to be less than $3000. It is possible that Griffith may appeal. An interesting item brought out in the testimony was to the effect that A. F. Driscoll of the legal firm of O'Brien, Malevinsky and Driscoll receives $15,000 annually fro. Miss Pickford for representing her on the board of United Artists.

NORMA CRITICISED

On all sides I hear criticisms of Norma Talmadge's questionable taste in permitting a series of articles to be published in a tabloid daily under her signature on the subject of Rudolph Valentino as she knew him. It seems that Miss Talmadge's high position in public esteem scarcely warrants so flagrant a breach of good taste, especially as little or nothing could be gained by it except ephemeral publicity such as might do a lesser personality some good but which could hardly be expected to add to the prestige of a Talmadge.

She is also giving her unqualified indorsement to "Just Life," Marjorie Rambeau's new play and to the actress's performance in it, although the piece falls far short of the superlatives used in the advertisements signed by Miss Talmadge. The disparity, in fact, is causing laughter at the expense of the screen star.

When the new Paramount Theater opens next month the Rivoli, where pictures have always been restricted to one week, will be given over to long-run attractions. "Old Ironsides" will be the first road show attraction to hold the screen there at $2 top.

Harold MacGrath, the novelist, has won a judgment of $503.75 against Tiffany Productions, his complaint being that in the billing of their picture, "Pleasures of the Rich," the producers asserted that it was suggested by a MacGrath story, the authorities contending that the story of the picture bore no relation to any work of his.

October 9 is national Denny day, according to a quaint fancy of Universal, so if Los Angeles and Hollywood wish to unfurl their bunting this is fair warning.

Norma Needs No Double for Athletic Role

Norma Shearer's athletic skill serves her well in "The Waning Sex," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture now playing at the Criterion Theater, with Conrad Nagel in the leading male role.

In this she has to swim and dive, play tennis and golf. And Norma is adept at all of these.

Skeptics who think that movie stars have to have a double every time they attempt a bit of strenuous action will have a delightful surprise in Norma as a mermaid.

It is all play for her because swimming and diving are among her favorite sports and she holds medals and cups testifying to her skill.

TONY MORENO NOT ROMANTIC

and weeks are wasted because of technical inefficiency.

And Tony objects to wasting time. And cares just that much . . . with a decisive snap of the fingers—for the glamour that is Spain, or Italy, or France.

"I'm not the kind to sit down and read a book, just to be reading. If I can learn something that will help me, that's fine. But just to read so that I can say I know about all the new novels doesn't interest me."

He has followed his creed of activity with great zeal since his return.

INDUSTRY!

In less than a year he has done four pictures. Each afforded him the chance for a different type of characterization, from the heroic empire builder of "The Temptress," coming soon to the Million Dollar Theater, to the debonair Irish Northwest Mounted policeman of "The Flaming Forest."

Incidentally, Moreno doesn't relish playing Celts. He remarked, "The audience sees my Spanish face on the screen, then comes a subtitle saying that I'm Mike Donovan or something like that.

"That isn't so good. For when I play a part like that I feel that I am acting—pretending — not living the part."

GRETA—THE CHARMER

As for "The Temptress," in which Tony, as the high-minded Robden, heroically eludes the fascinating Greta Garbo, he declared. "That was the director's fault, not mine!"

Pretty soon, after he has done one more picture here, he may go abroad again, for "The Garden of Allah," that impressive tragedy of broken vows and stolen happiness, also to be directed by Ingram.

"But I cannot afford to go back before I do one more picture here. For you don't get a cent of salary until work starts over there. And that means almost a month lost."

Since "The Garden of Allah" will be filmed in Africa, salary lapses must be considered. But Moreno has a system of doing one picture abroad, "seeing some new country," then coming back to Hollywood for several films.

Of course, Tony approves of efficient business methods, but there are times—

"When I talk about being paid for extra scenes at the studio and things like that they laugh and say 'Why, you don't need the money anyway. You live in that big house on the hill.'"

"Then I tell them, 'It takes money to get up there!'"

TRAINING IS VALUABLE

Buck Black's training by British army officers in India in the art of horseback riding came in very handy in his role of the chief Boy Scout in Fred Thomson's F.B.O. official boy Scout film, "The Regular Scout." Master Buck, who recently celebrated his ninth birthday, executes some daring riding stunts in the film. The youngster was born in Rangoon, in the exact spot that Kipling immortalized in "Mandalay."

THEY DISPROVE ANCIENT THEORY

clever things she says. If more husbands would appreciate their wives' humor—but there, what's the use!

Even when June kids him, he merely comes back gallantly.

But he has his own humorous methods, too. For instance, he is a great practical joker.

THE JOKER

"I went to June one day and told her that I was going to play Chico in 'Seventh Heaven'—that Frank Borzage hadn't been able to find anybody for the part and that I was the perfect type," smiled Bal, as June always calls him.

"'But,' exclaimed June, 'what is to become of your First National contract?'

"'Oh,' I said, 'they haven't got any story for me anyhow.' June was very much excited.

"'And here,' she cried, 'I've been trying my best to avoid marrying an actor, and I've got one after all! Then I told her the truth."

"But supposing you have a real little tiff?" I inquired of Signor Balboni.

"Oh, well," June broke in, "he is usually very gallant and makes overtures of peace first, and then, of course, I say it was my fault."

"Yes," said Bal, "but I do more than that. Any dollar bill with three 7's on it, I always give to June to save, and when I'm sure I'm wrong in one of our tiffs, well, I always manage to find one or two bills with three 7's, that's all."

"But what about the beginnings of the romance?" I inquired.

"BEN HUR" RESPONSIBLE

"Of course, it all began with 'Ben Hur,'" answered June. "I chose John Boyle, because he had handled all the Theda Bara spectacles, and was used to doing splendid work with mobs. I met Balboni and thought he would be useful to me, but I knew a man named Martinello, who had photographed my first picture, and I thought he should have the privilege of going to Europe if he wished it. However, he refused, and Mr. Balboni was chosen by me, principally because he spoke Italian, but naturally also because of his professional record. What a struggle he had had, to be sure! But I only found that out afterward. He had really directed in Italy, France and England, following the pictures wherever he found improvement in them, and when America got to the top in film making he came here. But he had to make his first picture here for nothing, to show us!

"At any rate, when we got on the French boat going abroad, it was like a foreign land to me, and Mr. Balboni helped me out, and so I got to a point where I didn't know what to do without him. When we reached Rome, he was still my guide, philosopher and friend.

"Then came the time for us to go down to the Sahara. On account of knowing people down there, Mr. Balboni was sent to make arrangements, and later on, when we arrived, he met the train and had fixed up everything for our comfort—so much so, that Mrs. Boyle and I were met with bouquets of roses in the Sahara. On the desert I learned what a really capable man he was under all conditions and circumstances. Really any women is in luck who finds for a husband a ma nwho is always good-tempered under the conditions in which we found ourselves working. No wonder I kissed him for the first time down there! Then we had our little trip on the Mediterranean, and later in Rome I decided he was the one man in the world for me to marry."

"Oh, that first kiss—" I interrupted.

SUBTLE SUITOR

"Of course, Bal, being an Italian, would have to be subtle. It was one day when I had got some sand in my eye, and he took it out so tenderly that when I was able to see again, the first thing I saw was my sheik!"

"But, after all, she just wouldn't be married in Santa Ana!" laughed her husband.

It seems that June Mathis and Balboni had decided to wed in Los Angeles, but June made up her mind she must have some orange blossoms. However, a search of the shops yielded no orange blossoms until a couple of hours had passed. Then there were other purchases to be made, and by the time they got around to being married, the license bureau was closed. By this time June was in one of those feminine tantrums which comes on at the most unexpected moment, and when her fiance proposed they go to Santa Ana to marry, she stamped her foot and refused decisively. No good, she said, ever came of these Santa Ana marriages. Then somebody said in a moment of inspiration, "Why not go to Riverside?"

So that is what happened. The proprietor of the Riverside Mission Inn routed out the organist and helped them find the marriage license clerk and a minister, and they were wed.

And June and Sylvano have lived happily ever since.

Actress Designs Own Costumes in Role for "Third Degree"

Because she is thoroughly familiar with old-time circus life, Kate Price is designing her own costumes for "The Third Degree," in which she has a featured role at the Warner Brothers studio.

The "Mother Machree" of the screen plays the role of Dolores Costello's mother in the Warner picture. Her characterization is that of a "circus lady" of the old school. Michael Curtiz is directing the making of the film play.

HE'S A FORTUNATE YOUTH

Three Leading Roles to Credit of James Hall, Newcomer to Pictures Last May

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

It was James Hall's first interview and my first visit to the imposing new Lasky studio at Melrose and Bronson. Both of us were more or less impressed with the enormity of the event.

We talked in a giddy little reception room, perched gingerly on the edge of ornate Louis Quinze chairs. Why are Louis Quinze chairs always so torturingly uncomfortable?

A huge black satin chaise longue rather lorded it over the rest of the tiny room, but neither of us quite had the courage to brave the voluptuous over-upholstering of this gorgeous creation.

A young man of Hall's uncanny good fortune could not be blamed if he still has an all-abiding faith in Santa Claus. He has been in pictures only since May, and has to his credit three leading roles. Two of these are with Bebe Daniels, and the third is with Pola Negri in "Hotel Imperial."

FOUND IN BROADWAY

Hall was playing in "Merry Merry," a New York musical show, when Jesse Lasky saw him and gave him his opportunity in pictures. Before that he played for a season with Eddie Buzzell in "Sweetheart Time."

Paramount is quite enthused over the possibilities of young Hall, and presumably is grooming him for even "bigger and better" roles in the future.

His very first screen appearance is being made at the Metropolitan Theater this week in "The Campus Flirt," with Miss Daniels. This picture represents an excursion by Paramount into the realms of adolescent collegiate romance.

In "The Campus Flirt," Hall plays a democratic rich boy, working his way through college, while Bebe is a rather snobbish, monocled young daughter of the rich until she meets her nemesis in the shape of the above-mentioned d.r.b.

As a change from the much-photographed football games, the track and panty-clad athletes form the background for the story, with Bebe doing some fast sprints. Charles Paddock also steps off the hundred in this picture.

Whether or not classroom scenes are shown I neglected to inquire. Most people have the idea that a college consists of an athletic field, with the curricula merely a hazy appendage somewhere in the background.

MAKES HOME HERE

Already Hall informs, California has spoiled him. Even if he returns to the stage, in case he isn't liked in pictures, he will have a home here.

He has bought a hillside house, with a garden attached. There is a sad experience to relate concerning that garden. In an energetic moment the young actor undertook to weed the flower beds, only to discover later that he had carefully plucked out the plants, leaving the weeds in the same flourishing condition as before. The gardener takes care of these matters now, with no interference whatever from the lord of the manor.

Is he married?

"No, thank you," he stated fervently.

So as yet, the Maison de Hall is lacking in that "feminine touch."

Right now his all-abiding passion is gas stations. He hopes to own a whole flock of them. This, he firmly believes, will prove an El Dorado.

REFRESHINGLY AMERICAN

In this hey-day of "furrin" actors on the silver screen Hall is refreshingly American. Perhaps he is less romantic appearing than some of the sloe-eyed heroes of other shores, but on the other hand he looks more durable.

For the statistically inclined, the screen newcomer has gray eyes, brown hair, curly, and a wide friendly smile, although he doesn't show quite as much dentrifice as Roy D'Arcy.

And, while pictures are still very new to him, he is tremendously fascinated with them. Like the postman who takes a long walk on his day off, Hall spends all his spare time on the lot, watching how the other actors do it.

His present assignment is with Miss Daniels in "Stranded in Paris," now in production at Lasky's.

seems one of the very few serene and happy girls in the industry.

Part of the reason, of course, is that she is in love with her husband, Larry Semon, and so this feverish dash for success does not occupy her whole existence. Domesticity bores her to extinction, but Larry doesn't in the least. And all in all, one suspects him of being Dorothy's real career.

NO HARDSHIPS

There have been no hard knocks, nor great struggles in her few years of picture activity. Dorothy feels that she would be a better actress if she had had to fight her way to the top.

"But I expect I'll get mine sometime and it will be good for me," says she, with an indifferent smile.

Little she cares what happens in the future. A happy disposition like hers is a priceless gift.

It survived many tiresome weeks of location work while making "The Canyon of Light" with Tom Mix. There were endless delays and severe accidents occurred which upset matters. And, most of all, it meant many weeks away from Larry Semon. But what of it? Dorothy Dwan is a good trouper.

"BARDELYS" IS AMOROUS AFFAIR

tor, has married Eleanor Boardman, the much-loved lady. Now it is to be presumed that Vidor taught Eleanor some things about the proper receptivity attitude in finished love-making—and was very much in evidence while she was practicing under John Gilbert's superior technique. It speaks well for Vidor's strength of mind and purpose that that picture was completed with suitable verity. But he certainly hurried up and secured the lady for his own the very moment it was completed.

Now, also, once in the long ago, when Eleanor was a debutante in pictures, she said some harsh things about matrimony. Certainly she believed in divorce, so long as matrimony existed—and we rather gathered on that occasion that no masculine technique had yet disturbed Eleanor's cool heart at that time. So she must have been immeasurably impressed with the directorial instructions King Vidor gave John Gilbert during the making of this picture . . . and to think that all the time the dashing and dangerously impressive John was a mere practice dummy for the real life drama to follow—in which King Vidor himself would step into the main role.

Valentino himself never surpassed John's love-making in pictures. Vidor seems to have set a difficult standard for himself to live up to. Brave, confident man. Eleanor should keep a diary.

ARNOLD TAMON OPENS BRANCH

Glendale students of the dance now have the advantage of the personal tutelage of Arnold Tamon. Mr. Tamon recently opened a branch studio in Glendale, and makes it a point to spend certain days of every week in that city, giving class and private instruction in ballet and technique. His activities, as a consequence, are more widespread.

EUROPEANS IN FILM INFANCY

Motion-picture fans of European countries have just arrived at the point where fans of this country were seven or eight years ago, according to Kathryn Hutchison, screen actress who returned recently from an extended trip abroad.

"The arrival of an American actor or actress in a French or German town is the occasion for a mob at the railway station," Miss Hutchison says. "A personal appearance promises a packed theater. Long lines of fans block the entrance, anxious to catch a glimpse of their favorite.

"To an extent, the American fan seems a slight bit sophisticated toward the stars. There have been so many personal appearances in the big cities that such events no longer create more than ordinary excitement.

"But not so Europe. If Sid Grauman could stage one of his Egyptian Theater openings in any one of Europe's bigger cities, it would bring about a half holiday. People would come from towns miles away to witness the event. My knowledge of fan conditions abroad convinces me that a Grauman opening in Paris would draw 100,000 curious people to the theater."

War Film Will Introduce New Faces to Public

Director Paul Sloane, under contract to the Cecil B. De Mille studios, is shortly to do his bit in the provision of new faces for the screen.

With the release of "Corporal Kate," Sloane's new production which is declared to be one of the best pictures turned out by the De Mille studios, this director will introduce some new players whose names may live for some years.

To begin with, "Corporal Kate" is Vera Reynold's first big starring vehicle. Opposite her will be Kenneth Thompson, for whom pleasing predictions are being made.

Julia Faye, who has just begun to come into her own as a result of "The Volga Boatman," surpasses in "Corporal Kate" her excellent work in the Russian epic. Another player who distinguishes himself in Sloane's production is Del Henderson. But prime honors may fall to Harry Allen, a comparative newcomer among the screen character comedians, according to Sloane. Allen, he says, is one of the finest bets of the year and should go far in motion pictures.

MUSICAL

TIBBETTS LOOKING BEYOND METROPOLITAN OPERA

By Isabel Morse Jones

Lawrence Tibbetts, the youngest male singer ever to fill major roles at the Metropolitan Operahouse of New York, is still, with all his recent success, a musical knight seeking the ideal.

During a talk with the writer, he expressed his watchfulness for the great opportunity of joining a group of actor-musicians whose main idea should be original and creative expression freed from the hampering traditions of too much past.

The Moscow Art Company has been in his observing eye for some time and through his programs and personal contacts in New York he has learned a vast respect for the sincerity and originality of the Russian type of art-giver.

It is Tibbetts hope that young America, of which he is such a triumphant example, never having been in Europe and having the unique distinction of singing his first opera role in the ranking company of the country without any preliminaries, will form a musical and theatrical nucleus that will cast off the shackles of tradition and follow its own vision.

Far from being a goal, the Metropolitan Opera is a means to an end for Tibbetts. His atitude is only possible to a true westerner, and there is no pose or bravado in it. It is an inheritance from the days when he played with the high school actors out at Manual Arts, was a member of Neely Dickson's Hollywood Community Theater—Ellen Galpin's company of young players and Tyrone Powers's Shakespearen enthusiasts on a California tour, also working occasionally under Willamene Wilkes and Dickson Morgan.

With this earnest crowd of active idealists, Tibbetts was in entire sympathy and he has not forgotten his dreams nor buried them in the sophistication of "Mecca."

The Metropolitan recognizes this flair for the unusual and has selected him for a major role in Deems Taylor's new opera which is to have its premier, probably in January. Edna St. Vincent Millay has completed the libretto and as the eminent Deems Taylor is no "copyist," "The King's Henchman" is sure to mark a milestone.

Mr. Tibbetts's successes have been too well publicized during the last two years for comment here, but it is interesting to trace his love for the stage through his singing career and it seems a logical conclusion that his outstanding triumphs in "Falstaff," "The Jest" and in "Faust" have been largely due to his early training in working out his own ideas right here in Southern California.

Although he believes that an artist should retire during the summer and "give the public a rest," Mr. Tibbetts has filled several concert engagements during his vacation at home. He will begin his return tour back to New York with a concert at the Philharmonic Auditorium, under the Behymer management next Friday, in which he will sing a varied program.

Opening with an old English group, he will include two songs from "The Beggar's Opera," two from Schuman's "Dichterliebe," the popular "Prologue" and a fascinating group of Moussorsky songs which are rare.

ALFRED MEGERLIN

To have been the concert master of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and then to become the occupant of the first chair of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra is touching the two extremes of national musical life, geographically speaking. This is the present situation of Alfred Megerlin, Belgian-American violinist, whom Walter Henry Rothwell has chosen to fill the waiting concert master's chair with our orchestra.

Mr. Megerlin has arrived to take up his new position by way of the Panama Canal, which trip he found a shade hotter than the typical New York summer climate which he gladly left. However, after three days of our salubrious weather and the "amazingly cool nights," he expresses himself as "being most happy" that fate and Mr. Rothwell gave him this opportunity on the western frontier of music.

The new Philharmonic concert master has brought his wife and 7-year-old daughter with him and is now established and "at home" to musical friends whom he has known in New York, several members of the Los Angeles Philharmonic having been members of the New York aggregation before its merger with the National Symphony.

Mr. Megerlin is a typical musician of the best Belgian school—that school of devoted idealists to whom music is a religion and high ideals paramount. It is the same school which has produced Eugene Ysaye, his teacher after graduation from the Brussels Conservatory; Charles Courboin, the organist with whom he has been closely associated in recital giving in Europe, and Cesar Franck, whose works he so much admires.

He is not a "showman" in any sense of that much-abused epithet, being of modest and scholary bearing and letting his record and his musicianship speak for him. It seems to have spoken very well during the twelve years of his residence in America for two major orchestras bid for his services as concert master for the coming season and Los Angeles won.

During his teaching and concertising in Antwerp, Holland, Mr. Megerlin had as his violin pupil the Belgian-American who afterward became his wife.

His own interest in mechanical electricity is shared by his small daughter, who has already shown a marked preference for her father's workshop rather than playing with dolls.

Next to orchestral playing, Mr. Megerlin delights in playing with organ, his previously mentioned experience in Europe with Courboin having taught him many of its delights. In his opinion quartet and trio playing must be a slow growth toward that perfection of ensemble which justifies public performance, and while he looks forward to the pleasure of practice with some of his fellow-artists of the Philharmonic, he does not contemplate the formation of an ensemble for concerts this season. He believes that concentration upon his work with the Philharmonic will keep his winter well occupied.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC PLANS ACTIVE SEASON

DR. EUGENE E. DAVIS.

The earnestness and sincerity of purpose with which Dr. Eugene E. Davis has conducted for a number of years the college of music that bears his name has been the means of establishing one of the foremost musical institutions of our city. Dr. Davis, for a number of years, was prominent as a pianist, visiting every State of the Union, some of them many times. Likewise, his work as a conductor in the various fields of orchestra, conductor of grand opera and chorus work was conceded to be an artistic achievement. The completion of this study was pursued in the musical capital, Vienna, Austria. He specialized in piano with the renowned piano master, Leschetizky.

The well-known organist, Dr. Ray Hastings, as head of the pipe-organ department, has just returned from a most successful engagement at the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial Exposition, and on Sunday night had as his honored guest the renowned Clarence Eddy, who listened to Dr. Hastings's church program.

LOS ANGELES GIRL TO ASSIST IN RECITAL

ELINOR REMICK WARREN

Elinor Remick Warren, the charming young Los Angeles pianiste, whose songs are not only included by international stars, but whose exceptional talent has won her the favor of leading singers who consider her one of the best accompanists in the country, will assist Lawrence Tibbett in his recital Friday evening. Thus two young Los Angeles artists, because this is also Tibbett's home town, will appear together on a program which in itself is most attractive.

Miss Warren whose appearance with the Philharmonic Orchestra has long established her as a consummate pianiste, is also scheduled for a group, after which Tibbett will sing American songs, including a recent composition by Miss Warren, "My Parting Gift." The words are by Mrs. Tibbett, whose book of verse was recently published.

EISTEDDFOD CONTEST MATERIAL SELECTED

The activities of the California Eisteddfod Association are being greatly increased for the coming year, and plans are being matured for a program board of thirty members, who will select the contest material for the 1927 contests in art, dance, drama and music.

The work is progressing rapidly, and it is anticipated that the announcement of the contest numbers will be made not later than November 1 through the annual year book of the association.

The public school music and art departments are to be expanded this year, as well as those of community music, drama and art. Those who are undertaking the preparation of the contest material promise that a most interesting program will be presented for the 1927 contests.

"BEETHOVEN" TO BE THEME OF CONCERTS

Living Tributes in Music to Soar to Memory of Noted Composer

From 1000 orchestras a living tribute in music will soar to the memory of Ludwig Van Beethoven this year, and will rise to a crescendo of splendid beauty in Beethoven festivals next March. For that month marks the 100th anniversary of the death of the great musician, the master of symphonies.

From nowhere else in the world will more Beethoven music be heard than in Los Angeles for, according to Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor of the Philharmonic Orchestra, much of the entire year here will be dedicated to Beethoven, and the March programs will be the climax of a year wrought in a spirit of reverence to Beethoven.

In announcing the March festival, Mr. Rothwell also made known that the choral work of the Philharmonic Orchestra, which was so pleasing last year, will be continued and will be used in Beethoven's Choral Fantasia which has been chosen for the March concerts. It is one of the two or three such compositions in the world, created for combined choral, piano and orchestral work, and Mr. Rothwell promises that its presentation will be magnificent. He is working out the March pair of concerts with the thought that they shall form something of a survey of Beethoven's life work. Besides the Choral Fantasia there will be a Beethoven symphony and, probably, an overture.

Mr. Rothwell does not hesitate to predict that the coming year will surpass any previous year in music achievement, in the history of the orchestra.

Thilo Becker will be soloist for the commemorating fantasia for piano, orchestra and chorus and Squire Coop will train the Philharmonic chorus which he so ably directed last year in preparation for the ninth symphony. The choice of this well-known pianist will be met with widespread approval.

OPERA LECTURES TO CONTINUE

Continuing her program of opera lecture reading, presented in Chickering Hall, Margaret Goets will present "Samson and Delilah" and "Martha" the 25th inst., at 2 o'clock and "Rigoletto" and "Barber of Seville" will be heard the evening of the 29th inst. at 8 o'clock. This will close the series of lectures presented by Margaret Goetz preparatory to the opera season of the Los Angeles Opera Association.

Chicago Singer Flees Rigours of East Winds

Marjorie Dodge's announcement that she is staying at home this season to sing a recital series and to teach rather than concertise in the East adds another prominent singer to the widening Los Angeles music circle.

She is one of those talented women of whom marriage may be said to have only altered the direction of development and not to have intercepted it. Having became the wife of Squire Coop, head of the music department of the University of California in Los Angeles, merely the geography of her musical activities has been changed.

Marjorie Dodge grew up in Chicago studying there with eminent teachers and later going east to work with Herbert Witherspoon, Albert E. Ruff and Arthur Hubbard. It was with the last named she perceived the greatest strides toward her ideal of Italian bel canto. Her operatic coaching has been with Herman de Vries and Richard Hageman.

One extremely interesting phase of Miss Dodge's professional career was her position as executive director of the music programs of a number of large motion-picture theaters in and around Chicago, where she not only sang many times a day, but chose programs and performers for a long series of theater concerts.

Miss Dodge is planning three programs for the winter season and she will teach at home.

QUARTET TO CONCERTIZE HERE

Timner Organization Promises Much

Timner String Quartet

THE "TIMNER STRING QUARTET" will make its initial bow to Los Angeles this season in a series of chamber music concerts to be presented at the Biltmore Hotel November 12, January 7 and March 4. The personnel of the quartet includes Christian Timner, first violin; Anna Timner, 'cello; Phillip Kahgan, viola; and Louis Limonick, second violin.

Mr. Timner, member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, is well known as a violinist of the first rank. Mr. Timner was concert master under the baton of Willem Mengelberg, in Amsterdam, Holland. He was also conductor of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and has been heard in concert throughout the United States and Europe, being received everywhere with intense enthusiasm. Of special note was his work done in Holland with Eugene Ysaye.

Anna Timner, 'cellist, is also internationally known as a 'cellist of unusual merit. At the age of fifteen she joined the famous Amsterdam Concertgebouw orchestra where she appeared as soloist. She has the distinction of playing under many famous conductors including Richard Strauss, Gustav Mahler, Felix Weingartner and Willem Mengelberg.

Phillip Kahgan, viola, is a prominent member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic and Hollywod Bowl orchestras, while Louis Limonick, second violin of the quartet, was member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra for three years. The personnel promises much in the line of excellent entertainment for Los Angeles music lovers during the coming season.

Patronesses of the "Timner String Quartet" include: Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, Sr., Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, Mrs. G. Bixby and Dr. L. G. Visscher.

NOTED MUSICIANS IN ARTIST SERIES

Promising Programs to be Given in Season's Auditorium Course

Ten concerts have been announced by George Leslie Smith for the fourth season of the Auditorium artist series. Mr. Smith has succeeded in bringing to Los Angeles a brilliant array of internationally famous artists of particular interest because of the western debut of three of the outstanding musical sensations of the past season.

Mary Lewis, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, who made her debut with that organization last season, will be heard in concert for the first time in Los Angeles. From the Ziegfeld Follies to the Metropolitan Opera is the interesting history of Mary Lewis's career.

Alexander Brailowsky, Russian pianist, one of the events of the series, is acclaimed by New York critics.

Florence Austral, dramatic soprano of Australia, whose American debut was made at the Cincinnati festival last year, will make her western debut.

Louise Homer, America's contralto, will be the opening event of the series, November 1. This is the first time that Mme. Homer has toured the Pacific Coast in concert.

The lovely Lucrezia Bori, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has at last found time to visit the Pacific Coast in concert.

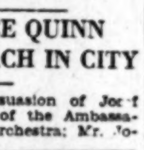
The Ukrainia Chorus, Alexander Koshetz, director, will be heard. This choir, sometimes called the "great human symphony," is composed of forty voices, with three distinguished soloists.

The instrumentalists on the series are Cecilia Hansen, famous Russian violinist, an established favorite in Los Angeles, and the Elshuco Trio. The trio was established ten years ago by Willem Willeke, famous 'cellist of the old Kneisel Quartet.

Kathryn Meisle, contralto of the Chicago Opera Company and a favorite with Los Angeles opera audiences, will be heard for the first time in Los Angeles in concert. Miss Meisle has recently returned from a successful tour of Europe, appearing in opera and concert.

Reinald Werrenrath, America's baritone, and Charles Hackett, leading tenor of the Chicago Opera Association, will also be heard in concert in this series.

ALFRED PRICE QUINN TO TEACH IN CITY



ALFRED PRICE QUINN

Through the persuasion of Josef Rosenfeld, director of the Ambassador Hotel concert orchestra; Mr. Joseph Levy and several former pupils, Alfred Price Quinn, late of the National Conservatory of Philadelphia, and the Brooklyn Conservatory of Music, has decided to make Los Angeles his home. He has opened a studio in the Majestic Theater Building where, associated with Mr. Rosenfeld, he will continue to teach piano and theory of music.

Mr. Quinn holds a diploma from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Leipzig, Germany, where he studied piano with Teichmueller and theory and composition with Schreck, Krehl and Max Reger. He has recently returned from a four years' sojourn in Berlin where most of the time he was connected with an important American musical weekly as reviewer of concerts and opera.

The addition of Alfred Price Quinn to Los Angeles' pedagogical circles will prove a distinct acquisition.

FOURTH SEASON OF SCHOOL TO OPEN

The opening last week of the Olga Steeb Piano School for its fourth season was an event of much importance to this growing institution which is presided over by Los Angeles' own native daughter, Olga Steeb. Many claim for Olga Steeb that she is the greatest woman pianist, and one of the greatest of all pianists of the world. Olga Steeb is planning for a very busy season, with the supervision of her school, her teaching and a busy calendar of concert engagements. She opens her concert season this year on October 28, with a concert in San Diego for the Amphion Club and the following evening, October 20, she will appear as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, Walter Henry Rothwell conducting, for the Woman's Club of Glendale.

BECKER SCHOOL OF MUSIC BROADENS

Mrs. Thilo Becker

The faculty of the Thilo Becker School of Music is rapidly being assembled for the first season's work. Mr. Becker, of course, heads the list with the piano department and his own course of musical lectures with Mrs. Otie Chew Becker directing the violin department.

Axel Simonsen will be associated with the school, teaching violoncello.

Classes in ensemble playing will be immediately formed from among the advanced pupils of these three eminent teachers. The course of study in the new school will not only include the chosen instrument but supplementary studies such as ensemble playing, harmony interpretation and musical history which will develop the student into a broadly educated musician.

Contrary to the generally accepted idea of the Becker Studios, heretofore, beginners will be admitted to the school and receive the inestimable advantage of regular supervision by the heads of the departments during their period of development for the artist classes.

Advanced students and professionals will benefit by study under these acknowledged masters.

This plan enables pupils to get the right foundation from the beginning.

Sibley G. Pease, resident organist of the Los Angeles Lodge of Elks, will present this afternoon his nineteenth recital.

After "The Bride of the Lamb" is launched into what is expected to be a long run, Martha Hedman hopes to institute some afternoon matinees of such "strong plays" as "The Witch," "Hedda Gabler," "Jane Clegg" and, perhaps, "The Vortex," another play that excited New York.

As is well known, Matha is Swedish and first made her reputation in Stockholm (where, by the way, she shared dressing-rooms with Mr. Lars Hansen, then a prominent Swedish actress, but now just "the wife of Lars Hansen" in Hollywood.)

She is a beautiful and a clever, cultured woman, this Martha Hedman, and we are fortunate in having her faith in our appreciative ability for such advanced plays as she is bringing us. Under ordinary circumstances we might have waited years before seeing this New York sensation, and then have it presented by a second-rate road company, at that.

Martha is delighted with the cast that supports her in this venture "They are all good, very good," she declares happily.

EVANGELISTIC BOMBSHELL

This is the name "Bride of the Lamb" earned for itself in the East, where it has been playing for two seasons. It will have its local premiere tomorrow night at the El Capitan in Hollywood. Below are Martha Hedman and Louis Bennison, featured in the cast.

LOS ANGELES THEATER SEASON BEGINS

Farce, Mystery-Comedy, Tragedy, Satire Included on New Programs At Four Houses, Planning Premieres for Today and Tomorrow

BY BARBARA MILLER

Variety, thy home is Los Angeles!

Should this exclamation sound even a trifle exaggerated, pause to consider the theatrical fare for the week.

Mystery, highly flavored with that always acceptable ingredient—comedy.

FLIPPANT FARCE

Farce, in the sophisticated and flippant manner.

Drama, searching, frank, with its climax of inescapable, pitiful tragedy.

And, finally a dazzling repetoire, Shavian satire, mystery thrills, domestic comedy.

A beguiling prospect, is it not? Certainly one guaranteed to intrigue the most jaded theatergoer.

For the fall openings are upon us—a real avalanche.

Officially, the season starts with a flourish this afternoon when "Not Herbert," opens at the Morosco. This will be the second play in which the new principals of that stock house appear.

This mystery, with laugh-provoking proclivities, was produced in New York a year ago, at the Klaw Theater.

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

According to an arrangement made by the Morosco executives, Franklyn Underwood and J. M. Riehle, who recently visited Los Angeles, the Morosco is to offer plays which still are running in New York.

Customarily, a piece completes its New York engagement before it is released for stock.

The cast of the play of a modern Raffles includes Alma Tell, John Litel, Elizabeth Allen, Mitchell Harris, Jane Morgan, J. Morris Foster, Harry Garrity, James Bush, Jasoda Maranoff, Edward Ward, Frederick Pymm and Harry Hoyt.

It is under the direction of James Durkin.

But tomorrow night is the "big night," with three theatrical premieres.

DIVERSIONS

"The Cradle Snatchers" starts at the Playhouse, with Helen Bolton, Grace Travers and Florence Auer as the three middle-aged ladies who decide to try a little playing around themselves with some likely college youths, since their husbands appear to have no scruples against similar diversions in the company of diverting flappers.

The farce, written by Norma Mitchell and Russell Medcraft, which still is running in New York, will be directed by Lillian Albertson.

Out in Hollywood, the William Hurlbut drama, "Bride of the Lamb," will be given its initial Pacific Coast showing at El Capitan.

Martha Hedman appears as the pathetic, befuddled small-town woman, mistaking an infatuation for a visiting evangelist for a deep religious interest.

At the Philharmonic, Margaret Anglin and Blanche Bates will open their week of repertoire with Zoe Atkins's "Footloose."

Their program includes Shaw's "Candida," Akins's "Texas Nightingale," Somerset Maughm's "Caroline" and George Creel's "Peg."

MUSIC BOX THEATER TO OPEN SOON

DeHaven Venture Rapidly Nearing Completion for Showing October 18

In three weeks Hollywood will have its own permanent musical comedy theater. Carter DeHaven's Music Box on Hollywood Boulevard at El Centro will throw open its doors on Monday, October 18, to reveal the first of a series of revues that are to be the permanent form of entertainment at this cozy and intimate little theater.

DeHaven isn't telling much in advance of his show—he is too busy supervising the many details of his theater, which is fast nearing completion, and his company of more than sixty, which is rehearsing at the Hall of Arts at Yucca and Highland avenue.

But this much can be told now: the stars of the Music Box Revue will be girls—not just girls but supergirls. DeHaven himself spent a month in New York picking them out, and according to those who have seen the rehearsals they will out-Ziegfeld Ziegfeld. Such experts as Larry Ceballos, who has staged seven Greenwich Village Follies, Arthur Kay, who has directed every local musical success that has been produced in the last three years, and Edward Burns, for years stage manager for Ziegfeld's Follies—all agree that for all-round good looks and ability the Music Box Revue ensemble surpasses anything they have ever seen.

The cast of the revue, all brought here from New York, is a long one, and includes such well-known artists as Thomas J. Dugan, Doris Eaton, Eddie Lambert, Morton Downey, Crane Sisters, Bobby Higgins, Betty Byrd, John Maxwell, Irene Martin, Duley Sisters, William E. Ritchey, Florence Hedges, Monty and Carmo, Claire Devine, Neilsen Sisters, Billy Stout, Dudley Chambers, Doris Whitney, and Jack Bergman.

The music is by such composers as I. B. Kornblum, who did the tuneful "Patsy," Valentine Burton, S. J. Fletcher, Samuel Messenheimer, Wedgewood Nowell, and others. Grant Clark, who has such song hits as "Dirty Hands, Dirty Face," and "Second Hand Rose" to his credit, will do the lyrics.

DeHaven himself will stage the entire revue, and Larry Ceballos, famous New York producer, who has directed the dances and ensembles for all the Greenwich Village Follies, will do the chorus numbers. All in all, the DeHaven Music Box Revue gives promise of being a tasteful concoction, for its chefs are all experts in their own particular field.

The Music Box Theater will bring to the Coast many novelties, chief of which will be the introduction of the Ziegfeld Roof idea with midnight frolics. The Music Box Roof will have an open-air restaurant and will give nightly performances almost as elaborate as those in the theater below. Hollywood will not have to go to New York for its night life any more. Broadway has come to Hollywood.

What's Doing in NEW YORK

"Broadway" Clicks
American Satire
Anita of California

By Alexander Woollcott

[Copyright, 1926, New York World]

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Along with sundry dramas from France—for instance, we are to have Ann Harding on Tuesday in a piece the French called "A Woman Disputed Among Men," and on Wednesday, Helen Menken in a tragedy which the French carelessly called "La Prisonniere," when they had a perfectly good chance to call it "A Woman Disputed Among Women"—along with these erotic exotics something so unmistakably and incorrigibly American that it hurts, will finally reach New York. That is "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

This is the naughty comedy which Anita Loos and John Emerson have fashioned from her enormously prosperous and far-flung book about the fair-haired bandit from Little Rock, whose feeling about life is concentrated in her notion that whereas a kiss on the hand may make a girl feel very good, a sapphire bracelet lasts forever.

STORY'S EVOLUTION

Already Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Atlantic City and other outlying communities have savored this play and are credibly reported as shaking with laughter in consequence. Now, before New York has its first chance to examine the alloy which has made Miss Loos book into a play that will not only stand up but run all over the land, let me report something of the chance which evolved that knowing and ironic story and draw, if I may, a moral from its stupendous success.

Such a detour may crowd out some of the usual moody reflections on the new plays of the past fortnight, none of which is worth mentioning anyway, save for one glittering exception. That is the gay, new, tingling, abundant melodrama of the "roaring forties." It is already customary to refer to it either as "Within the Law of 1926," or, more shrewdly, I think, as the "What Price Glory of the Cabarets."

The authors called it "Broadway" and how all the playwrights of the past fifty years managed to overlook that title until now is one of the mysteries which defy the analyist. "Broadway" was produced at the Broadhurst on Thursday of last week and was established over night as the first resounding hit of the new season. One does not often find such thoroughly satisfying fare in the theaters of this town. Every visitor within our gates during the next twelve months will want to see "Broadway" and most of them will be rendered acrid by their inability to get seats.

Of the pieces that may be seen at present this pastoral letter reserves its heartiest recommendations for three. They are "Iolanthe," "The Scandals" of Master George White and the play called "Broadway."

ANITA OF CALIFORNIA

Anita Loos was born in California of French stock. For generations the family has pronounced this as though it were spelled Loce, but she herself has long since given up the effort to persuade her contemporaries to follow suit and even calls it Loose herself now.

I know how that is. For a quarter of a century I wore myself to a shadow trying to impress upon clerks in shops and girls at switchboards the excruciating importance of spelling my own grotesque patronymic in the manner capriciously initiated by some illiterate ancestor of mine. Suddenly one day it dawned on me that it did not matter much to me how they spelled it and that belated discovery has saved me a lot of strength for use in battling with the native drama and defending my croquet championship.

STOCK EXPERIENCE

Miss Loos grew up under foot in a San Diego stock company of which her father was the manager. She played all the children parts, tossing the golden curls of little Lord Fauntleroy and dying in a talented manner as the child in "East Lynne."

When she had reached the intermediate stage where she might be little Eva one week and an old crone the next, the management installed a movie machine and between the

Another racing story, "The Kentucky Handicap" is scheduled for Reed Howes, popular star of H. J. Brown films. This is the eighth picture in which Reed has portrayed the role of a horseman and in several of these he has played a jockey.

In view of the fact that Reed's first role in pictures was that of a horseman, it is not surprising that his endeavors should follow in the path of his first success. This early effort was in "High speed Lee," which Reed himself produced using only Harvard undergraduates in the cast.

Work on "The Kentucky Handicap" will commence immediately. The race-track scenes will be shot at the Ventura County Fair grounds during the week of the fair.

THEY SPEAK OF LOVE

Dorothy Murray and Earl LaVere, Majestic Players, Are Enjoying Real Romance

BY KATHERINE LIPKE

"You for me and me for you—"

Murray and LaVere aren't using this song sentiment in their act in "Monkey Business" at the Majestic Theater, but they are thinking it just the same.

For they are in love, with rumors current that marriage is in the offing. The happy culmination to a partnership which started two years ago when Earl LaVere heard Dorothy Murray sing at a benefit party in Brooklyn and asked her to form a vaudeville team with him.

They didn't want to talk about their romance to me, but unfortunately they could talk about nothing else. Interviewing Dorothy meant listening to her tell about her partner—and talking with him brought forth a torrent of praise for Doroth Love!

In case you don't recall the names, Murray and LaVere, although newcomers in "Monkey Business," have just finished a successful tour of the Orpheum circuit. Their act is filled with cheerful nonsense, songs, accordion music and then—curtain. But this isn't all, for the minute the couple comes on the stage applause ripples over the house.

Part of the reason is Murray and part is LaVere. Dorothy small and dark. Her eyes are enormous and her feet infinitesimal. An eager mouth opens in bird fashion to give forth enthusiastic bursts of song. The audience is "sold on her"—as the saying goes—the minute she appears.

It is part of LaVere's business to show off Dorothy to advantage. He makes an excellent job of it. In fact, apparently he asks for nothing better than to make a life undertaking of it.

"Tell me about yourself," I urged him.

"There is nothing to tell. I have been on the stage all my life. Nothing happened until I saw Dorothy in Brooklyn. 'There's a girl who would make a hit anywhere,' I thought. And she has. She's a winner!"

Dorothy meanwhile had sat by, her eager mouth making movements toward conversation. When her partner stopped talking her opportunity came.

"He has done everything for me. Developed me and pushed me forward. He's a great man. I hope to make pictures later. If I do I'm going to see that he is a director or a gag man or someone big. He deserves it."

There was more of this. Much more. And I didn't find it tiresome in the least. It wasn't what is known as "blah." It was just the conversational chance of two people in love to tell someone else about it.

Not once did LaVere talk about himself.

Neither did has partner become self-centered. To Murray there is no one quite as splendid as LaVere and to LaVere, well, a romance is blossoming on the Majestic stage, under the eyes of a public out for pleasure. I wonder how many have noticed it.

a few unoccupied her hands. "What about a little tour, Blanche, each other in some plays? How about Margaret."

Blanche in large not been playing housewife and superior body stuff—for three until 13-year-old daughter and handsome son were in danger of being submerged in domesticity?

GENEROUS BLANCHE

"The dear girl," explains Margaret, "so generous of her to be willing to submerge herself in a small part for my sake."

"Tush, fiddlesticks!" grins Blanche. "It was the lure of getting back into grease paint under any conditions whatever!"

So the rest was easy. The plays? Well, there is "Foot-loose," by Zoe Akins, in which Margaret is the sinful-past Stephanie who essays to restore her social standing—with tragic and melodramatic results. And what about "The Texas Nightingale," another Zoe Akins play, in which Blanche shines as the much-divorced opera star, Brasa Canava? Both of these involve complication about sons

SHAVIAN SATIRE

And the ever modern and delightful "Candida," in which Bernard Shaw exposes masculine weakness and vanities. Margaret is Candida, but Blanche has sumptuous opportunities as Prossy, the passionate stenog.

Then comes "Caroline," by Somerset Maugham, in which Margaret has the better role, and keeps us on the tip-toe of anxiety as to whether she will marry the chap and make an honest man of him. And after that "Peg, the Actress," by George Creel, again starring Blanche—so that honors end fairly even.

When last we saw Margaret Anglin, in "The Woman of Bronze," three years ago, she made us weep copiously and gave us a gloriously wretched time of it. When we last saw Blanche Bates, it was at a benefit show, with Mary Pickford in one box and Theda Bara in another, and the spotlight hovering from one to the other, with Blanche having a hilariously naughty time on the stage, in impish mood. Blanche is a bunch of jolly mischief and those babes of hers certainly have a gay and witty mother.

PREFERS TEARFUL ROLES

But Margaret really, we think, prefers to make us weep, albeit she, too, has a merry wit. She feels that most of her plays are something of a failure if someone is not carried out sobbing. She says the audience is always a bit ashamed of weeping, although it revels in it, so she has learned to psyche that little wave of hysterical laughter that follows promptly upon a sobbing scene—it means that a sniffling audience is striving to "laugh it off."

The venture started from San Francisco and did royal business in Honolulu—where both Margaret and Blanche fell for tropic enchantment and Hawaiian hospitality, in which they became enveloped. And they found that the captain of the ship was no end of a lady's man . . . no, I won't tell which captain it was, but any personable dame who has taken a trip on that ship will know.

Arriving back, they gave matinee and evening performances at Carmel and Santa Barbara on the way here.

OCCULTIST WILL LECTURE

Answers of a great occultist of the day, Dr. Annie Besant, to trenchant ethical and economic problems of this epoch, will be heard when this woman sociologist, president of the International Theosophical Society, and All-India Congress, International Grand Master of Comasonry, will give three lectures at Philharmonic Auditorium.

Of the three lectures, each different and complete in itself, the first will deal with "The Coming of the World Teacher," Thursday night at Philharmonic Auditorium.

"Shall India Live or Die?" will be Dr. Besant's contribution to world peace, October 4. "What is the Use of Reincarnation?" is the topic of the last lecture, October 6.

In addition lectures have been arranged at San Diego on October 5, and at Long Beach on October 8, in the Municipal Auditorium.

In the FOOTLIGHT REALM

Four theatrical premieres head the program for the week.

"Not Herbert" starts the procession, opening at the Morosco today, while three other plays will make their Los Angeles' debuts tomorrow evening. "Bride of the Lamb," opens at El Capitan, with Martha Hedman in the leading role; "The Cradle Snatchers" starts at the Playhouse and Margaret Anglin and Blanche Bates open their season at the Philharmonic Auditorium with "Footloose."

Other attractions include "White Collars," Egan; "Monkey Business," Majestic; "The Butter and Egg Man," Mason; "Know Your Onions," Orange Grove, and musical comedy, Burbank.

At the vaudeville houses, "The Lost Battalion," on the screen, and Elga and her "Music Mad Maids," will headline at Pantages. Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey, former ring favorites, will top the Hillstreet bill and Elsie Janis will remain for another week at the Orpheum.

"Bride of Lamb" Premiere

"The Bride of the Lamb," starts tomorrow evening at El Capitan.

Martha Hedman plays the leading role in this drama, written by William Hurlbut, dealing with evangelism.

Farce at Playhouse

"The Cradle Snatchers," will have its initial Los Angeles showing at the Playhouse tomorrow evening.

Written by Norma Mitchell and Russell Medcraft, the play deals with the adventures of three middle-aged women who decide to try going out with college boys, since their husbands are addicted to flappers.

Helen Bolton, Grace Travers and Florence Auer were chosen by Louis O. Macloon for the leading roles in his production. "The Cradle Snatchers," was directed by Lillian Albertson.

Anglin and Bates

Margaret Anglin and Blanche Bates open their co-starring engagement at the Philharmonic Auditorium tomorrow evening. They will present Zoe Akins's "Footloose" at that time.

Other plays on their program include Akins's "Texas Nightingale," Shaw's "Candida," W. Somerset Maugham's "Caroline," and George Creel's "Peg."

"Not Herbert" at Morosco

"Not Herbert" opens at the Morosco this afternoon. Alma Tell, John Litel, Elizabeth Allen, J. Morris Foster, and others will appear.

"Not Herbert," was produced in New York a year ago and is still running there.

"Lost Battalion" Opens

"The Lost Battalion," under the auspices of the Disabled Veterans' of the World War, opens tomorrow at Pantages. Elga and her "Music Mad Maids," are featured, also.

Happy Harrison's Circus, featuring the "Baboon Bruce," will be another feature.

Pugilists at Hillstreet

Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey, former idols of the squared circle, will top the show at the Hillstreet this week in a boxing exhibition.

Other features on the bill include Wilfred Clarke, in a sketch; George Yoeman and Lizzie, Groh and Adonis and Rich and Cherie.

Vera Reynolds will be featured on the screen in a De Mille picture entitled "Sunnyside Up," produced by Donald Crisp, with a cast including Edmund Burns, Zasu Pitts, Ethel Clayton and George K. Arthur.

Comedy at Egans

"White Collars," now approaching its one-hundred and twenty-ninth week at the Egan Theater, bubbles over with laughs, chuckles, snickers and other mirth-making attributes.

Edith Ellis's comedy has a shrewdly balanced ensemble of players selected by Producer Frank Egan. The cast is headed by J. Anthony Smythe and Gladys Heaney, aided and abetted by Ross Forrester, Maryon Aye, Blanche Douglas, Zellah Covington, Frances Sheehan, Gordon White and Allan Elder.

Comedy Continues

"Know Your Onions" enters its fifth week at the Orange Grove tonight.

Jessie Arnold and Henry Hall play the leading roles in this comedy by Norman Feusier.

Last Week for Elsie

Elsie Janis, who has been packing them in at the Orpheum for the past two weeks, will enter her third and positively last week today. Miss Janis has changed her act and added some new impressions. On the new bill also will be Adela Verne, English pianiste, and Carrol McComas, who will return after several years in the East, in "Right You Are," a sketch by Gene Markey, in the role formerly played by Ina Claire.

Harry Fox with Beatrice Curtis and a company of six beautiful girls in a musical comedy act, "The Bee and the Fox," will be held over for another week. Lionel "Mike" Ames will display his wonderful gowns in an effort to outdo Julian Eltinge and Karyl Norman for female impersonation honors. Marion and Ford, a musical comedy number, with two others, complete the bill.

Revue Closes Soon

Michael Corper's musical revue, "Monkey Business," starring Olsen and Johnson and featuring Demarest and Collette, Lynn Cowan, Angelus Sisters and others at the Majestic, is nearing the close of its engagement here, Mr. Corper announces.

Ballard Macdonald collaborated with Lynn Cowar on the "Monkey Business" sketches. Cowan and Earle Foxe wrote the music and the lyrics. Others in the cast are: Juanita Wray, Clyde Hager, Ernst Morrisson, Ronald Daly, Joe Griffin, Mirtis Crinley, June Eggenton, Lillian Sibbel, Edna Livingstone, Estelle Davis, Sidney Gibson, and a big chorus. George Redman and his orchestra furnish the music.

Comedy Continues at Mason

"The Butter and Egg Man" is closing the first month of its engagement here at the Mason.

Johnny Arthur is seen in the leading role of this George S. Kaufman comedy. Lillian Albertson staged the piece and other members of the cast include Charlotte Stevens and Angie Norton.

RUSSIAN PIANIST TASTES VAUDEVILLE

Mirovitch Gets Pleasurable Reactions from New Experience

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

When a celebrity of the concert-stage steps into the vaudeville circuit he is due for some surprises. Some of these unexpected happenings befell Alfred Mirovitch, famous Russian pianist, when he began his appearances on the "two-a-day" by opening at the Orpheum this week.

No special setting or send-off had been arranged for Mr. Mirovitch as he preferred to treat the Orpheum audiences exactly as he does in presenting his concert programs throughout the world. In other words, he comes on "cold" and works his audience up to a gratifying pitch of appreciation with strictly classical numbers. It is a real accomplishment because the audiences are made up, for the most part, of listeners who have never heard of him and do not care for his type of entertainment unless it is very, very good.

Mr. Mirovitch has played everywhere in the world where concerts are arranged. The Orient knows him well and the South Seas hold no terrors for him, but he frankly admits that he quailed before his first vaudeville audience and was frightfully nervous. Vaudeville audiences are the national "sophisticates" of America.

This is a venture into an unknown land and he likes it. He feels that any success he has is entirely his own and he earns a new success each performance. The courtesy back-stage is an interesting variation for him too, and he says he is learning about democracy from that.

Alfred Mirovitch is a Russian aristocrat whose father's house was filled with many famous dignitaries from all over the world and like all true members of the ruling class he "has not lost the common touch" and he has found that good music is the language that speaks to all.

FAMOUS WOMEN IN FINE PLAYS

where they just stayed long enough for me to interview them on their way to San Diego, whence they return tomorrow morning. Los Angeles concludes the whole jolly venture, which has proved a dazzling success from all angles. After that Blanche returns to San Francisco and domesticity, in time to correct the tilt of little daughter's hat, and Margaret returns to New York for her winter season.

WITH HENRY MILLER

This Margaret went to an elocution school when she was a small girl, intending to be a "reader," but she won a scholarship that offered a part in a Charles Frohman company . . . which led to her association with Henry Miller.

Blanche, who is Canadian, made her debut with Daly in "The Great Ruby" . . . but that likewise led to Henry Miller, where these two met and formed an affectionate friendship that has lasted through the years. What extraordinarily good taste Henry had—Margaret, Blanche, Ruth Chatterton . . . all with clever heads, educated minds, charm, wit and delightful savoire faire. And all gracing Los Angeles this year.

Margaret has what the phrenologists call an enterprising, exploring nose. Blanche inclines more to the retrousse type. Margaret is auburn headed, Blanche is dark brunette. They can both giggle like happy schoolgirls, or exchange repartee like dashing grande dames—even while living in suit cases and gulping down quick lunches to catch trains.

D-TIME FIGHTERS HEAD BILL

Jeffries Appears With Former Ring Opponent, Sharkey, in Act

...ns and those who still are ...young to recall the highlights ...of a quarter of a century ...interested in the appearance ...Hillstreet Theater this week of ...noblest gladiators the prize ...has ever boasted, James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion ...world, and Tom Sharkey, who ...up boxing as a career after leaving the Navy and was several times ...for the title.

...are many in the city who remember the memorable battle between ...two stout-hearted warriors at ...Island in 1899, when Jeff had ...in Tom's ribs before he ...under him. There were fighters in those days; none of them ...of beauty parlor visits ...dallying, and extravagant demands as to their end of the purse. ...Jack Dempsey, and the late ...L. Sullivan are regarded as the ...greatest of American heavyweights. How Jack would compare ...Jeff is a question that will ...be answered, but undoubtedly ...would be a mighty battle. ...has never stacked up against ...opponent with the punch or the ability to assimilate punishment of either of his predecessors. The fact can not be denied that Dempsey is the best of the heavyweight crop. Critics declare that he could dispose of Tunney and Wills in the same evening, if the purse were large enough.

But so could Jeffries were he in his prime. Tom Sharkey, his partner in vaudeville, also would have little trouble with either of the more prominent of the present-day challengers. Tom wasn't far behind the leaders. It is said that he waged 129 fights, many of which were with champions, yet was never knocked out for the count.

There is one fact worth noting, however, as fans meet to talk over the boxing profession as represented by such a champion as Jeffries. The title-holders of the past attained a hold on the people that is not approached by those of the present. Jim Jeffries, John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons are remembered more clearly and with greater regard than any of the trio who have held the title recently, Jess Willard, Jack Johnson and Dempsey.

MOTION PICTURES AID PUPILS

Earle Wallace, the American ballet master, has with typical American ingenuity hit upon an infallible way of putting clearly and unerringly before his pupils the grotesqueness of their mistakes. A motion-picture machine! Mr. Wallace now takes motion pictures of his pupils in action, and these he projects upon a screen arranged for that purpose and thus the pupils see themselves exactly as they appear. With such a definite knowledge of their errors the correction is a comparatively easy matter. Mr. Wallace admits that he thinks his novel idea will adequately solve the problem which has always been a worrisome one. The Earle Wallace studies of stage dancing are the first to be thus equipped.

acts ran off the short, flickering biograph comics of twenty years ago. The players in the company used to pull up the curtain and themselves watch this novelty from the wrong side of the screen.

"NEW YORK HAT"

Anita Loos, then thirteen, was fired to write a story for this new medium and, after fearful struggles of composition she evolved one called "The New York Hat." She got the address of the Biograph Company off the tin box in which the films were sent to he rfather's theater and intrusted opus No. 1 to the oblivious mails. The reply was a check for $15 and the ensuing glow of authorship was so agreeable an experience it was with increasing difficulty that her folks persuaded her to continue at the lowly business of playing in the family troupe.

In the filming of "The New York Hat" such players as Mary Pickford and Lionel Barrymore were thrown around like extras, and a little later when Mr. Belasco was pondering on the use of Mary Pickford as a blind girl in a play he was producing, the movie he examined to see what manner of actress she was turning into was this same maiden effort of the kid out in the San Diego stock company.

PICTURE ROMANCES

Little by little after that Anita Loos, first alone and later with Mr. Emerson, wrote more and more for the screen, scenario after scenario, titles without number. After she had settled in New York, it meant interminable trips to the coast, interminable grinding out of sentimental romances which she felt the movie public would adore but which, personally, made her faintly ill.

Gloomily two years ago, she was making such a trip alone, sourly reflecting on the implausible chemical purity of the heroine whose adventures she would shortly have to cast into scenario form. And to relieve her mind, she started into scrawl a piece about another kind of lady. By the end of the long jump from Chicago to the Coast, her pencil was worn to a stub, her pad of paper was used up and she was feeling a lot better. The first meditations of Lorelei Lee were there in black and white. After the debauch of writing it, she could resume pot-boiling with the refreshed feeling of one who had just had a week's bracing vacation.

NATHAN LIKED IT

Later when she was back in New York, she came across the rumpled manuscript, read it, chuckled and wondered whom else it might amuse. She thought of that urbane wordling, George Jean Nathan, and sent it around for his private eye. It was he who suggested publishing it.

It is, I think, a fine book—comic, true, honest, penetrating, wise. Its success has been fantastic, unforeseen, unforseeable, not only here where more than 200,000 copies have been sold, and already four companies of the dramatization are under way, but abroad where the book has been a best seller in London since June and where the foreign rights have already been sold for a dozen languages, including, one need hardly add, the Scandinavian. In England, where the adventures of Lorelei were first introduced by the delighted Prince of Wales, who ordered sixteen copies from America for distribution in his own set, the book is even more of a by-word than at home and no number of "punch" can get to press these days without several allusions to it. There as here the advertisements of sundry wares bristle with reference to the Loos masterpiece and no banking house feels it is in the swim unless it has emitted at least once the now hoary wheeze to the effect that gentlemen prefer blondes.

TITLE DID IT

I think the title did it. That arresting, provocative name has a tremendous suction. It accounts, I suspect, for the leap the book made from the small, highly sophisticated audience for which it seemed destined to the multitude which knows it now. Occasionally a title is so happy in itself that it escapes from its work and leads a life all its own. "Main Street" was such a title. "Yes, We Have No Bananas," is another.

Oddly enough, it was not Miss Loos's title. She had called her piece "Fate Keeps On Happening." It was Maestro Long who rejected that coldly and, diving into her manuscript, was gone several seconds (it seemed hours) only to reappear spluttering with his hands clutching a sentence. The sentence, out of the first installment, was "Gentlemen always seem to remember blondes." Gradually, in conference, that was rewritten into the title which has carried the book around the world.

PICTURE RIGHTS

A final ironic note could be furnished for these jottings if I were free to announce the terms on which Miss Loos has now parted with the movie rights to her piece. For this story, which she wrote as a recess from the paper of her regular scenarios, she will be more richly rewarded than for all the work she did with the full intent of appeasing Hollywood prejudices and taboos.

The piece she tossed off so casually has carried her name round the world so that Wells and Huxley and Arnold Bennett were playing host to her when she passed through London this summer. The wiseacres tell me the profits will run above a million dollars. Nothing like that had ever happened to Anita Loos before. But then she had never before tried the experiment of writing something just for the fun of it, without any expectation of profit, without thought of pleasing anybody except herself.

Tiny ruffles, beaded with pearls and rhinestones, make a charming trimming for a gown of flesh pink georgette.

Discontentment Role Depicted in Perennial Play

Which are right—the contented or the discontented? Contentment, that virtue beloved of the proverb makers, certainly brings more placidity and less feverishness to its possessor. It is an old-world inheritance based on slowly changing conditions and the ability of the individual to find happiness without departing from "the walk in life to which it has pleased God to call" him. In our new America we are mostly apostles of discontent. We let our dread of the words "lazy" and "back number" rob us of the philosophy which would allow us to get happiness from what we are and what we have. To be as good as our neighbors or better, to have as much as they have or more, to share their ostentation or exceed it, these are our spurs to ambition. Call it envy if you like, but the discontent it inspires is the basis of our proudly borne title of a nation of hustlers. It extends even to the girl who pledges her small pay to buy catskin furs because the millionaire's daughter wears sables. Of course, she hustles. She has to when the installment collector is coming around.

Such a girl, well portrayed by Miss Maryon Aye, is one of the most effective exhibits in the book-keeper's family which figures in "White Collars," which is about to enter its one hundred and twenty-ninth week at the Egan Theater.

Music Box Girls Headliners on Vaudeville Bill

A great vaudeville show tied up with the unusual picture "The Lost Battalion" is booked for the Pantages Theater opening tomorrow under the Auspices of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. Every act has been personally selected by Alexander Pantages and the girls' band offer a novelty that has never been seen on any stage in Los Angeles.

Elga and Her Musical Mad Maids, present a program of syncopation which includes the latest jazz hits. Never before has a girls' band sensation as this one has proven the hit in any city where they have played. Then for the kiddies and grown-ups the theater magnate offers Happy Harrison's Circus. Miss Happy Harrison presents her famous Merrymakers featuring the "Baboon Bruce," in comedy antics and amazing tricks.

There will be four other acts on the bill declared to be equally as good.

"NEW STEPS" TAUGHT BY SCHOOL

All of the work of the Dancing Masters of America, Inc., in convention in New York, has been forwarded to Adeline Leone McAdam, who is a member of the organization, and the latest dances and steps introduced there will be featured in the day and evening ballroom classes at the McAdam Normal, Social and Professional School of Dancing. Miss McAdam was the first to introduce the fox-trot on the Pacific Coast to hundreds at the Jonathan and Los Angeles Athletic clubs at their teas and dinner dansants.

A Furniture Event

Offering groups in a large purchase from Berkey & Gay at remarkably low prices!

Oriental Rugs

—in one of the largest collections on the coast offers superb selection

A BRILLIANT showing of the East's finest weaves—glorious Persians of rare design and coloring—sumptuous new Chinese rugs, deep-piled and luxurious—and among the most favored in style, of course, the rich Spanish hand-tufted rugs with their interesting geometric designs and glowing color tones.

NEVER has this department had a more complete and splendid showing of these rare and beautiful products of the weaver's art. Everyone is invited to see them.

Persians

THESE sumptuous Rugs claim the preference of many connoisseurs because of their exquisite refinement of design and coloring. Persian Rugs are here from the small Anatolian Mats, 1.6 x 2.6 at $4.00 up to a marvelous Bharistan, 14 x 24 ft. at $2350. A beautiful ISPAHAN, however, of more usual proportions, 10.4 x 13.6—and charming colors, is just $675.

Spanish

QUITE an individual charm have the rich, hand-tufted Spanish rugs which for generations have been woven by the folk of the tiny island of Minorca off the Mediterranean coast of Spain. Some have only the old Moorish and geometric designs—others have introduced typically Spanish floral motifs. All are fascinating. Prices vary, as do the sizes—up to one 12 x 20 ft. at $1275. A particularly handsome one, 11 x 16 ft., with all-over Moorish pattern in soft, dull greens, blues and tans, is $900.

Chinese

DIFFERENT again! As the philosophy of the Chinese people is different from all other races, so their Rugs in those interesting Chinese blues, copper rose, mulberries and gold tones—are different. The colors are glorious, but subtle enough to be used in large masses with designs incidental, but how striking! The popular size in Chinese rugs is 9 x 12, with prices, from the Mongolian quality at $320 up to Mandarin quality at $610.

Antiques

WE have been fortunate in collecting a creditable number of very choice antique Persians of the kinds which are becoming more rare every year. Among these are two regal Sennas (woven on silk foundation), two interesting Boktiaras and one extremely fine Kerman (southern Persian) which is a very rare specimen. Several fine old Shiraz rugs are also sources of honest pride in this collection.

Royal Kermanshah on Display

ONE of the wonder rugs of history—a beautiful Kermanshah woven at the express royal command of the late Shah of Persia when he was a very young man, is on display in the Seventh Street window, second from the corner of Flower Street. It took five expert weavers twelve years to finish and represents the greatest historical figures of the centuries—Moses, Christ, Confucius, Omar Khayam, Richard Coeur de Lion, Napoleon, and so on. There is also a great assembly in an outer panel, of all the Persian rulers. The portrait studies are remarkable, and the fineness of the work almost incredible, while the soft, beautiful colors alone win admiration.

NEW styles—yet special values! Berkey & Gay superior construction—yet low prices that less worthy furniture might have. All because of this gigantic purchase which has brought the season's smartest Dining groups right at the start of the hospitality season!

Last Words in DINING FURNITURE Styles for Fall!

A PLEASING NOTE is evident in both these groups, although they are of very diverse styles. That is, the tendency to lighter, more graceful effects, in dining room furniture design. One of them is quite modern in feeling, with a hint of eighteenth century English background, while the other is Duncan Phyfe without reservation, particularly fine for an up-to-date dining room.

8-Piece Group—Colonial Influence $400

THE ARTIST-CRAFTSMAN of Colonial times, Duncan Phyfe, created such designs as this in which Berkey & Gay have so successfully captured the very spirit of that same excellent style. Hand-painted panels and fine, hand-finished burl walnut doors and drawer fronts, add to the gracious refinement of the group. Buffet, Table, six Chairs (upholstered in mohair), at a distinct saving!

8-Piece Group of Modern Trend . . $305

ALTHOUGH of Eighteenth Century influence, this new group has such a distinctly modern flavor that it might belong to day-after-tomorrow in point of style. It epitomizes the trend toward sleek, light lines and suave, graceful contours. Notice the beautiful yet restrained carvings on the sideboard (which is 68 inches long). Front facings of richly grained butt walnut make the sideboard, china cabinet and serving console no less than distinguished. 44x62-inch table extends to 8 feet and has two apron leaves. Chairs have carved bannister backs and velour covered seats.

8 PIECES, Buffet, Table, five Side Chairs, one Arm Chair.

A SOMBER HERGESHEIMER NOVEL

In "Tampico" We Have a Powerful Study of a Strenuous American Who Becomes Doubtful of the Value of His Aims and Achievements

BY LILLIAN C. FORD

TAMPICO. A novel by Joseph Hergesheimer. Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

In "Tampico," Joseph Hergesheimer writes the novel of his disillusioned maturity. In it he ponders on life, which is thrilling and romantic only to the immature of all ages. Here we have none of the exuberance of color, the thrill and glow that so signally distinguish much of his work. Instead, he gives us a restrained and astute study of one of those strenuous Americans who enliven the pages of so much stirring fiction. But in his hands the interest is in the inner life of the man, and in his progress from self-confident gusto in life to self-distrust and weariness of spirit.

Govett Bradier as the superintendent in Tampico, Mex., of an American oil company, had, in the face of every difficulty, developed a highly productive oil field and a great sea terminal. He had used without qualms the strong-arm methods necessary, in which were included hired garroters and cruel and unusual punishments for opponents. Successful achievement had been Bradier's aim and accomplishment.

To Tampico and the field near-by he returned after a year and a half spent in New York in the offices of the Alianza company, an absence made necessary by the tropical malaria that had threatened his life.

It was not the thought of the Alianza interests that had sent him back. He had a feeling of having finished there, with all major difficulties conquered. It was Vida Corew, wife of Presby Corew, superintendent of the Chorreras terminal, that drew him. His fever had separated them before they were ready to act; now he was better, he had determined to come and get Vida and then to leave Mexico forever.

At Chorreras he found things in bad shape, with secret enemies undermining Corew's efforts. Corew, aware of Vida's love for Bradier, accepted this with fine scorn. But he had come to the conclusion that the mysterious enemies who had rendered his work at Chorreras unsuccessful were directed by Bradier, upon whom he poured his contempt.

Bradier, who had no hesitation in betraying Corew's hospitality by seizing his wife, could not leave without proving to Corew that it was not he who was undermining him at Chorreras. He valued his honor, where the Alianza interests were concerned, and, besides, he was determined that his great work at the terminal should not so soon become undone.

So, despite Vida's wishes to leave with him at once, Bradier started in to get at the bottom of the trouble at Chorreras. Desire for Vida, the return of the malaria, the hopelessness of getting the truth out of the Mexicans he had to deal with, the indifference of the Alianza manager at Tampico—all these combined could not deflect him.

The story of his daring, high-handed efforts to get at the root of Corew's difficulties, while full of melodramatic incident, is far different from mere melodrama. Not all the exotic cafe entertainers, Mexican and American, whom this conquering American won to his aid; not all the Mexican bandits, with their lady friends; nor yet the highbinders and hired assassins that appear as needed, can keep this story on the plane of melodrama. For always it is Bradier's own thoughts, his inner turmoil, that is of paramount importance.

Of the change that his experience works in him and of his final and complete disillusion, with his vigorous middle forties giving way to the spent feeling of age, and of all the intricacies of character which are here revealed, only those who read the book attentively will be fully aware.

The book is a masterpiece of its kind. It is a powerful, somber tale, often ugly, but so instinct with truth as to be a genuine creation. And at the same time, it is full enough of exciting incident to make a glorious cinema.

I know very few women who will care for it. But men who like meaty fiction, written by a man who has attained to a philosophy of life, will find it worth reading a second time.

THE ROMANTIC COMEDIANS. By Ellen Glasgow. Doubleday, Page & Co., New York.

Ellen Glasgow is no longer on the fence that divides realism from romance, latter-day sophistication from rose-colored illusion. In "Barren Ground" she wrote realistically but plotted her tale romantically, with timely accidents to serve as causes of unusual effects. But in "The Romantic Comedians" she has definitely taken her stand as a sophisticate who looks at her world with appraising eyes and reports what she sees with ironic pen.

Being now quite completely modern, she views with amused scorn the odd old standards of the best southern families, which under her able pen are made to appear quaint and ridiculous. Among the ideas and ideals that Miss Glasgow pierces with her shafts of wit are monogamy, female virtue, faithfulness in marriage, grief for the dead, a dignified reticence as to one's private affairs, and most of the accepted forms of respectable living.

As a medium for the expression of her advanced views, she uses the story of the correct and honored Judge Gamaliel Honeywell, who at 65 years of age finds himself a wid-

RECENT BOOKS

THE PIPER'S FEE. By Samuel Hopkins Adams. Boni & Liveright, New York.

This, like most of Mr. Adams's books, is a novel with a thesis. In it, as a major character, appears Mrs. Augusta Ruyland, "dowager duchess" of Habersham, a mill town where for generations the name of Ruyland had been spoken in hushed tones by the populace, most of whom depended on the largess of the owners of the great Ruyland mills.

A ward of the Ruylands is Dorothea Selover, who lives with her grandfather, Daniel Selover, in Mill Creek Gulley. She is, of course, beyond the pale, in so far as the Ruylands are concerned, but by one of those quirks of fate, so useful to novelists, she is run down by an automobile carelessly driven by a member of the Ruyland family. This makes her at once one of Mrs. Ruyland's responsibilities.

In this way Dorrie became a ward of the great Augusta. How she ultimately left Habersham, went to New York as a hostess in a dancing pavilion, how the cultured daughter of the house of Ruyland on meeting Dorrie in New York prevailed upon her to allow her to have some fun; how this delicately protected flower met a dance-hall habitue and surrendered herself to him; how when the inevitable unwanted baby appeared, Dorrie took the child back to Habersham and shouldered the odium of being its mother, and all the meanness and senseless pain that such a course can and does invoke, are all told here with the rapidity of movement and flavor of reality that Mr. Adams so well knows how to impart to his high-powered tales.

Readers of "Siege" will not have to be urged to read this novel, which carries on so vigorously the story of the Ruyland family.

CALEB PEASLEE. By Frank K. Rich. Henry Altemus Company, Philadelphia.

Caleb Peaslee, like David Harum, knew a lot about horses and humans. Caleb is not as amusing as David, but he is sharp enough to give the average smart Alec of today a number of things to think about.

His friend, Hen Parker, was acknowledged to be a greater authority on horses than Caleb. His passion for swapping horses was the ruling impulse of his life. "I knowed him," says Caleb, "one time to swap horses through an open window at Mahaly Binns's funeral; and Mahaly was his own mother's aunt, and Hen was settin' in the room with the mourners. He made a good trade, too."

There is a group of quaint and rugged New England types in the book, among whom might be mentioned Elbert Waddell, owner of the calico mare and considered by his neighbors as "the meanest man on

MANY-SIDED ANATOLE FRANCE

UNDER THE ROSE. By Anatole France. Arranged and annotated by Michel Corday. Translated by J. Lewis May. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

This volume is made up of fugitive articles on a variety of topics, all of them having been written by Anatole France during the later years of his long and fruitful life. Michel Corday gives the needed explanation: "In the first place, it is my aim to show how conscientiously he labored up to the very end of his life, how scrupulously he consulted his authorities, how abundantly he read, and how carefully he composed, often drafting and redrafting the outline of his work as many as eight times. But I had another purpose also. I intend to record my protest against the ignoble tittle-tattle of certain gossip-mongers, against the baseless calumnies of his detractors."

From the substance of these spirited remarks alien readers, largely unacquainted with French "tittle-tattle," are led to believe that Anatole France has been accused of spending his latter days in frivolous or vicious pursuits. With such matter true lovers of or true workers in good literature need have no concern, but will judge the offered material on its merits, either as a contribution to human knowledge or as pure literature.

Anatole France followed Plato by choosing the dialogue form for this series of communications to the world of men, and he has in this manner discoursed upon metaphysics, the existence of God, old age, sex-modesty, war, astronomy, and the necessity for an alliance between science and letters. To this medley the annotator adds a chapter concerning his author's plans and projects.

That this distinguished novelist had the power to inspire deep and lasting affection is certain. Corday not only lauds his hero with flaming ardor, but he also attacks his alleged traducers in a manner which may well make the most hardened slanderer quail. He finds hatred of oppression and injustice the root cause of France's attacks on orthodox political and religious institutions. He was a Socialist because he felt constant pain in the contemplation of the monstrous inequalities now permitted in economic opportunity and the recompense of social service and believed that these might be remedied through wiser and saner organization. He was a pacifist for the reason that he revolted from the idea of slaughtering the rank and file of a nation because of the errors or the crimes of the few in power and "because, in any nation, the number of the victims of wrongdoing always exceeds the number of those who perpetrate it."

Corday might have added that France was a religious nihilist because that note in the scale of human values which Goethe described as "the desire to adore and aspire to that which is above us," was lacking in his amply-planned, but unsymmetrically developed nature. Also that he was gluttonous and grossly libidinous because only his head and shoulders had risen above the earth from which he came, while the remainder of his body was still imprisoned in mire. Men are incomplete beings, but the rare and precious qualities which France actually possessed he utilized fully and generously.

CONVERSATIONS WITH ANATOLE FRANCE. By Nicolas Segur. With an Introduction by J. Lewis May. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

The author of the introduction to these recorded conversations believes Segur's document to be "the truest portrayal of Anatole France's philosophy and personality that has appeared since his death." Whether a majority of the renowned author's intimates will agree with this verdict remains to be proved. It is assuredly a much less likable portrait than the one limned by Michel Corday, since it makes France regard himself as a species of demigod who "looks through" all things seeing the vanity and nakedness of everything so plainly that "he could not even cling to a hope." Moreover, having been "cast" by nothing from nowhere—among a race so manifestly inferior to his august self that he was obliged "to give up hope of holding and communion of spirit" with his fellow-men, he felt himself "as much at home with clerks and artisans as with artists and men of letters."

All this is a part of the "portrait" drawn by Segur as a prelude to the "Conversations," which scarcely deserve that name, since they are largely made up of anecdotes told by Anatole France—mostly of women and dogs—and of descriptions by Segur of France's villa, his curios and his mistress.

The fact is that Segur has too good a conceit of himself to make even a tolerable Boswell. The reader will find it an interesting experience to read both the volumes here reviewed and compare the France of the sincere and self-effacing Corday with that of the pompous Segur.

PUZZLES AS CLASS WORK

"Arithmetic puzzles have a proper place in the course of study," declared Prof. Albert Shiels of Teachers' College at the last meeting of the New York Society for the Experimental Study of Education at Washington Irving High School. "The solution once achieved, the puzzles yield a thrill," he continued, showing how such problems stimulate interest and develop one's thinking powers. In line with the above opinion, the Thomas Y. Crowell Company have recently published a book of puzzles and problems entitled "Can You Solve It?" The author, Arthur Hirschberg, is a high school teacher who has used puzzles successfully in class work. In his book many varieties of puzzles from cross-words up—or down—are offered.

LANGSTON HUGHES, POET

The Witter Bynner undergraduate poetry prize for 1926 was awarded to Langston Hughes, Lincoln University, whom Carl Van Vechten ranks with the best of the younger American poets. This year's contest brought over 600 entries from forty-nine universities and colleges in twenty-six States.

This is not Hughes's first award, since he won the first and third prizes in a contest held by "Opportunity" for the best poem of the year. He has just completed his freshman year at Lincoln College, and is now taking an active part in the literary life of the "New Negro."

His poems "The Weary Blues" were published by Alfred A. Knopf last spring.

A ROMANCE OF YEARS AGO

"Bison of Clay," a novel which Longmans, Green & Co. publish, is a romance of people who lived on earth 25,000 years ago. The author, Max Begouen, is a well-known archeologist who, with his brothers, in 1912 discovered fossils and relics of prehistoric life in a cave on the property of his father, Count Begouen, near Ariege, France. At the same time they found two bison modelled in clay, which are reputed to be the oldest existing examples of prehistoric sculpture. From these bison the novel takes its name. Mr. Begouen has now drawn on his knowledge of prehistoric conditions and customs gained in his exploration of these caves to tell the romance of The Lynx and the woman chief, Spring-on-the-Prairie. Robert L. Duffus has translated the novel from the French.

A TREASURY OF VERSE

Under the above title, an excellent anthology of favorite poems by British and American authors has been assembled by M. G. Edgar and Eric Chilman. In this new collection, which will be published by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company, the poems are carefully graded, beginning with the nursery, and leading up through school days into poetry adapted for general reading by older as well as younger readers. The volume contains over 800 pages and is well illustrated in line and color by Honor C. Appleton.

BRITISH POLITICS, DIPLOMACY

Through Books at the Los Angeles Public Library. Sociology Department.

The Foreign Policy of Castlereagh, 1815-1822. By C. K. Webster. Harcourt, Brace.

The Foreign Policy of Canning, 1822-1827. By H. W. V. Temperley. Harcourt, Brace.

These companion volumes tell the fascinating story of England's foreign policy during the successive ministries of Castlereagh and Canning. Based on years of exhaustive research, they present an illuminating record of the efforts of these statesmen to preserve the peace of Europe through conferences and alliances. The similarity of the time following the Napoleonic wars with the present European situation gives the record unusual interest today. The revelation of political intrigue and the lively portraits of court men and women, equally as delightful as Strachey's, all combine to make an absorbing narrative for the intelligent reader.

The Public Life. By J. A. Spender. Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York. A vast fund of reminiscences given from the editor's chair of the Westminster Gazette, showing in retrospect the changes and evolutions in public life from Burke to Baldwin. Among the world figures whose careers and portraits are so delightfully sketched by the author are, Disraeli, Parnell, Bismark, Lincoln, Wilson, Cleveland and Roosevelt.

LITERARY GOSSIP

"Government Owned Corporations" is a dispassionate but enlightening study of the much-discussed but little-understood business organizations, such as the Emergency Fleet Corporation, the Federal Land Banks and so forth. It is interesting to have before us at last in an unprejudiced yet simple form some of these bugaboos of the daily press. "Government Owned Corporations" is writtened by Harold Van Dorn of Columbia University, and published by Knopf.

Early this autumn the George H. Doran Company will publish Miss Viola Tree's reminiscences, "Castles in the Air." The book is based upon her letters and diaries, filled with anectdotes of her famous parents, her own experiences when she was training in Milan to become an opera singer, and intimate pictures of her life in England and the continent before the war.

In July, 1925, the first Chinese girl, Soumay Tcheng, passed her examinations at the Sorbonne and received her degree as a lawyer. In honor of the event the dean of the faculty reserved the largest hall in the University of Paris, bare except for its tapestried walls and vast center table, on one side of which sat the three examiners in red gowns and ermine; on the other Soumay Tcheng in a pale blue Chinese dress of crepe de chine, cut in the latest Shanghai fashion, her cheeks and lips properly rouged, and a touch of black about her eyes and, quite in the style of her western sisters, her hair bobbed. The story of this remarkable high-born Chinese girl who has won her way to the new freedom is told in "A Girl From China," by B. Van Vorst (Stokes.)

"The American Senate," by Lindsay Rogers, a definitive treatise on the most abnormal body of men in America, will be published by Alfred A. Knopf on September 3. The author has created an illuminating text on that assembly which Woodrow Wilson called "a little group of willful men, representing no opinion but their own."

C. O. Sylvester Mawson, the well-known lexicographer and head of an editorial school, has brought together into one volume a large number of useful hints and helps for the average literary worker. It is entitled "Style Book for Writers and Editors," and will be published in September by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company.

Gen. Primo de Rivera, Premier of Spain, recently granted a written interview in which he expressed the belief that moderate dictatorships "soon would be the form of government in all nations." The general is but recognizing the deduction of Oswald Spengler, who has stated that we are entering a period of Caesarism. Prof. Spengler's interpretation of modern trends is clearly stated in his great work, "Der Untergang des Abendlandes," recently translated and published by Alfred Knopf under the title of "The Decline of the West."

The Blue Jade Library, devoted to the field of semiclassic, semicurious books, books which for one reason or another have enjoyed great celebrity but little actual distribution, was recently augmented by "Sir Walter Raleigh," by Martin A. S. Hume, a biographer of the famous cavalier. First published in 1897, it has long been out of print and practically unobtainable. For the first time, Mr. Hume showed the correspondence of Gondomar, the Spanish Ambassador, where it is made clear that Raleigh's death was demanded of James not for a personal reason, but as a sign that England meant to interfere no longer in South America. "Sir Walter Raleigh" will be published by Alfred A. Knopf on August 20.

The Metro-Goldwn Company have bought the film rights to Frank Swinnerton's "Nocturne," published by George H. Doran Company, and work will begin on the picture at once.

The Valley of Adventure by Geo. W. Ogden

In this thrilling historical romance George W. Ogden has broken into a rich field little explored by novelists—California in the days of the old Spanish missions. How John Miller, a Yankee frontiersman, aided the padres in their noble work among the Indians, risking death at every turn, is told with historic realism and smashing dramatic power.

THE NEWGATE CALENDAR. Introduction by Henry Savage. Edwin Valentine Mitchell, Hartford, Ct.

This volume is compiled from Knapp & Baldwin's "Newgate Calendar." The original work, published in several volumes, has not been reprinted in recent years. It is, therefore, in the rare-book class and too expensive for the average book-lover's pocket book. The present volume contains reproductions of the illustrations found in the original. It gives in the direct and sometimes quaint and sententious language of the Messrs. Knapp & Baldwin as complete accounts as may be of certain crimes perpetrated by the more notorious [illegible] lodged for [illegible] in Newgate, or, to [illegible] the original, [illegible] memoirs of the most [illegible] acters who have [illegible] outrages on the [illegible] with speeches, [illegible] exclamations of the [illegible] earth;" Deacon Lysander Hyne, full of wisdom, but shy on learning; Mrs. Obed Gunney, whose husband had a high opinion of her cookery; Mrs. Cadderly, who was "sort of in years and snuffled;" and a host of other characters, each in a measure worth meeting, but not one of which could flourish outside of New England.

There is a rich fund of humor and wit with an ample dash of wisdom thrown in and the whole is bound together by a thread of romance that will enlist your sympathy, providing you like this type of book.

BELLARION THE FORTUNATE. A Romance by Rafael Sabatini. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

Italy in the fifteenth century is the scene of Sabatini's new novel, which is thus at the outset given the turbulent setting in which heroes thrive best.

Bellarion sets forth from a convent to go to a holy house at Pavia to study Greek. On his way he fell among thieves and was obliged to flee for his life when threatened with arrest. As it chanced, in his flurry, he took refuge in front of a great gate, which yielded to his attempt to open it. Thus he found himself in a garden, confronting a regal-looking young person who promptly helped him to hide from the officers who pursued him, but not before he discovered that she was the sister of the young sovereign Marquis of Montferrat.

He was drawn at once into the service of this great lady, known as the Princess Valeria, who was defending her house against the intrigues of its enemies. From that time forth the one-time holy brother became a man of action, fighting in the wars that beset Italy, winning fame along with victory, and in the course of a few years becoming exalted enough to sue for the hand of the Princess, who properly encouraged.

The story is written with all the dash and go that have made Sabatini so widely read. Incident is piled on incident and adventure on adventure, with the hero always in the foreground and always rising hide and shoulders above all others. Peril after peril he escapes, so that in the end there seems nothing else for him to do but to marry and settle down.

NEW NOVEL BY HERGESHEIMER

ower, after thirty-six years of peaceful marriage with his devoted wife, Cordelia. Gayly Miss Glasgow digs into the very heart of the dignified judge and shows that organ palpipating with a rejuvenescence that is the result of new spring and a new freedom of conduct.

His rejuvenated heart turned not to Miss Amanda, whom he had loved so romantically in his youth and who had lived in spinster faithfulness to him during the thirty-five or forty years that had elapsed since the engagement had been broken and he had turned to Cordelia.

It was the fascinating Annabel Upchurch, who, jilted at the age of 25, thought herself through with love, that caught his errant fancy, so long held in respectable leash. With amusing malice Miss Glasgow puts the judge through his paces before and after his marriage with Annabel. In her we have the supposedly typical young woman of the period, who lacks religion, all sense of duty, standards of propriety, reticence and self-control. She decides that since she cannot have the delights of love she'll take the next best thing, the pleasures of luxury.

As to how the judge and his fair but self-centered young wife met the trials of matrimony, Miss Glasgow tells us in a story that is always clever, often witty and even brilliant, but that is seldom moving or dramatic.

She is too experienced a writer to let her ironic study of a gentleman of years and breeding in his pathetic attempt at rejuvenescance to degenerate into the farce that it so precariously approaches.

I find the book interesting and revealing, rather as an expression of the new Ellen Glasgow than as a piece of fiction.

FILM BRINGS UP MEMORY OF OLD CAST

"Ben Hur" Presentations Recall Actors Appearing in Original Success

The presentations of the magnificent cinema version of Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur," at the Biltmore Theater, bring to the minds of many elder theatergoers the names and personalities of those distinguished actors of the legitimate stage who appeared in the dramatic version of the story. It will be remembered that "Ben Hur" was first produced as a play at the Broadway Theater, New York, on November 29, 1899. In that original production Edward J. Morgan played the title role, which in the cinema is enacted by Ramon Novarro. William S. Hart, then a notable figure on the dramatic stage, was the Messala, the part now played by Francis X. Bushman. Gretchen Lyons, daughter of the distinguished old actor, Edmund Lyons, was the Esther, which role is now visualized by May McAvoy. Mabel Burt played the role now enacted by Claire McDowell—that of the mother of Hur.

In the original cast of the dramatic "Ben Hur," Adeline Adler played Tirzah, the character now picturized by Kathleen Key, and Corona Ricardo, that brilliant and romantic figure of the legitimate stage of a quarter century ago, was the Iras, now impersonated by Carmel Myers. Henry Lee was the Simonides, which is now in the hands of Nigel De Brulier. Emmett Corrigan was a picturesque figure as Sheik Ilderim, now played by Mitchell Lewis; Robert Mansfield was the Sanballat, impersonated in the picture by Leo White. Edmund Collier played Arrius, the role that in the picture version is in the hands of that other veteran of the spoken drama, Frank Currier; Frank Mourdaunt played Balthasar, now impersonated in the picture by Charles Belcher, and the distinguished actress Mary Shaw was the Amrah, which character is pictorially presented by Dale Fuller. Of the original dramatic company a number are still living and playing on the legitimate stage, while others, notably William S. Hart, have become votaries of the art of the camera.

CHRONICLES OF FAMOUS CRIMES

of moral and physical degeneracy, have been confined for long periods to languish and die among horrors too awful to bear description.

It seems almost impossible of belief that the English penal system could have been so cruel. There is nothing in the history of the Dark Ages or of the Spanish Inquisition that surpasses the cruelty and heartlessness of the treatment of the unfortunates who found lodgment within its gloomy dungeons.

The most famous characters whose story is here told is Capt. Kidd, the pirate, whose doings have fired the imaginations of generations of boys. Although it was insinuated at the time and undeniably established by recent research that the Earl of Bellamont and others, were equally culpable with Capt. Kidd, the gallant captain was brought to trial in Old Bailey and convicted. He was executed May 23, 1701. It is not uncommon to find well-reasoned evidence these days to the effect that Capt. Kidd was not in reality executed, but that he was cleverly spirited away when the rope broke upon his first being suspended from the gallows.

THE MAYFAIR CALENDAR. Some Society Causes Celebres. By Horace Wyndham. George H. Doran Company, New York.

This volume, while it may be regarded as a companion volume to the one reviewed above, "The Newgate Calendar," deals with a particular group of cases appearing in court and having to do with members of the upper crust of English society exclusively. In this book the author has opened the closet doors of many an ancient house and has paraded before the eyes of judge and jury, aristocrat and commoner, the faults and failings of that part of Britain's social fabric known as the aristocracy.

As a result many of the aristocratic escutcheons have been badly blotted. Here we meet belted Earls, whose morality, judged by conventional standards, is to say the least, a bit offish. Grand dames, with pride of position fairly bristling from their every word and action, are dragged into open court and their frailties made the sport of the mob as great barristers, pleading the respective cases of their clients, point the finger of scorn and pour out upon these tarnished darlings of the upper levels of life the vials of their wrath and roused indignation.

In the first case to come up for review we find Mary Blandy, who, for love of a rogue, poisoned her own father. Her lover, the Hon. William Cranstoun, hoping to win her and her supposed fortune against her father's wishes, sent her some powders, supposed to be a love potion that would change the father's disposition toward his prospective son-in-law, which upon being administered to the old man caused his death. Poor Mary paid the penalty on the gallows tree, while her scapegrace lover died in his bed at a ripe old age.

In the list of famous scandals we find the following: the cases of Lady Colin Campbell, Sir George Chetwynd, Sir William Gordon-Cuming, the Earl of Ferrers, Viscount Frankfort, Lady Flora Hastings, Edmund Kean, Sir Archibald Kinloch, Mrs. Langworthy, Inspector Montgomery, Lady Mordaunt and Katherine Nairn.

A reading of this calendar of the misdeeds of the elite would seem to indicate that even coronets are not exempt from tarnish and that vice and folly are the common lot of all classes of society and of men and women in all stations of life.

EDER SCHOOL HAS RECORD ENROLLMENT

Beginning of fall has brought to the Harry Eder School of Ballroom Dancing, a volume of enrollments that exceeds any previous period in the twenty months since Mr. Eder inaugurated his school. In fact, according to Mr Eder, the last week was the biggest in point of enrollments in the history of the school, and last Monday, the largest day.

The teaching staff has been materially augmented to care adequately for the pupils. Classes are a half hour long and may be taken any time from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Every student is given private instruction, and since Mr. Eder's school is made up of a number of small studios, beginners are saved any embarrassment attendant to appearing before large groups of students and exhibiting their initial attempts to master terpsichore.

It means that Bullock's has had accurate copies made of exclusive hats (much higher in price, of course), and will present eighty-four of them Monday in such smart fabrics as duvetyne, velvet, satin velvet and lace . . . at $15.00.

Naturally this collection will include copies of famous French milliner . . . for instance, the Reboux turban, illustrated above at the right . . . in black satin.

The metallic vogue has been interpreted in many of these hats but with a restraint that is characteristic of the foremost designers. Slender gold threads gleam from soft folds of nasturtium duvetyne. Appliques of gilded leather give a touch of the exotic. Metal ribbon is deftly handled in a manner most individual.

Needless to say, these hats show the sophisticated new crowns, the soft intricate lines that yet have decision and definition . . . really works of "fashion art" . . . all of them . . . for $15.00.

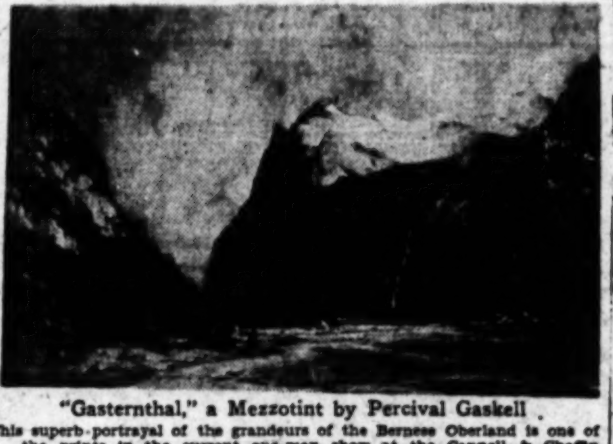
ACADEMICIAN PAINTS ZION NATIONAL PARK

On their way to New York for exhibition, the paintings of Zion National Park, recently completed by Howard Russell Butler, N. A., are at present on public display here in the Galleria Real and in the Art Salon of the Biltmore Hotel.

Howard Russell Butler has been for many years an important figure in American art, and is famous the country over for his interpretations of the great western deserts, no less than for the portraits which occupy his winter months in his studio at Newark, N. J.

Santa Barbara is his summer home and there are painted the desertscapes, which customarily go straight to New York without being seen here. An interval of two weeks made possible this present showing at the Biltmore, giving the Los Angeles public an opportunity to see an art of exceptional vigor, and breadth, which is no less interesting for the astonishing western landscape portrayed than for the manner in which it is executed.

Sublime Forms



"Gasternthal," a Mezzotint by Percival Gaskell

This superb portrayal of the grandeurs of the Bernese Oberland is one of the prints in the current one-man show at the Cannell & Chaffin galleries.

In Zion National Park are found those tremendous red and yellow cliffs, peculiar to a few regions of the Great American Desert, fretted in places into sculptural decoration, and shot through in long strata with varying colored earth and rock. In all these paintings of natural architecture, the immense forms rise upward, giving us a world at once vigorous and fantastic. The sun is god of this world, painting at will the receptive rock surfaces, whose massive walls are relieved by the most delicate greenery of slender trees following the flat water courses.

In such regions the heart of the painter expands, his feelings rush upward, the grandeur and terror of these tremendous wastes, their hardness and prodigality of form and color lift him beyond the small soft things of human society and identify him with the vast ruthless and triumphant processes of nature.

Howard Russell Butler has risen to this grandeur in these nine large canvases. His color is fearless, his superb and positive draughtsmanship fairly carves out the rock forms, and at times, as in the glorious picture of vertical red rocks, singing in chorus a mighty hymn to the sun, a feeling of sheer exultation is conveyed to the beholder.

In the cool moonlight the amazing cliffs take on a new, mysterious grandeur, delicacies of tone emerge, the foliage becomes evasive. Nevertheless throughout all the pictures, the observation of a portrait painter directs the artist to those simple certainties of form which determine the character of the region.

A number of small sketches, done on the spot, augment the larger works and are instinct with the vitality peculiar to a direct reaction.

MANY HONORS

Howard Russell Butler was born in New York in 1856 and in due time graduated from Princeton and Columbia. For four years he practiced law, but his real desire was to paint, and when in 1886 he received an honorable mention in the Paris Salon, he was well started in his true profession. In 1889 he was a founder and the first president of the American Fine Arts Society. He won medals at the Paris Exposition, 1889; Atlanta, 1895 and at Philadelphia, St. Louis, Buffalo and San Francisco expositions. He also won the Carnegie prize at the National Academy of Design in 1916.

Butler was elected associate of the National Academy in 1898 and earned his N. A. in 1902. He is a member of the New York Water Color Club, the Architectural League, the Municipal Art Society of New York and the Fine Arts Federation. In June of 1918 he accompanied the United States naval observation expedition to Baker, Or., and painted a picture of the solar eclipse which is now owned by the American Museum of Natural History. The recent journey to Zion National Park was made at the invitation of the Union Pacific Railroad.

VALUE OF EXHIBITS IN COUNTY FAIRS

The county fairs do for a small district what great expositions do for a nation; they mirror the life and arts of the people, displaying in miniature the complicated structure of a modern community. It is only in recent years that the so-called "fine" arts have found their place in the county fairs with the "useful" arts of manufacture, agriculture and commerce, but their place is now permanent. No large exposition has ever been a success which failed to include the arts, and art, after all, plays relatively as large a part in a small community as in a large one.

The number of people to be found in the tents devoted to paintings in the present fairs of Southern California, indicates not only the popularity and drawing power of these exhibits, but the widespread education in art appreciation which the fairs are giving the public. Anything which serves to quicken people to a new interest in life is of untold value, and these country-fair art exhibits very certainly serve this end. By presenting to people works which say that life is thrilling and beautiful, by showing them fine color harmonies, they are giving them, not only pleasure, but new vistas, and, though perhaps unconsciously, new conceptions of beauty and order to be worked into the fabric of their own lives.

Artists will do well to attach a serious value to these exhibits, to send their best works. Juries of acceptance have a grave duty on their hands, and should accept only works of a high standard, for thousands of people are forming their first conceptions of art today in these tents during the one week of the year given to their district fair. That, for many people, is their only art exhibit. Their interest is astonishing. In the country and smaller towns life does not run at the tremendous pace of the city, and art, when it is shown, has a large, unhurried audience. They are entitled to the best; all artists and organizations concerned should endeavor to progressively raise the standard of works exhibited.

The seriousness with which the fair organizations have come to regard the art exhibitions is apparent from the fact that money is set aside for prizes. True, they are not large prizes, but they are an excellent beginning. Some day perhaps the childish, prize-giving idea will disappear, and money will be used to purchase works for permanent collections of art belonging to the community.

RIVERSIDE AWARDS

The first annual art exhibit at the Southern California fair was a distinct success, and congratulations are due the fair management and the Laguna Beach Art Association, sponsors of the show. Under the direction of William A. Griffith, president of Laguna Beach Art Association, and Mrs. W. H. Ellis of Riverside, an exhibit was assembled which overflowed the large tent provided, into extra quarters under the grand stand. For a first exhibition, the standard was remarkably high, and the undertaking met with much popular approval.

A jury consisting of Mrs. W. T. Keller, artist of Riverside; J. Francis Smith, artist and teacher of long experience, and Arthur Millier of the Los Angeles Times, awarded prizes amounting to $350. First prize for paintings in oil was given to Anni Baldaugh for her brilliant and convincing portrait of Mrs. Helen Bassett. Second in this class was awarded to Clarence Hinkle for "Thoughts Adventuring," a canvas which has called forth admiration wherever it has been shown. Third prize went to Thelma Hope for a decorative portrait, "La Abuela." Honorable mentions for paintings in oil were awarded to Tokio Veyama for his beautiful "Still Life," to Haldane Douglas for his picturesque "Old Adobe," and to Paul S. Sample for a very straightforward bit of painting, "Moored Fishing Boats."

In the class of water colors and pastels, first prize was awarded to William A. Griffith for his colorful and spontaneous pastel "Divers' Cove." Second prize went to Michi Hashimoto for a decorative and imaginative water color, "The Chase." Third prize was awarded to Emma Siboni for a very good pastel drawing. Virginia Sterrett was given an honorable mention for her exquisite "Scheherezade," a fine piece of modern water-color illustration.

SOUTHBY ART SALON IN HOLLYWOOD PLAZA

The Southby Art Salon is now established in the Hollywood Plaza Hotel at the intersection of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine street. A well chosen group of paintings by well known western artists are hung against walls of sympathetic color and texture. They include one of Jack Wilkinson Smith's most delightful landscapes and Hanson Puthuff's large figure canvas from the Pan-American Exhibition.

At 424 North Larchmont Boulevard, the salon maintains a fine exhibition gallery also. Here are presented the works of eastern and western painters. Outstanding things to be seen here are new painting by Frank Tenney Johnson of life on the Overland Trail in the days of the covered wagons. These show the pioneers sitting about the fire in the lee of the wagons, while the patient oxen take their rest. One is a moonlight, the other lit with the last rays of the sun. Both are fine works.

A very fine example of the work of Charles C. Curran, N. A., "The Blue Shawl," shows a lovely woman knitting amid green foliage. Here is fine painting quality and a beautiful quality and a beautiful subject, not a bad combination in a picture.

Angel Espois ran away to sea when only a boy. Like "Dauber" in Masefield's poem, he would paint. One day, in a rough sea, he was crouched in the lee of a deck house, trying to record the angry mood of the giant waves. There the captain found him, threw sketch, paints and brushes overboard, and, shouting, "This is no ladies' tea-party, get to work!" assisted him back to his duties in that persuasive manner of sea captains the world over. However, Espois learned much about the open sea, and knows thoroughly the anatomy of sailing ships. In the best of his pictures he expresses this in paint in fresh color and crisp handling. His marines are to be found at the Kanst Galleries and the Southby Salon.

These reveal an unusual scope of There are marked variations of his medium, show- of style in relation are often found in the literature, drama and music the work of present-day painters. The technique seems everywhere deliberately subordinated to the expression of the more delicate nuances of sentiment and personality.

A large canvas seen at the end of the galleries on entering shows a figure of the adolescent Christ, nude, yet reverently enshrouded in scintillating wings of angels. A background rich in tonal quality and intricacy of design, are intended, the artist tells us, to have an occult and mystical interpretation. The conception is strikingly original and while very imposing as seen here in perspective, we think would bear more light as there is much in the mosaic of design and luminosity of colors to suggest a stained-glass window.

Two portraits, each entirely different from the other, offer examples of the resilience of the artist's brush. The portrait of his mother, in some respects the best of the group, is done with the feeling of the old masters, though showing the marks of the impressionistic school in treatment of detail. That of the artist's wife is daring in conception but executed with a restrained modernism. The dramatic pose exhibits the painter as a draughtsman. Where he departs from realism, he departs knowingly and with sincerity of intention.

Other paintings under the class of genre present a wide scope of appeal and reveal an assurance and attack in the use of his palette. Two of these, the "Spanish Dancers" and the "Ancestral Chair," offer as companion pieces the refreshment of variety and the repose of properly attuned color harmonies, saliently contrasting and supplementing each the other without element of clash.

This exhibit strikes a fresh note in a field not overcrowded as that of the landscapists and still-life painters, and we shall look for an increasing demand for the type of work as the public taste is piqued.

ENGLISH PRINTMAKER SHOWS NOTABLE WORK

When Charles Seeburger, prominent print collector of Pasadena, was visiting England last spring he became greatly interested in the prints of Percival Gaskell of London, and making his acquaintance, purchased a group for his own collection and strongly recommended to S. Bartley Cannell the desirability of securing from the artist prints for a Los Angeles exhibition. The small group of mezzotints, aquatints, etchings and drypoints on display is part of a collection of prints from eighty-three plates which are here for the consideration of the collector.

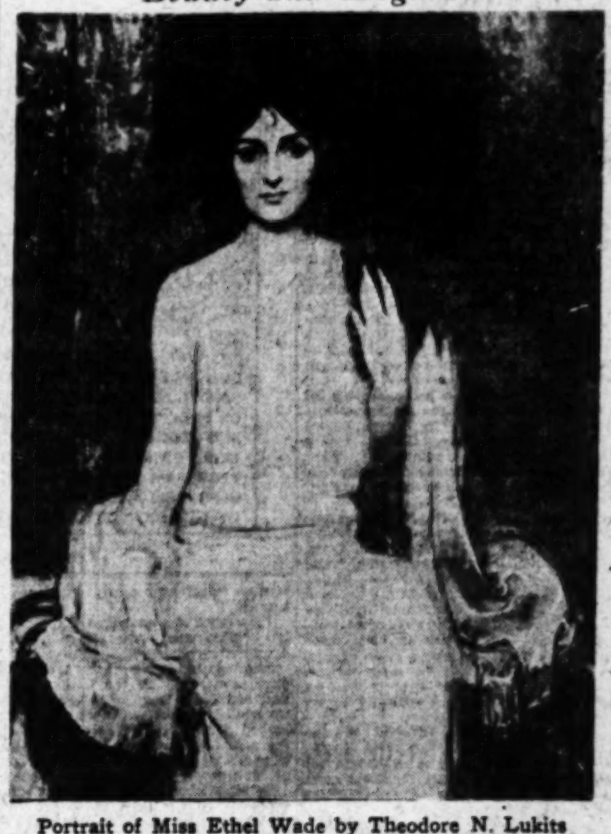
In the difficult medium of original mezzotint, Gaskell has few peers today. This medium has been much used for the interpretation of paintings, but only a few etchers have attempted to work out their own conceptions in its rich, velvety tones. The breadth and richness of Gaskell's large landscape conceptions makes mezzotint the right medium, and he has the patient craftsmanship to carry them through to completion.

In the large "Isle of Purbeck," his ability is shown at a high pitch. From any point of view it is a great piece of work deserving a place in the finest collections. Rich in dark and light, in subtle values, in design and spaciousness, it is inconceivable that its charm could ever be outgrown. Throughout his work, his observation and treatment of skies richens these prints.

Typically English, Gaskell's art is poetic and tender, with a feeling for atmospheric subleties and occasional excursions into the grandeurs of mountain scenes. Mezzotint is capable of depths of tone seldom attained in paint, and Gaskell sometimes achieves them.

There are formal, decorative aquatints from Italy, wistful English landscapes as the exceedingly beautiful "Thames Backwater," or the romantic "Forest," with its generous masses of tree foliage and charming sylvan atmosphere. Again, as in the great mountain plate, "Gasternthal," he assumes the grand manner with great success, recalling the finest of Turner's work for mezzotint.

Beauty and Elegance



Portrait of Miss Ethel Wade by Theodore N. Lukits

This portrait of a charming "Universal" actress was first exhibited at a reception and exhibition of the artist's work in the Southby Salon of Art.

His drypoints of slender pine trees are beautifully felt and drawn, his etchings are executed with a crisp and economical line, but it is perhaps in the more painter-like aquatints and mezzotints that he reaches his true stature. This is a remarkable collection of work by one man which cannot fail to interest anyone who loves these black and white print mediums.

The director and board of governors of the Los Angeles Museum are holding a reception at the opening of the seventeenth annual exhibition of the California Art Club and the seventh annual exhibition of the California Water Color Society on Friday evening, October 1, at 8 o'clock.

BLUE FOUR

Mme. E. E. Scheyer will give a lecture on the exhibition of paintings by the "Blue Four" at 3 o'clock October 2. Slides and original works will be used to illustrate the lecture. The exhibition consists of paintings by Feininger, Jawlensky, Kandinsky and Paul Klee, a group of modernists whose works have aroused considerable stir throughout the art world.

RELICS SOUGHT

The Los Angeles Museum is endeavoring to bring forth from all sources objects relating to American and California history, for the historical loan exhibition to open during November. All articles truly belonging to any epoch prior to the Civil War will be considered.

WATER COLOR SOCIETY

All pictures to be submitted to the jury for the coming exhibit must be delivered to the Los Angeles Museum by October 27, next.

U.S.C. NOTE

The library of the school of architecture of the University of Southern California contains over 800 books on architecture, 800 bound volumes of magazines, 1800 mounted photographs and 3000 lantern slides, with attention given to the monuments and structures of the countries whose geographical and climatic conditions are similar to those of California. The school also has access to the library of the Allied Architects' Association of Los Angeles, consisting of over 1000 volumes of carefully selected material.

AN ANALOGY

Several lessons were to be learned from the recent production of "Julius Caesar" in the Hollywood Bowl. Our concern in this column is naturally with the stage settings, which, as originally planned, were of unusually high quality. Fine in mass design, their effectiveness was seriously marred by the antics of scene painters, who so covered the stones of Rome with marble veins and gigantic Romanesque ornament that the fine sense of mass dignity was almost lost. When the lights were lowered and the moon did all the illuminating it was possible to see what was in the artist's mind when he designed this setting.

The remains of once vital art always clutter the path of the new and living and whenever possible nullify its effectiveness. What was true of the scene painters was true of the old-school Shakespearean actors, who, in some cases, probably were treading the boards for the last time. Such twisting of natural diction, such ponderous and artificial speech as, for the most part, came from that stage, provided the artist with a valuable analogy. It is as absurd for a painter to try to paint in the manner of Sir Joshua as it is for an actor to rant like Sir Henry. They electrified by their vitality, not by their mannerisms. The few high moments of the play were carried away by those who simply spoke the American language. One could understand them, for they spoke the language of their time. Painters might find some food for thought in that also.

STARTLING CONTRAST

In an exhibition presenting seventy-five landscapes at the Fine Arts Gallery in Balboa Park, San Diego, there are two distinct moods in opposition. The one includes gentle tranquility, a sweet reverie hour in the midst of life's hurried trek onward. The other injects the spark of awakening—doing—action — the American spirit bold, to conquer and to hold. A mighty transition from one wall to another. Here is an "art" exhibition that perplexes and intrigues!

All this nerve-quivering excitement is caused by two San Diego artists, C. A. Fries and Charles Reiffel, who have almost smashed our usual gallery conventions by their contrasting viewpoints. Fries is tranquil, he surely speaks in whispers. He is at once exquisitely refined and the subtle influence cast over the viewer is not unlike the spell cast by Beethoven's Sixth Symphony. This artist, so beloved by the La Jolla Art Association, must have been treated kindly by this old world. Life is revealed by him to be very good.

Reiffel, on the other hand, with his pictures standing like an army opposing retirement or contemplation, gives out a strange, dynamic impression that one mixes curiously with the Fries impressions right in the same gallery. One merely turns around on his heels to jump from a shepherd's reverie to the hustling city builder.

Reiffel is evidently stimulated by his earlier training in lithographic poster work, yet he early started his inspired oils. He says he trained with Carl Marr in Munich and has sketched his way across many nations of Europe. His lines and designing stand out without question. He must be very precise at home—one can say "he is neat" and you'll know what I mean. He has pulled some fine winnings from the greatest collectors. The Chicago Art Institute, Corcoran Gallery, Albright Art Gallery, Hoosier Salon, Chicago, Los Angeles Museum recent William Preston Harrison prize, Art Guild of San Diego; all have rendered tribute to this dynamic landscapist.

Fries offers you the reward of life. Reiffel tempts you with a promised reward if you have the initiative and the aggressiveness to make the most out of life. This exhibition is worth seeing. Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Bridges should be proud to see such an exhibition in their gift structures to San Diego's art.

STORE GIVES PROMENADE OF FASHION

Interesting Creations in Modish Attire Shown at Style Salon

BY OLIVE GRAY

Two very interesting fashion promenades took place, during the past week in the gown salons of the May Company.

The ready-to-wear sections of the big store were thronged with spectators, an exceptional setting having been arranged for the occasion. A series of bridges, gracefully arched and so arranged as to afford an excellent view of the mannequins as they passed to and fro, formed the center of the exhibition.

About thirty lovely girls wore the garments which comprised the latest of Parisian creations in day wear and in evening gowns and wraps. Accessories proper to each costume were informative of the correct mode.

Garments and millinery for immediate practical wear were especially appreciated, since the first of the season's new habiliments are always somewhat difficult of choice, without adequate style guidance. Street and sports apparel occupied a prominent place in the promenade. Crepe in the various weaves, including flat crepe, crepe Romaine, crepe satin, and other weaves popular for autumn wear, were shown, many in two-piece effect. Woolen weaves also found favor, one especially striking two-piece suit being in Rodier fabric, the skirt in plain gray beige, the top or jumper woven in a modernist design of gray, beige, black and white or cream color.

A new weave in velvet, called transparent velvet, was largely developed in black, both for day and for evening wear. The latter was adorned in a novel way with brilliants, especially in the form of neck finish, upon a chiffon bodice. The skirts of velvet were dependent upon cut and line for their chic. Velvet in many colored floral effects formed a stunning country club dinner dress, the high neck and long sleeves being featured. Pallettes in varied tones of blue formed a striking evening gown. Black vitalized by touches of metallic gold, silver and bronze were prominent.

A sumptuous cape for evening wear was of gray chiffon smothered in rows of chinchillette, the cape proper being overhung with a square pointed second one on the same effect. A gown of black transparent velvet featured the bat-wing sleeve, the fabric of the latter a channel green chiffon, overshot with a gold design. Millinery consisting of appropriate shapes in felt or velour, for street and for sports wear and of expansive shapes in velvet for more formal attire, accompanied the costumes. Fitting accessories, in the way of handbags, hosiery and shoes, selected with infinite care for each display, were modishly informative.

Anna Timmer, internationally known 'cellist, will return Saturday to her new home at 107 North Union avenue, after several months stay in Europe.

Mrs. Timmer has been concertizing in Holland, and is bringing with her a fine old "Viuillaume" which she purchased on the continent. She refused some very good offers to stay in Europe so that she might be back in Los Angeles in time to start rehearsals with the Timmer String Quartet, which is preparing for a series af chamber music concerts to be given at the Biltmore Hotel this winter.

STORY OF ELIZABETH

BY HER MOTHER ANNE AUSTIN

[Copyright, 1926, in United States and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

(Motherhood or a career? This great problem of women leaving their 'teens has been solved by Miss Anne Austin, who chose both. She has edited four national magazines and by writing has earned a living for herself and her daughter. At 30, she sees her 12-year-old Elizabeth ready for college next fall, a champion of intelligence, record-holder in all of the best known tests.

Miss Austin and her husband, Elizabeth's father, were separated shortly after the child's birth. How the mother finished her college work, reared Elizabeth to be a charming, healthy girl and a champion of intelligence at 12 and kpet her own charm and freshness through the struggles of an extraordinary career is told in this series of fifteen articles written exclusively for The Times and North American Newspaper Alliance.

Elizabeth Benson, Miss Austin's daughter, possesses an intelligence quotient of 214%—more than double the normal quotient—by the Binet-Simon intelligence test. She has scored the highest marks ever acheived in the Thorndike group intelligence test, the Otis test and the Miller test for mental ability.

Miss Austin's own story is an epic of motherhood and of human life. Her fresh and vigorous philosophy is backed by the authority of achievement.)

ELIZABETH ALONE AGAIN

On our arrival in September, 1921, in Austin, Tex., where the newspaper syndicate for which I worked had bought the Austin American, I placed Elizabeth temporarily in St. Mary's convent. I was still weak from my last hospital illness in August and did not have the strength to keep house, in addition to taking on new newspaper duties.

Elizabeth celebrated her eighth birthday just before school opened, and, after further rigid examinations by the skeptical head of the school, she was found to be ready for the high sixth grade. She remained in the convent only six weeks, at the end of which time I had found a suitable apartment and was feeling strong enough to keep house, with Elizabeth's very able assistance.

We occupied an apartment in the home of a Mrs. Brown, an excellent music teacher, and Elizabeth began the study of piano under her. She learned to read music very rapidly, but her playing was not at all remarkable, from the standpoint of interpretation. In fact, the execution of music has never attracted her strongly. She has always desired to express herself in the writing of verse and stories. She cannot "carry a tune" to save her life; I suspect she is almost tone deaf, but I have never had her tested to make sure. At any rate, she keenly enjoyed learning to read music, and uncomplainingly fulfilled her practice requirements.

UNFRIENDLY TEACHERS

It was about November 1, 1921, that she entered the high sixth grade in an Austin public school. Again there was resentment at her precocity. Her mathematics teacher, in particular, would not believe that she could do the work, and her first month's report card showed a grade of C in that subject. Elizabeth was pale with mortification when she brought the card home. I went to school, to have a talk with the teacher, and found her uncompromisingly opposed to Elizabeth's presence in her classes.

"It is demoralizing to the class to have an 8-year-old child, that looks like a baby. She is not well grounded in fundamentals," the teacher told me.

I talked with the other teachers, found them enthusiastic in their praise of her, with one other exception. The history teacher told me that Elizabeth never read her assignment of Texas history more than one time, for she had watched her.

"But does she know her lesson?" I asked, almost in tears. Had the dreaded time, so often predicted by mothers of less precocious children, arrived? Had Elizabeth's mental devolopment struck a snag?

"Oh, she recites glibly enough, giving the text almost verbatim. A parrot memory," the teacher acknowledged.

WINS ESSAY CONTEST

It was too early to worry about what she would do on midyear examinations, though I told Elizabeth frankly the situation which had arisen, and she voluntarily proposed that she do ten problems in all branches of the fundamentals of arithmetic, every evening before bedtime, and take them to her arithmetic teacher every morning.

She was discouraged, resentful, when the teacher did not even look at her work—an evidence of good faith on Elizabeth's part—but tossed the forty carefully worked-out problems into the waste basket. It was only my encouragement and sympathy which made her keep on with her hard, self-imposed task.

Early in December, when she was two months past 8, she came home one afternoon with the news that her English class had, for that day's exercise in composition, written an impromptu essay on books, the essays to be entered in the National Book-Week contest, then being held in every city in the country.

The sixth and seventh grades of all the Austin schools were competing for one prize, the high-school pupils for another. Three essays from each grade competing were chosen in a preliminary contest in each school, and the winners sent up to the city finals.

Elizabeth's was one of the three chosen out of her grade for the finals, and when the judging was over, Elizabeth's essay was awarded the sweepstakes prize of all the junior high school contestants in Austin. She received a very handsome, leather-bound copy of Kipling's "Second Jungle Book"—which had been a favorite with her since she was 6 years of age. The astonishment of the three judges, when an 8-year-old child proved to be the writer of the winning essay, No. 51, was comical.

Her essay was published in the Austin Statesman, our rival paper, later purchased by the syndicate for which I worked. Thus Elizabeth first appeared in print as an "author" at the age of eight.

TEACHER ANTAGONISTIC

In the latter part of January she was promoted to the seventh grade, her report card showing an A average for the term in everything but arithmetic, on which she received a grade of B-minus. On her examination in that subject, however, she had made A-minus, and I felt that her weeks of self-imposed homework were justified, though the teacher had never shown her the courtesy of opening the daily thick sheaf of papers.

She was to enter the seventh grade, in the Junior High School, on the same block as the grammar school from which she had just graduated on Monday. On Thursday I was stricken suddenly and desperately ill, and had to be taken to the hospital. There was no time for me to make the acquaintance of her new teachers, and no time for making arrangments for her to board during my hospital stay, which would certainly be of at least a month's duration. For I had at last suffered the complete nervous and physical collapse which had been threatening me for two years or longer.

We has just moved into a large apartment house, in which we knew one family—a Mr. and Mrs. Davis, across the hall. Mrs. Davis assured me that she would be glad to give the child her evening dinner, but that she had no room for her in her own apartment. Again Elizabeth begged to be allowed to live alone. I was too ill to argue—in fact, could not articulate a sentence intelligibly.

"A" ON EVERYTHING

And so again I left her to take care of herself, to sleep alone in an apartment. And she was just entering a new school, a higher, harder grade, and had almost no friends in the town. My condition was certainly not helped by the constant worrying I did that first month.

I was not allowed to see her at all for thirty long days; in fact, I could have no visitors. But my nurse telephoned her frequently, and gave me reassuring reports about her. At the end of the month, Elizabeth was allowed to visit me. She came running into the room, her round red cheeks aglow with excitement and love.

"Hello, darling!" she cried. "I got my report card yesterday. I got A on everything! Even on arithmetic! Aren't you proud of me?"

I cried so hard with joy and relief that the nurse threatened to take my baby away. When I was calmer, I questioned her, as well as I could articulate, about her daily life during that long month.

"Oh, it hasn't been bad. I like to cook my breakfasts," she assured me. "And, oh mother, Mrs. Davis had 'The Child's Book of Knowledge!' I've read it all since you've been in the hospital. All except volume seventeen and it's missing."

I gasped, began to laugh and cry again. "And how many volumes are there?"

"Twenty," she answered indifferently. "Who sent you these flowers? Aren't they lovely?"

She had made an A average in the first month of the seventh grade, had cooked her own breakfast, washed her dishes, made her bed, looked after her clothes, as to washing and dry-cleaning, and had found time to read nineteen thick volumes of an encyclopedia!

"When are you coming home, mother?" she asked after a bit. "I'm really awfully lonesome for you."

It was then that I had to tell her that it would be many weeks before I could come home to her, and that the doctors thought I was worrying too much about her.

"So you're going to Waco to stay with your grandmother until mother is well," I told her.

"I don't want to leave Austin," her eyes filled with tears. "I can take care of myself, and I want to be near you."

But the doctors had been emphatic, and that was the last time I saw her for three long months.

FRATERNAL AFFAIRS

MASONIC NEWS

The Masonic Club of Los Angeles occupies a unique place in the Masonic fraternity of the Southland. The peculiar organization of Freemosonry by which the local lodge is the unit of organization makes general fraternization among the members of many lodges somewhat difficult. The Masonic Club provides opportunity for social contacts among the Masons of the community whereby the fraternal graces are cultivated and friendships developed. The lounging rooms, libarry and game rooms offer every inducement to that informal intimacy in which the finer qualities of mind and heart are drawn out, confidences inspired and comradeships created. The Masonic Club is the recognized meeting place for Masons from all parts of Southern California. Among the nonresident membership are to be found Masonic leaders of San Diego, San Bernardino, and Santa Barbara with all points between, and luncheon hour in the spacious dining room brings together "good fellows" from all Masonic centers from Bakersfield to Pasadena. A valuable opportunity is thus afforded Masons from Eastern States, affiliated with eastern lodges, to come into fraternal relations with their brethren of this community and establish Masonic friendships here, a larger opportunity than could be found by many visits to individual lodges. Frequently at the "smokes" and entertainments given by the club, representatives are present from virtually every State in the Union. As a center for the cultivation of good citizenship the Masonic Club occupies a significant place. Twice a week, at luncheon time, speakers present discussions of pertinent themes related to civics, economics and education. Splendid opportunity is thus provided whereby the members may become informed on public affairs by recognized authorities and in this way the club is rendering an inestimable service in promoting intelligent citizenship. Provision is made whereby the privileges of the club are extended to the ladies of the families of the members. Teas and receptions are of frequent occurrence. At present an effort is being made to fill the membership quota, and an invitation is being extended to Masons who have not yet affiliated themselves with this organization to avail themselves of the opportunity so that the club may be of largest service to the fraternity. Suburban and nonresident memberships offer special concessions to out-of-town Masons.

Band and of its programs over the radio, and more especially of the twenty-year jubilee campaign of High Chief Ranger Dr. C. B. Dickson. Beautiful standing lamps were presented to John Anderson and Hertel Huguley for accomplishments in the current membership campaign.

High Secretary S. G. Dunkerley recently paid an official visit to Courts San Diego and Coronado at San Diego to inaugurate the campaign celebrating the completion of twenty years as High Chief Ranger by Dr. C. B. Dickson.

Court Huntington Park's social and dance of Thursday evening was the usual success of this enterprising court. Tuesday evening was Companion Court Emily's social session and the affair was made more enjoyable by a reception tendered Mrs. R. D. Perillard, who until a few days ago was Miss Irene Fairchild. High Chief Ranger Dr. C. B. Dickson presented Mrs. Perillard with a beautiful token on behalf of the court.

Friday Morning Club Chairmen Outline Plans

The days are filled with activities for Friday Morning Club chairmen who are outlining their work for the coming club year. The music department will be under the direction of Mrs. Charles G. Stivers, who has just returned from a summer spent in Europe, and she has the programs almost completed for the entire year, with her assistants she has arranged for such artists as Laurence Strauss, tenor; Ely Ney, internationally known pianist, and other outstanding artists to appear. The Woman's Symphony Orchestra is also scheduled for a program.

The public-affairs committee, under the direction of Mrs. John J. Abramson, will cover a number of subjects dealing with immigration, legislation, forestation and the courts and institutions of Los Angeles. Time also will be spent in participating in what the League of Women Voters as an organization are doing to help women in the matter of citizenship. Citizenship will be one of the big factors of the year's work.

The first meeting of the year will be on October 5, next, when Miss Madilene Veverka, superintendent of kindergartens in Los Angeles public schools, will speak on "Women of Other Lands—their Aspirations and Achievements." Miss Veverka has spent the summer in Europe, chiefly in her native land, Czecho-Slovakia, and with her brilliant and trained mind, her keen powers of observation, her reaction to the European situation, especially as it concerns the status of women, she will recite a story of absorbing interest.

Mrs. Raymond A. McNally and her committee on "loose and unbound literature" will be active in their usual manner of quietly doing what they can to eliminate such magazines from the stands as are detrimental to finer thought.

The Film On Teeth

To Which Science Now Ascribes Many Common Tooth and Gum Disorders—To Gain Clearer Teeth and Healthy Gums Many Authorities Advise That Film be Combated Daily in a New Way

MODERN dental science now charges many tooth and gum disorders to a viscous film that forms on teeth — to a stubborn film one can feel by running one's tongue across the teeth and which ordinary brushing has not successfully combated.

For that reason, largely on dental advice, many are turning to a new way in tooth and gum care — a way different in formula, action and effect from any previously known—a way embodied in the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

Now an effective film combatant

For years dental science sought ways to fight film. Clear teeth and healthy gums come only when film is constantly combated—removed every day from the teeth.

Film was found to cling to teeth; to get into crevices and stay; to hold in contact with teeth food substances which fermented and fostered the acids of decay. Film was found to be the basis of tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and most gum disorders.

Thus there was a universal call for an effective film-removing method. Ordinary brushing was found ineffective. Now two effective combatants have been found, approved by high dental authority and embodied in a tooth paste called Pepsodent.

Curdles and removes film
Firms the Gums

Pepsodent acts first to curdle the film. Then it thoroughly removes the film in gentle safety to enamel.

At the same time, it acts to firm the gums—Pepsodent provides, for this purpose, the most recent dental findings in gum protection science knows today. Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. And thus aids in neutralizing mouth acids as they form.

It multiplies the starch digestant of the saliva. Thus combats starch deposits which might otherwise ferment and form acids.

No other method known to present-day science embodies protective agents like those in Pepsodent.

Please accept Pepsodent test

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for 10 days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Then for 10 nights massage the gums with Pepsodent, using your finger tips; the gums then should start to firm and harden.

At the end of that time, we believe you will agree, that next to regular dental care, Pepsodent, the quality dentifrice, provides the utmost science has discovered for better tooth and gum protection.

A Baby in the Home

NO KING on his golden throne demands and receives more homage from his willing subjects than a baby in the home. The smallest member of the family requires a great deal of attention. Sometimes, in caring for her child, a mother overtaxes her own strength. Particularly when there are other children to work for, she must learn to preserve her health.

Then her home becomes a place of order and happiness. She finds time to play with her children and the whole family enjoys the dimpled baby as he grows from day to day.

Many young mothers have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to find the strength they need.

Before her marriage, MRS. R. N. FRANKUM of 3947 Gold St., Omaha, Nebr., was a working girl. Like many girls, she sometimes had to stay at home from her work. A friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she found that it relieved her trouble.

She was in good health until her second baby came. "I began to take the Vegetable Compound again," she writes, "and was soon able to do my housework. Now I can say I never felt better in my life. Women ask me what I have been doing and I tell them about your medicine. I feel that I owe a lot to it."

IS RED GRANGE IN TOWN?

I want to reach a bunch of young fellows of the Red Grange type who will go out and get business because they just have to get it. I have a force now which I have built up from just this kind of material, and I have paid the boys around $40,000 commissions in the last four months. I want to make some additions to this force and there is, therefore, a chance for some real hard-hitters who want to go out and make $100 or more per week through their own efforts, with my help and leads. There is no reason why you can't make $500 a week if you work hard enough. Many of my boys have done that in recent months. Come in this morning and ask for MR. GORMAN. 728 So. Spring St.

Furniture, Household Goods at Auction —30-A

AUCTION

There are just two ways to protect the price of goods sold at Public Auction. First, have the auctioneer or the owner boost the bids up to a certain price, where then if a bona fide bid is received, a sale will be made, the auctioneer or owner having set the price of the goods to their real buyer. Second, have an auctioneer who has the confidence of the auction-buying public, and one who has the reputation and lives up to it, of selling absolutely without limit or reserve, of allowing the owner to bid on his own goods, or some one for him; then in that event the buyers are free to bid against each other, and will do it, as real bona fide bidders and buyers, thereby creating the required competition that will put the goods over at the top market price for the day; that, in fact, is all any one should expect—the top market price. In proof of the above, let us quote you a paragraph contained in a recent letter to a member of this firm, from one of the most able and talented auctioneers in a Middle Western State:

"It's a pretty hard business to stay straight in, in that promises from crooked work are so glowing, and the rewards seem so immediate, it takes something more than an ordinary man to look forward to the compensation in that business which arises from fair dealings.

"The very fact that you have succeeded by hewing to the line, strengthens my faith again in the law of compensation and in the inclination of men to pay respect to decency."

Our 30 years in the Auction Ring, 14 years in Los Angeles, we have never deviated in a single instance from our motto, "Remember the highest bidder takes the goods at all our sales, regardless of the price." We have demonstrated beyond a possibility of a doubt that our Way is the right way in which to sell goods at public auction. A visit to our sales room on any Friday will be well worth your while, even if only as a spectator. You will witness a real Auction Sale, besides you will be entertained and made to feel at home. We will be pleased to sell for you under the above plan, on a commission basis of 12½% or will purchase your goods outright at top market prices. Yours for honest auctions.

BEST-EQUIPPED PLACER PROPOSITION IN CALIFORNIA. Advertiser has inspected what he believes to be the best-equipped placer proposition in this State. He has had over thirty years' experience and believes the proposition which includes pipelines using 9000 miner's inches of water and other physical assets in the shape of equipment, worth $40,000, will make large profit. Of this, $15,000 will be paid to owners and balance of $10,000 used to double yardage, working capital and contingencies. A real opportunity to make some real money. Gravel enough to last ten years. Russians the Best Spenders

From the testimony of a number of European hotel keepers the Americans are not the best spenders among the travelers. The Russian is said to scatter his money around more carelessly than any other nationality. Germans are next and then the visitors from Egypt and Argentina. The great bulk of travelers are, however, Americans and in the aggregate they leave the greatest amount of money, but a great many of them are persons of limited means and must guard their expenditures. The rich Russian rarely questions his bill, but the American will look it over and, as a rule, refuse to be imposed upon. He will tip liberally, but will not allow anything to be "pulled over" on him.

TULARE COUNTY FAIR ENDS REIGN

Exhibits Declared to Have Been Most Successful

Live-Stock Parade Feature of Closing Program

Plans Already Being Laid for Event Next Year

TULARE, Sept. 25.—Tulare county's seventh annual county fair closed tonight after five days of unsurpassed achievement in manner of exhibits, attendance, weather conditions, gate receipts and good humor of the thousands of guests.

As the last glow of the $1000 display of fireworks faded from the sky, officials of the fair association breathed a sigh of relief and in the next breath began giving orders for dismantling the show.

There was a feeling of contentment for work well done, appreciation of justly won praise, tribute to the residents of Tulare county—her ranchers, fruit men, live-stock breeders, industrial leaders, merchants, bankers, club women—the rank and file whose effort throughout the year made possible the successful fair.

NEW PLANS LAID

Even before Tulare county's fair flung open its gates Tuesday noon plans were being made for enlarged facilities and a larger and better show in 1927.

The parade of live stock was at 7 o'clock this evening. Every one of the 240 pure-bred animals was an autocrat.

Every booth was gay with ribbons and decorations, all awards having been made and judging completed. Visalia, Dinuba, Cutler and Orosi business houses closed doors for a time, this being their "day" at the fair. From early morning until midnight a steady stream of visitors poured through the gates.

Aside from the parade of live stock and the fireworks display, which really crowded two evenings' exhibit into one burst of splendor, saddle races were features in the afternoon. Alice Price Moore, operatic contralto, again delighted with her selections.

BOXING EVENTS

Vaudeville artists drew rounds of applause, carnival booths did a land-office business and dancers crowded the platform.

Billy McCann, Cleveland lightweight scored an eight-round decision over Sailor Roy Bailey of Los Angeles last night before a large crowd, in the main event of the boxing card given under auspices of Tulare Legion. Billy Wilson, Taft lightweight, and Leo Claro of Stockton, fought to a draw in the six-round semifinal.

Awards in the baby beauty show gave first honors as follows: One to three years, Ward Rush, Jr., of Tulare, and Doris Esther Olds of Woodville; 3 to 4 years, Betty Joyce Curtis of Tulare and Bobbie Luke of Visalia; 5 to 6 years, Betty Warren of Tulare and Buster Warren of Strathmore.

Visalia Chamber of Commerce booth took sweepstakes prize over all feature exhibits. It portrayed Visalia as the "gate to Sequoia National Park," showing the new all-year, one-way road to Giant Forest.

COUNTY FAIR NOT TOY OF POLITICIANS

Move to Dedicate Day to Candidate Disclaimed by Association Officials

POMONA, Sept. 25.—Expressing indignation over an asserted attempt to use the Los Angeles County Fair to further the political campaign of Fred T. Beaty, candidate for Supervisor in this district, who is opposing Prescott F. Cogswell, incumbent, for the position, fair officials today effectively squelched rumors that they were in any way involved in the plans to use the fair for such purposes.

A move to have Saturday, October 2, designated as "Beaty Caravan Day," at the local fair, which starts the 28th inst. for a five-day run, are said to have emanated from the Beaty headquarters at Whittier, and it was also announced that three persons from this city were the "committee on arrangements." These were J. M. Paige and the editors of the Pomona Progress and the Pomona Bulletin.

All three of these men today expressed indignation over the asserted attempt to capitalize upon their names and stated that their sympathies were for the re-election of Supervisor Cogswell. The other members of the committee were named as Mark Potter, J. A. Crane and Howard T. Wilson.

Charles P. Curran, president of the Los Angeles County Fair Association, forcefully stated this afternoon that the fair board will not countenance any effort to use the fair for political advantage.

San Diego Suit Seeks to Stop Inspector's Pay

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 25.—Following the Coronado suit under advisement in court regarding the asserted illegal appointment of a City Manager, an action was filed today by Harry E. Phillips against the Coronado city administration, charging that C. B. Pickett has been drawing $100 a month as a city building inspector without officially having any such job with the city of Coronado.

Phillips asks the court for an order restraining A. A. Mathewson, Coronado Treasurer, from paying any further warrants to Pickett and restraining H. J. Stewart, president of the City Trustees, from signing any more such warrants. Phillips also asks that the Trustees reimburse the city of Coronado $200 paid to Pickett for July and August.

Pickett, according to Phillips's complaint, was duly constituted acting building, plumbing and electrical inspector of Coronado at a salary of $100 a month until July 6, 1926, when by a resolution of the Trustees he was discharged. Since then he has neither been appointed inspector nor deputy, Phillips says, but has continued to draw his salary.

Intruders Beat Venice Man and Wreck Lodgings

VENICE, Sept. 25.—Thornwald J. Gorgeson of 54 Navy street reported to Venice police that he was severely beaten by three men who entered his apartment last night, leaving after they had wrecked the place.

Police are investigating Gorgeson's story that he believes one of his assailants was a man who came to his apartment previously in an intoxicated condition demanding a place to sleep, and was ejected by Gorgeson. This man, according to Gorgeson, had threatened reprisal for being denied use of the room.

Gorgeson stated he did not know any of the trio, but could identify the one who first visited him. He was severely beaten and kicked in the head, and a chair had been used in striking him, he reported.

GUILT DENIED IN DEATH OF GIRL

Paul Clifton Declares Self to be Innocent

Santa Ana Judge Sets Date of Trial in October

Fiancee Killed in Wreck of Auto Near City

SANTA ANA, Sept. 25.—The trial of Paul Clifton, 23 years of age, of Los Angeles who is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his fiancee, Melva Fields, in an automobile wreck, today was set for October 27 next, by Superior Judge Marks.

Clifton appeared in court with his attorney, O. A. Jacobs of Santa Ana and pleaded not guilty to the manslaughter charge when the information was read to him. The trial date then was announced by the court.

The youth's prosecution grew out of a motor crash on West Fifth street, Santa Ana, several weeks ago. Miss Fields, a Los Angeles shop girl, had accompanied Clifton to Santa Ana to procure a marriage license. They were riding with J. W. Kennedy, in Kennedy's car.

Arriving late they found the courthouse closed and were unable to procure the license. Returning homeward they met with the accident just outside of Santa Ana, their car going into a ditch and upsetting. Miss Fields was crushed to death. Kennedy had both hips broken and still is in the County Hospital.

Clifton escaped with minor injuries and was placed under arrest when Kennedy asserted that he, Clifton was driving the car at the time of the accident. Clifton is said to dispute Kennedy's assertion.

Ventura Woman Faces Death in Wild Auto Ride

VENTURA, Sept. 25.—Mrs. M. E. Philbrick, 74 years of age, escaped serious injury or possible death at 6 o'clock last night when she took an unintentional wild ride in a driverless car down Ocean View Drive in the 2100 block, according to Mrs. John Newby, with whom Mrs. Philbrick, her mother, resides.

A friend had come to the Newby home to take Mrs. Philbrick to her home for a visit. Mrs. Philbrick was just getting into the large car when the brake slipped and the car got under way. As it proceeded down the street, which has a slight incline at that point, the car gained momentum, but it went about a block straight down the middle of the street through the lines of cars parked at the sides, missing every one.

As a slight turn at the end of the drive was reached, the car plunged headlong into a good-sized tree near the curb, and tore the tree from the ground by its roots. This stopped the car, and Mrs. Philbrick escaped with only a few bruises suffered when she was thrown against the front seat as the car hit the tree. The bumper of the machine was bent into a V-shape, and forced back into the radiator.

MARRIAGE FOR SPITE CHARGED IN DIVORCE

SANTA ANA, Sept. 25.—Charging that Gustave W. Miller of Long Beach married her to spite another girl, Mary Marjorie Miller has filed suit for divorce against Miller in Los Angeles county. The marriage was performed in Santa Ana and shortly after the ceremony her husband told her that he still was in love with the other girl and that he went through the marriage ceremony in order to hurt the other girl's feelings, the complaint states. According to Mrs. Miller, her husband tried to persuade her to have the marriage annulled on the false grounds that she was not 18 years of age when the license was obtained.

RECORD FOR VISITS CLAIMED BY PASTOR

BURBANK (Cal.) Sept. 25. (AP)—Rev. Dean Hamilton, a Baptist minister of this city, claims the minister's record for Southern California for covering the most territory and visiting the largest number of homes the shortest time. Mr. Hamilton started out yesterday at 6:30 a.m. and in eight hours and fifteen minutes had visited eighty-two homes, traveling over a distance of forty-seven miles. The pastor visited the homes of members of his congregation, requesting them to pray for the services at his church.

ANAHEIM CITIZENS URGE ANNEXATION

ANAHEIM, Sept. 25.—First steps toward the annexation of a large area of land lying south and east of this city were taken last night at the regular meeting of the Anaheim City Council when a petition was received signed by forty-four property owners in the district requesting such action. YELLOW PERIL TURNS INTO ROSY HUE WHEN PUPILS OF LA VERNE SCHOOL HONOR JING

LA VERNE, Sept. 25.—There is no "yellow peril" in La Verne. Jing Wong, who is 14 years of age in La Verne and 16 in China, has been elected mayor of the fifth grade of the local grammar school. In honor of the new mayor the pupils have chosen Hongkong as the city for which the grade will be named. Hongkong is the home town of Jing and when "hizzoner" said it would please him to have his home town adopted as the grade name the students made the selection.

This is but one instance of Jing's popularity with the pupils, according to his teacher, Mrs. Clara Vaniman. For a time she was puzzled about his age as he stoutly maintained that he is 16, when the records show he is but 14. The difficulty was adjusted when it became known that Chinese years are longer than La Verne years.

The fact that Jing is the son of the owner of the Quong Hip laundry, who for years has been washing and ironing the collars of many La Vernites, makes no difference to his classmates. He is the natural leader of the room and his influence extends into other grades where he is respected as one who can handle his fists as well as his repartee. Mayor Wong will appoint his council within a few days and rule over Hongkong with true oriental sagacity. Other grades followed his example and a La Verne school city has been organized.

WILL DECIDE SEWAGE ISSUE

Inglewood Votes Wednesday on $785,000 Bonds for Building Trunk Lines and Laterals

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 25.—To vote on two sewer bond issues, totaling $785,000, Inglewood residents will go to the polls next Wednesday. The election will decide whether this is to remain a "cesspool town," or go into the metropolitan class with an adequate and modern system of sewage trunks and laterals.

One bond issue, for $105,000, is to finance the construction of main-line sewers by which the sewage will be collected and from them delivered into the trunk lines of the Fifth County Sanitation District.

A $680,000 issue, to be used for the building of lateral sewers and house connections back of the curb line, will be assessed against practically all of the city, if carried, except approximately twenty-three blocks in the Fairview Heights section, where these laterals and connections were laid before the paving was put in. Hence, this area is excluded from the district, but it will, however, participate in defraying the cost of the other issue, for the main sewers. Both bond issues run for forty years.

Inglewood is included in the Fifth Sanitation District, which last year voted $2,000,000 in bonds to build main trunks and its share of the joint outfall. Inglewood authorities have the written assurance of A. K. Warren, County Sanitation Engineer, to the effect that this work will be ready for use early in 1927, or before the Inglewood connections could be completed.

Baggage Man Trains for Dash Across Channel

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 25. — With the vision of $25,000 in chewing-gum money before his eyes, C. M. Bone, young Riverside baggage-smasher, yesterday was training in the placid waters of Lake Evans here preparatory to entering the Catalina Island Channel swim competition January 15 for the prize offered by William Wrigley, Jr.

As a starter, Bone swam ten times across Lake Evans, a total distance of five miles, topping this off with a five-mile run. When he emerged from the water after a fairly rapid swim the baggageman showed a little fatigue from the exercise.

Notwithstanding the glassy surface of Lake Evans, Bone believes his training here will be sufficient to enable him to negotiate the channel. He declares there is little difference between the temperature of the Riverside pond and the Pacific Ocean.

In physique, Bone appears competent to combat the billows of the channel as successfully as he does unwieldy trunks and heavily loaded dry-goods boxes. He is nearly six feet tall, weighing about 195 pounds. He expressed himself today as confident he can swim the channel.

EIGHTY CARLOADS OF GRAPES SHIPPED DAILY

HANFORD, Sept. 25.—Eighty carloads of Muscat grapes are now being shipped from Kings county, against a daily shipment of thirty-five cars a week ago. The eastern demand and price have stiffened and if this condition continues all remaining Muscat grapes except those drying on the trays for raisins will be rolling east inside of two weeks, the weather being ideal for packing and shipping. All shipments are to big cities on the Atlantic seaboard and are of juice stock except a half dozen cars a day of table Muscats, basket and the n cushion, going out from the big Lucerne vineyards.

REDLANDS MAN POSTS BOND IN FELONY CASE

REDLANDS, Sept. 25.—Charles A. Shelley of 404 West Lugonia avenue today posted $100 at the police station here to guarantee his appearance in Justice Court in Elsinore for an offense said to have been committed in that town by the Redlands man on Labor Day. The authorities here were notified to arrest Shelley on a felony warrant. "All I did was to run another car off the road because the driver was endangering lives by careless driving and there was no accident when the car pulled across the ditch at the roadside," Shelley was quoted by the police as saying.

SWEDE SEES GLORIES OF CALIFORNIA

Unofficial Envoy Studies National Parks to Use as Educational Example

PASADENA, Sept. 25.—An unofficial ambassador of the Swedish people, Dr. Carl Julius Anrick of Stockholm, secretary of the Swedish Tourist Society, arrived in Pasadena today in the course of a trip he is making through this country for the purpose of studying American National Parks, playgrounds, hotel managements and other problems of interest to tourists.

What he learns will be used for the benefit of the 125,000 members of the Swedish Tourist Society, an organization which performs an important function in helping the Swedes to "see Sweden first." The society gets out numerous publications, organizes large tours at low rates and aims to do all possible to give the Swedish people a thorough knowledge of their own country. Sweden has eleven National Parks he said today, but their use is much more restricted than those of America. Dr. Anrick was greatly impressed by the tourist travel to America's National Parks and hopes to put into effect in his own country many of the methods in use here. He has picked up numerous other pointers and believes that the publication of his findings will increase Swedish interest in travel to America.

Dr. Anrick is stopping with his former countryman, H. Hoberg, 1034 Morado Place. Accompanied by Mrs. Anrick, he expects to return to Europe in November.

Guide Posts to Inglewood Up for Criticism

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 25.—"You have been riding through this town for fifteen minutes, what do you think of it by this time?" is the suggestion made by Inglewood's notable wit, Sam Greene, director of the Chamber of Commerce, when it was proposed at the directors' meeting that a certain sign be torn down.

Mr. Green suggested that instead of destroying the sign, the question above be put on instead of the present welcome to the community which is inscribed thereon.

The present sign is like the outgrown clothes of the rapidly growing boy, it was declared. It used to be at the entrance to the city. The entrance is now about three miles farther out, in the Fairview Heights section, where a glittering electric sign now welcomes the stranger. Other Inglewood signs, it was pointed out at the meeting, are two years behind the times and some 8000 behind in population figures. The "15,000," is was declared, should be changed to 23,500, or it might as well be 25,000, a figure which is anticipated will be reached before the signs need repainting again.

The boy was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, and Kief was not held by the police.

International Musical Program Billed for Today

Huge Crowd Present to Honor Gov. Richardson

County Exhibits Win Praise of All Visitors

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 25. — Welsh, Scottish, Russian and Indian music will be offered as the main attractions tomorrow when the fourteenth annual Southern California Fair is brought to a close with All-Southern California Day. Those in charge are making preparations to handle the largest crowd in the history of the organization, and it is expected that 20,000 will pass through the turnstiles.

The main attraction in the afternoon will be the Los Angeles Welsh Male Chorus of forty voices under the direction of William Rees. They will present a program in front of the grand stand commencing immediately after the parade of prize-winning live stock, which will be led by the World War Veterans' Pipe Band. The Russian Balalaika Orchestra will appear during the afternoon.

INDIAN PAGEANT

In the evening will be given the final performance of the pageant "Hiawatha," with 150 Indian students from Sherman Institute in the cast. Those who have witnessed this spectacle during the fair, declare it to be one of the finest ever given in Southern California. Especially of note is the setting provided the production by 300 trees brought from the mountains.

All exhibits in the agricultural and educational tents will be kept in place until the evening performance is over, so that belated visitors will have an opportunity to see what has been termed the finest collection of fruits and produce ever shown in the Southland.

The county exhibits in the agricultural tent have won high praise for their scope and arrangement. The cotton and date shows have attracted thousands of visitors.

GOVERNOR PRESENT

Today was Governor's Day, with Gov. Richardson as the guest of honor. He arrived before noon, and after spending some time among the exhibits, proceeded to the grand stand to witness the race program and the attractions offered there. He complimented J. E. Wherrell, president of the fair, very highly on the exhibits and the entertainment.

The fair this year will pass into history as one of the best ever sponsored in the fourteen years that the Southern California Fair has been presented. Following a disastrous rainy week last year, the attendance this year has justified all the predictions made for the event by Mrs. C. G. Cravens, secretary. The directors are today receiving the congratulations of all for the success of the event.

ELKS' SHOW OPENS

Charity Circus at Huntington Park Draws Good Attendance

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 25.—The fourth annual charity circus and automobile show given by the local Elks opened its doors tonight to another large crowd of people, the opening night being in keeping with the large number that have attended the shows on the opening night on the three other yearly occasions.

The interior of the tent is a mass of flags and bunting, and along the sides and through the middle there are exhibits from the merchants and manufacturers, while more than a score of local automobile dealers have costly cars in the automobile department.

In the evening more than half a dozen vaudeville acts were introduced. School children have also arranged an exhibit under the big tent which is attracting the attention of hundreds of parents. As to music, the Elks this year have their own brass band, an organization of sixty pieces, and it is providing this part of the program.

The circus will not be opened on Sunday night, but will continue every night next week, closing with Saturday night.

MILLIKAN'S RESEARCH IN ANDES ENDS

Pasadena Scientist Now En Route to Yale, Where He Will Deliver Lecture

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 25.—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology, and Dr. G. Harvey Cameron, his associate, have completed their quest in the Andes Mountains of South America for new data on the cosmic ray, and are now on their way back to America, aboard the S. S. Oriana, according to word received at the institute today.

Dr. Millikan was seeking to verify and carry farther the results of his experiments last summer in the High Sierras of California, after which he announced the discovery of the cosmic ray, the most powerful ray known to science, a form of radiation coming from without the earth with sufficient intensity to pierce a wall of lead six feet thick. Whether the latest experiments have proved successful has not been learned at the institute.

Dr. Millikan will not return directly to Pasadena, but will go first to Havana, Cuba, arriving there October 6, on his way to New York and then to Yale University, where he will deliver the annual Terry lectures, October 13 to 15. The lectures will be repeated at Bridgeport, Ct., October 17 to 19, and will deal with the general relations of science and religion.

From Bridgeport, Dr. Millikan will go to Washington, D. C., to attend committee meetings of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council, and is not expected to return to Pasadena until about November 1.

The scientists left here for Bolivia early in August, seeking high-mountain lakes for their experiments, and hoping that the high altitude would eliminate the dimming effects of the earth's atmosphere on the rays under investigation.

Burglars Set Fire to Store After Robbery

POMONA, Sept. 25.—In what is believed by police to have been an "inside job," burglars last night ransacked the safe of the Pomona Hardware Company of $325 in cash and two watches and in making their getaway attempted to fire the store, as shown by two burned places in the floor.

Due to the fact that the only means of egress used by the thieves was through a back window, which showed that it had been broken outward, police are of the opinion that some person or persons secreted themselves in the store during the late afternoon and after the place was closed proceeded to work the combination of the safe. No other doors or windows in the store were found to be unlocked when it was opened for business this morning and the robbery discovered.

C. W. Heald, one of the proprietors, estimated the loss at approximately $325 and stated that a hasty examination disclosed that none of the stock was missing.

County Farm Advisor Wallace Sullivan states that while the acreage in this district was smaller than last year, the tonnage will be as heavy and the quality of the finest. The weather has been favorable all season and now that the equinoctial storm period has passed without rain harvesting of the crop will no doubt proceed without hindrance for at least several weeks to come. Arrangements are complete for the big cotton festival here next Friday and Saturday.

FACT AND COMMENT

Education classes have been organized in fifteen realty boards throughout the State during the month to date. The enrollment shows more than 500 students. Indications are that close to fifty boards will organize classes this year. Education is more popular than ever among realty men.

Eagerness to take the courses is not confined to beginners. Numerous veterans are among the students. They realize more clearly than the beginner that the business is each year attracting men and women with better mental equipment than those that were wont to enter it years ago.

Competition is keener than ever before along all lines of endeavor. A wider knowledge of one's business than the average in it brings greater earning power. Greater rewards bring a higher standard of living and the opportunity to acquire more of the good things of life.

Enrollment in a realty course is a first step toward a greater business success. It is characteristic for Americans to seek the best in all lines. We pay without question when we seek expert advice, but it must be expert.

The real estate man that builds his reputation on the broad base of a solid education in realty fundamentals and adds to it by specialized reading builds for a most successful future.

He equips himself to render his fellowman a better service which is the key to success. Magic, the attribute of the necromancer, has nothing on service for it is within the grasp of all that wish to render it. And its rewards are not to be measured.

All of which is but in keeping with the progress characteristic on all sides in Southern California.

Industrial Powe-

Some four years ago a few Chicago men came to Los Angeles, looked carefully into the basic resources here and hereabouts and then bought 300 acres of barren land along the Los Angeles River. They named it the Central Manufacturing District.

It has been transformed into an industrial city with sixty factories. They employ more than 2000 people. One concern handles 80 per cent of all new automobiles that arrive in the city. Through the stock yards is bought 75 per cent of the city's meat supply. In four years 2,000,000 head of stock have released $75,000,000 through the trade channels of Los Angeles.

The joint freight agency serving the territory in four years handled 71,830 carloads involving a freight revenue of $,984,252.

Hundreds and hundreds of lots have been bought by workers and hundreds and hundreds of homes been built in the past four years in near-by communities. The location of a new factory is the signal for an immediate increased demand for lots and for homes near by.

The needs of the workers must be served. That means a demand for more business sites, more schools, libraries, hospitals, service stations and what not.

The worth of a new factory to any community is not to be measured by its output nor by its pay roll. Any

LEASE SETS VALUATION HIGH MARK

Broadway Corner Taken by Jewelry House at New Rental Figure

Setting a new high mark in Broadway valuations, the Gensler-Lee Jewelry Company has taken a ten-year lease on the corner store of the Chester Williams Building, now nearing completion at Fifth and Broadway. The firm will have an eighteen-and-one-half-foot frontage on Broadway, with sixty-eight feet on Fifth street. The rental over the ten-year period will average $2250 per month.

This announcement was made yesterday by I. Eisner of the Sun Realty Compnay, the firm that owns the building.

"The rental involved substantiates the opinion that values along Broadway are being attended by a constant rise," Mr. Eisner said. He pointed out that the money involved practically equals that demanded recently for space at Seventh street.

George Binder, broker, was instrumental in consummating the lease.

New Apparatus for University Electric Class

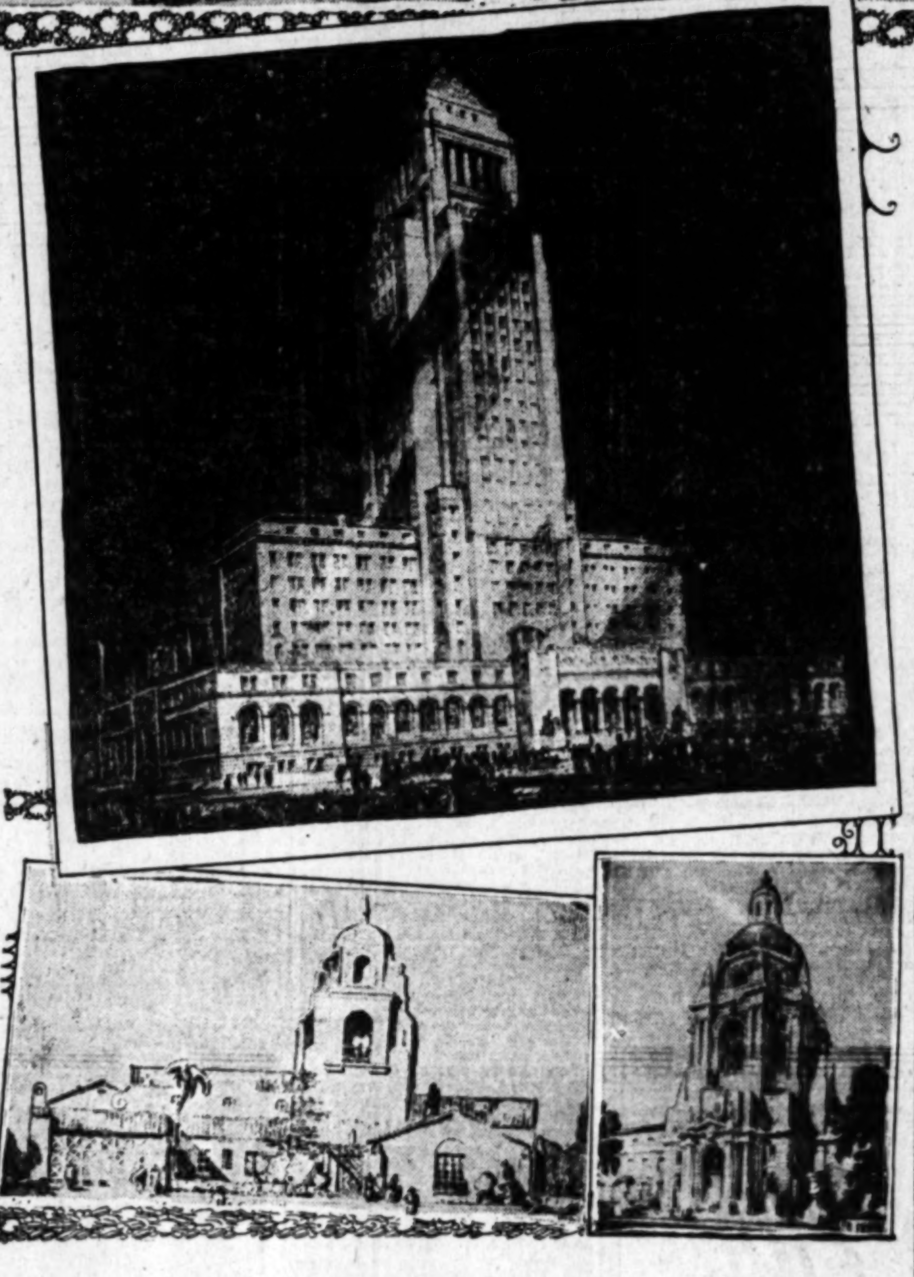
The department of electrical engineering at the University of Southern California, with Prof. Philip S. Biegler as head, displays much new equipment and apparatus this year, including an oscillograph, which photographs electric currents, making it possible to measure waves, and also to photograph vibrations of the human voice.

Ten engineering graduates of the class of 1926 of U.S.C. were selected by the General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric Company to take advanced and remunerated training courses under experts at their plants, according to a report from the university.

Santa Monica Hostelry Plan Near Rediness

In order to meet the rising demand for additional hotel accommodations in Santa Monica, the new twelve-story Miramar Hotel plans are rapidly nearing completion, according to the Virginia Bridge and Iron Company, which will erect the 1137 tons of steel for the enterprise.

According to the outline drawn by the architect, W. W. Ache of Los Angeles, the building will have a frontage of 218 feet and a depth of 136 feet. It is unusual that its height, which is also 136 feet, should be the same as its depth.



Many Millions Involved

SOUTHLAND CITIES BUILD

Los Angeles Activity Is Spur to Other Communities Anticipating Rising Prosperity Era

Inspired by civic movements in Los Angeles, many of the smaller Southland centers are building courthouses and city halls. In all cases these movements are being sponsored by citizens who recognize the growth and prosperity that is bound to attend the entire southern portion of the State during the coming months.

In Los Angeles, the new $5,000,000 City Hall is well under way. The twenty-eight-story structure is scheduled to be completed by January, 1928. It was designed by Architects A. C. Martin, John Parkinson and John Austin. J. C. Kubach has the general-construction contract. The building is of steel frame, with an exterior to be of granite and French limestone.

SAN BERNARDINO PROJECT

San Bernardino's new Courthouse, under construction at Third and Arrowhead avenue at a cost of $600,000, will be ready early in 1927. It will house the courts, the county offices and the County Jail. The general-construction contract was handled by the R. Westcott Company of Los Angeles and Alhambra. The Courthouse grounds, fronting 600 feet on Arrowhead avenue, will be set to lawn and shrubs, the report indicated.

Construction work has started on Santa Barbara county's new $1,000,000 Courthouse. It is rising on the original courthouse site, at the corner of Figueroa and Anacapa streets. It will cover two sides of a city block, excepting the thirty-foot setback. With the growth of the city it is expected that two more sides will be constructed, leaving a court in the center. Seven hundred thousand dollars worth of bonds have already been voted. The architect is William Mooser of San Francisco.

Culver City is fostering a new City Hall project. A bond election is expected within sixty days, according to Mayor R. E. Houck. It is expected that a $150,000 issue will be placed before the people. The southwest corner of Putnam and Duquesne has been selected as the tentative site. It is 60 x 161, fronting on Putnam street. The proposed City Hall has been designed by Architect William L. Woollett of Los Angeles, and construction alone is estimated to cost $90,000.

The City Hall in Pasadena is progressing rapidly. It is the second

EDUCATION IS POPULAR OVER STATE

Realty Class Enrollment Shows Big Increase Among Board Members

The interest being shown by realty operators in the real estate course given jointly by the California Real Estate Association and the University of Southern California is indicated by the organization during September of classes in fifteen realty boards with an enrollment of close to 500 students.

Oakland, San Diego, Sacramento and San Jose have organized classes with a membership of over fifty students per class, while large classes are under way at Long Beach, Beverly Hills, West Hollywood, Hanford, Fresno, Santa Ana, Petaluma, Glendale, Riverside, Los Angeles Soutnwest Branch and Palo Alto.

It is anticipated that close to fifty realty boards will hold classes this year, which will surpass the high mark of last year when thirty-eight boards organized classes. Among the boards actively engaged in getting classes under way are Tulare, Merced, Monrovia, Lodi, Modesto, Napa and South Pasadena.

The higher ethical relations between operators brought about by the California Real Estate Association and the strict compliance with the Real Estate Act demanded by the State Real Estate Department have stimulated greater interest in real estate education.

MONROVIA SCHOOL

A grammar school, to cost $100,000, will be built at the Myrtle-avenue school site, Monrovia. It will be a one-story, eight-classroom unit of Spanish design and brick or concrete construction with plaster exterior and tile roofing.

WIDENING OF STREET AID TO BUSINESS

Santa Monica Men to Build Block on Main Street Now Being Improved

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 25.—Building improvements valued at $125,000 have been announced here for Main street in Ocean Park, business thoroughfare now being widened by moving back the west side of the street forty feet. According to Samuel J. Crawford, representing J. M. Stiles and D. S. McEwan, Stiles will construct a three-story public market and office building at the northwest corner of Main street and Pier avenue. McEwen will erect a three-story electrical establishment, with apartments or offices above, on adjoining property. Plans for both buildings are now being drawn, and work will be started while Main street is being improved.

Ocean Park and Santa Monica business men regard the improvements as a forerunner of heavy development in the Ocean Park business district. The Santa Monica Elks are erecting a $500,000 building on the same main artery.

WEEK'S PERMITS TOTAL $2,335,906

Proof that building construction is taking on new life is evidenced by a report received from the local chapter of the Associated General Contractors that 774 permits valued at $2,335,906 were issued by the building department from the 17th to 24th inst., bringing the month's total to 2710 permits having a valuation of $6,634,131 and the total for the year to 27,750 permits representing a building cost of $92,746,410.

Permits authorized during the corresponding period in September last year number 3122 and have a valuation of $8,243,860 and during the similar interval last year 32,947 permits aggregating $112,939,470 were authorized.

INGLEWOOD REALTY MEN ADOPT OATH

Board Hopes to See Pledge Approved by State Body at Del Monte Convention

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 25.—Inglewood Realty Board has at last perfected and adopted a realty man's oath of allegiance, it is announced by President Lee S. Hake of that organization. The board hopes to see this pledge approved and adopted by the California State realty body, at its convention at Del Monte next month, and possibly by the national association of realty men.

Following is verbatim copy of the realty man's oath, as adopted by Inglewood:

"I, the undersigned, pledge allegiance to and do affirm, that I will abide by the constitution and by-laws of the Inglewood Realty Board. That I will treat my brother realtor the way I should like to be treated; and, in the event of any misunderstanding, that I will submit the matter to the realty board of which I am a member, and abide by its decision.

"I further promise to use the word 'realtor' in my business and to cooperate with fellow-realtors, doing all in my power to further the interests and upbuilding of the realtors' profession. To all of which I do solemnly swear (or affirm.)"

Many Books on Architecture to Aid Class

The library of the school of architecture of the University of Southern California contains over 600 books on architecture, 800 bound volumes of magazines, 1800 mounted photographs and 3000 lantern slides, with attention given to the monuments and structures of the countries whose geographical and climatic conditions are similar to those of California, it is reported.

The school also has access to the library of the Allied Architects' Association of Los Angeles, consisting of over 1000 volumes of carefully selected material.

SAN FERNANDO HAS NEW REALTY BRANCH

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25.—Albert M. Scheble and E. J. Linne of the Roscoe Center tract have recently opened an office at 125 North Brand Boulevard here, known as the Mission Realty Company. The branch will be operated in conjunction with the Roscoe office. The company expanded as the result of recent realty survey conducted by members of the firm, it is said.

CHAMBERS TO PLAN PARKS

San Fernando Valley Bodies Urge Beautifying of Washes From Van Nuys to Pacoima

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 22.—To co-operate with other chambers of commerce of the San Fernando Valley, to convert unsightly washes into residential and park districts and to improve the entire district, the Padre Park Improvement Association has been formed.

It is to extend its activities along the Big Tujunga washes from Van Nuys to Pacoima avenue and from the Little Tujunga Canyon to Mulholland Highway, according to Tom Becannon, secretary. A mass meeting was held the 20th inst., at Regan's Hall, and the following officials elected: C. L. Milne, president; Charles Wood, vice-president; L. A. Gilbert, second vice-president; Tom Becannon, secretary and treasurer.

Plans are being made by the members to dedicate more than a thousand acres along the washes to community park sites, declares President Milne. The association will also co-operate in every manner possible with the Los Angeles City Park Commission to utilize the waste water that has heretofore spread out over the valley in times of heavy rains. Pleasure lakes and lily ponds are on the program. Surplus waters from the Pacoima wash will be directed into a narrow channel and used to irrigate the parks, it is declared.

Production of New Industrial Paint Started

With the installation of Los Angeles-made machinery last week, production of a new kind of industrial paint, said to be capable of resisting 1500 deg., Fahr., was started in the Van Nuys plant of the McRae Paint Products, Inc., according to announcement yesterday by A. M. Shenk, sales manager for the concern.

Daily capacity of the plant will be increased 500 gallons by this new equipment, and by additional machinery which is due to arrive from Brooklyn, N. Y., within two weeks, the executive said. The new industrial paint will be distributed for use on boilers, generators, locomotives and other machinery and equipment requiring a heat-resisting coating. In addition to this product, the McRae concern manufacturers protective coatings, fire and waterproof paints, varnishes, enamels and dyes.

La Tosca Hotel Annex

This new structure is to be started within thirty days, adjoining the present La Tosca Hotel on Figueroa street. Announcement was made yesterday by H. L. Sugarman. Plans were drawn by L. A. Smith. It will cost $750,000.

HOTEL ANNEX WILL RISE

La Tosca Addition to Be Started Within Next Thirty Days at $750,000 Cost

Harry L. Sugarman, president of the La Tosca Investment Company and of the West Coast Junior Theater Circuit, announced yesterday that ground breaking and construction work on a twelve-story hotel, to be known as the La Tosca Annex, will begin within thirty days on the property owned by John Metcalf, immediately south of the present Hotel La Tosca, 339 South Figueroa street.

This announcement is in keeping with the fact that Los Angeles is always prosperous and that hotel men of Southern California are mindful of the greatest tourist season that is destined to be this fall and winter.

Mr. Sugarman declared that the annex will represent an investment of $750,000. The new hotel site has a 100-foot frontage and is 150 feet deep. Plans have been drawn by L. A. Smith. The building will be fireproof throughout and each floor of the twelve stories will have special elevator service as well as a perambulator system which will actually take guests as high as the tenth floor, the designer said. The lighting system will be so arranged that the moment a guest opens the door to his room, the lights will automatically switch on, and upon leaving the room the lights will switch off. Every room will contain a radio. All rooms will be outside rooms and have sunken bathtubs, plans indicate.

A roof garden, tea rooms and dance floor will be features of this new hotel. Another feature will be a projection room in the basement, where feature films will be previewed.

"The annex will be a real home and place of recreation for our guests. The present La Tosca will be improved," said Harry Sugarman. "One of the features of the hotel will be the $100,000 parking space for cars. Contracts will be let next week with Barker Brothers to install the furniture."

will be represented when the roll is called to elect officers.

Keen interest is being taken in the entertainment. There will be glee clubs from Oakland, San Diego, San Francisco, Santa Monica, and there will be golf, baseball, motoring, tennis, swimming and fishing.

The program proper begins Wednesday morning, October 13, at 9 a.m., and continues until Saturday afternoon, the home-town contest being Wednesday night, the banquet Thursday night and the grand ball Friday night, with the interboard golf tourney on Friday and the State championship for the Frank Ryan Cup on Saturday.

The Southland caravan will start from Glendale, Monday afternoon, October 11, via Santa Barbara; the San Francisco Bay District caravans will go via Los Catos and Santa Cruz, and the San Joaquin Valley cars will run via Pacheco Pass and Hollister.

realty man can see that after a moment's thought. It exerts a tremendous influence. It should be fostered. It brings to any community an immeasurable degree of stability which in all probability is its most valuable characteristic.

In this section will be found numerous articles about a greater demand for realty many of which state specifically that it has resulted due to new factories being located and workers employed.

Is it any wonder that men with vision from Chicago bought 300 acres of barren land near the Los Angeles River but four years ago?

In the phrase of the day they knew their onions. They saw the future of a much greater industrial city than most of us dream of.

Every realty man should do all in his power to foster more industries, which will mean larger pay rolls and more money in his pockets.

The Value of Beauty

The Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando Valley are behind a movement to convert the unsightly washes of that area into residential parks.

Nothing will do more to increase property values. That's history. Beauty has commercial value hard to estimate. Recently there returned from Europe a developer of subdivisions whose name for obvious reasons is withheld, but who is well known in Southern California.

He spent thousands of dollars in traveling throughout the show pieces on the continent studying landscape architecture. He is back with a large fund of information, definite plans for beautifying residential areas. He knows the value of such work.

Though the average American hides as a general rule, any show of emotion that same fellow will dig deep into his pocket and pay handsomely for a home amid beautiful surroundings.

CLUB PICKS LEADERS TO OFFICIATE

Filmland Celebrities Will Lay Corner-stone of Sea Breeze Structure

Mrs. Clarence Brown, a social leader in filmland circles, and Priscilla Dean, film star, will lay the corner-stone for the beautiful Sea Breeze Beach Club building located at the foot of California street in Santa Monica, declared G. Francis Harris, secretary of the club. Because of the large number of film celebrities and screen stars who have joined the club Harris said that it was decided to make the laying of the corner-stone a regular movie affair. Among the recent film celebrities to join the club were Charlie and Sid Chaplin.

The work of breaking the ground and laying the corner-stone will be started immediately on completion of the bulkhead, which is expected to be finished within the next six weeks.

Negotiations are nearing completion to establish the KFQZ broadcasting station of Hollywood on the roof of the beach club just as soon as it is completed. Secretary Harris says that he has been negotiating with Walter King, owner of this broadcasting station, who is highly favorable to installing the plant on the roof of the club.

According to the announcement of Harris, Dudley M. Steele, director of water sports and aquatics, will have two entries in the San Pedro-Catalina Island swim.

Will Subdivide Hayward Ranch in San Fernando

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 23.—The 135-acre Hayward ranch, adjoining the grounds on which the United States Veterans Hospital is located, three miles north of San Fernando has been purchased by Paul N. Wilson and associates of Los Angeles, according to an announcement by Judge E. H. Schwinger who has been in close touch with the property during the past year.

It is planned by the purchasers to subdivide the property and put it on the market in small plots, declared Judge Schwinger.

From the base of the building to the top of the tower it will be 205 feet, the report indicated. Holly street from Marengo to Garfield will be cut through in order to make a wide approach to the City Hall, it is declared. It is expected that the building will be finished next spring. Then the city plans to build a municipal auditorium as a third unit to the civic center movement, officials said.

OBREGON'S WORK PRESAGES FARMING TREND IN MEXICO

Former President Turns Jungle of Wild Yaqui Country into Productive Area

BY LEE SHIPPEY

NAVAJOA (Son. Mex.) Sept. 25.—Eight days after Gen. Alvaro Obregon retired from the Presidency of Mexico and moved out of the beautiful palace at Chapultepec he was living in a tent in the wild Yaqui country, directing a force of men who were hacking their way through the jungle.

Today Gen. Obregon has 10,000 acres of fine land there, marked off by good roads, dotted with the houses of his employees and yielding large crops of rice, wheat, sugar cane and many other things. A thousand men are given employment by that ranch and his associated enterprises; a ranch water plant makes all of his broad acres "strictly modern;" a good school the general built takes care of all the children on the ranch, and every employee knows his childen must attend school; an agricultural experiment station, maintained at the general's expense but operated for the benefit of the entire community, has been established, and along the whole West Coast Gen. Obregon is spoken of as his country's best example.

OBREGON A DOER

"He does not tell us what to do—he shows us," was the way one Mexican expressed it to me. "That is why all of us hope that this ex-President of ours will also be our next President. He is a doer rather than a talker; a simple, democratic man, yet a great leader with a rare gift for constructive work."

No one can travel through this part of Mexico without appreciating the truth of that statement. Though he was trained as a soldier, Gen. Obregon has shown himself to be a man remarkably fitted for constructive business. Before he became President he saw that one of the great needs of his community was a flour mill, so he erected a big and morden flour mill at Navajoa, where he lives. Then his political duties demanded all his time for four years.

SUCCEEDS AS PEACEMAKER

He faced the tremendous task of establishing order in a country which had been torn by eight years of civil wars and reduced almost to chaos. He succeeded in that task in spite of the fact that toward the end of his regime what appeared to be a perfectly planned revolution broke out against him. It was so well organized and was launched at such a propitious moment that at first its success seemed certain. But he put it down so decisively that though there frequently has been talk of revolutions since then, there being a certain element in Mexico who are, as O. Henry put it, conspirators by instinct, no wise or strong man has countenanced them. "If De la Huerta didn't succeeed," they say, "how can anyone else hope to?"

REVOLUTIONARIES ON OUTSIDE

And as to the recent attempt of Gen. Estrada to cross the border near San Diego, they merely shrug their shoulders and smile. "He should thank God," they say, "that he was captured on the American side, for had he come to this side he and his men would not have lasted twenty minutes As you see, there is no revolutionary movement at all in Mexico. It is all among malcontents who are outside the country—and who had best stay outside if they desire to live long. Obregon has showed the way—and now Calles has a long arm."

Yet once peace was established in Mexico this man of war instantly turned to the arts of peace. He was, as Ienacio Gaxiola of Navajoa puts it, like a boy let out of school when he left Chapultepec behind him. He saw that agricultural development was what his country needed, so he went in for agricultural development.

ACTS ON VISIBLE NEEDS

Then, as the Yaqui Valley began to develop, he saw that a flour mill was needed there, too, so he obtained the controlling interest in a co-operative mill and greatly enlarged it. It is a twin mill now, with capacity of 100 tons of rice daily and 200 barrels of flour daily, and at this moment the rice mill is being enlarged and remodeled. The flour mill is as modern as one could find anywhere, making everything from whole-wheat flour to high-patent flour refined by seventeen different processes and aged and bleached by use of violet rays.

When Gen. Obregon sees that anything is needed for the development of the communities in which he is interested he goes right after it. He saw that the lack of construction material and the difficulties of securing it were holding back the Yaqui country—so he organized a mercantile company to supply lumber and building material.

As the use of tractors and power machinery increased he saw that gasoline was too high and too scarce, so he called his neighbors together to organize an association to improve that situation. The result is that the price of gas has been reduced 30 per cent.

DIRECTS IN PERSON

Gen. Obregon's office in Navajoa is a handsome, pleasant building, with broad, cool, flower-hung balconies. But he is so busy building up his country that he has little time to be in it. He is a leader who loves to take the field, to direct in person and keep in close touch with developments. He spends three times as much time at his ranch as he does at home and the ranch shows the effects of his presence. It is hard to believe that two years ago those fertile fields were covered with brush and cactus.

It is generally understood along the West Coast that Gen. Obregon will again be a candidate for President in 19[illegible]. The famous Constitution of 1917 decrees that there shall be no re-elections in Mexico, and in respect to that decree Gen. Obregon never permitted his name to be mentioned as his own successor. But his friends hold that it would not be re-election if he should be elected after having been a plain citizen for four years—that the sole object of the constitutional provision was to prevent any President from becoming a virtual monarch by repeatedly succeeding himself.

LAW AS UNDERSTOOD

All Mexico seems to agree that no election could be defined as re-election unless the candidate were elected to succeed himself—or, at least, nearly all Mexico seems to. Gen. Arnulfo Gomez recently stated that under the Constitution Obregon could not run again, to which Gen. Obregon is reported to have retorted that he certainly could. That ended the argument, and is taken as a sort of announcement of candidacy.

But Gen. Obregon isn't talking politics just now. He is enthusiastically talking development—the things his country needs—irrigation—industries—scientific agriculture. And though he is a very democratic man, not fussy about his clothes and courteous to everyone he meets, rich or poor, he is a man of such great native dignity that no one presses questions on him which he seems not to have heard the first time.

Gen. Obregon's lieutenants are equally sphinx-like. Yesterday I asked Hector Urro if the general would be an active candidate for the Presidency.

"Gen. Obregon is tremendously interested in building up our country and helping our people work out their problems," he said. "He may be counted on to do what is best for our people."

WATER COST FEATURE OF FARM LANDS

Santa Fee Valley Subdivision Head Cites $7.50 Per Acre Foot for Irrigation

One of the striking features of Santa Fe Valley Farms, the farm land sudivision in San Diego county controlled by the Frank Meline Co., is the exceedingly low cost of water to the purchasers of this property, declared Rick Burrows, manager of the farm land department.

"The costs of irrigating water recently published in the agricultural and soil survey of San Diego county, compiled under the supervision of the San Diego Board of Supervisors, co-operating with the San Diego Development Board shows that the estimated yearly average total cost of one acre foot was $26.44. The cost of water on the Santa Fe Valley Farms is only $7.50 per acre foot annually, or less than one-third of the average compiled by these organizations," he declared.

In addition to the exceptionally low cost of the water Burrows points to the equable climate, which stands unsurpassed in any part of the West. Santa Fe Valley Farms was originally a part of the big Rancho Santa Fe.

Burrows declared Santa Fe Valley farms is a three-crop land with every month being a harvest month. "The property," he continued, "is ideal for farming purposes, being located 110 miles south of Los Angeles, thirty miles north of San Diego and only four and one-half miles from Del Mar Beach. Shipping facilities are splendid, with two Santa Fe Railway shipping stations located only five miles away from the farms."

Redlands "Y" Designed by Concern Here

REDLANDS, Sept. 25.—Architects Marston, Van Pelt & Marberry of Los Angeles have been commissioned to prepare the plans for the new Y. M. C. A. building to be erected on East Citrus avenue here.

The firm has the plans well under way. It is proposed to have a Spanish style building with a balcony. A large gymnasium will be included in the structure.

SILVERADO OWNER TO BUILD ROAD

Movement to Subscribe to Fund Needed Launched by Holders of Property

SANTA ANA, Sept. 25.—A $30,000 road-improvement program in Silverado Canyon, backed by virtually all the property owners in that section, has been launched, it was learned today, with the ultimate possibility that another new highway may be projected across the summit of the Santa Ana range, to make Riverside county connections.

That the movement is on foot was affirmed today by county officials, including J. L. McBride, superintendent of highways, and Supervisor Willard Smith of the Fourth District. The ranchers have by no means conquered the formidable financial obstacles in their path.

The landowners propose to finance the road by private subscription, partly aided by an appropriation from the gas-tax fund of the Fourth Superisorial District. Most of the adjacent landowners are said to be nonresidents, some of them reputed to be men of wealth who would be willing to subscribe liberally toward the proposed road in order to develop their Silverado holdings as a playground and recreational spot.

HOLLYWOOD BRANCH OF BOARD IN MEETING

Members of the Hollywood branch of the Los Angeles Realty Board were addressed Wednesday noon at their second luncheon meeting of the season at the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce by President George H. Mayfair Hotel Under Way

Investment of $1,500,000

The Mayfair Hotel, located at Seventh and Hartford streets, is now under construction. It will be finished by February of next year, according to reports. Approximately $500,000 worth of furniture will be used in preparing the hostelry for guests.

NEW HOSTELRY GOING UP

Tourist and Residential Unit at Seventh and Hartford to Open in February

John J. Hernan, nationally known hotel man, has been selected as manager of the Mayfair, new custom built tourist and residential hotel, Seventh and Hartford streets. This announcement was made yesterday by A. J. Neve, vice-president of the Sun Realty Company, operators of the new hostelry.

The building, now in course of construction by H. M. Baruch Company, contractors, will be completed and ready for opening early in February.

This hotel is of Class A construction, thirteen stories in height, with frontage on Seventh, Hartford and Stewart streets. It will contain 340 guest rooms, each with private bath, and will have a garage in connection for the accommodation of over 200 cars. The design was prepared by Curlett and Beelman, local architects, and represents the finest in hotel construction.

The total investment, it is said, exclusive of furnishings, will be close to $1,500,000.

The furnishings, most of which are made to order, are to be supplied by Barker Brothers and represent an additional investment of approximately $500,000.

Contract for San Fernando Work Let Soon

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25.—Indications are that the contract for the streets in the Bakman-Klump improvement district may be awarded not later than October 15, according to information from the Los Angeles City Hall. Streets to be paved in this district are Bakman, Klump, Margate, Otsego and Hesby.

Bids were received last Monday for paving the eleven-mile stretch of Saticoy street from Van Nuys Boulevard to Santa Ana avenue and it is reported that the actual work of improvement will start early next month.

RARE OPPORTUNITY FOR LARGE INVESTOR

It is rare indeed that the owner of a well located Class "A" Office Building—right in the heart of the Downtown Central Business District of Los Angeles, will consider an exchange—

For Sale or Exchange $900,000

There isn't a particle of inflation, as the Owner's statement in our office, shows the earnings now yield better than 6% net on over a Million Dollars. The only indebtedness against the property is a First Mortgage of $350 000.

Will consider up to $300,000 in Exchange in Local Vacant or Improved Business Property—balance cash.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

GLENDALE AREA IS DEVELOPING

Change in Past Few Years Pointed Out

Plans for Highlands Are Delineated

Architectural Body Must Pass Designs

BY AN OBSERVER

According to Carlin G. Smith of the Rondith Corporation, owners and developers of Glendale Highlands, "the estates beautiful," located in the foothills north of Glendale, and adjacent to the exclusive residential Kenneth Road district, today offers the future property owner or resident unlimited home possibilities.

A great transition has taken place in Glendale, but a few years ago a place of great ranchos, its green hills dotted with the live stock of the Dons; it stretched from the Mission San Gabriel on the east to the San Fernando Mission on the west and was known as Verdugo, after Don Jose Maria Verdugo, who came into possession of this great tract January 12, 1798.

EXTENSIVE PLANS

"At Glendale Highlands, we are planning a community that, in fundamentals, will be comparable with its parent. Nothing is being left undone that will make this beautiful hillside property more enjoyable, more livable, and a further credit to the fastest growing city in America there below.

"In the execution of the plan outlined by Mr. Smith," George M. Sunday of the sales organization, added, "we have tried to keep uppermost in our minds the natural beauty of Glendale Highlands. We are not desirous of despoiling the tract with 'fancy ideas' and 'futuristic schemes,' but rather to enhance Nature's great work as we found it when we dug the first spadeful of earth from its slopes.

ARCHITECTURAL LINE

"The creation of an architectural committee, whose sole duty is confined to passing upon the plans furnished us by prospective builders," Mr. Sunday continued, "is a further assurance on our part that homes at Glendale Highlands will conform to the general outline. We have not attempted to put a money restriction on the property. This is too confining. I have found during the last few years home builders more and more eager to appreciate a helping hand in planning their homes; and especially so when they know the restriction is not financially prohibitive, but 'artistic.'"

Plans are rapidly being rushed to commence building eleven homes at Glendale Highlands. Much activity is forecast for this fall; not a little has been done this summer; in fact, Glendale Highlands is ahead of its schedule now in actual sales, Mr. Sunday said.

Porterville Broker Makes Transactions

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 25.—Over $200,000 was involved in two real estate deals reported by George A. H. Farmer, Porterville broker. The property in these transactions is located in Strathmore, north of here, and in Terra Bella, to the south.

Through one deal, B. J. Morey of Strathmore disposed of his seventy-seven-acre orange grove west of Strathmore to A. B. Shuler, in turn taking a new bungalow and apartment house in Hollywood, formerly owned by Mr. Shuler. Mr. and Mrs. Morey are moving to Hollywood.

The twenty-acre orange and olive grove near Terra Bella, known as the Hartman place, was sold to J. J. Smith of Los Angeles.

Residence Property on Hillside Back of Suburb Being Improved

Residences of this character are being built in Glendale Highlands, a tract back of Glendale adjoining the Kenneth Road district. Development plans call for an architectural committee to pass on all houses in order to assure a general artistic tone to the community.

ANNOUNCES OPENING OF FARM TRACT

Improvement Program Under Way to Prepare Land Area for Avocado Growing

The opening of the first unit of avocado land, comprising 860 acres at Vista Acres, located eight miles inland from Oceanside, is announced by Fotheringham & Ormsby, realty firm. In this district there are several thousand available acres suitable for growing avocados.

General improvements are being put in and roads graded to make this district desirable as a residential ranching community.

A. B. Ormsby of the firm early in life at Toronto, Can., built up a large experimental fruit garden. Later he went to Jamaica, in the West Indies, where he conducted further experimental work for six years with subtropical fruits and particularly the avocado, which grows there in jungle profusion.

"The district surrounding Vista from every angle presents the ideal avocado growing location in prolific Southern California," he said. "The soil is exceptionally fertile and there is an abundance of water. Climatic conditions are perfect for subtropical fruits. The land is high and rolling, frost protected and sheltered from winds."

DEMAND FOR RESIDENCES SHOWS GAIN

Increased Activity Noted by Local Firm in High-Class Home Buying

The approach of autumn is witnessing a brisk demand for high-class homes in View Park, the Los Angeles Investment Company's tract on the east slopes of the Baldwin Hills, that commands a magnificent view. At present several homes costing above $25,000 each are under construction.

Although many homes less pretentious than these in dimensions and cost have been built and sold there, officials of the Los Angeles Investment Company pointed out that the market for residences which may be classed as mansions is still strong.

More than $1,000,000 worth of homes make up the construction program at View Park, and officers of the company say that the project is by no means completed.

APARTMENT PROJECT

An apartment building to cost $85,000 will be built at 2500 South Hobart Boulevard for Mrs. William Stacko. The building was designed by Architect Arlos R. Sedgley, and will rise four stories on a site 44x155 feet and will contain ninety-one rooms, divided into fifty-one apartments. Brick construction will be employed with stucco and cast-stone exterior.

CHOOSE INTERCITY ROUTE

City Engineers and Municipal Officials in Agreement on Foothill Boulevard

A route for the new Chevy Chase-Pasadena-Foothill Cities' Boulevard was selected at a meeting last Wednesday in the Los Angeles County Counsel's office, according to P. J. Hayselden, executive secretary of the San Rafael Hills Association.

This subcommittee of city engineers and municipal officials has met many times to discuss routes for this new east and west thoroughfare, and last week the whole committee made a careful inspection of suggested routes, to study the engineering features and other factors involved in locating an important traffic artery," Hayselden said.

"At Wednesday's meeting it was unanimously decided that the following route should be recommended: Beginning at the intersection of Chevy Chase Drive and Glen Oaks Boulevard, east along Chevy Chase Drive to Linda Vista Drive at western city limits of Pasadena, continuing to Linda street and the Aroyo Seco.

"The boulevard will cross the Arroyo Seco on a viaduct to the west end of Washington street in Pasadena, follow Washington street to Eaton Wash, then south to the Pacific Electric right of way, then along both sides of the Pacific Electric to Central avenue in Sierra Madre, follow Central avenue to Santa Anita avenue (double drive) in Arcadia, then south and east to connect with Hillcrest Boulevard in Monrovia.

"There will be a meeting in the Pasadena City Hall on the 29th inst. at 3 p.m., at which time this proposed plan will be presented to the general committee of officials and owners."

STRAIN BACK FROM TRIP NORTHWARD

Notes Keenest Interest in Southern California Real Estate Activity

"How do you do it?" was the question most frequently asked of O. S. Strain, prominent in Los Angeles real estate circles, by the business men of Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and the Northwest, where he spent the greater part of the spring and summer.

"People in other cities have ceased being surprised at the continued growth and unparalleled progress of Los Angeles, Hollywood and of entire Southern California. They seem prepared to hear of new business blocks, fine hotels, magnificent apartment-house homes and the building of residences literally by the square mile," Mr. Strain told an official of the Hollywood branch, Los Angeles Realty Board, "but they wished to know how we had accomplished this marvelous growth in so short a time."

"This question seems easy to answer when we consider our all-year climate, environment-accessibility to mountains, desert, lakes, ocean—natural advantages that make a combination of all-year playground and all-year working conditions unmatched, and have combined to make Southern California the most talked-of, most substantial and fastest growing section in the world."

Right of Way Given Broker Meet Caravan

By special arrangement with Will H. Marsh, head of the State Motor Vehicle Department, all grades on the route to Del Monte, and particularly the Cuesta grades north of San Luis Obispo, will be closed October 12 to all other traffic during the passage of the caravan of the Southern California realty men, en route to the State real-estate convention at the northern resort city.

This was divulged at the meeting of the Los Angeles Realty Board, Southwest Branch, by Cliff W. Clegg, grand marshal of the brokers' caravan.

PASADENA, Sept. 25.—Formal opening of the new $750,000 clubhouse of the Pasadena Athletic and Country Club will take place October 19, when a week's celebration will be opened by a dinner for all members.

Taylor and Sons had the general building contract and the interior decorating is now nearing completion under the direction of George Hunt.

Club facilities will include several dining-rooms, women's quarters, lounges, writing, card and billiard rooms, a library, three floors of rooms for resident members, and elaborate kitchen equipment. In addition there is a large athletic department with Sam Bailey as men's instructor and Aileen Allen in charge of women's athletics.

The club is owned by the members, and within a year active work will be started on a country club to be operated in conjunction with the downtown clubhouse, it was declared here today.

AVOCADO LAND—The Big Income Producer!

Hill No. 10

A Profitable Producer and Fortune Maker

—located in the very heart of one of Los Angeles' most substantial suburban homesite districts with an environment unsurpassed by any other locality.

—has more than 800 profitable, heavy-bearing Avocado trees, which, literally, are heavily loaded with the 1926 crop.

—fruit will be harvested beginning in December.

—during the month of July this year, the price range on Avocados, paid by the California Avocado Growers' Exchange, was from 40c to 52c per pound.

—the tendency has been for a gradual increase in price with the advent of late fall and winter fruit.

—"Hill No. 10" may be purchased as a whole, consisting of 22.21 acres, or may be divided into two parcels of 9.78 and 12.43 acres each.

—it is offered on terms of 1-5th down and the remainder in five equal annual payments, at a price which is probably $2,000 LESS per acre than any other grove of its kind in California.

—it is adjoining a famous Avocado grove which was sold recently for $6000 an acre. It is very close to another grove which has been priced at $10,000 an acre. It should double in value in the next few years and provide a very satisfactory income every year of its life.

—the trees on Hill No. 10 are among the most highly favored varieties, producing fruit of very high quality. They range in age from three to eight years and now are ready for a long life of profitable production.

An Exceptionally Safe and Profitable Investment for Professional or Business Man

—first, because Land is the most valuable commodity in any growing community, and No. 10 is ideally situated for suburban homesites regardless of income from the Avocados.

—second, because of the perpetual or life-time income to be derived from these trees.

—third, because no experience is necessary to make a success here. The trees, properly irrigated, are working continuously for their owner. The upkeep: irrigating and harvesting, will cost relatively little and will be done, if desired, by this company.

—fourth, because Avocados, according to an authority, are "doubling the value of land." And improved income land is the safest investment on earth.

—fifth, Hill No. 10 will be a "good buy" at any time, but a particularly profitable buy if bought before October 15th. After that date the 1926 crop will not be included in the purchase price.

—near this grove is a five-acre grove also heavy with fruit. Its owner refused $7500 for the 1926 crop.

—for detailed information regarding this valuable property: location, price, etc., fill in coupon and mail at once.

HIGH SCHOOL TO BE READY SOON

First Ventura Unit Opening Set for November

Building is Part of Group to Cost $650,000

Site for Structures Covers Twenty Acres

VENTURA, Sept. 25.—Completion of a $250,000 two-story and basement main building, designed to be the first unit of a $650,000 group of new structures for the Ventura Union High School here, is scheduled for early in November, according to announcement today by officials of the Clarence P Day Corporation, Pasadena general contractors. Architects John C Austin and Frederic M. Ashley of Los Angeles drew plans for the high school group.

The building now rising is of reinforced concrete construction, fireproof throughout, and is about three times the size of the present high school structure. Work on the roof is being completed and only interior plastering and finishing remain to be done. Classrooms for all subjects will be contained in the main building, besides an auditorium seating 1500 persons.

Harmonizing with the general architecture of other Ventura buildings, the new high school group will be of Spanish renaissance type of design throughout, plans prepared by Architects Austin and Ashley reveal. Included in the group to be built will be a chemistry and physics unit, a new gymnasium, grandstand and training quarters. The site covers about twenty acres within the Ventura city limits, and now is improved only with the original high school building, which already is inadequate to meet the needs of this rapidly growing city.

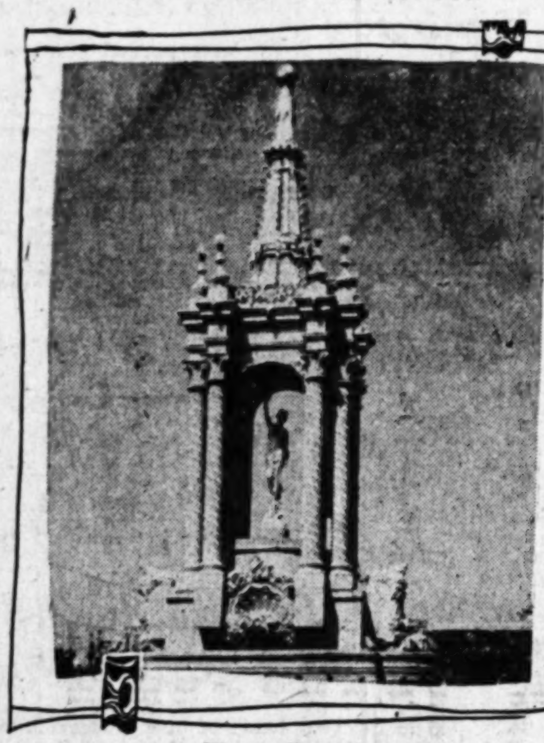
To Those Who Served



Victory Fountain

Citizens of West Long Beach have erected this memorial and presented it to the city. It is dedicated to the American Legion, and given in remembrance of those who participated in the World War.

MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN BUILT

Long Beach Erects Decorative Monument to Those Who Participated in the World War

Dedicated to the American Legion, "in appreciation of the silent ones who made the supreme sacrifice, and the living ones who fought for God and country," the new Victory Fountain at Long Beach, occupies a prominent site at the intersection of Chestnut Place and "The Walk of a Thousand Lights."

It was designed by Edwardes Sproat and built under his supervision by S. W. Black, cement contractor.

One of the many problems confronting Sproat and Black in erecting this municipal monument, was to obtain material for its construction that would withstand water, weather, and stain, they said.

Standing forty-five feet high, illuminated with flasher lights of many colors, playing on sprays and cataracts of water falling from modeled figures, the Victory Fountain was created of Monolith plastic waterproof cement and trimmed with art stone and vitreous tile.

More than five tons of steel bars were used in reinforcing the pour which forms the foundations and main framework of the fountain.

The fountain was financed by property owners of West Long Beach and presented to the city with the understanding that water, lights and maintenance would be furnished, Contractor Black declared.

The basement beneath the fountain and outer pond which stores the water lifted by automatic pumps to feed the sprays and falls, is below sea-level, so extra precautions had to be taken to make this underground room waterproof. The basement contains a 600-gallon water tank and the pumps.

A revolving ball of prismatic mirrors rests on the apex of the fountain tower, and at night the flashing lights and sparkling sprays are reflected in it.

The tenth district comprises all boards in the San Gabriel and San Fernando valleys, in addition to Glendale, Pasadena, and South Pasadena.

SOUTHLAND CHOICE FOR LAND SALES

Miller & Lux Names Local Man to Direct Disposal of Large Acreage

Southern California has been selected as the best territory in which to dispose of approximately 500,000 acres of farm lands owned by Miller Lux and located in Stanislaus, Merced, Fresno and Madera counties. Charles G. Patrick of Los Angeles has been named sales director according to Sales Manager A. R. Bishop of San Francisco.

Patrick, has resided in Los Angeles eight years and was for several years general manager of Merrick & Ruddick, Inc.

"Miller & Lux land sales have been active during the spring and summer, more than 70,000 acres having been disposed of in the West San Joaquin Valley, as well as stock ranches in Nevada aggregating 125,000 acres," Bishop said. "There has been more demand for California diversified farm lands in the past six months than at any time during the last three years. Southern California, in my opinion, offers more opportunities for selling farm lands in this State than any other section."

The house was built entirely of boulders with the exception of the roof. The stones were each hand-selected and polished. There is a garage also built of stones, and surrounding the house thirteen acres, almost all of which has now been planted to orange trees by Mr. Payne himself.

The exterior, with the brick painted, has been made attractive by its simple arrangement of openings and treatment of brick work.

A setting of wild shrubs and clumps of shade trees surrounding an informal lawn, with a little flower garden tucked away in some corner, would constitute the landscaping.

The design is by Howard S. Richmond, entered in the competition held by the Common Brick Manufacturers' Association. The house can be built on a fifty-foot lot and need not cost over $4500.

TIMELY HINTS ON HOME FINANCE

Authority Outlines Ways to Prevent Foreclosure When You Cannot Pay Interest

BY EDWARD R. DEWEY

(Mr. Dewey is a member of the firm of Dewey & Kaiser, mortgage brokers. He is an authority on real estate financin.—Ed.)

In previous articles I have told you first, to face the music, and, second, not to make promises when you are unable to meet payment on the principal or interest on your mortgage or trust deed.

In this article I wish to emphasize the necessity of keeping in personal touch with the lender at all times during your period of delinquency. Go to his office at least once a month. Say, "Here I am. I thought I would come around to tell you about things. Conditions are the same," if they are, or, "Conditions are better," or whatever the case may be.

Don't forget that your failure to live up to your obligations is working a hardship on the lender. It is not only the decent but usually the profitable course, when the lender has become seriously inconvenienced by your failures, to offer to compensate him for his trouble. Offer voluntarily to pay a higher rate of interest for the time that you are in arrears. The difference between 8 per cent and 12 per cent per annum for one month on a $3000 loan is only $10—a small penalty indeed if it saves your home.

Finally, put yourself in the lender's place. You have had people who have owed you money. Some of them have met this condition manfully, others have acted the part of a coward. Try to remember your feelings under different kinds of treatment and then treat your creditor as you were treated by those people on whom you yourself were easiest.

PROGRAM OF NEW HOMES SCHEDULED

Ponet Terrace Head Tells of Construction Work to be Started on Tract

With plans completed and accepted and several others in preparation to build a group of new homes on Ponet Terrace, the C. E. Kenyon organization announced last week that building activities are rapidly gaining new momentum.

B. A. L. Heimann expects to start construction on his new home on Live Oak Drive next week. S. Grauman, prominent oil man from the Southwest, is having his architect design a new home to be built on an extensive piece of ground fronting on Live Oak Drive and running through the block to Wild Oak Drive. Mrs. Margaret Hellings is planning to break ground for her new home on Live Oak Drive within a few days.

The conduit system for the street-lighting system is reported practically completed and the installation of the ornamental electroliers will start within the next few days.

On account of its location, surroundings, proximity to business and recreational center, and its quick accessibility, Ponet Terrace is attracting motion-picture stars.

Business and professional men have already shown a decided preference for Ponet Terrace and many of them are already established in beautiful homes on this group of picturesque knolls rising above the intersection of Western avenue and Los Feliz Boulevard, on the western boundary of Griffith Park.

Progress at Girard Shown in Late Report

That the building activity in the town of Girard, in the Western San Fernando Valley, is increasing is shown by a report received by Victor Girard, community builder, from Superintendent of Construction H. N. Logan.

It was pointed out by Mr. Logan that during the first nine months of this year, sixty-four permits were issued for Girard homes by the Los Angeles building department, involving $100,000 in construction costs.

This brings the total number of buildings constructed in the community since it was founded, up to 225. These include residences that are now occupied and many business structures valued in excess of $800,000, Mr. Logan said.

San Fernando Valley to Pay Huge Tax Here

LANKERSHIM, Sept. 25.—This year San Fernando Valley in the form of taxes will pay into the Los Angeles City Treasury $2,226,929.88, based on the new tax levy, according to recent figures compiled by tax experts in the valley. The figures are for all of the annexation district with the exception of Hansen Heights, Chatsworth, and the Griffith ranch.

The payment to be made by Van Nuys, Owensmouth, and Reseda in the third waterworks district will be $1,571,937. The Mission lands of District No. 2 will pay $185,925. The Mulholland Highway district is listed at $79,695. The Lankershim zone will pay a tax of $342,456, while the Girard district is listed at $42,264. The Van Nuys Road Improvement district is scheduled to pay $4650.

China's green tea crop this year will weigh 11,000,000 pounds.

BOARD URGES CITY TO PAY FOR LIGHT

Declaring that the lighting of all main thoroughfares in the city of Los Angeles is not merely for the benefit of adjacent property, but for the benefit of the city as a whole, the Los Angeles Realty Board, Southwest Branch, at its last regular meeting unanimously adopted a resolution recommending to the City Council that the present be amended so that the costs of maintenance for street lighting on all main avenues be borne by the city of Los Angeles out of general funds, instead of being levied against property adjacent as is now done.

MISSION PLAY BUILDING

Architects Dodd & Richards have been commissioned to prepare plans for altering and completing the Mission Play Theater at San Gabriel. It is planned to spend $150,000 for the completion of the building and $75,000 for furnishings and equipment, they said. The Mission Play is presented for a period of twenty weeks. During the remainder of the year the auditorium will be devoted to motion pictures and legitimate productions, authorities announced.

Crystal Pier Club Fostered by Realty Men

Sponsors of the Crystal Pier Club have purchased Crystal Pier outright, together with necessary beach frontage on which to build. This fact is responsible for the steady public demand memberships are enjoying, according to Ralph E. Ford, president.

Many realty men have been attracted to the club, due to the connection of such members of the realty fraternity with its founding as C. W. Grant of Kells & Grant, Ralph E. Ford and Ernest A. Becker, Jr., of Ford & Becker, Jack Lawrence, and Randall P. Phillips, it is said.

A new and attractively illustrated folder has just been prepared by the club setting forth in detail its organization and other features.

INGERSOLL ON VACATION

Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board, is enjoying a vacation at his home, Lomita del Sol Rancho, in La Habra Heights. He will return to his offices within a few days, it was announced yesterday by other board officials.

25 Years of Responsibility Behind Each Sale

RIVERSIDE HAS UPWARD SWING

Transformation from Arid Waste Cited

Business Blocks Rising in Valley City

Home Construction is Mark of Progress

BY J. S. LINDSLEY

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 25.—On a spring day in 1870 three men reined in their horses beside a narrow river sixty miles east of Los Angeles. Around them there were barren hills and arid plains, thickly studded with cacti, sagebrush and other plants of the desert. With the exception of a few small shacks occupied by Indians there were no signs of human habitation.

But these men at the moment did not see the brush-covered wasteland or feel the oppressive silence. They saw instead a wide fertile valley, set at intervals with cultivated farms, surrounding a town whose inhabitants had been drawn from the crowded metropolitan centers of the East and Middle West to a new land, where the possibilities for success were limited only by the aspirations and hardihood of the pioneers who settled there.

Those men were Dr. James P. Greves, E. G. Brown and Dr. K. D. Shugart. They were the founders of Riverside and today their dreams are realized to an extent greater than they ever expected.

Where they visioned a small town of a few hundred inhabitants there is now a city with a populace of more than 80,000 persons. Where they saw a few scattered stores and shops there are now blocks of modern business buildings, containing the various industries which contribute to the prosperity of Riverside.

GREAT DEVELOPMENT

Instead of the handful of small farms for which the pioneer founders of Riverside hoped, there are now, fifty-six years later, thousands of acres of citrus and deciduous orchards and grain and hay fields, which each season are bringing millions of dollars into the city and county.

Probably no year in the history of Riverside has seen a more marked development in almost every department than has the twelve months just passed. Literally entire blocks which had changed little in recent years have been built up with business structures.

Such a block is Market street between Ninth and Tenth streets. Last year at this time Market street was an artery lined with old-fashioned residences and a few small shops.

Since that time, however, approximately $300,000 has been spent by local men in a building program which has transformed Market street into one of the principal business sections of the city. The latest building in this Market-street block, a hotel being erected by Sidney E. Potter, is now nearing completion, and will be formally opened within a month, Mr. Potter declared today.

It was in October, last, that the Citrus Belt Building and Loan Association, an organization headed by Frank H. Wells, moved into the building just north of the new Potter Hotel. Almost simultaneously adjoining buildings were occupied by the local branches of the Alvin H. Frank Company and the DeFremery Company, both bonding houses which recently extended their activities to Riverside.

TREND UPWARD

While Market street has been the scene of the most concerted development during the last year, other sections of the city also have shown decided gains. At a cost of $35,000 A. W. Wade, local motor-car dealer, erected a new salesrom on South Main street, entering a section hitherto occupied only by residences. The formal opening of this structure was held last month.

What was particulraly satisfactory to most Riversiders was the removal of the Pacific Electric car barns from Main street, where they have been located for more than twenty years.

For the last decade these barns, characterized as unsightly and at inharmony with their surroundings, have been the target for criticism from service and civic organizations.

Yielding at last to continued protests, the Pacific Electric Company agreed to remove this structure, and their razing has just been completed. A new building to house the street cars is now being completed in a section more remote from Riverside's business district.

Rapid progress is being made on the new depot of the Santa Fe Railway Company, which is being erected at an approximate cost of $100,000. The project was started several months ago, and promise is held out that it will be ready for occupation before January.

The mission style is dominant in practically all these new buildings. Architects drawings of the Santa Fe depot call for a stucco-finished structure with ornamental windows faced with grill work, and an elaborately tiled roof.

Construction of a $100,000 addition to the historic Mission Inn was started by Frank A. Miller, master of the inn, a short time ago. Situated across the street from the main hotel, the addition will be used to house the employees of the hostelry, and will contain 100 rooms. In its basement will be the power plant of the hotel, formerly housed under the main building.

When this work is completed, Mr. Miller plans to erect an additional section on the hotel proper, providing room for 100 more guests, he said.

Notable among the building achievements of the last year was the completion of the $150,000 Neighbors of Woodcraft Home near Arlington, a suburb of Riverside. It required nine months to erect this structure, which will provide a home for more than 400 members of the lodge. It replaces a smaller building which has been in use by the Neighbors of Woodcraft for the last ten years.

Total business building for the year ending September 1, 1926, was about $750,000. When residence and other building is added to this the total is brought to nearly $2,225,000, the reports indicate.

NEW REALTY OFFICE OPENS IN INGLEWOOD

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 18.—Herbert N. Clarey, Inglewood pioneer and for years prominent in the community's civic and commercial development, has opened a real estate, investment and insurance office at 133 North Market street, in the Hooke Building. Because of his large property interests here, Mr. Clarey has been a member of the Inglewood Realty Board since its inception, it is declared. He was, for a number of years, a director and chairman of the streets and highways committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Home Building in Huntington Park Has Rise

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 25.—Presaging the greatest home-building year in the history of this city, permits for dwelling construction here are being issued in large numbers.

Verne S. Landreth has started a five-room dwelling and garage at 487 South Arbutus street, costing $3500. Mrs. G. H. and Myrtle Roberts are building a $2200 four-room residence at 1509 East Olive street; John F. Hamrock has started construction of two residences on South Malabar street, one to cost $2300 and the other, $2100; Fred J. Woods has started altering his residence on South Templeton street, to cost $2650; G. Grokenberger is building a four-room residence on California street to cost $2300; and Harry Newman and S. E. Wilson are starting a five-room residence at 466 South Hood avenue.

Twenty-three New Members in Realty Board

Resumption of activities of the Los Angeles Realty Board after the summer vacation season was marked by the addition of twenty-three new members to the organization, according to an announcement made by President George H. Coffin, Jr.

The new members include Albert A. Lawrence, Wilson & Ramsey, B. P. Hargrave Organization, Orsatti & Company., Victor Polakow, Irving Messinger, C. E. Kenyon Organization, Ben Taylor, Guy M. Bunch, Harold J. Perkins Land Company., Woodward & Casady, H. C. Seymour, John A. Quinn, Lentzner & Anderson, Golden Valley Development Company, Inc., Thomas J. Curtis & Company, E. S. CONTRACTS SPINACH CROP

Porterville Plant Ready to Handle Tonnage Harvested From Two Hundred Acres

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 25.—Of interest to ranchers of the Porterville district is the announcement that the Fred B. Neuhoff Cannery Company, with its principal plant in Porterville, will contract for between 150 and 200 acres of spinach with farmers near here.

The spinach will be processed at the local plant this winter. Extra equipment for this type of canning was added at close of the peach season the latter part of September. About 24,000 square feet of building has been completed at the plant this summer as part of a building program totaling $75,000.

The spinach will be planted after December 15 and will be harvested shortly after March 1. It will be canned at the local plant, the run lasting about six weeks, with a large force employed. This will add a month and a half to the local cannery season.

About three times as many apricots as last year were handled this season, about 2500 tons in all. The peach pack is expected to total about 5000 tons, with about ten extra days of hard work being required to complete the season.

Between 400 and 800 employees have been busy with the peaches.

MODEL HOME CLOSING IS ANNOUNCED

Dwelling Will be Open Today for Last Time Realty Head Declares

The Westwood Hills model home will today, for the last time, be open as a public exhibit. This will mark the end of one of the most spectacularly successful model-home exhibits in the history of western real estate. Announcement two weeks ago that the home would soon be closed brought hundreds of extra visitors daily since that time and Harold Janss of the Janss Investment Company, sponsors of the project, said he expects today to be the largest in number of visitors since the opening of the home. A total of 75,000 people is said to be a conservative estimate of the number of visitors the home has had to date.

The home has served a double purpose, according to Janss organization officials, in that it offered an excellent example of California home construction and at the same time is visual evidence of the type of construction encouraged around the new University of California site in Westwood Hills. The home is but a few hundred feet from the campus site and one block off Wilshire Boulevard, which it faces. Immediately it is closed as a public exhibition the home will be placed on the market, it was announced.

San Diego Has Speaking Meet at Recent Fair

Under joint auspices of the San Diego Realty Board and the California Real Estate Association, a county home-town contest, limited to brokers or salesmen, was conducted on the 17th inst. at the San Diego County Fair. Eight towns entered, and the first honors went to C. D. Eddy of National City; second place to W. C. Harland of Coronado, and third was a tie between Edward A. Biby of Encinitas and Pansy Claggett of Escondido.

The prize was a loving cup engraved with the map of San Diego county and each town winning had its name engraved thereon. John W. Snyder, State director, whose father was a member of the old San Diego Real Estate Exchange fifty years ago, was the donor of the trophy and in an address presented it to the winner. "It is the aim and ideal of this contest," Mr. Snyder declared, "to create a greater interest in, and knowledge of, our county and its resources so our people can better sell it to others."

Tract Opening Planned Today Near Burbank

The first unit of ten acres in a twenty-two-acre tract near Burbank will be opened today by the Wagner-Thoreson Company. The new subdivision will be known as First National City, being directly across from the studios of that name.

Workmen are busy putting in street improvements, the Wagner-Thoreson organization declared. A second unit of twelve acres will be opened later. The brokers placed a valuation of $400,000 on the entire holding. It belongs to Vesta M. McFarland, but is operated through the California Trust Company the brokers said.

INDUSTRIAL CHAIRMAN LEAVES ON TRIP EAST

William H. Daum, industrial division chairman of the California Real Estate Association, accompanied by Mrs. Daum and four children, has left on an eastern trip. Mr. Daum will return via Del Monte where he will address the State convention.

PREDICTS BUMPER CR

Former Real Estate Commissioner Pr for Optimistic Outlook

This year will be a bumper year for California and live stock. The great central valley is making a and is in the limelight, according to E. T. Keiser, president of Company and former State Real Estate Commissioner.

"Weather conditions have been favorable and Sacramento Valley is prosperous. Many crops already harvested have brought profitable returns to farmers and orchardists. The production of cling peaches in Sutter and Yuba counties alone will be about 120,000 tons. The canneries have been very busy for many weeks.

"Shipments of deciduous fruit from upper California have been heavy this season, and grapes are now being rushed to eastern markets. Wheat shipped or in storage is satisfactory. Rice is now being harvested, the greatest production for many years, and will be disposed of at good prices.

"Sutter Basin had 2600 acres in sugar beets this year which averaged well per acre. The yield of cling peaches from our young three-year orchards averaged over six tons to the acre. Seed peas were profitable. Sheep and turkeys are now being fed in the grain fields.

"Sacramento, Marysville and other valley cities are already benefiting materially from the prosperous agri- [illegible]

Valley Ranch is Equipping With Incubator

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25.—J. T. Milligan of the California White Leghorn Breeding Farm is equipping an eight and one-half-acre unit on the Sunshine Ranch with a mammoth incubator which is expected to increase the capacity to 15,000 chicks by next January, according to an announcement made by the manager. Total cost of improvements will be $2000, it is declared.

Mr. Milligan's hens entered in the California Farm Bureau egg laying contest at Santa Cruz are leading for the eleventh consecutive month by a margin of 125 eggs, he said. Total number of eggs laid by ten pullets so far is 2313 and indications there will be an average of 250 eggs per bird. Pullet No. 181 has laid 272 eggs to date and is expected to produce 300 eggs or better in the year's test, Mr. Milligan pointed out.

You, who are about to build...

Kindly stand by while we broadc another message to your Archit

Dear Mr. Architect:

If you are of the older school in Los Angeles, you recall the building of this handsome home on West Adams . . . at a time when this was Los Angeles' most aristocratic residence street, 'way back in 1913.

You recall that here, for the first time, there was used an entirely new kind of lath . . . BUTTONLATH, a solid plaster panel that gave to the walls new strength, new thickness, new solidity, new qualities of fire-proofing, moisture-proofing, sound-proofing, insulation against heat and cold, and sound-deadening power.

Since then you have seen twenty-million yards of this improved lath used . . . in the magnificent Los Angeles high school . . . in the beautiful St. Catherine Hotel at Catalina . . . in hundreds of public buildings, hospitals, schools . . . in thousands of homes.

And haven't you been delighted to discover, with the passing of the years, that this improved lath, which offers so many qualities that ordinary lath lacks, is so economical that whether your plans call for a 300-room apartment house, or a 3-room bungalow, you can give the owner the benefit of BUTTONLATH'S demonstrated advantages?

We know that you have . . . and that you will be glad to advise anyone who plans to build to write for this remarkable free let, which tells interesting story, such a valuable about what of homebuilders learned about wa

And on outside walls you have a strong, rigid, fire-resistant, waterproof, windproof, soundproof plaster sheathing that adds strength and beauty to your stucco.

Building Activity Here is Forcing Demand Upward on Materials

With increasing demand being manifested throughout Southern California for high-grade building materials, and with construction activity calling for an unprecedented amount of terra cotta and face brick, production operations at the Date street plant of the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company are virtually taxing the capacity of the establishment, according to officials of the clay products concern.

Every department at the plant is turning out large quantities of materials, in response to the rising tide of building activity in this section, it was said. The demand for better quality in building materials is being show particularly in the terra cotta face brick divisions. Many of the large structures now being erected in Los Angeles and outlying communities are making use of products of the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company and its affiliated concern, Gladding, McBean & Co.

BEAN CROP THRESHING IS STARTED

Largest Planting in San Fernando Valley Area to Give Big Yield

Supt. W. F. Brown of Walnut Acre Farms, a Victor Girard development in the Western San Fernando Valley, announced that threshing of the lima-bean crop had started last week in the 700-acre field. This is the largest planting of beans in the valley and, although the seeding was planted between the rows of walnut trees, the crop will average something like twenty sacks of 100 pounds each to the acre.

Although not all the beans have been cut, it is estimated that with the favorable weather conditions the last of the harvest will be threshed and in the warehouse by October 1. Harvest here, as elsewhere throughout the valley this season, is about two weeks earlier than usual, which should give favorable weather for curing.

This crop, with the walnut crop which is to be harvested in a few weeks, will be marketed by the Small Farms Company and the proceeds applied to the interest charged the buyers. This plan of operation was worked out by Victor Girard to make the development of the property progressive and lasting, and the company retains possession of the property for three years.

Large Scale Home Selling to be Started

One of the first movements, designed with the view of selling homes on a big scale in Southern California, will be inaugurated on Sunday, October 3, when a unit of ten five-room stucco homes will be sold by the J. B. Ransom Corporation, it is declared.

These homes, now rapidly nearing completion, occupy both sides of Colegrove avenue, just east of Vail avenue and a short block from Whittier Boulevard, in the western section of Montebello. They adjoin Montebello Park, now being sold off by the Ransom organization.

BIDS TO BE CALLED

The Los Angeles Board of Education will call for bids soon to build a two-story grammar school building at 1625 South San Pedro street. Reinforced concrete slab system of construction will be employed throughout, and it will cover an area 130x194 feet and will contain twenty-two classrooms.

NEW DEVICE AIDS OUTPUT

Installation of one piece of machinery has increased the production capacity of the roofing division of the Los Angeles Paper Manufacturing Company by 50 per cent, according to N. L. Binker, director of sales.

This device, known as a vapor circulator, while simple enough in outward appearance, performs an all-important function in the stepping-up of roofing manufacture, and it works automatically, requiring no watching from the time it is turned on in the morning until the power is cut off at night. In the first run roofing output jumped from 2400 to 3600 tons, Mr. Brinker said.

"In processing the rolls of felt with asphalt to make the finished roofing it is necessary to pass the seemingly endless strips of material over a long row of huge revolving drums charged with live steam," he continued.

"The dryer the steam, the faster the rolls can be turned out. The new vapor circulator works on a vacuum principal extracting the excess moisture from the steam offsetting condensation caused by the contact of the steam with cooler air as it is whirled in the rollers to dry the traveling strips of felt.

"This process keeps the steam dry and live continuously and enables the roofing operators to keep their conveyors rolling at capacity speed."

ALHAMBRA KILNS RUSHED

Construction work on the new $100,000 clay-products plant of Alhambra Kilns, Inc., at Alhambra, is progressing rapidly, according to E. W. Ekstrand, general manager.

"Every effort is being made to rush the plant to completion," said Mr. Ekstrand. "An unusually heavy fall demand for our roofing tile and floor tile makes it imperative that production start at the new plant according to schedule, about November 1.

"We will then have a total capacity triple that of our present Santa Monica plant and will be able not only to fill our local orders but also to make prompt carload shipments to Texas, Florida, Hawaii and other points where we enjoy a steady business. The plant is to be the last word in modern ceramic production."

AUTO BUILDING FINISHED

The John M. Cooper Company, firm of architects and builders, have completed a six-story and basement reinforced concrete office structure for the Union Automobile Insurance Company, headed by Mr. J. W. Walt, at the corner of Sixth and Loomis streets.

On the first floor of the new building are the headquarters of the insurance concern the upper floors being designed for professional offices and lofts. There are two basement floors especially designed for automobile storage. These floors are accessible to the two streets by ramps and have a total capacity of 450 cars, John M. Cooper said.

The building is designed to carry six additional stories. The cost of the work already completed is $800,000.

Theater Unit for Redlands is Projected

REDLANDS, Sept. 25.—A theater building, to cost more than $20,000, will be built at the northeast corner of State and Sixth streets, it was announced today. The building will be a part of the West Coast Theaters System, the report indicated.

It will take the place of several small, one-story structures and it was declared that contracts for excavation and hauling of dirt have been let and that a lease has been taken on the property on which the building will stand.

Wholesale Men Take Lease on New Storeroom

The co-partnership of Samuel H. Cartman and Julius Levy, pants and shirt jobbers, has extended its business by taking a lease on larger and more convenient quarters at 822 South Los Angeles street, a one-story building.

This move from 407 South Los Angeles street, according to Mr. Levy, enables the firm to increase its line of goods and places it in a much more advantageous position in wholesale circles.

Six-Story Project Ready

Designed for Six More Floors

The Union Automobile Insurance Company building at Sixth and Loomis streets has been completed. While it now rises six stories, the John M. Cooper Company, architects and builders, declared that it was constructed to carry six more at a future date.

FACTORY TO BE BUILT ON EAST NINTH

Will House Sheet Metal and Jobbing Business of Emil Brown Company

Plans to build a new $100,000 factory and warehouse to contain the sheet-metal manufacturing and jobbing business of the Emil Brown Company, now located at 300 East Ninth street, were announced yesterday by Mr. Brown, the head of the company.

An industrial site with a 400-foot frontage on Central avenue, and 400 feet on Sixty-third street, running through to Sixty-second, was recently purchased from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Brown announced. The property is amply provided with shipping connections, having spur tracks from both the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads. This was one of the essential requirements in its selection.

The Emil Brown Company was established in Los Angeles in 1908. Expansion of business made it necessary to move from the then location at 114 East Ninth street. In 1923 Mr. Brown built and moved his business to its present location in the Emil Brown Building. This gave the company six times its former capacity. The new plans call for a series of buildings affording eight times the capacity of the present, when all units are completed.

Lindsay Plant Taken Over by Fruit Packer

LINDSAY, Sept. 25.—T. E. Anderson, shipper of the Lindsay district, has completed a deal whereby he has taken over the Lindsay Co-operative Packing Plant No. 1 for the approaching Emperor grape season. Mr. Anderson recently sold his house used by the American Fruit Growers, Inc., to that organization.

Ample floor space of the Co-operative plant will lend itself to Mr. Anderson's plans for packing the 100 cars he has signed up for this season, also permitting him to handle considerable more, he said.

Branch Board Plans Picnic in Pasadena

Del E. Timbrook, special entertainment chairman, Southwest Branch, Los Angeles Realty Board, announced completion of arrangements for the annual picnic of that body at Brookside Park, Pasadena, Saturday, October 2.

This year's picnic is to be the greatest entertainment of its nature ever staged by the Southwest Branch, and the whole of Southwest Los Angeles, citizens and realty men, are cordially invited to participate in the festivities, Mr. Timbrook said.

OWENSMOUTH LIBRARY

Bids are being received by the Los Angeles Board of Library Directors for building a branch library building at Owensmouth. It will be a one-tosry wood-frame and stucco building with tile roofing and according to Architect Armond Monaco, will cost about $10,000.

MACHINERY EXHIBITORS TAKE SPACE

Southern California Plants to be Heavily Represented at Road Show

An especially heavy representation of Southern California machinery builders in the list of exhibitors already signed up for the second annual All-Western Road Show, which opens in San Francisco on October 7, was noted yesterday in reports received from the exposition officials in the northern city.

According to these reports, the Southern California displays are expected to cover the entire field of road-building machinery.

The Madsen Iron Works of Los Angeles will have one of the most pretentious exhibits, a miniature paving plant which is an exact duplicate in everything but size of the regular portable equipment made by the concern.

The tiny machine will be driven by a small motor which enables it to turn out concrete or asphalt paving mixed in exact proportions in a manner designed to astonish spectators during the big show.

An unusual feature of this year's exhibit, according to show officials, lies in the fact that a major proportion of the 140,000 square feet of floor space allotted to the road-making machinery has been requisitioned by Southern California concerns.

Large Plant is Under Way Near Redlands

REDLANDS, Sept. 25.—One of the largest and most interesting buildings in the Yucaipa Valley is that being erected on the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway between here and Yucaipa City for the King Beverage Company. It is a big cold-storage plant and the home of a cider-making concern.

Freight Depot in Huntington Park Prospers

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 25.—Since the Santa Fe Railway Company has established a freight station at Fifty-sixth and Malabar streets, more than 1,500,000 pounds of freight in less than carload lots has been handled in three months, according to Arthur L. Cooper, agent in charge.

The company is purchasing land to the north side of the station between its right of way and Malabar street, and this will be available for spur tracks when it becomes necessary to enlarge the present station, Mr. Cooper said.

Realty Class to Start Soon in Hollywood

Plans for a realty class to be conducted by the West Hollywood Realty Board were consummated Tuesday evening. The first session of the twenty-six weeks' course will take place in the board offices, 8273 Santa Monica Boulevard, on the evening of October 4.

FACE BRICK ...meeting every demand of modern architecture.

39 years ago, the first kilns of this organization were fired.

Architecture has changed since then... progressed. New ideas and new methods have been introduced. Theories have been revolutionized. Buildings are made more beautiful...more permanent. Sterner demands are made of building materials.

Yet Face Brick today is a more favorite material than ever. As modern architecture has made new demands, it has met them. As the architect has conceived new ideas, new effects, it has materialized them. It is significant that we are furnishing more Face Brick for Western buildings than ever before.

CITIES DEMAND FARMING LANDS

Population Rise in State Forcing Subdivision

Intensive Agriculture is Urged to Meet Needs

Fontana Man Sees Groves as Future Town Units

The character of Southern California is changing rapidly from the predominantly agricultural and horticultural type to a distinctively industrial civilization, according to A. B. Miller, president of the Fontana Farms Company, and this change is speedily forcing a more intensive cultivation of the soil than was considered necessary or feasible ten years ago. Basing his prediction on a continuation of the population influx from the East and Middle West, this observer maintained that the city population from Pomona to the sea will rapidly devour every tract of land at present agriculturally productive, and that this expansion of the cities and their suburbs will compel the San Bernardino Valley to intensify its production in order to take care of the demands of the industrialized and residential area to the west.

"Southern California has a land area large enough to increase its agricultural output many times if it had the water," said Mr. Miller, "but the rigorously limited water supply forces the cities, their residential districts, and their industries to expand at the expense of agriculture and horticulture, hitherto the leading producers of Southern California. Unless we can develop more water, every 10,000 persons added to the population of Southern California must reduce the productive agricultural area, and this reduction is constantly throwing a greater strain on the acreage still remaining in production.

ORCHARDS TO WANE

"If these premises are correct, certain great horticultural industries of Southern California, notably the citrus and walnut industries, are faced with a gradually decreasing Southern California output as the present orchards, many of which have passed the period of maximum production, are cut up into city lots. That condition will, of course, diminish the danger of overproduction and improve both the profit and the value of the remaining productive groves.

"It will do more. Rising land values will be general all over Southern California wherever ample water has been developed. These higher values will automatically compel the owners of agricultural land to make the highest possible use of their acreage. In other words, the increasing home market plus higher land values and carrying charges will bring on an era of the most intensive kind of cultivation.

"At Fontana we are preparing for this development and anticipating it. Through the introduction and stimulation of scientific, standardized poultry production guided by the best available authorities and based on one of the heaviest-laying Leghorn strains in California we have not only enabled over 500 of our settlers to derive a weekly cash income from the sale of eggs, but the fertilizer by-product will also enable them to make full productive use of that part of their acreage not occupied by chicken houses, homes and mature trees.

"The interest displayed not only by our own settlers but by dozens of poultry producers throughout Southern California in the semimonthly educational meetings conducted by our poultry authorities is really remarkable. At the last meeting over 300 attended and more than thirty States were represented. The interest was keen and the questions intelligent, indicating the high character of the people who are taking up poultry and fruit production at Fontana.

EDUCATIONAL DRIVE

"Now we are beginning a second educational campaign designed to show our people the need of making full productive use of their soil and teach them how to do it. Our agricultural and horticultural superintendents, men who are conducting our own extensive farming operations, are conducting this campaign and are meeting with splendid success. At the first meeting designed to discuss horticultural problems and agricultural and marketing plans over 150 attended and, as a result of this effort, 200 acres have already been planted in winter peas.

"The time is not far distant when every fraction of an acre having a water supply will be under intensive cultivation, and at Fontana we are taking the lead in bringing this development about."

MORE HOMES FOR WEST VAN NUYS

VAN NUYS, Sept. 25.—More improvements are scheduled for West Van Nuys, one of the fast-growing communities in this district. The thirteen and a half-acre tract at Marlin Place and Haskell avenue has been sold by K. Knudsen to R. Roland Glaisyer of Los Angeles, who has started to erect thirteen homes. Morrow & Baer of Hollywood are the contractors. The sale of the tract, which is planted in fruit trees, was made by A. A. Kunert, Van Nuys realty dealer. Small chicken ranches will be constructed on each of the new home sites.

Stand of Fontana Corn

Gardening Fostered

Along with the chicken and egg business in Fontana, gardening is urged by the farms administration. The need for truck gardens of all varities is stressed by the rapid rise of population in the Southland.

FLIGHT PLANS COMPLETED

Realty-Birdmen, First in History of Nation, to Fly to Del Monte Convention

Arrangements have been practically completed by Dr. T. C. Young, chairman of the aeronautical division of the California Development Association, and Guy M. Ruth, chairman of the aviation division of the California Real Estate Association, for the first air fleet to any real estate convention in the United States. It will go from Los Angeles to Del Monte on October 13.

By the latest roll call the following realtor-birdmen will hop off from Los Angeles: Dr. T. C. Young with Guy M. Rush and Will O'Byrne as passengers; Charles Reynolds of the Aero Corporation with Phil Norton of the Frank Meline Company; James Donahue in his own ship; Joseph Skidmore of Laguna Beach, and Mark Daniels in an Eaglerock plane, piloted by Paul Richter.

The fleet will leave Glendale flying field at 8 o'clock on the morning of October 13 and fly over the Ridge Route to Bakersfield, piloted by Dr. Young, who has been over the route and made all arrangements necessary for the trip.

At Bakersfield the fleet will land and meet ships from other sections of the State. They will then hop over to San Jose, where the Chamber of Commerce will tender a luncheon to the birdmen.

From San Jose the squadron will be piloted into Del Monte by a local plane, alighting in midafternoon.

AUTHOR PRAISES HILLSIDES

Samuel G. Blythe of Journalistic Fame, Lauds Commanding Residence Sites

Samuel G. Blythe, special writer for the Saturday Evening Post and a guest of R. D. Clarke of Los Angeles, recently inspected Hollywoodland. In company with Mr. Clarke and S. H. Woodruff, community developer, Mr. Blythe surveyed the exclusive homesites in the tract.

According to Mr. Woodruff, the writer declared Hollywoodland to be among the world's beauty spots. He has recently completed an extensive tour of foreign countries.

Standing on the site of Mack Sennett's home, and looking down on the contours of Hollywoodland with its scores of beautiful dwellings, its view of metropolitan Los Angeles, with glimpses of the Pacific and Catalina Island, the writer exclaimed: "This, to me, is the most beautiful building site in all the world."

Material Firm Starts Plan to Aid Builders

Organization of a complete research department to work out problems facing home builders in Southern California who are attempting to improve still further the quality of residence construction in this section was announced yesterday by Robert M. Greenleaf, vice-president and general manager of the Plastoid Products Company.

Problems in wall construction facing not only persons building their own homes, but plasterers, will constitute the main job to be tackled by the new department.

SCHOOL UNIT

The Los Angeles Board of Education has awarded contracts to build a two-story grammar school building at the Riggin-avenue school site, Belvedere Gardens. The education unit, which will cost $75,429, was designed by Architect Arthur L. Acker and will be built of brick with face-brick exterior and cast-stone trimming.

PASS BEACH AREA TITLE TO OWNERS

Huntington Palisades Lots Carry Rights to Frontage on Ocean

The premium on bathing beach frontage indicates it is but a question of time before all of it will be held under private ownership. To protect Huntington Palisades residents, the owners have set aside 300 feet of beach frontage for the exclusive use of the owners of sites in Huntington Palisades and their friends, according to Percy W. Rairden, director of sales of the Santa Monica Land and Water Company, which is handling the property.

There are approximately 600 sites in Huntington Palisades. The 300-foot bathing beach will more than be ample for the needs of the residents, he said. The actual value of this frontage can be easily computed by comparing it with the other frontage in the vicinity and determining the price per foot for that frontage. "Sales in Huntington Palisades closely approximate $1,000,000 and we are just installing the improvements which are to consist of hard-surfaced drives, curbs, walks, ornamental lights, water, gas, electricity, etc. These will entail an expenditure of more than $1,000,000," he said.

Citizens Urge San Fernando Street Paving

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25.—Two more important cross thoroughfares of San Fernando now seem assured of being paved, according to the Los Angeles City Council petitions. One petition calling for paving of Sheldon avenue, east of San Fernando, to Mulholland Drive has already been forwarded to the Council with the necessary number of signatures while another petition calling for paving of Wicks avenue from Mulholland Drive to Roscoe street is now being circulated.

The Joyland Poultry Farms interests have completed the paving of Sheldon avenue as far as their project and through the efforts of C. E. McLain of Sheldon avenue, the petition calling for the rest of the paving was properly signed up by property owners. The petition provides for an eight-inch, concrete pavement twenty feet wide. This is considered an important stretch of highway as it connects Stonehurst with Mulholland Drive which is to be paved through from Burbank to San Fernando.

SALES RECORD IS MADE

Reflects Prosperous Condition and Steadily Rising Market for Beach Frontage

Less than a week following the formal opening of the historic estate, Rancho Malibu Beach properties yesterday had lease sales amounting to more than a half million dollars.

This record, coming at a time when beach lands are usually dormant as the summer season has practically passed, establishes a new realty record for Southern California, where records are made only to be broken.

Not only that but the active and prosperous condition of the entire realty market is reflected in the demand for reservations that almost swamped the Harold G. Ferguson Corporation, sales agents for the Rindge-owned Marblehead Land Company, despite days of preparation for the opening.

Only ten miles of the twenty-two miles of Malibu coastline have been placed on the market by Mrs. May K. Rindge. So in signing leases worth more than $500,000 the selling agents have already disposed of one-tenth of the available frontage.

Charles W. Casey, sales manager of the Ferguson organization for this property expects to pass the million mark in another week as reservations are steadily pouring in from the north and interior of California. Much interest is being shown by realtors in this development, for in addition to being the largest beach subdivision ever attempted on the Pacific Coast the system of leasing instead of selling the fee is radically new and establishes a basis of valuation which gives the Malibu shoreline holdings alone, a value in excess of $20,000,000, its owners declare.

Valley Street Work to Cost Half Million

VAN NUYS, Sept. 25.—Virtually $500,000 in new street work, that will be of great benefit to Van Nuys and other parts of San Fernando Valley is scheduled to begin at once. Bids for the paving of Saticoy street, from Van Nuys Boulevard, to Santa Ana avenue, west of Owensmouth, a distance of about eleven miles, have been opened. Gibbons & Reed, Glendale contractors, bid $224,693 in aggregate. There were ten other bidders on the project.

The $221,736 contract to pave the Woodman avenue-Osborne street project, from Chandler Boulevard to Gladstone street, in the northeastern part of San Fernando Valley, a distance of nearly ten miles, has been let to Spencer & Holt, Los Angeles contractors, who already have placed grading stakes and commenced part of the grading on the northern end of the project, with the intention of working this way. When both projects are completed two more great east and west and north and south highways will be added to the road system in the valley.

Marketing

How Fontana Sells Its Products

IRRIGATION taught California farmers the need and the benefit of pulling together. Through the use of a common water source and of a common ditch they learned the meaning of co-operation.

When the citrus industry 30 years ago was threatened with bankruptcy through "overproduction"—California then produced 5000 carloads as against 60,000 carloads today—it saved itself by pooling the fruit of various districts and selling co-operatively through a central organization, the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

That great pioneer organization is still the outstanding success among all co-operative marketing ventures. Its structure and methods have been the pattern for many others. Some of them, notably the Walnut Growers Association, have been and are clean-cut successes. Others have had trouble in making the grade and still others have been absolute failures.

The causes of these failures have been numerous. Lack of sufficient capital, failure to build up trade avenues and connections fast enough, unwillingness to use existing selling machinery and inability to provide their own outlets in time—these are some of the reasons for co-operative failures. Others are poor market judgment, inefficient management due to lack of centralized control—too many cooks spoil the broth—internal dissension and lack of proper member support in turning their products over to their associations.

It has been our policy at Fontana to foster and encourage co-operative action in every way, but whenever necessary to obtain for our local co-operative association the skill, the experience and the marketing facilities of an outstanding successful national organization.

FONTANA'S EGGS ARE NATIONALLY ADVERTISED

For instance, the Fontana Producers Egg & Supply Company is a strictly co-operative local association which markets its eggs through a contract with Swift & Company, one of America's greatest meat packing firms. The 550 aggressive Swift branch houses handle so large a volume of dairy and poultry products that this firm is able to put the power of national advertising behind its Brookfield brand of selected, candled and carefully graded eggs sold in cartons.

Only the best citrus fruits are entitled to the Sunkist brand. Only the highest grade of selected eggs can be sold under the Brookfield trademark, the only nationally advertised brand of quality eggs. Fontana produces a large volume of such high-grade eggs. It is therefore to the interest of Swift & Company to stimulate this important source of supply not only by obtaining the highest market price for the Fontana producers, but also by helping the Fontana association to obtain the best skilled men and to adopt the best methods.

The individual producer, of course, has a contract solely with the local association. Through the large volume supplied by its members the association has enough power in the market properly to control and regulate the situation with the firm it selects to do the actual marketing.

ASSOCIATION HANDLES BOTH EGGS AND FEED

The Producers Egg & Supply Company maintains a fleet of trucks to deliver feed and pick up eggs at the producer's door. It supplies feed at cost to its members and is now building a modern concrete mill and warehouse in which to store and grind grain and mix its own mashes. Through its mass buying of many carloads of grain it is giving the member with 500 hens a price for a few sacks even lower than many feed dealers have to pay.

The Fontana Grape Growers Association, also a strictly co-operative local association, furnishes the members with lug boxes, picks the grapes and loads them on cars at cost. The grapes then are marketed for the association by the Earl Fruit Company which has been handling grapes and other California fruits for nearly forty years, shipping 11,000 cars, doing a business of eleven millions annually. The experience, the facilities and the customers of this old and successful concern are available to the Fontana growers at a small percentage cost.

The local Fontana Citrus Association markets its output through the California Fruit Growers Exchange, the greatest and most successful of all co-operative marketing associations which last year did a business of over $95,000,000 and sold its members' fruit at a cost of only 12 cents per box, including an advertising appropriation of $1,000,000. Through its subsidiary, the Fruit Growers Supply Company, the Exchange owns vast tracts of timber land and great lumber mills, supplying its members at cost with everything needed in production, from box shook to typewriters and fumigating materials.

The usual services are rendered its members by the Fontana Citrus Association which picks their fruit, hauls it to its $50,000 concrete packing house, sizes, grades and packs it at cost.

Through their mutual water company, the Fontana Union Water Company, the land owners have a half-interest in the 2200-horsepower Fontana hydroelectric plant. The output of this plant, in line with the Fontana policy of selling its products through solid, established and efficient agencies, is marketed under a 30-year contract through the gigantic system of the Southern California Edison Company. The Edison Company under this contract operates and maintains the power plant and pays the same price for the output of current summer or winter, high or low. In return the Edison Company furnishes the water company with whatever power it needs for its pumps at a very cheap rate, the Edison system acting as a huge reservoir into which we turn our power at a profitable price, taking out current as needed without stiff minimum or standby charges.

This contract has been effective for ten years to the entire satisfaction of both parties; we believe it fully demonstrates the soundness of our policy of dealing with experienced, financially strong agencies expert in their lines, but always as partners through the medium of a producers' controlled mutual organization.

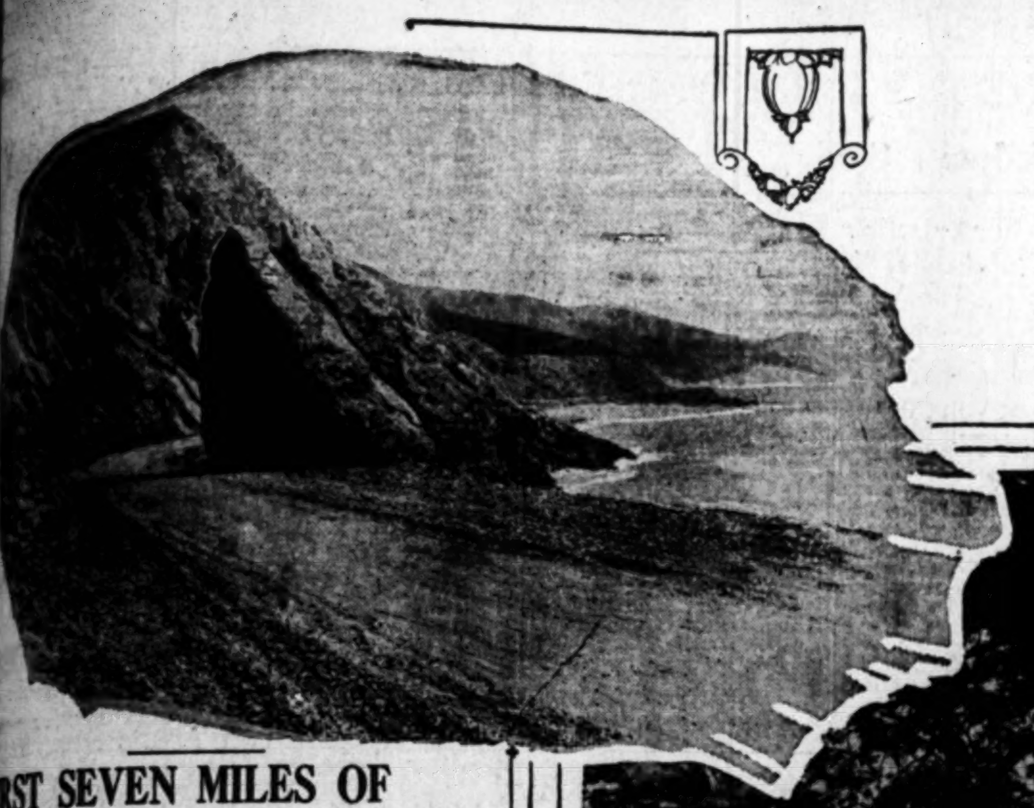
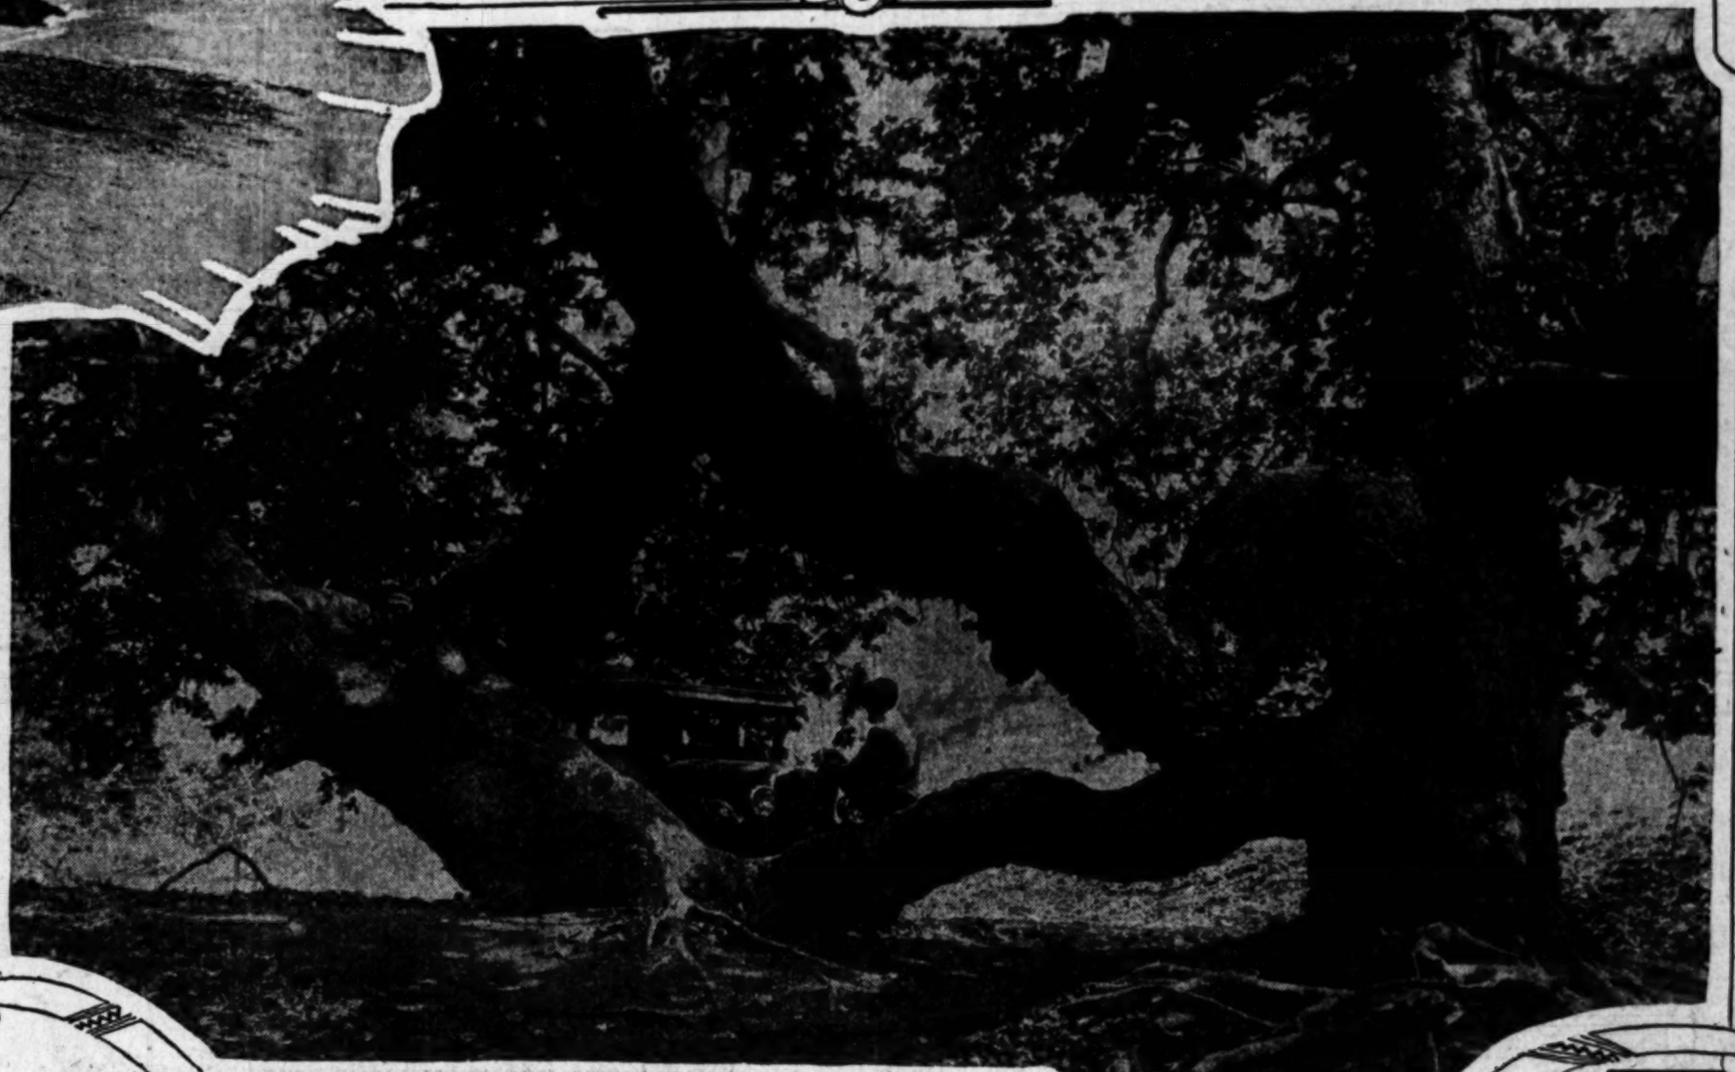
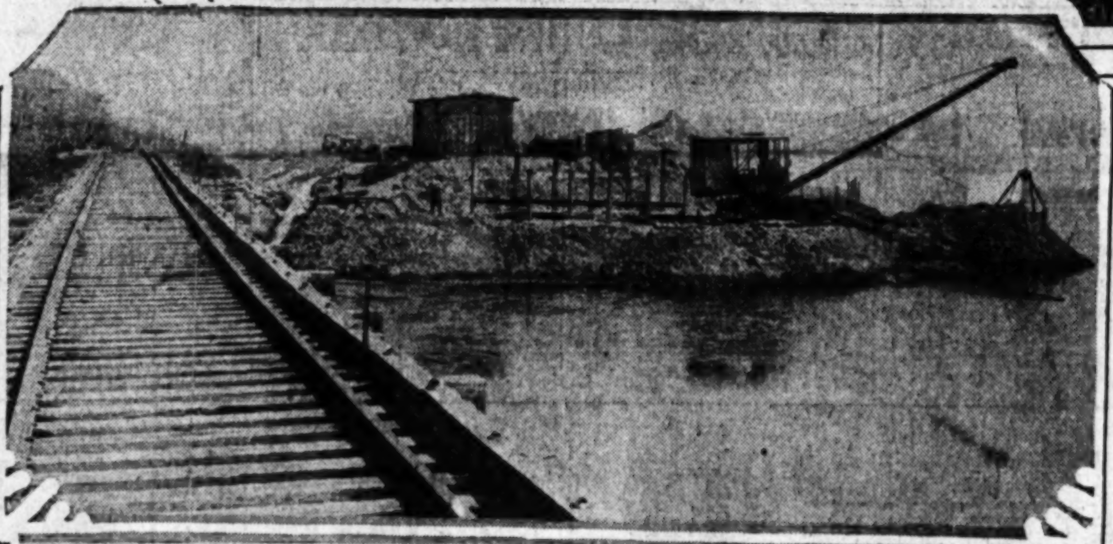
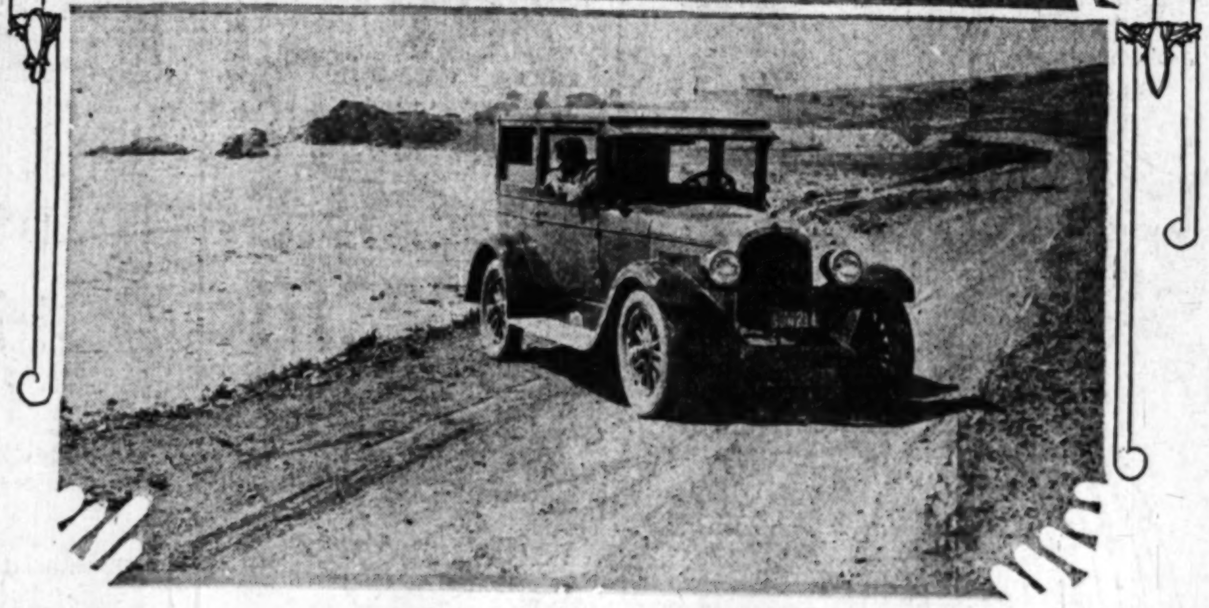
First Views of Malibu Coast Highway to Ventura









After twenty-one years of effort the county has overcome opposition furnished by the Rindge estate and is now constructing a link in the coast highway from Santa Monica to Ventura where it joins the coast road to San Francisco. Seven miles are now paved and have been accepted by the State. A few views along the new road are shown above. The first picture at the upper left-hand side of the page is a view looking east from the Ventura end of the road. The big view is one encountered along the road beyond the seven-mile stretch completed. The giant sycamore is growing just at one side of the road. Below are two more views of the construction work. The Malibu Canyon bridge will be built along side of the abandoned railway bridge shown in the picture. This bridge will be the longest of the four being constructed and will cost about $86,000. The machine in the various pictures is a Chrysler sedan which made the inspection tour. The entire road will be opened in about six months.

Within the past week the State highway inspectors have ed and accepted the seven miles of paving and fourteen of grading which has been done on the Malibu Road Rindge ranch, and six months from now the four bridges are included in the contract will be ready so that the road can be opened to public travel going through to ura.

Pasadena to Desert Road is Suggested

After a visit to Mt. Wilson, Opid's Camp and the upper San Gabriel country, United States foresters returned to Pasadena to say that a highway from Pasadena to the desert, traversing a large part of the Sierre Madre Range, is a necessity if proper fire-prevention measures are to be taken.

The passage of the $1,000,000 forest preservation bill now before Congress will make this possible, they say, and this road will open up a wonderful vacation country to motorists.

A start of this mountain highway has already been made, and will be continued with the funds now available, foresters say. This is the new auto road from Mt. Wilson to Opid's camp, which, with the Mt. Wilson toll road, opens a new mountain route to the motorist. They reported that Los Angeles county has started a new road in Little Dalton Canyon, which will climb a 3000-foot ridge over into the San Gabriel Canyon. This road will become part of the main Sierra Madre Range road system.

BUY EDISON ROAD

It is now proposed to take over the Edison company's road leading from the desert near Victorville toward the head of the Arroyo Seco, and finish that highway over the range to Switzer's Camp and the present Arroyo Seco highway. This private road has been pushed into the mountains from the desert during the past year a distance of eleven miles from the northern foothills. The company would be reimbursed by the government for funds expended on

OPEN FOREST TO HUNTERS

Kalibab Deer to Be Legal Game for Month to Prevent Threatened Overstocking

Many hunters among motorists are going to take advantage of the opportunity to shoot deer in the Kiabab National Forest, Arizona, during October, it is indicated in the calls for applications at the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Hunting is to be permitted in this Grand Çanyon national game preserve from October 1 to 31, but no hunting will be allowed with or from automobiles or outside of the designated areas, according to the rules of the Forest Service.

Automobile roads lead to all hunting camps, it is stated, and there will be two checking stations where the necessary agreements and State hunting licenses may be purchased. These will be at Ryan for those who wish to hunt on the west side of the forest area, and at Kane for those choosing the east side. Applications

New Beauty, Comfort, Power!

THE improved Packard Six is one of the greatest achievements in the long history of Parkard's engineering leadership. It is the culmination of twenty-six years of ceaseless progress by a company with one unvarying aim...to build a car of perfectly balanced traits.

For the improved Packard Six, retaining all the qualities which made it the model of the industry for six years, now has increased power which sets it apart as the greatest performing Six built, at any price.

This added power, which incidentally easily permits a speed of 75 miles per hour in even the largest closed models, gives a flashing acceleration and a hill-climbing ability surpassing even the greatest Packards of the past.

And with this supreme performance, which we believe to be unequalled in closed cars, the improved Packard Six brings a new refinement of beauty, an added range of color combinations and an increased comfort and ease of control.

The improved Packard Six will give you that thrill which comes only with the assurance of absolule mastery of traffic and of the open road. Only by seeing it and driving it can you gain any real appreciation of its beauty, comfort and power.

Despite these improvements this truly great car... built more finely than Packard has ever built before... has not been increased in price.

The improved Six five-passenger sedan with complete accessories still costs but $2928 delivered at your door.

Rickenbacker, vice-president of the Rickenbacker Motor Car Company, has announced his resignation, and henceforth will devote his time to aviation interests. Although the American ace of aces refused to discuss his resignation it is understood that it will in no way affect his holdings in the company, nor will it interfere with reorganization plans now in progress.

STATE TO BUILD NEW ROAD LINKING POMONA AND ONTARIO

REDLANDS, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—An agreement has just been made whereby the county will mantain the Valley Boulevard between Ontario and the west boundary line of the county and the California Highway Commission will construct a new link in the Riverside highway between Pomona and Ontario.

The new link in the Riverside highway will be a second through road between Pomona and Ontario. It will be paved for thirty feet and will relieve the congestion on the Valley Boulevard between the two cities. The highway will be parallel with the Union Pacific track and will enter Pomona on Fifth street.

The Foothill Boulevard is to be paved from the north boundary line of the city of Pasadena to New York avenue, a distance of more than a mile. The contract for this has just been awarded to the Clarence P. Dey Corporation of Pasadena for $45,794. The contract provides for a concrete highway more than thirty-five feet wide. There will also be a combination curb and gutter along each side of the highway.

The Kendall Memorial Highway, an extension of North E street in San Bernardino out across Little Mountain and connecting with the National Old Trails at Verdemont, will be ready for travel in about three months. The construction crew, using a power shovel and explosives,

Demand for New Models Brings Waiting List

Industry Indicates Period of Prosperity for Country

Cost of New Autos Thought Set for Year

DETROIT, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The automobile industry is just now experiencing a condition never before so pronounced at this season of the year. Automobile buyers are asking for the immediate delivery of new models, and the demand from dealers has caused manufacturers to step up production to a greater extent than was anticipated a few weeks ago.

With practically all new models now obtainable orders are being placed and deliveries made as fast as factories can supply dealers, and in many cases it becomes necessary to enroll the order on a waiting list.

OPTIMISTIC

In a recent statement made by A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation of America, one of the best authorities in the industry, he is confident the country at large is facing a long period of prosperity, and that the automobile industry in particular has a long period of prosperity ahead of it.

For the next twelve months at least the present high intrinsic value of American motor cars will be maintained without important price changes, continuing to hang around the present level. As the volume of production determines cost, it becomes manifest that present prices are made possible by this year's record production.

AVOID SETBACKS

One of the great problems of the industry is the avoidance of overproduction, and the setbacks it implies. Of this there is but little fear, as manufacturers now build according to incoming orders. This works to the financial advantage of everybody concerned — the manufacturer himself, the dealer and the buyer. To produce only enough cars to satisfy current demands is often a difficult procedure, but experience during the past fe wyears has enabled manufacturers to almost entirely forestall and eliminate overproduction.

Preference for closed models continues to increase. Of more than 3,500,000 passenger cars produced last year, nearly 60 per cent were closed models, and the percentage for 1926 will be even greater.

TACKS STREWN ALONG HIGHWAY

GILA BEND (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Tacks again are being strewed by vandal hands along the Gila Bend-Yuma stretch of the transcontinental highway, this the third epidemic of the sort. Complaints in number have been received by the Automobile Club of Arizona, with the statement, in one case, "that every garage along the stretch was busy in tire repairs and that a number of them had sold out their entire stocks of tires." A reward has been offered for apprehension of the miscreants.

DESERT ROAD IS SUGGESTED

this road. It would be widened and some curves eliminated.

The United States Forest Service has just started an auto road from the North Baldy ranger station to Mt. Islip. This road is to be eight miles long, and will be completed, it is expected, with the money available from the last Congressional appropriation, although at the present slow pace this road will not be completed until the end of 1927. This route is for fire protection only until further funds are available to widen it and make turnouts for the general use of motorists. Its distance from the south slope, also, precludes its use by auto owners.

TO BE PERMANENT

The San Gabriel automobile road now penetrates farthest into the mountains at present, now being completed as a permanent highway as far north as Coldbrook camp, a distance of eighteen miles. The new Little Dalton road, when finished, will connect with the San Gabriel road south to Camp Rincon, and make an interesting motor drive. The new Dalton road is being pushed by citizens of Glendora. The new county road up the San Gabriel Canyon, made necessary because of plans for the San Gabriel dam, will add another link in the mountain highway system.

C. E. Jordan of San Francisco, in charge of Federal forest road work, has made several visits to the San Gabriel range recently in the interests of these highways, and the Pasadent office of the United States Forest Service, it was announced, will be headquarters for the men who are pushing these scenic highways into the mountain fastnesses.

OPEN FOREST FOR HUNTING

must be made with the Forest Service for definite hunting dates, however, and if permission is given, the hunter must be on hand at the forest before 9 a.m., or forfeit his date.

Deer in the Kaibab have increased from a small herd of a few thousand head in 1906 to an estimated total of between thirty and fifty thousand head in 1925 under the government's protection. Hunting is permitted during a short period each year to cut down their numbers, since a serious shortage of forage subjects them to possible starvation. Further information on hunting in the Kaibab may be obtained from the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California at headquarters, Adams and Figueroa streets.

REMOVE DETOUR

The 4.5-mile detour south of Chehalis on the Pacific Highway has been eliminated, reports the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern Califonria.

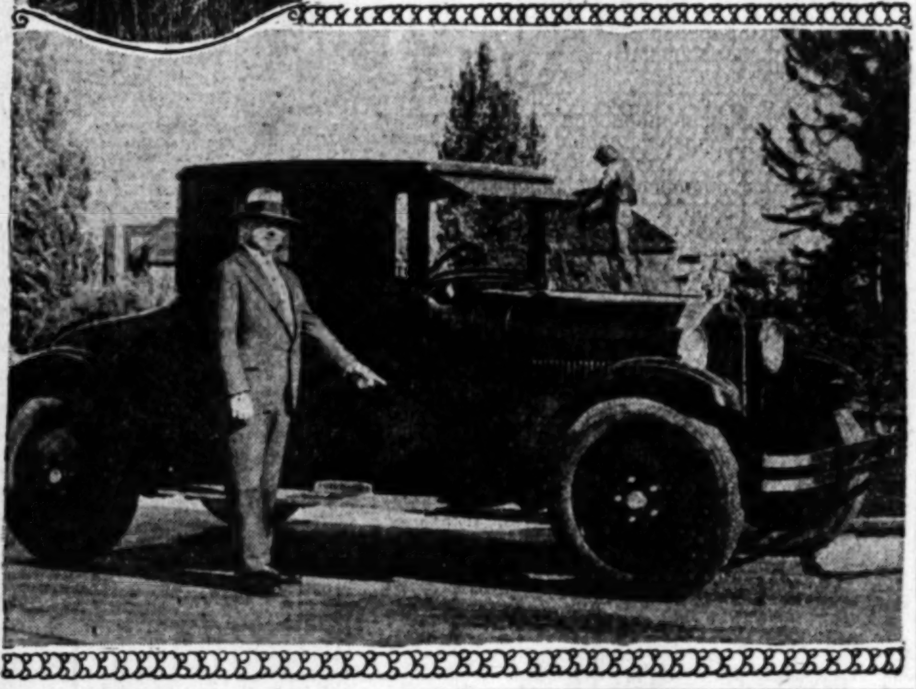
TWO PIONEERS, ONE STEEL, ONE GOLD

Statue of '49'er Pictured With Modern Car



JUST as the heroic bronze statue at Carthay Center typifies the initiative and daring of the gallant pioneers of '49 so Dodge Brothers cars symbolize the pioneering of the steel body principal of the present-day motor car construction, declares C. D. McGee, sales manager for the Albertson Motor Company, Dodge Brothers and Graham Brothers dealer for Los Angeles.

"The steel body, recognized today by motor-car manufacturers as being the safest, strongest and most durable, was first developed by Dodge Brothers in their open cars back in 1914," McGee asserted, "and a few years later the steel body principal was extended to include closed cars also.

"At that time the immense advantage of the steel body was entirely overlooked by both motor-car manufacturers and public alike, but Dodge Brothers, aware from the first of the distinct superiority of steel, continued to develop its use and to perfect machinery and devices for improvement. The result is that today Dodge Brothers steel body is a marvel of lightness, strength, and rigidity. Made entirely of pressed steel welded together to form a structure of enduring strength capable of wihtstanding almost unbelievable strain and impacts, the steel body is today one of the greatest safety factors in motordom."

An interesting motion picture, "Bodies of Steel," which depicts highlights in the fabrication of Dodge Brothers steel bodies is now being shown at the Albertson Motor Company's display in the Arcade Building, McGee added.

BRASS TRIMMINGS ARE FOUND POPULAR

Brass is again growing popular as a motor-car embellishment among those who favor cars with a "different" appearance and sporty lines, declares Don P. Smith, distributor of Diana and Moon motor cars in the Southland. He says the increased sales of the brass-trimmed El Venado, Diana roadster has shown approval of brass.

"Perhaps you have noticed the increasing number of cars of various makes with brass trimmings that owners have had installed themselves to replace the usual nickel," suggested Mr. Smith. "This has been called to my attention particularly since the El Venado roadster was produced."

Plans for paving have been completed and bids will be asked on this feature of the work as soon as grading progresses to a point where placing of pavement may be commenced. The Cypress Lawn project will complete the widening and reconstruction of the Peninsula Highway through San Mateo county, initiated by the present commission in 1923.

The bids received will be considered at a meeting of the commission to be held in San Francisco the 28th inst.

When a car is sufficiently dirty to use soap on it, be sure the soap employed is free from alkali, advises Lynn C. Buxton, distributor of Stutz vertical eight motor cars. Good automobile washing soap is the best for any finish, he states.

OWNERS ECONOMY RUN PLANN TO USE BUT ONE GALLON OF

If you own a Star car of a current model—that is a '25, '26 or '27—and have an idea that your bus is just about as stingy on gasoline as any there is, enter it in the "one-gallon economy run" to be staged next Thursday at 1 p.m. from the factory branch of the Star Motor Company of California, at Figueroa and Washington streets.

That is the invitation of Frank Hood, manager of the local branch, who has turned over the arrangements to Maj. H. D. Ryus of the sales force here.

Star cars, driven by Clyde Hodnett under the observation of disinterested newspaper men, have established records of more than thirty miles to the gallon on several runs throughout Southern California in the last few weeks.

It is the belief of factory officials that the same record can be made by Star owners themselves, driving their own cars.

So a coast-wide run was instigated and beginning yesterday contests will be staged all this week in different cities in every State on the Pacific Coast.

BID FOR COUNTY WORK

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The California Highway Commission last week asked bids for the following work:

Los Angeles county—The following structures to be widened:

A concrete bridge having a thirty-foot arch span across Las Virgenes Creek, about four miles west of Calabasas.

A concrete bridge having a forty-foot arch span across Vejor Creek, eight miles west of Calabasas.

A concrete bridge having a thirty-foot arch span across West Fork Vejor Creek, about eight miles west of Calabasas.

Ventura county—A concrete girder bridge of eight thirty-foot spans across Conejo Creek, about two and one-half miles east of Camarillo, to be repaired.

Bids will be opened in Sacramento on Monday, October 18.

SALES SHOW INCREASE

R. H. Nettleton, western sales manager of the Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporation, has been visiting the Southern California territory during the past two weeks. While here Nettleton made his headquarters at the establishment of the W. P. Herbert Company, Chandler distributors. He reports that shipments into this territory during the past thirty days showed a 300 per cent increase over the same period of last year.

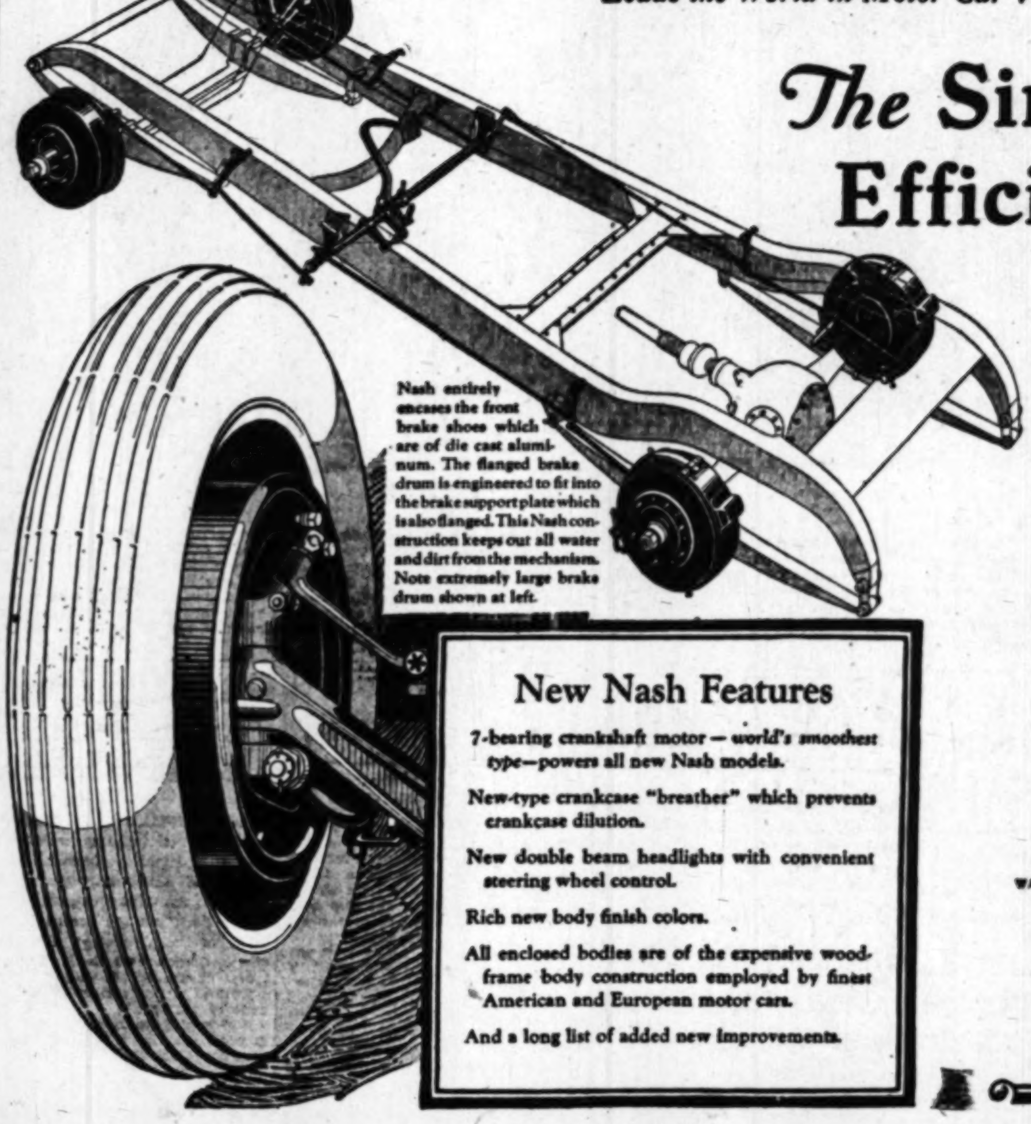
NEW NASH MODELS

Leads the World in Motor Car Value



Nash entirely encases the front brake shoes which are of die cast aluminum. The flanged brake drum is engineered to fit into the brake support plate which is also flanged. This Nash construction keeps out all water and dirt from the mechanism. Note extremely large brake drum shown at left.

New Nash Features

7-bearing crankshaft motor — world's smoothest type—powers all new Nash models.

New-type crankcase "breather" which prevents crankcase dilution.

New double beam headlights with convenient steering wheel control.

Rich new body finish colors.

All enclosed bodies are of the expensive wood-frame body construction employed by finest American and European motor cars.

And a long list of added new improvements.

The Simplest and Most Efficient 4 wheel Brakes

Standard Equipment—No Extra Cost

Another vital Nash mechanical superiority is the special Nash 4-wheel brake system—the safest, simplest and most efficient type known to the industry.

Fully equalized to right and left, front and rear, these brakes banish entirely the dangerous swerving characteristic of partially equalized brakes.

They are of unique simplicity in design, having fewer points requiring lubrication than any other mechanical brake system.

Extreme heat or severest cold does not hamper operation. And continuous efficiency is maintained by reason of their permanency of adjustment achieved thru the use of exceptionally large braking surfaces.

Their instant, powerful, but velvety ease-ful pressure is scientifically distributed, 60% to the rear and 40% to the front.

The sixteen new Nash models now on display. Come in at once and personally inspect their many new attractions.

TO PRODUCE PONY AUTO SOON NOW

Tiny Car to Have Wheel Base of 73 Inches; Still Unnamed

The Continental Motors Corporation produced this week what is believer to be the first "pony" car to be designed and built in the United States, following the small European vehicle.

The car is a roadster, as yet without a name, but according to its designer and builder, Charles W. Bury of New York, is to be produced in volume, probably in Detroit. The car already has sufficient financial backing to assure its success.

The litle vehicle has a wheel base of only seventy-three inches, and forty-eight-inch tread. This is somewhat smaller than the English "Austin" car; is powered with a standard pony car engine of Continental Motors build, and capable of covering fifty miles per hour.

Mr. Bury intends to place his car in both the New York and Chicago national shows with a view to starting distribution through dealers. Eventually sedans and touring models will be produced. The car weighs 1300 pounds.

OPEN LINK OF MALIBU ROAD

few moments at a time. The State has undertaken the paving work. The county is building the necessary bridges and carried the condemnation proceedings through court to obtain the right of way.

According to George W. Jones, road commissioner, the bridges needed will cost $226,000. Only four of the eight that will be built have been contracted for to date. These are at Los Flores, Malibu, Corral and Salstice canyons. Of these the Malibu is the largest, measuring 540 feet. The others are short structures of fifty-five to sixty-five feet. Each will be of identical construction with thirty-foot roadway and ornamental railings. Abutments and bents are to be of reinforced concrete. Four additional bridges will be placed at Escondido, Zuma, Trancas and Arroyo Sequit canyons, but county authorities are of the opinion that the road will be opened to travel upon the completion of the first quartet of spans before the second group are built.

The Chrysler from Greer Robbins Company was given special permission to make the trip across the ranch for the purpose of obtaining photographs for The Times of how the work was progressing and to give the Southern California motoring public a picture of what it will see in the way of scenery when cars are finally given access to the strip.

Long curving beaches, interrupted by abrupt cliffs that run to the water's edge, lie to the left of the road with an occasional rocky headland jutting out into the sea to send up showers of spray as the waves attack the shore. On the right are the steep slopes of barren hills that some day may provide palisade homesites for Angelenos.

LEASE SAND LOTS

Mrs. Rindge has divided her beach-front holdings into thirty-foot lots and is leasing them for ten-year periods to groups of avid speculators who foresee a building boom along the new highway.

Whether or not the higher land lying back from the ocean will have as ready sale after a row of hot-dog and hamburger stands have been erected on the sands below is problematical, but local real-estate concerns are making every effort to obtain the rights to these palisades.

Beyond the Rindge ranch, in Ventura county, there is another piece of highway construction under way known as the Houser contract. This work necessitates the use of dynamite and absolutely no travel into the danger area is permitted. The Houser contract was let to repair the section of road which was damaged by last year's storms, and it is expected that it will be completed by the time the bridges on the Malibu are ready for use.

PRODUCTION SHOWS BIG INCREASES

Several Factories Step Output Up to Capacity of Plants

DETROIT, Sept. 25. (Exclusive) Chevrolet Motor Company at Flint is now producing cars and trucks at the rate of approximately 3200 a day, with demand in excess of the output. Indications, but not a formal announcement, are that the Ford passenger car output is daily increasing, and that the demand for Ford trucks is well ahead of the output, with the truck division working at capacity.

Buick is at capacity, and Hupp Motor Car Company carried over unfilled orders on September 1, for more than $3,000,000 of cars. Studebaker is working at capacity both Detroit and South Bend plants on new custom models. The company sold twice as many sedans in August as in any one month of its history. Oakland Motor Car Company shipped 8713 Oaklands, and 9364 Pontiacs in August. All Nash plants are now at practically capacity production on recently announced new models, and President Jewett of the Paige Detroit, says the outlook for a fall business was never better.

Up to September 1, the Willys Overland had produced 30,000 new Whippets. Out of a daily output of 800 cars from the Overland plant, 500 are Whippets.

COMPLETE BUILDING FOR CADILLAC OFFICES

With the completion September 15 of a new $600,000 administration building, the Cadillac Motor Car Company has brought to a close a building and equipment program which was begun in 1919, and which has involved a total investment of over $25,000,000. The final phase of the original program, begun two years ago and representing an outlay of $5,000,000, has included, besides the new office building, the erection of a new foundry unit covering seven acres of ground, a new assembly building 126x750 feet in size, and additions to distribution facilities.

The structure is on the east side of Clark avenue in Detroit and occupies a central position among the other plant buildings. It is four stories high above the basement, and the structural supports of reinforced concrete provide for a fifth floor when needed. Its completion releases for manufacturing purposes 45,442 square feet of floor space formerly occupied by the general offices.

MONROVIA ADOPTS PEDESTRIAN WALKS

Monrovia is planning to assume big-city airs in traffic control, according to A. J. Little, head of the Police Commission, and Chief of Police Scott. Travel on Foothill Boulevard and other traffic arteries leading east and west has increased to such an extent as to make this necessary. The injury to Mrs. Alice Mercer, a well-known citizen, at an intersection hastened the decision.

Pedestrian signs will be posted, informing the residents using sidewalks and crosswalks that they must obey traffic signals or be subject to arrest or fine. Pedestrian walks will be placed in the middle of the blocks, and later automatic traffic signals may be installed.

QUITS NEWSPAPER

John J. Hines, for several years promotion manager of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard, has resigned to accept a position as assistant to A. M. Taylor, advertising manager of the Franklin Automobile Company of Syracuse, N. Y. Mr. Hines has been identified with newspaper work for the last fourteen years, syndicating promotion material to metropolitan publications and holding positions in the news, advertising and merchandising departments of the Post-Standard.

All prices delivered in Los Angeles and include disc wheels and four-wheel brakes on all models.

IN establishing prices on the new Studebaker Custom Sedans, we anticipated an increased sales volume. This has been forthcoming, for sales of Sedans since August 1st, 1926, have been more than double the best previous similar period, and more than four times the same period in 1925.

The Big Six Custom Brougham has registered a particularly gratifying volume but our dealers assure us that if the price of this model can be lowered substantially, sales can be trebled beyond even present volume.

We are, therefore, reducing the price of this model $200.00, giving purchasers immediately the benefit of economies which will result from increased production.

The Big Six Custom Brougham at $1785.00 is selling at the lowest price ever established for a Big Six four-door enclosed car. Prices of the Big Six Club Coupe, Standard Six Country Club Coupe and Standard Six Sport Roadster have also been reduced.

Picking Strong Points

OPTIMISTIC ON RUBBER PROSPECTS

Eastern Visitor Dispels Hope of Using Reclaimed Material in Tires

Optimism fairly oozes from Frank C. Braden, general sales manager of the Hamilton Rubber Manufacturing Company, Trenton, N. J., manufacturers of Victor Springfield tires, who is visiting Los Angeles this week on his annual inspection tour among Victor Springfield distributors.

"The rubber market is much firmer recently and there is every indication of a gradual climb in the price of crude," said Mr. Braden, in conversation with N. Bershon of the Bershon Tire Company. "Rubber at no time has gone low enough this year to come under the British restrictive measure.

"Some manufacturers this year have argued that reclaimed rubber could be used in the manufacture of tires without seriously affecting the quality. If such a condition were true it would, of course, enable the manufacturer to turn out tires at considerably less cost.

"Victor Springfield tires have always been made without any reclaimed rubber and we determined to ascertain definitely the effect of adulterating the rubber with reclaimed. We made two tires, one with a small percentage of reclaimed, and the other according to our regular Victor Springfield specifications with no reclaimed rubber. These tires were tested under the direct supervision of the United States government Bureau of Weights and Standards. The report said that the regular Victor Springfield tire gave almost two-thirds again as much service as the tire made with reclaimed rubber. Naturally, that was enough for us, and Victor Springfields will be made as in the past without the use of reclaimed materials.

"The recent experiments in Guayule plant have been interesting and it may be that rubber suitable for mechanical goods may be developed from the plant, but nothing that could be used in tires of first quality."

Home to Get into Trouble

VAN NUYS, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Just how good a Ford automobile can be, and how perverse, when it wants to, is related here by Rev. David Farquharson, pastor of the Van Nuys Presbyterian Church, who has just returned with his family from a 1600-mile vacation journey through northern sections of the State.

"We left here," Rev. Farquharson says, "our Ford behaving splendidly. We went into valleys, over ridges, through sloughs, on rocky roads and up and down the most nerve-racking of steep inclines. There was never a hint of tire trouble, engine trouble or any of the other ills that an auto is heir to.

"On our return to Van Nuys, rejoicing over the splendid behavior of our car, we came within two blocks of home. Of a sudden one of the back tires sat down and we were forced to trundle in flat."

DELIVERIES INCREASE BY MONTH

August Business Shows Improvement Over That of July

The sale of Pontiac sixes in Southern California in August exceeded those for July, according to Reeve Gartzmann, Pontiac and Oakland distributor, and he prophesies that September will exceed even the high mark in sales for August.

"The Pontiac was slow in getting under way here in Southern California," says Gartzmann. "We could not understand the lethargy of the public. The remarkable economy showing of the Pontiac in the Yosemite economy run was the first public demonstration of the car's prowess in actual competition.

"With its comparative economy once established we set out to demonstrate its dependability. We first subjected the Pontiac to what we thought was the supreme test. This was the Los Angeles-to-Albuquerque-and-return speed dash. The Pontiac not only shattered the existing record, but set a new one for the continuous round trip. It made the one-way run of 918 miles in twenty-three hours and twenty-nine minutes and the round trip of 1836 miles in fifty hours, fifty-eight minutes, during a rain and snowstorm. This was an accomplishment never before attained by a motor car and still stands as the record.

"Six weeks later the Pontiac was again set out on what proved even a more arduous trip and despite the hard going it clipped five hours fifty minutes off the record from El Paso to Los Angeles, averaging 46.61 miles an hour for the 993-mile grind.

Sales Record for Year is Gratifying

"The contract year of the Troy Motor Sales Company, Nash distributors for Southern California and Arizona, is from the 1st inst. to August 31, inclusive. During the last contract year, from September 1, 1925, to August 31, 1926, inclusive, there were 5176 new Nash cars sold throughout the Troy territory," says Robert S. Breyer, vice-president and general manager of the Troy Motor Sales Company.

"For a distributor in this territory to market better than 5000 new automobiles in a year requires a comprehensive dealer representation and a product with a distinct value offering.

"The fact that Nash sales for the first eight months of this year in this territory have more than doubled over a like period of last year is ample indication that the motoring public at large is rapidly coming to the realization that now, more than ever, 'Nash leads the world in motor-car value.'"

Says Attempt to Rank Second Place in Sales

Men in the motor-car industry in discussing the price reductions made by the Willys-Overland Company recently on Overland Whippets and Overland six, agree that the action presages an attempted move by the Toledo manufacturer to keep step into second place in the automobile business in America, Ford not being considered.

This statement was made by L. J. McCracken, manager of the Willys-Overland-Pacific Company, after receiving information on how the price reduction was taken in the East.

"The Willys-Overland Company is in good position to make a strong bid for this place," said Mr. McCracken. "In 1925 the company's production ranked fourth, exclusive of Ford. The plant investment is low, which is an important advantage in starting a large sales campaign. Earnings for the first half of this year have been very satisfactory, although the company has put four new models on the market in the last eighteen months."

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN FOR REDWOOD TOUR

CLOVERDALE, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Considerable enthusiasm is being evinced in the proposed "first-of-its-kind" motor-coach caravan tour of the Redwood Empire by the Redwood Empire Hotel-Resort Conference, according to James (Dad) Snyder, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

"Every hotel and resort operator in the Redwood Empire of any consequence, of which there are over 100, has expressed himself in favor of our tour caravan of eight days through the Redwood Empire," declared Snyder, "and so far only three have found it impossible to go, although these three heartily agree with the trip idea."

"ROADRUNNER" SPEEDY

Desert motorists who have wondered at the speed of the "roadrunner" or chaparral cock, as he is sometimes known, may be interested in the explanation offered for the bird's ability to get over the ground rapidly offered by Watt L. Moreland, vice-president and general manager of the Moreland Motor Truck Company, manufacturers of light and heavy duty trucks at Burbank.

Inasmuch as one of the most popular models of the Moreland trucks has been named "The Roadrunner," after the desert bird's best-known qualifaction, Moreland may be regarded as somewhat of an authority

"The 'roadrunner' really taxies over the ground like an airplane," said Moreland. "He doesn't rise and fly but his wings act as a propellor and his tail as a rudder while his feet move rapidly over the ground, barely touching it. The appearance is of the bird actually running—as he is—but instead of his legs furnishing all the motive power his wings are aiding him a lot."

Records have been received by the Moreland Company of "roadrunners" keeping ahead of automobiles on the highway traveling forty miles an hour. They sometimes stay in the road, particularly if it is straight, for a half-mile or more. That is where the name "roadrunner" was acquired.

Mr. Moreland has added that the name was chosen for the light duty truck manufactured by his company because it embraced the same qualities as does the humble desert bird.

"The 'roadrunner' truck is speedy and built to meet needs of present-day traffic," he asserted.

Need Warning Signals for Flat Tires

"A tire that would 'knock,' ring a bell or blow a horn when it's underinflated or requires inspection, is the need of motorists," according to the C.T.C. factory representative here.

"When his motor knocks, or the transmission or rear end growls, Mr. Motorist knows right away that something's wrong, and he immediately applies corrective remedies. Because your tire operates silently, and provides no warning noises, it is up to the car owner to make regular and frequent inspection of his tires, in order to receive the service that the manufacture has painstakingly put into them."

KING-FRIX TAKES FIVE-YEAR LEASE

VAN NUYS, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The King-Frix Motor Company, Dodge automobile distributors, has taken a five-year lease on the north part of the new Kunert Building on Van Nuys Boulevard at Hamlin street, and as soon as arrangements can be perfected, will remove from its present quarters in the Robert Allington Building on Victory Boulevard. The King-Frix Company also has leased the large lot in the rear of the Kunert Building, on which will be erected a modern repair shop, with special lighting system, large cranes to handle cars and other up-to-date repair-shop accessories. The concern is among the leading dealers here and in San Fernando Valley. It will now have one of the most handsome show and salesrooms in this section.

SIX CYLINDERS BALANC

"Many people have the erroneous idea that the more cylinders there are in an engine the fewer vibrations," remarks Robert S. Breyer, vice-president and general manager of the Troy Motor Sales Company, Nash distributors in Southern California and Arizona.

"Knowing that a two-cylinder engine ran at least a little more smoothly than the old one lunger, and knowing that the four ran much more smoothly than the two-cylinder engine, the motorist assumes that the rule must apply all the way up—that an eight must run more smoothly than a six, for instance. But it doesn't.

"The reason an eight can not be as completely balanced as can a six is a technical one, and proof involves mathematics. But just get this point in your mind: Every time the crankshaft of a one-cylinder engine makes one revolution, six distinct [illegible] forces are set up.

Nine Great American Racing Stars buy The Greatest BUICK Ever Built

Within thirty days after its introduction, the Greatest Buick Ever Built received one of the greatest tributes ever paid a motor car.

Nine internationally famous A. A. A. speedway stars singled it out above all other cars for their personal use and for their families!

Some of these men are graduate engineers. Others are veteran automobile designers. All of them know motor cars—probably as no other group of nine men in the world.

They have learned the vital necessity of fine engineering, rugged construction and brakes that never fail. They know the importance of stamina and riding comfort. They instantly recognize those qualities of performance that lift a car above the commonplace.

Almost daily they drive the costliest types of hand-constructed automobiles being built today—yet read what they say about Buick and why they chose it for themselves.

Here is expert opinion on those qualities of vibrationless performance, efficient operation, handling safety and brilliant beauty, which stamp the Greatest Buick Ever Built as the greatest motor car value ever offered.

Frank Lockhart

"[illegible] a rigid test, I am convinced [illegible] 1927 Buick has advanced [illegible]ing ideas, which make it [illegible] to any motor car built. I [illegible] this car on its per[illegible], and roadability, which [illegible] in making the racing [illegible] from Coast to Coast."

Bennett Hill

"[illegible] there's a real car under [illegible]—that's what makes auto-[illegible]—that's why my new [illegible]—with its silent power-flow [illegible] reliable four-wheel brakes [illegible] feel better than any [illegible] I have ever wheeled."

Dave Lewis

"The new 1927 Buick convinces me that Buick constantly lives up to its promise—'When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them'."

Peter De Paolo

"They named it correctly when they called it the Greatest Buick Ever Built. But they might have added, 'And the greatest value ever offered.' I still think I'm not wasting my money by owning two Buicks."

Bob McDonogh

"I thought I could judge the speed of a car. The smooth, vibrationless operation of my new Buick fools me and I can't tell within 20 miles an hour of its speed unless I watch the gauge. Never have I driven a car that operates with as little effort."

Frank Elliott

"From zero to seventy, there isn't a change in the performance of Buick. I have never driven a car before that was absolutely without a speed where vibration took the joy out of driving. Buick has certainly set a mark for perfect design and workmanship in passenger car construction"

Earl Cooper

"My mechanician best expressed my opinion of the 1927 Buick, when he said: 'The smoothness of electricity most nearly expresses the feeling its silent power-flow gives you'."

Cliff Woodbury

"Buick delivers the goods. I never worry about getting there and back—and this new car does it so easily and so quietly that you never know there's an engine under the hood."

Fred Comer

"I bought a Buick because I wanted the most automobile I could get for the money spent—most in mechanical perfection—most in style and comfort. Buick gives me all, plus the snappiest passenger job I have ever handled."

EAGLE ROCK TO BE BENEFITED

Four Major Traffic Roads to be Developed

Work in Progress Now on Suburban Improvement

Hundred Miles of Highway in Progress in District

Four major traffic arteries leading into Eagle Rock will soon be completed, removing a handicap on travel from Los Angeles. Eagle Rock Boulevard will soon be like the wrist of a hand, four boulevard fingers leading from it, Fletcher Drive, Hyperion avenue, Figueroa street and the contemplated Alessandro drive forming the connections.

Eagle Rock Boulevard, repaved, will be ready for traffic in three weeks, it is believed. This stretch has given motorists trouble ever since Ford made flivvers. This new road is being used to some extent now, though from York Boulevard to Verdugo Road the asphalt surface is not laid on the concrete roadway. On the west side of this improvement, not far from Verdugo Road, may be seen the broad set-back without curb, where Fletcher Drive will open across the Los Angeles River to Glendale Boulevard, over a bridge now being built. The drive will go under the Pacific Electric tracks to Glendale Boulevard. Hyperion avenue and bridge form another important link in the transportation outlets. Hyperion bridge will take the place of the narrow bridge which Glendale avenue now uses.

Councilman I. C Ash states there are almost a hundred miles of street improvements under way or to be ordered soon in this district with bridges costing $3,000,000 planned or under way.

Life-Saving Driving Rules Are Recited

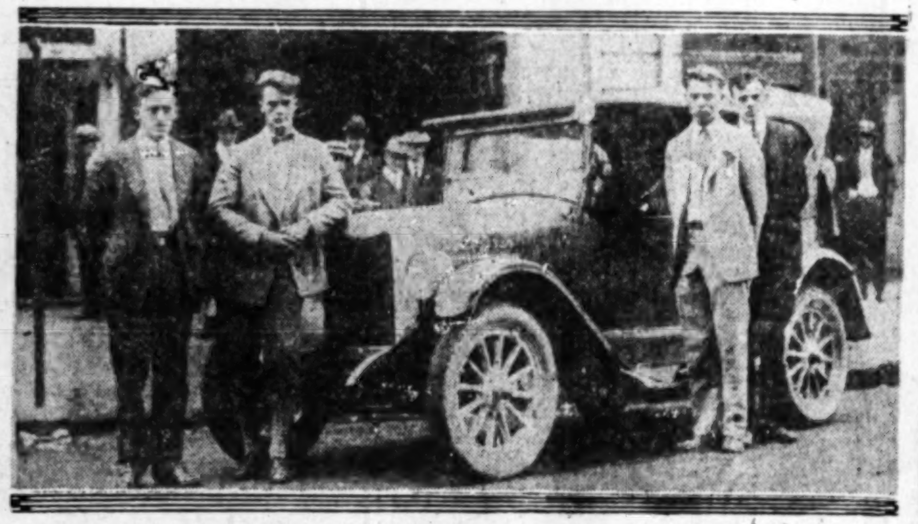
There isn't a dangerous grade or railroad crossing in the United States if crossed with proper care, according to an eastern opinion reaching the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The authority for the statement gives the following recipe to motorists as the method of taking the danger out of grade crossings:

Always make sure your car is in order; never drive over thirty miles an hour; never pass a crossing until you know the way is clear; don't drive in the mud or on slippery roads or pavements; always give the speed maniacs the right of way.

"Of course, the maniacs make you mad, but better be mad than dead," he says.

Net Proceeds—One Automobile



Two U.S.C. students worked on a boat running through the Panama Canal to New York, pooled their wages with two more Trojans and bought a Chevrolet. It brought them back to Los Angeles and school. From left to right the boys are R. J. Holland, H. B. McPike, W. Bahls and F. H. Holland.

BOYS BUY MACHINE ON BOAT WAGES

Students at Local School Go East as Laborers But Return Tourists

It is not impossible for a vacation period to contribute a liberal share to a college education. This is the opinion at least of four students at the University of California who have just resumed their studies after a summer vacation which comprised experiences which, they declare, they would not trade for a great deal of money. Yet the said experiences were acquired at no cost and the boys are, in fact, financially to the good to the extent of one veteran Chevrolet touring car.

W Bahls and H. B. McPike signed on the steamer Montanan for a trip through the Panama Canal to New York City after the close of the university last June. They had a great trip and enjoyed the work on the big steamer. Landing in New York with their wages for the voyage, they met R. J. Holland and his brother Frank, who were anxious to make the trip to the Pacific Coast to enter the University of California.

The four boys pooled their funds and started shopping on the used-car row in New York City. They discovered a veteran Chevrolet touring car which had already seen more than 20,000 miles of service, and whose price about fitted their resources.

They averaged practically 400 miles a day traveling 3982 miles on their western journey, and landed at the University of California in just ten days after their start from New York City.

NEW AUTO SALES SOARING

California Gives New York Close Race in Actual Number of Cars and Holds Per Capita Lead

Let the querulous one who is always pondering over "where do all these automobiles come from," study the California registration figures to his increased amazement. In the first eight months of this year 143,413 new motor cars were delivered into the hands of owners in the Golden State, the latest compilations by Motor Registration News shows.

While California is giving New York a close race for the leadership in the actual number of automobiles, this State has a wide margin in cars per capita. The southern section of California is leading the State in the number of motor cars now in use and in sales. For the first eight months of the year Southern California's new car total is 75,246, while the northern portion has added 68,167.

The sales totals for the two sections by months as summarized by Motor Registration News is as follows:

	South	North	State
January	7,980	6,446	14,426
February	5,251	9,993	15,244
March	11,581	10,216	21,797
April	10,175	8,869	19,044
May	9,755	9,115	17,870
June	10,948	8,429	19,927
July	9,744	8,220	19,964
August	10,236	7,885	18,121
	75,246	68,167	143,413

California, as a whole, showed a gain of 3 per cent in the sales over August of 1925. Buick, registering 1788 of the new models, made an increase of 95 per cent over the introductory month of last year. With the largest sales in its history, Buick also broke all its August delivery records for a new model because of the preparations that had been made at the factory for increased production, according to Harold W. Tuttle, assistant general manager of the Howard Automobile Company of Los Angeles.

"The California registration figures show that Buick led the six-cylinder division by wide margin," said Tuttle. "The Buick figures were exceeded by only two light four-cylinder makes. Last year in the first month of its new models Buick delivered only 914 cars in this State. The total of 1788 this year in August best tells how the Buick factory has increased production to meet the demand.

"We naturally are pleased with the increased shipments. But we wish that they were even greater. But with every part of the country running us strong competition in sales, according to the word we have from the factory, we are unable to get all that we would like to have.

"It was interesting news we received from the factory last week that nine of the country's foremost racing drivers had purchased new Buicks."

Union Rock Company Puts Six Wheel G.M.C.s in Service

With more than 300 motor trucks already serving its eleven producing plants and fifteen bunkers, the Union Rock Company has just added five new 6-wheel G.M.C. trucks to its fleet, according to announcement yesterday from the local General Motors headquarters.

"During my four and a half years as president of the Union Rock Company," said George A. Rogers, in commenting on the purchase, "we have experienced great satisfaction in the results obtained from our G.M.C. fleet.

"The gruelling service under which our trucks must operate in conveying crushed rock, washed sand and screened gravel to building and paving jobs in Hollywood Hills, Beverly mountains and San Gabriel Valley points is an unusual test of truck dependability.

"I am glad to say that G.M.C. six-wheel trucks have given us exceptional service with great dependability."

SPEED CARNIVAL

"On the wide, flat, hard sand beach of Ensenada several attempts have been made to lower the mile speed record for which a cup is awarded by the Club Internationale of Ensenada," says H. E. Franklin, manager for Reeve Gartzmann, Oakland and Pontiac distributors. "Complete information about the contest can be obtained from the Los Angeles headquarters of the club at 330 Sun Finance Building.

The main street of Encinitas is being paved at the present time, according to information received at the touring department of the National Automobile Club. This does not interfere with travel over the portion of the street already paved. No detour is in effect, but care is necessary in driving this half-mile stretch because of the machinery and equipment.

OLD PRISON LANDMARK FOR YUMA

Thick Old Adobe Walls of Carcel Still Standing in Desert Town

YUMA (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive) Among the sights offered a tourist at Yuma is the old Territorial prison, set high on Prison Hill, just back of the new Southern Pacific station. The thick adobe walls on which armed warders once paced, still are very much in evidence, as are the cell buildings within, and the guard house and the old superintendent's home on the bluff, just above the Colorado River. Now is to be the preservation of the old prison cemetery, in which the headstones bear only the numbers of the prisoners who died while under sentence. In this old burying ground lie the mortal remains of some of the most notorious of southwestern desperadoes, with inclusion of Jack Swilling, who founded the Salt River Valley, and of Jake Laustennau, the leader of a great insurrection at Morenci. Many of these old-timers were not criminal by nature, but merely violent after the fashion of the times, and some day their stories may be written from the archives of the prison. The property has reverted to the city of Yuma, but the State now is assuming the expense of building a neat fence inclosing the graves on the hillside that slopes away toward the junction of the Gila and Colorado Rivers.

Women Bid for Use of Family Car

The old idea that women know nothing about mechanics and care less is fast being supplanted by a realization that, after all, women have a mechanical turn of mind. This is the contention of P. V. St. Clair, manager of the Sperl Motor Car Co. St. Clair says:

"The automotive engineer used to design cars with only a man in mind as the owner-driver. But today the woman is being considered more and more. And her appreciation of finish and lines is the least of the engineer's worries.

"Women are demanding mechanical features today in addition to style. For instance, we can thank the ladies for a great part in forcing the four-wheel brake issue.

"Vibrationless motors, easy action clutches, ball-bearing steering and a great many other mechanical features boasted by the latest models are in their final analysis improvements that have been demanded by women.

"Women's keen appreciation of mechanical betterments in automobiles has accounted in no small way for the great sales success of Rickenbacker cars. We have found this car to be in particular favor with women drivers."

IN HIGH-GEAR TEST

"A two-door Oakland sedan was driven from Portland, Or., to Wallowa Lake and return over altitudes ranging from 1074 to 4335 feet with the gears sealed in high," says D. H. Baker, service manager for Reeve Gartzmann, Oakland and Pontiac distributor. "During the entire run the car was not stopped and despite this the Oakland averaged 20.3 miles on a gallon of gasoline and used but one pint of oil for the 737.3 miles of tough going.

Four of Five Motorists Are Californians

Four out of every five automobiles met on the highways of Oregon and Washington have California license plates, even in the cities, according to Howard B. Christenson, who returned to Pasadena yesterday from a trip into the Northwest. But he learned from permanent residents of the region that very few Californians stay later than November 1, the general exodus after the summer vacation season beginning about the 1st inst.

While a few persons resented the great influx of Californians this year because of the inroads on the wild game and fish, business men and residents generally welcomed the thousands of motor vacationists along the wonderful highways of the States. Quite a number of prosperous towns have sprung up along the new highways, brought to being chiefly because of California motorists, Mr. Christenson says.

STRAINS COIL

When testing a spark by removing the wire from the spark plug, keep the wire not more than three-eighths of an inch from the plug for if the spark is forced to jump too far it puts a severe strain on the coil, says William E. Bush, Pierce-Arrow distributor.

An automobile highway to traverse Bolivia is being planned.

Wide Interest Shown in New Coupe for Two

Pierce-Arrow's newest offering, a two-passenger coupe, mounted on the Series 80 chassis, is the center of inspecting groups at the salesrooms of William E. Bush, Inc. The car was introduced here but two weeks ago and immediately attracted attention by its clean cut, custom lines.

"This coupe is one expected to appeal to those who love smartness and luxury," said Bush. "The top is set low enough to give almost an underslung appearance to the body and is finished in black landeau leather. The carriage bows add just the right touch of smartness to that portion above the belt line."

Here is the Final Proof of Straight Eight Economy

Twenty-two Jordan Straight Eights—driven 3024 miles—in all parts of the United States—averaged 20.85 miles to the gallon

SOME people think that the Eight cylinder motor is less economical than the Six. They are wrong.

That isn't strange.

It was true before Jordan built the Straight Eight.

Eights of the heavier, bulky type were always used in bigger cars.

Jordan produced the first really economical Eight.

Here is the definite proof.

Twenty-two Jordan cars in twenty-two different cities of the United States have just run 3024 miles through all kinds of country with an average of 20.85 miles per gallon.

This test was run through traffic in New York—over the hills of Pennsylvania—through the mountains of California—over the sand roads of Florida—and under the hot sun of Texas.

No special preparations were made—no stunts were allowed.

Jordan cars were driven under ordinary driving conditions, and the consumption records throughout the country were about the same.

This test will be interesting to those who do not know about the Jordan Straight Eight motor.

Six cylinder salesmen have tried to convince people that the Eight is not economical. Their own experience is based on the motors incorporated in heavier cars.

Here are the reasons for Jordan Economy.

Light in weight. Balanced. Moves steadily forward and never sideways. Holds the road. Does not consume energy in side sway.

The lightest, smoothest Straight Eight on the road today. Try it and see for yourself.

In Which Nick Solves Deep Motor Mystery

Nick Harris, well-known Los Angeles detective and an ardent Hudson owner, is shown at the top with one of the new broughams from the Walter M. Murphy Motors Company. Below, close-up of Harris, sleuthing with his magnifying glass to "inside stuff" on the Hudson motor to discover the "manifold reasons" why the new cars have so much more gasoline economy with no sacrifice of power and high speed.

NEW LINE ATTRACTS MOTORISTS

Throngs Crowd Salesroom for First Showing of 1927 Models

Drawing attention from far and wide as the feature attraction on Hollywood's motor row is the first showing of the new 1927 line of Kissel sixes and straight eights by S. & W. Motors, Inc., at 5717 Sunset Boulevard.

A throng of motorists has been crowding the salesrooms since the recent opening display of the new creations. Interest seems to be accorded quite as much to the appearance of the cars as to their many mechanical innovations, it is reported.

The car accorded the larger spotlight of attention is a straight eight de luxe brougham sedan. This model is finished in Rolls-Royce blue, with gold and light blue trimming and artillery wheels. The upholstering is dark blue Chase Velmo, and all interior appointments combine to give an effect of most luxurious Pullman-car comfort, in the opinion of visitors at the display.

Another Kissel, sharing attention is the inclosed speedster. Betty Francisco has purchased one of these models, it is announced by P. Martin Steinkamp, president of S. & W. Motors, Inc. Other inclosed models displayed include a four-door sedan in both the six and the straight eight.

MANY JOIN ESSAY CONTEST AFTER TRIALS

New riding thrills enjoyed in the Auburn straight eight self-demonstrator is causing many persons to join the essay contest now being conducted by the White Auto Company, distributor here of the Auburn. This company offers three prizes for the three best essays submitted.

"Since this contest was started a week ago much enthusiasm has been shown by those entering. All that is necessary to enter is to take a ride in the self-demonstrator and write of the experience," says Selig Cahn, vice-president of the company. "There will be no salesman along to suggest anything and you can drive the car yourself if you wish. If you would rather ride a driver will take you. All over 21 years of age and not an employee of the White Auto Company are eligible."

DETECTIVE IS SOLD

Ha! That villain and arch-enemy of the motorist—fuel waste—has been foiled! Miss E. Conomy has been wedded to Speed N. Power. A truly happy ending. Yet 'twas a mystery till Los Angeles' own "Sherlock Holmes," Nick Harris, head of the great national detective agency which bears his name, got on the job and with the able assistance of Harry M. (Watson) Hull, field superintendent, solved it.

The whole thing started when Detective Harris who is an ardent Hudson owner and booster, walked into the Walter M. Murphy Motors Company, Hudson-Essex distributor, and asked for George L. Danielson, general superintendent of service.

"I understand that the new Hudson is more economical on gasoline than the older model," began Nick. "Tell me—what makes the difference?"

"Well," returned Danielson. "You may not be a mechanic, Mr. Harris, but you're a detective. Here is one of the new broughams. Take a look at it—and a ride—and let's see if you can tell me."

Nick Harris agreed, after first calling in the able assistance of his first lieutenant, Harry Hull. The two detectives and Danielson first took a ride and then the car was parked in Exposition Park, where Nick proceeded to look under the hood.

"Quick, Watson, the needle—valve!" joked Harris to Hull as he directed his first glance at the carburetor. "Item No. 1," he told Danielson—"the carburetor is different."

"Right," smiled the Murphy superintendent.

The detective then got out his trusty microscope. He explained that he wouldn't need it, but that if there were to be pictures in the paper, how would anyone know he was a detective unless he had a reading glass? The others having agreed that this bit of philosophy was true, Harris proceeded to announce that he had discovered a new type of intake manifold—one permitting more direct entrance of the gas into the cylinder—and, as he expressed it, a do-funny which seems to clean the gasoline.

The "do-funny," Danielson explained, is really a cleaner built into a hot-air stove to keep dirt out of the carburetor, the intake manifold boasts a new curve design and is surrounded by superheated circulation and the carburetor is of improved design.

"Well, Harry," said Harris to Hull, "what do you think?"

"I think," said Hull, "that we solved the mystery in 100 per cent style."

"Absolutely," agreed Danielson. "And now that I've shown you how much better the new Hudson is than your older one, I'm going to take you back to the sales department—they'll do the rest."

Interest is Shown in Fish Conservation

Local fish and game enthusiasts showed a marked interest in the Citizens' Fish and Game Conservation Committee during the last week when it was announced from the organization's headquarters that the first aging or holding pond for trout was under construction.

Jack Hines, vice-president and secretary, declares that a gang of public-spirited men have been working for about two weeks, 7000 feet up in the San Bernardino mountains in ice cold water, thirteen feet deep, cleaning out debris and sinking poles into solid rock in which will be placed the steel piping to hold the wire netting of the first trout-aging pond in Southern California.

The splendid way sportsmen backed the committee by taking out memberships made the pond construction possible. It was the money from the memberships that purchased the material.

Secretary Hines has established headquarters of the committee at 417 Sun Finance Building and a busier man than he has been for the last month would be hard to find.

CLUB SIGNS SUFFER IN TARGET PRACTICE

PHOENIX, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—An Arizonan, lately returned from a long trip through Northern Arizona, observed that almost every sign of the Automobile Club of Southern California and of the Automobile Club of Arizona had been riddled by bullets or defaced by small shot. In sharp contrast was the fact that every wooden signboard of the United States Forest Service stood out undefaced and spotless, though offering fully as good a target as do the others. The explanation is that prompt punishment might follow the individual who took into the forests to sport of using signboards as targets.

FISHING GOOD

Fishing conditions continue to be good in the district surrounding Bridgeport, according to a recent report from the touring department of the National Automobile Club. Buckeye and Robinson are the best streams and the water is low and clear. Salmon eggs are the best bait and royal coachman the best fly. Limits of eastern brook are being easily obtained at Virginia Lakes. Deer hunting is not good in this district as yet and will not be until there is a rain or a flurry of snow.

NEW ROAD GIVES CAR HILL TEST

Avenue 51 Extension is Scene of Experiments on 18 Per Cent Grade

Climbing steep, twisting grades in high gear at high speed and negotiating the same hills at slow speed show two entirely different brands of motor efficiency. A powerful motor will take the car up at high speed, but it requires both flexibility and power to pull slowly.

These statements were made by George L. Moskovics, sales manager for Lynn C. Buxton, distributor of the Stutz vertical eight in Southern California. Moskovics made the remarks after he had given Stutz vertical eight brougham a severe test on a new grade out near Happyland.

Recently a new road which is an extension of Avenue 51, was completed across the range of hills between York Boulevard and Eagle Rock city. On the Eagle Rock side the grade runs as high as 18 per cent and has several sharp turns.

Some one told Moskovics about the hills and as he is always looking about for practical tests for the Stutz he made the hill a visit in a brougham. The car negotiated the steepest pitches, he says, in high gear at speeds ranging from ten to twenty miles an hour. Moskovics also stopped the car on a couple of the steepest places to test the emergency brake which held the brougham like a rock.

CITIZENS CAN'T WAIT FOR ROAD SO START BUILDING THEIR OWN

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—In view of the contemplated action on the part of the county to give motorists another stretch of scenic mountain road overlooking the whole of San Fernando Valley, individuals have completed a trail road leading from the divide at the head of Pacoima Canyon to the Little Tujunga according to W. B. Folger, a pioneer of San Fernando, who was instrumental in getting the local business men to sign a petition last spring asking the Board of Supervisors to make a road up the canyon to the divide. Interested individuals, headed by Leo Jordon, have put in a part of the summer making a trail road leading from the divide to the Red Ledge, Chance, Indicator and other mineral claims now waiting development because of lack of adequate roads.

The petition originally called for six miles of country road up the Pacoima Canyon, but this has since been reduced to three miles, due to private enterprise. The estimated cost was originally placed at $30,000 by county officials. This amount is now reduced to $10,000, declares Folger.

Spring Grease Brings More Comfort in Car

"The greatest improvement in riding comfort that can be made with reasonable expense on the average privately owned car today is to grease the springs well, put on spring covers, and automatic lubricators to maintain this condition, and then fit shock absorbers which resist spring recoil but do not make the springs stiffer on the bumps."

The quotation marks are those of F. C. Mock, research engineer of the Stromberg Motor Devices company writing in the journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

"Mock has placed his finger exactly on the easy riding problem and its solution," says C. A. Roesch, president of the Alemite Lubricator Company of California. "Alemite spring protectors, plus the Alemite system of lubrication, plus a set of good shock absorbers will make any car in the world ride easier."

. . . A fine degree of road balance and easy riding for which Marmon has been famous for years and which has never been approached in any other car—Marmon's exclusive type of compensating rear springs keep the body of the car on even keel when leaving the crown of the road.

. . . Unsurpassed safety—the only car with patented shock-resisting type of frame with built-in steel running boards, or "side bumpers" which have many times saved Marmon owners from harm.

Ready for Any Weather

A thrifty car for busy men

The business or professional man's car must be built

1. To be moderate in initial outlay and low in upkeep.
2. To provide comfortable transportation in all kinds of weather.
3. To be on the job constantly.
4. To last a long, long time.

Reo, America's longest lasting car, meets these needs—with room to spare—in its Coupe.

What Long Life Means in a Business Car

The business man's car must stand persistent day-in and day-out use.

It must stand all kinds of weather—long hours in rain or cold—yet start quickly. It must be ready when wanted—not off in some repair shop while valuable hours slip by.

Yet no car is watched more closely for operating economy than is a business car.

It must show up well in the engineer's or cost accountant's reports.

Built to Keep Upkeep Down

Here the busy man finds freedom from repair troubles; alert strength for long, hard runs; nimble ease for threading tangled traffic; and quiet good taste—essential for business or professional use.

Reo is so designed that vital units are quickly and easily "get-at-able," adjustments and replacements are made without tearing down connecting units.

Reo is built of tested materials—every part on every Reo is individually tested—so that wear and the necessity for repairs is remarkably low.

Come in and check over the points where Reo saves you time and money when repairs are needed.

No American car—not even the most costly ones—lasts as long as Reo.

And in this long life, this proven stamina under any and all conditions, lies Reo's superiority as a car for the steady grind of business use.

Three Added Years to Use or Sell

Statistical studies have proved that Reo outlives the average American car by three years.

This means that the business user can split his depreciation—the largest single item of automobile costs—over more years, making costs less per year. Or it means that the resale value of his Reo is increased accordingly, if he sells rather than uses this additional life.

A Quality Buy at Moderate Price

The average of published prices for all other six-cylinder Coupes of Reo's size is $2,485. Reo beats this by $990.

The average price of all six-cylinder Coupes, of all sizes is $2,854. Reo beats this by $1,327.

And with this saving in initial outlay, you are buying longest life.

And It Is Light

Reo combines long life with light weight. This Reo Coupe is the lightest six-cylinder American Coupe of its size—325 pounds lighter than the average of others of its size—388 pounds lighter than the average for all six-cylinder coupes.

Its lightness, combined with its sturdiness, is another guarantee of low operating costs and easy riding.

Lasting Good Looks

Visit your Reo dealer today. Note the unostentatious charm of this Coupe.

It's a car that the business executive or the salesman, the doctor or the engineer can be proud to be seen in. And because of its inherent good taste, it will remain so.

For the man who wants a second car—a personal car—the qualities which make the Reo Coupe the best business buy commend it to him—moderate first cost, low upkeep, long life, and good looks.

Drive this Reo Coupe—feel its ease and agility, on its full balloon tires.

It will give you driving comfort in any weather for years to come.

Announce New Victoria in Custom Line

An addition to the Studebaker line of a Standard Six Custom Victoria for four passengers was announced today by the Studebaker Corporation of America through the Paul G. Hoffman Company, local Studebaker distributors. This model is now being shown at the local Studebaker display room.

"Like its predecessors, the Custom Sedans, the Custom Victoria combines features of beauty, comfort and refinement heretofore provided only by exclusive carrossiers. Yet, through the One-Profit facilities of the Studebaker organization, this car is produced at a cost which is well within reach of the majority of motorists," says E. L. Carpenter, president of the Hoffman organization.

"Probably the most conspicuous feature of the Custom Victoria, from the standpoint of riding comfort, is its unusual roominess. Its designers so planned the interior that there is adequate seating and leg room for four adult passengers. Despite its roominess, however, there is not even the slightest suggestion of bulk in its trim appearance. The same low-swung, graceful lines which have won for the Custom Sedans recognition as heralds of a new era of automotive draughtsmanship also characterize this latest addition to the custom designed line.

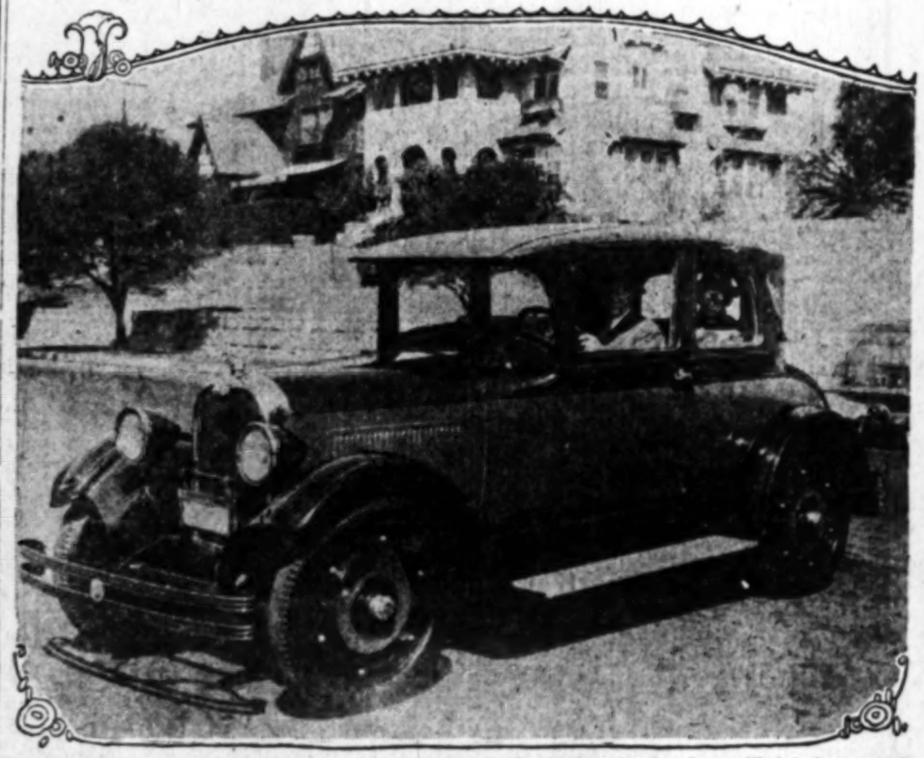
"The seating arrangement is just as comfortable as it is compact. Two passengers are carried in the wide, deeply cushioned and form-fashioned club seat, which is set at the right and slightly to the rear of the driver's seat. The fourth passenger rides in the auxiliary seat which affords complete comfort even on long tours. When used for three, the auxiliary seat folds under the cowl.

"The grace and poise of the low, sleek body are accentuated by the lustrous lacquer finish of Kinick Green and Tuchi Gray. The belt is finished in ebony with Apple Green striping.

"All of the features of driving convenience and refinement developed by Studebaker for the Custom Sedans are found in the Victoria. The scientifically designed windshield—exclusively Studebaker—provides ventilation without drafts. By means of a convenient handle, this windshield may be adjusted to direct the air over the heads of the passengers or down under the cowl at will. It functions even during the hardest shower, for hidden troughs carry off the rain and no water may enter the body of the car.

"The instrument board carries an engine temperature indicator, gasoline gauge, speedometer, ammeter and oil pressure gauge, neatly grouped under glass and illuminated by indirect light. On the top of the steering column, is the control lever for the two-beam acorn headlights. A coincidental lock to ignition and steering gear is controlled by the same key which unlocks the door, spare tire lock, and rear deck compartment."

A Custom-Designed Victoria Coupe



This four-passenger model is mounted on the standard six Studebaker chassis. Squire West is here seen behind the wheel of the first of these models to arrive in Los Angeles.

NEVER WORTH MORE

"There must be thousands of automobile owners, who are just on the verge of buying a new car but are hesitating in the hope that they will eventually be able to get a better price for their used car," said Harold L. Arnold. "If these owners knew the facts, they would realize that they are entertaining a false hope for no used car will ever be worth more than it is today. Every day that the owner drives a car that is unsuited to his use, either because of changed conditions in his family or finances, or because he just naturally wants a better automobile, is postponing that joyful day when he drives home with a brand new up-to-date car."

Thinks Farm Business to See Prosperity

"Two years ago every business man in the United States was wondering when the farmer was going to come back," said Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company.

"Well, he is back. Texas and the whole Southwest, after years of uncertainty cleaning up bank loans, killing off the Boll Weevil and readjusting themselves to new conditions, is now on the crest of a wave of prosperity."

"Of course, there are a few spots where the rust got into the cotton but the crop will be bigger than ever before."

Out in the pan-handle of Texas, according to Jordan, where the new oil boom is on, automobile dealers are springing up every day. They want roadsters, coupes, collapsible tops, and all the big-city stuff that goes with a real boom.

Oil is pouring out of the ground and everybody is happy.

Ten million dollars has been appropriated for roads around Houston, Tex., alone. Thousands of miles of new roads are being built everywhere.

These favorable conditions extend all the way from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border and from the Pacific Coast to the Mississippi River, and when that section of the country is prosperous it is bound to be reflected throughout the other half.

"It looks like good business for at least eighteen months ahead," said Jordan, and of course, no one would dare predict much further than that."

PICKS A ROADSTER

Gladys Glad, winner of the Atlantic City bathing beauty contest recently, chose as an award, a Willys Knight great six roadster, according to L. J. McCracken, manager of the Willys-Overland-Pacific Company here.

NEED LUBRICATION

The lubrication of odd parts of a car or truck such as the steering gear, rear axle, transmission and spring shackle bolts is vital if maximum life is to be given by the various parts, says Thomas M. Ray, vice-president of the Federal Motor Truck Company of California, Inc.

BRITISH TAX HEAVY

Let your anticipations run high when you come to see this newest and smartest Jewett. For its builders have gone far to embellish this car of moderate size and moderate cost with things that in the past have been reserved for those of great wealth.

The very lines of this Jewett instantly bespeak style. Its cushioned seats resemble those of the drawing room. Its walnut-finish panels skillfully inlaid, give an air of custom-exclusiveness quite uncommon. Its instrument panel is as charming as a beautiful watch, and the instruments as accurate. And back of its beauty and charm and grace—an ultra-modern motor (considerably larger than the former Jewett motor) and equipped with air cleaner, chain timing, bronze-backed bearings and high pressure lubrication; an even more dependable Jewett chassis; and Paige-Hydraulic Four-Wheel brakes.

MOUNTAIN FIRE TOWER INSPECTED

Local Man Visits Oat Mountain, Making Study of Prevention

Forest-fire prevention has been the subject of a great deal of scientific study recently by both the United States Forest Service and county authorities in every section of California. Our disastrous fires of last year and the year before have caused everyone responsible for the huge task of preventing, as far as possible, the outbreak of fires and the subduing of these fires once they start, to redouble their efforts this year in reducing the number of accidental fires in the brush-covered and forested areas.

This information was obtained last week by L. D. Barber, architect's superintendent, who is working on the plans for the huge new Arnold Building, when he took the opportunity to drive a Gardner Imperial sedan to the top of the Santa Susana range of mountains. When Barber and another member of the Harold L. Arnold organization started on their trip they had no idea where they were going or what they were going to do. In traveling along the highway from San Fernando to Chatsworth they came to a sign which pointed to Brown's Canyon, and out of curiosity took the turn which led them to more information about the United States government fire prevention than they had ever known before. Brown's Canyon proved to be a beautiful stretch of more or less privately owned property extending northward into the Santa Susana range of hills. At the end of the canyon the Gardner party took the left-hand turn, which led upward and gave some promise of reaching a high-enough elevation to offer a view of the immense San Fernando Valley.

The road offered more than the view that was expected. The road led up a series of switchbacks and finally came to a fork in the road, one of which was sign-posted, "Oat Mountain Fire Lookout." This road led steeply up the mountain side, with grades ranging as high as 26 to 30 per cent.

At the summit Barber found a thirty-six-foot steel tower, which had been erected by the United States Forestry Service for the purpose of serving as a lookout point for forest fires. A "sailor's ladder" led to the "crow's nest," where Barber found Victor Oliver Lopez on duty.

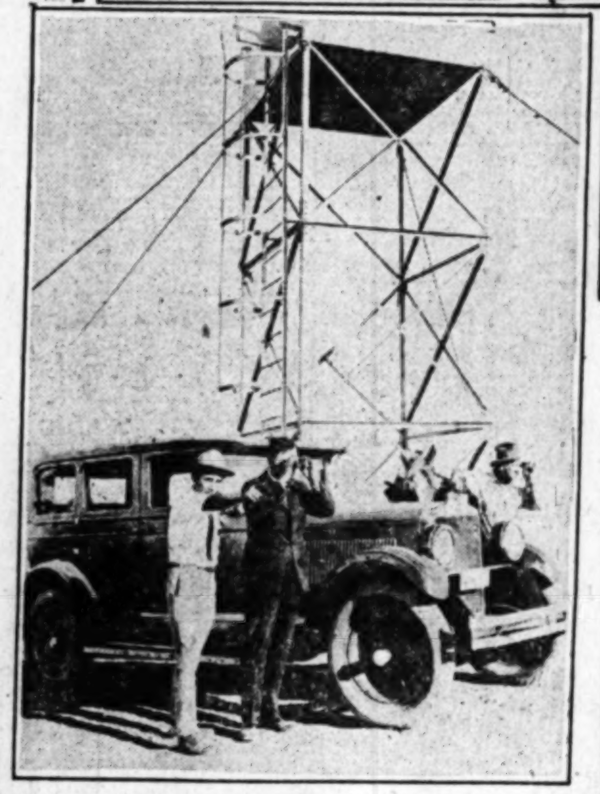
Lopez proved a very hospitable host and did not hesitate to give his visitors all of the information which they could possibly desire regarding forest fires. He explained to them the exact operation of this lookout point, which is one of several established in Southern California and which operate in conjunction with one another in such a manner that it is a very simple matter to quickly and easily get the location of any fire which may be discernible in the distance.

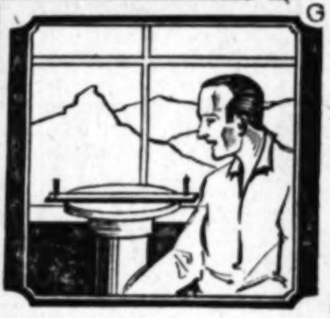
The "crow's nest" consists of a square steel watchtower with glass on all four sides. Exactly in the center of the floor is a stand upon which has been mounted a United States Geological Survey map of the Southern California territory. Every farmhouse and every road is marked on the map, as well as all bodies of water, streams and other information of primary interest.

At the exact location of the Oat Mountain lookout station on the map a small pivot has been arranged which carries a revolving sighting instrument. This instrument enables the operator to sight through it to any location in the surrounding territory, and a circle marked in 360 degrees gives him the scientifically accurate direction from his station.

Indications of a fire having been spotted, Lopez sights it through his instrument, obtains the reading and telephones by private wire to a master station in Newhall, which has an exact duplicate of this map and others that are used in the system. Lopez informs the operator that a smoke or fire has been sighted, gives him the approximate magnitude the exact number of degrees at which his sighting instrument cuts the circle, the barometric pressure, the relative humidity, the temperature and atmospheric conditions generally. If the fire is so far away that its exact distance from the station cannot be estimated, the station at Newhall telephones to another station located on a distant peak from which the fire can be sighted, asking the operator at Station No. 2 to take the bearing of the smoke from his location. This information is then taken to the master map in the Newhall station and a cross-bearing taken, which locates the smoke within a few blocks in every instance.

"Don't Play With Matches"





Perhaps visitors to the mountain and forest regions do not play with them, but they are sometimes careless with them and the campfires they start. As a result V. O. Lopez has a pretty good job as fire lookout on top of Oat Mountain, where he is seen by the fire tower with L. D. Barber, on his left. F. A. Traves is on the other side of the Gardner. The photo at the top shows Barber opening one of the gates on the way up the mountain.

SUGGESTS TEST

When taking demonstration of a motor car to learn whether it will operate smoothly, have the driver show you how slow it will run in high gear pulling up a slight grade, rather than how fast it will go, suggests Selig Cahn, vice-president of the White Auto Company, Auburn straight eight distributor.

OIL TELLS STORY

Examine the oil removed from the crankcase to learn the story of an engine's condition. Water in the oil indicates a leaking cylinder head gasket and small particles of metal can undue wear on some part which should be investigated at once, stated Thomas M. Ray, vice-president of the Federal Motor Truck Company of California, Inc.

Oil Rectifier Great Saving to Motorist

Some engineers have worked on the theory that if dirt is kept out of the lubricating oil in an automobile engine, or if the dirt that gets in is strained out of the oil, the thin oil due to dilution will not be harmful. Others have worked on the theory that if gasoline and water are kept out and the viscosity of the oil is kept up fairly well, the dirt will not do much harm, writes W. G. Wall, a consulting engineer of Indianapolis, in the Journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers. He believes, however, that it is necessary to work along both lines and either keep out or get rid of both the dirt and the dilution.

Few appreciate the enormous amount of dirt that gets into the engine, the amount of dilution that gets past the pistons or the amount of water that gets into the crankcase from condensation of the water vapor of combustion. Any strainer that takes out the dirt helps to alleviate the faults due to the sludge formed by mixture of the dirt with the emulsion produced by the churning together of the oil and water, but to eliminate the sludge altogether, according to Mr. Wall, it is necessary to get rid of all the water.

This is the purpose of an oil rectifier, in which exhaust gases from the engine cylinders pass through a jacket surrounding a distillation chamber into which the oil is pumped from the crankcase at the rate of about three gallons per hour. The oil is filtered and goes through the distilling apparatus about once every hour for an average-sized crankcase.

The rectifier has a lower compartment provided with a large asbestos filter sack through which the oil must pass and which removes all of the dirt before the oil enters the upper or distillation chamber. Heat in this chamber drives off the gasoline and water in the form of vapor, which is then drawn into the carburetor and burned in the engine. The filtered and rectified oil is then returned to the crankcase.

A good commercial rectifier should strain the dirt out of the oil, distill off the diluent and water, maintain the viscosity of the oil, eliminate the necessity for draining the crankcase so often, increase the oil and gasoline mileage, prevent much of the wear of cylinder walls and bearings, permit the use of lighter grades of oil the year around, prevent freezing of the oil pump in cold weather, keep the pistons sealed, and increase the compression and power, help to prevent fouling of the spark plugs, and prevent rusting and the formation of sulphuric acid and sludge.

Some of the rectifiers on the market accomplish all of these things to a certain extent, and others accomplish some of them extremely well, according to Mr Wall, who expresses the hope that some day we shall see a rectifier that will accomplish all of them perfectly.

INDICTMENT IN MAIL FRAUD SETS PRECEDENT

A unique indictment has just been returned in the United States District Court at Chicago against S. L. Bennett and E. A. Chapman of Indianapolis and E. M. Springsteen of Chicago, and, in the opinion of lawyers, a new legal precedent may have been established in this case, which has to do with use of the mails to defraud.

Defendants are charged with having used the mails for the purchase of materials to manufacture counterfeit Boyce moto meters, by assembling them from materials bought from various reputable firms. The indictment charges that several thousand instruments were so made and sold throughout the Middle West. Defendants made no effort to sell their product through the mails, but counsel for the Moto Meter Company contended that purchasing through the mails materials for illegal use was fraudulent. It is also the first time that the government has given attention to users of the mails in furtherance of a scheme to sell counterfeit automobile devices.

INCREASE SALES FORCE

Further carrying out their sales expansion program, the Velie Motors Corporation of Moline, Ill., has appointed Mr. J. S. Malchow, formerly connected with the R. C. Smith Automobile Company, the Velie distributor in Minneapolis, as Northwest district manager.

OLD-TIMERS VISIT HERE

Two men who have been with Reo for more than twenty years, one as a dealer and one as a factory representative, met in Los Angeles the other day through the efforts of Herbert E. Woodward, president of the Reo Motor Car Company of California.

W. D. Vandecar, Reo dealer of Grand Rapids, Mich., enjoys the distinction of having the longest Reo selling record of any man in the world. He bought a car for demonstration purposes in 1904 which bore serial number 37, and has been selling Reos ever since.

Dave Fassett, Reo factory representative in this district, worked for Vandecar in 1905 and 1906 and has been connected with Reo in one capacity or another since that time.

Vandecar was in Los Angeles on a vacation trip with his wife and daughter. He had left Grand Rapids July 2 and driven over practically every mountain range between here and there in the meantime, even going into the Northwest in search of peaks that would try the mettle of his car. And he told Mr. Woodward that he had not yet found it necessary to add a drop of water to his radiator—that he still had the Grand Rapids water in there and intended to take it back with him.

Incidentally, Mr. Vandecar took the opportunity to remark that he gave entire credit for his financial and business success since 1904 to the fact that [illegible] "The car has always [illegible] my customers have [illegible] fied. That's the [illegible] in any enterprise," he said.

You have probably noted the rapidly increasing number of new Cadillac owners who have heretofore restricted themselves to lesser cars.

The movement toward the great new line of Cadillac cars is, of course, actuated partly by the fact that point-by-point comparison reveals the Cadillac to be the greater dollar value.

This new demand for Cadillac, however, has a deeper meaning. It indicates a growing public conviction that, in the long run, the best in motor cars—like the best in everything else—is also the best investment.

And Cadillac is acknowledged the best of all fine cars—not simply because tests prove it to be one of the fastest stock cars in the world, or because of any other one or two or three other features—but because in it every feature is developed to that complete excellence which is Cadillac.

Cadillac is today outselling—two-to-one—the combined total of all other cars at or above its price.

The great new line of Cadillac cars in 50 Body Types and Styles and 500 Color and Upholstery Combinations is another important advance in a continuous series of forward steps which had already left Cadillac almost alone in its own fine field.

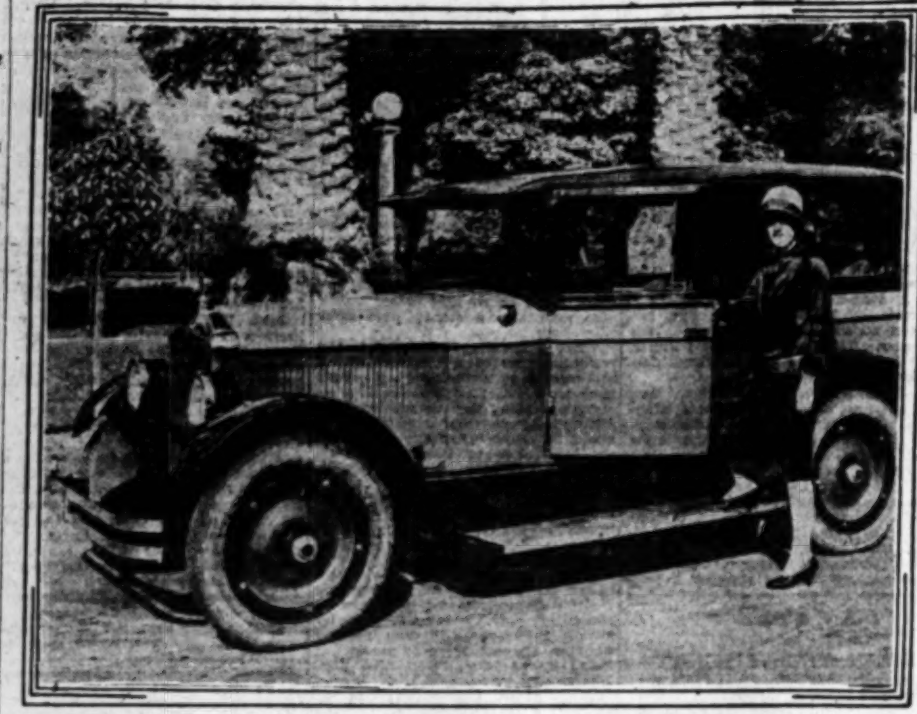
In the depressed area the seed is planted. Water is drawn from a near-by well by women and carried in jars to the garden, where it is poured conservatively and carefully in each sunken surface.

Nineteen-Twenty-seven Line Is Completed



The de luxe Moon sedan is the last of the new series to arrive on the Coast. The change in the radiotor on this make is clearly shown in the picture. Formerly the radiotors were made in straight lines with all sides flat. Miss Claramae Prevost is at the door.

WEARS TIRES OUT

According to the United States Bureau of Standards experts it is internal friction rather than the compression of a car's weight that wears out most automobile tires, says Don P. Smith, distributor of Moon six and Diana light straight eight motor cars.

OWNERS' REGARD FOR CAR HELD PROFITABLE

The propensity of men and women to ascribe living entity to inanimate things in their possession should be encouraged, is the contention of D. R. McBryde, of the McBryde Lubricating Service here. It is a most wholesome characteristic in his opinion, and one that is highly remunerative both in satisfaction gained and money conserved.

"Whenever there is a car owner, for instance, who calls his automobile by a pet name and in other ways shows his affectionate regard for it," says McBryde, "you can be sure he is one that is considerate of his car and tries to take care of it. He may drive it like the wind, but he does not abuse it by quick turns and sudden stops and starts. A marred fender is as much to be grieved over as if it made the machine flinch and whimper. And the radiator is never allowed to go thirsty, nor the crank case, transmission, differential and grease cups hunger for lubricants."

Demand for opium grown in Turkey is unusually great this year.

Angora will have a wireless station.

NEW STYLE SEDAN IS ON DISPLAY

Model Completes Line of Cars for 1927 Production Series

Making its bow to Los Angeles, the new jubilee Moon six-sixty de luxe sedan is being displayed here by Don P. Smith, Inc., distributor of Moon and Diana automobiles. This model completes the line of these light-six cars now produced by the Moon Motor Car Company.

In this deluxe sedan, the engineers have carried out the European idea of compactness and low-hung, road-gripping appearance.

The lower body panels are finished in Yucca gray lacquer with the superstructure in black. The belt is colored a Russian tan and striped with Nile green. The bald-head steel back is a feature. Polished plate-glass is used throughout and window regulators are of the new Dura type. Front pillars are of the narrow, safety-vision kind. The swinging windshield provides ventilation.

Upholstery is of Chase combination mohair with flexible robe rail. The rear back cushions, which are very high and are removable, are a new Moon feature and this permits of cleaning. The inside garnish moldings and instrument board are made of metal finished in Duco to harmonize with the car's interior. Instruments are grouped in one panel indirectly lighted.

NAME DEALER

Another dealer has been added to the Harold L. Arnold distributing organization in the person of A. Van Diermen of Santa Monica, who signed a contract for the sale of Gardner automobiles in the Santa Monica district last week. Van Diermen has a salesroom and a repair department where Gardner owners of the Bay District will find every convenience at their disposal.

Just After Landing in Los Angeles

Miss Betty Davis only waited for the Chandler big six coupe to be unloaded before she took it for a spin. The body is finished in a light color, silver gray on the top deck, and wheels with silver gray, and the sides of the body and upper structure in Sheridan gray.

FAIL TO GUARD AUTOS

Eighty-five per cent of the motorists of Los Angeles are so careless about guarding their cars from theft that they do not even lock them when leaving them parked along the curbs or at other spots, according to a survey just completed by the statistical department of the Gilmore Oil Company.

This figure is borne out by records of the police department, which also show that 6964 of the 7456 machines stolen last year were unlocked at the time of the thefts.

According to the Gilmore report, automobile owners appear to have definite habits in the safeguarding of their machines.

Drivers of cars which sell from $900 to $1600 are inclined generally to be more careful about locking their parked machines as a precaution against theft than either those owners of machines selling for less or those whose transportation investment runs between $1600 and $3000 according to the report.

On the other hand, the fact that cars selling for more than $3000 are the most carefully guarded of all classes was explained by the fact that they are generally under the watchful eyes of chauffeurs who never leave them from the time they are driven from the garage at a private residence until they return from trips.

One thousand automobiles were checked in each class in the making of the survey by the Gilmore statistical department, it was stated. The check was made both in the downtown areas and in the residential sections of the city.

STAGE COMPANY TO MOVE INTO BUILDING

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—The Original Stage Line Company expects to be in its new depot and garage quarters on Porter avenue by November 1, it is announced by Walt Collins, contractor, who is constructing a 50x100 building for the line. The present stage depot, in the center of the business district on Porter avenue, has become too cramped. The new building will be of Spanish mission type, with model waiting-rooms, offices, chauffeur's rooms and garage, the latter opening on Celia, one block south of Porter avenue.

What the safety of the New SAFETY STUTZ means to those who drive in it

AS THOUSANDS of motorists have already discovered, the advanced design of the New Safety Stutz not only affords a more complete physical protection than has ever before been available to the motorist, but it also imparts a new pleasure to automobile riding. The following statements are quoted from letters of owners, testifying to the revelations of surpassing safety and riding-and-driving charm that they have experienced in their New Safety Stutz cars:

"I am especially pleased with the way it stays on the road, its safety features, and hill-climbing ability."
—E. M. Telle, El Dorado, Ark.

"It is wonderful the way the car hugs the road. The sense of security in it owing to this quality, and to the wonderful system of brakes, is very gratifying."
—Paul J. Howard, Los Angeles, Calif.

"Another pleasing feature of the car, and one which gives great satisfaction and sense of security in times of emergency, is the hydrostatic brakes."
—C. L. Parsons, San Francisco, Calif.

"The sense of security which one feels in rounding curves is like traveling on a first-class railroad where the outer rail is given the proper elevation and the curve the correct alignment for express train speed."
—Geo. H. Cobb, Santa Barbara, Calif.

"—a car that inspires you with confidence in your own safety."
—W. R. Morehouse, Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have given the Hydrostatic Brakes some severe tests and they have at all times worked perfectly, with little or no adjusting; let me stress this point, that I feel absolutely safe with my foot on the brake pedal."
—J. C. Clemence, Pasadena, Calif.

"The ease with which the car can be handled in traffic, the quick response of power when called upon, together with the added sense of security afforded by the lower center of gravity, are features which place it in the lead among fine cars." —W. H. Moody, Tampa, Fla.

"The lower center of gravity of the car is, indeed, a real advantage. One can take the corners at a fast clip without the uncomfortable feeling of tipping. You have easy riding qualities, and you have the greater feeling of security which comes from compactness, low center of gravity, and great staunchness of construction."
—John H. Lee, Chicago, Ill.

"A most important consideration, also, is safety. One should not have to experience an accident before thinking of safety features which may some day prevent loss of life or limb, and your company deserves credit for giving it prime consideration.

"I have really been astounded by the performance of the brakes on the New Stutz, the most important safety factor. Of course, I knew their principle was theoretically perfect, but in actual use they are nothing short of marvelous. "On city streets, so slippery with snow that the rear wheels spin around when getting under way, I have purposely used the brakes as if on a dry pavement, and with the same quick stop,—not a vestige of skidding. A feature of safety, also, is the steering, which is so easy and quick that nothing better could be desired. The acceleration, too, is so remarkable, the response so instant, that, combined with the lowness and evident ruggedness of the car, one's feeling of safety is complete."
—Roger Brooks, Chicago, Ill.

"There is a sense of security in riding in this car—at any speed—that I have never felt before, due, I think, to the lower center of gravity. My car has never skidded an inch—and I have tried to make it. The hydrostatic four-wheel brake system is the most perfect brake I have ever used."
—Frederick H. Bartlett, Chicago, Ill.

"The power, flexibility and feeling of security while driving in heavy traffic and at speed is a source of satisfaction which I have never before realized in any car."
—Don Deal, Springfield, Ill.

"And as to safety: 'Carefree days' describes it. I feel perfectly comfortable at any speed and on any road. Detours mean nothing. My wife and three-year-old daughter are more enthusiastic than I am. No more back seat driving. It's now 'Daddy, drive fast'."
—R. V. Sowers, Muncie, Ind.

"I feel quite safe when driving on a wet asphalt street."
—Dr. Arthur Gundlach, St. Louis, Mo.

"I find it is less inclined to skid over wet roads than other enclosed cars which I have driven. I have tried it out a number of times where the roads have been wet and felt safe, for speed and hill-climbing."
—Edward Reid, Lumberton, N. J.

"It steers and operates with perfect ease and lends that feeling of complete safety so essential to comfortable travel."

Resort Notes

Nature's playground—two magic words that speak volumes to the prospective vacationist — those in search of health, rest and recreation —and if volumes were written they would not convey more clearly the beckoning call of the great outdoors. Nature was rather lavish when she was distributing her favors about the Golden West, but she seemed especially so when she came to Ventura county in which Wheelers' Hot Springs is located. Enticingly nestled high in the green-covered Ventura mountains, only nineteen miles from the Pacific Ocean, Wheelers is favored in the summer months with the ocean breezes and the absence of the other extreme in the winter months is evidenced by the fact that the orange trees throughout the grounds never freeze.

Situated on the banks of the North Fork of the Ventura River, a cold, clear, mountain-trout stream, the grounds covered with hundreds of beautiful shade trees of every description, Wheelers is a veritable natural mountain park, and with the many interesting foot and saddle paths leading deeper into the surrounding mountains, it has a lure that calls the people back year after year.

The wonderful natural setting of the resort and the exceptional climatic conditions are reason enough for the maintenance of a highly satisfactory vacation spot, but the fact that Wheelers also has in addition many large and wonderful springs of medicinally famous hot and cold mineral waters gives it a combination of natural advantages that is unexcelled and offers unusual healthful recreation. The open-air plunge is filled with a constantly flowing stream of naturally warm water and the tub baths are hot. It makes one feel like new, for the waters are quieting and healing and give one back that vitality lost in the usual rush of daily life.

For those that want to "just play," Wheelers has much to offer. The playgrounds for the kiddies, the burros, the saddle horses, trout fishing, three streams, swimming, hunting, tennis, quoits, billiards, bowling and dancing.

As usual the Mt. Wilson Hotel and bungalows reports a full house over Friday night. Wendell P. Hoge gave his usual interesting astronomical lecture in the hotel casino after which the party visited the great sixty-inch reflecting telescope. The moon was in an unusually good phase for observation and by special request the "Great Ring Nebula in the Constellation of Lyra" was shown for the first time. The planet Jupiter with two satellites in view was the last object shown. The announcement by the observatory that the great red planet, Mars, is now in favorable position for observation and will so remain for several months this fall will no doubt interest astronomical classes and enthusiasts the country over.

Following is a partial list of recent guests at the Mt. Wilson Hotel and bungalows: Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Shaeffer, W. H. Mortimer and wife, Claude Cummins and party, W. N. Kell and party, C. H. Richard and wife, Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Manhart, all of Los Angeles; Miss Anna Nordin and Mrs. Edward D. Wetmore, of Santa Barbara; Miss Marry H. Collins of Pomona; B. Frank Thorn, Jr., of New Castle, Pa.; George Wilson of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Leo H. McCarthy, Dr. Ethel Panson, Nellie H. Rogers, Miss Clara Graves and Miss Carrie Parsons, J. W. A. Luce, Sarah Frazer, Ethel Borroughs, all of Pasadena; Miss Florence Jenkins of San Francisco; Thomas D. Rockwell of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Norris S. Gath of Erie, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Graves of Houston, Texas; P. J. McGuire of Tulsa, Okla., and Thomas R. Gorman of Oklahoma City, Okla.

A communication from R. L. Bisby, manager of St. Ann's Inn at Santa Ana, paints a rosy picture of conditions at the Inn and the outlook for the coming fall and winter season. In fact he is brimful of confidence as the following excerpt, taken from his letter, will testify to:

"I have had a fine vacation and rest; all of my crew have had their vacations and we are now ready to welcome you to St. Ann's Inn with a new zest. We have brought in the big black log for the old fireplace and it will not be long before it will be necessary to have it brightly burning.

"We have beautified the grounds, trimmed the shrubbery and tried our best to look pretty for fall. It is a pleasure to sit out on the porch and look out over the green grass at the shrubbery and trees and hear the birds sing. It will be restful. Try it.

"The next important holiday that we know of will be Thanksgiving. Now last Thanksgiving we had hundreds of reservations and we feel sure that there will be many more this year. We will make reservations in accordance with the order in which they are received, so make your plans to have your Thanksgiving dinner at St. Ann's Inn. We believe it was a good dinner last year and if there is any earthly chance of improving it for this year we are going to do it."

At Warner Hot Springs, in the San Diego Mountains, there is good hunting during the open season. Dove in unlimited number may be found during the season and it is a comparatively easy matter to secure the limit. Quail, both valley and mountain, are also very plentiful. There are eight lakes on the ranch, and during the duck season there is great sport for hunters, for there is usually an abundance of mallards and canvas backs. Deer abound in the surrounding mountains, and last season a number were killed in the near vicinity of Warner Hot Springs. There are unlimited number of coyotes, bobcats, coons, foxes and rabbits and they are not protected by a closed season.

Warner Hot Springs is only sixty-eight miles from San Diego, over excellent motor roads, 134 miles from Los Angeles via Temecula, seventy-eight miles from Riverside and ninety miles from San Bernardino. A good way to reach Warner's from Los Angeles is by way of the coast road to Oceanside, thence inland to Vista, Escondido, San Pasqual, Ramona and Santa Ysabel.

Hotel, housekeeping cottages and camping privileges are available at Warner Hot Springs.

The following people were guests of the Santa Maria Inn at Santa Maria during the past week: Judge and Mrs. Carlos S. Hardy, Bishop and Mrs. H. J. Johnson, Mr. G. Allan Hancock and Mr. W. E. Strobridge, Mr. and Mrs. B J Badham, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Gurnsey, Countess Domska and Mrs. Charles Eyton, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Mosher, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gates, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Angle, who were accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Wilkenson of Melbourne, Australia, all of Pasadena, and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McClung of Huntington Park.

The Blue Sea Cottages at picturesque La Jolla are open the year around. A number of well-furnished bungalows for housekeeping are maintained which are equipped with kitchenettes and include electricity, gas and baths.

Swimming, hiking, fishing, golf and tennis are especially appealing to sport lovers and here they may be found at all seasons, due to the exceptionally even climate. The Blue Sea Cottages are 115 miles south of Los Angeles and may be reached over excellent roads.

TRAINS GONE; WHISTLE STAYS

BISBEE, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—This city, the largest in the West where passenger traffic is wholly handled by motor cars, has retained, at least, the locomotive whistle. On the big bus that meets the Southern Pacific trains at Bisbee Junction has been installed a siren that carries the same note that was sounded by the engine that formerly pulled the local passenger train.

FEATURE NEW SEDAN HERE TODAY

New Models Are All to be De Luxe Type

Characterized as "the second most beautiful car in America," models of the new Jewett are on display today in the showrooms of the Paige Company of Southern California and dealers.

Coincident with the display of the latest products from one of the pioneer automobile factories of the country, is an announcement from the Paige-Detroit Company that de luxe features are standard in each of the models and that "the standard" and "special" models will no longer be built.

A four-door sedan, a type not previously included in the line, has been added and is regarded as the leader. This model will be featured in the show rooms of Southern California dealers today.

Graceful lines characterize the new Jewett models, the designers planning to bring them up to the beauty standard long set by the larger and more expensive Paige models, according to J. M. Sterling, manager of the Paige Company of Southern California, distributors.

The reason advanced by the manufacturers for the concentration on de luxe models only is that the buying public is demanding better appearance, style and comfort in automobiles, as well as quality in mechanical construction. Sales records of the company show that the de luxe models have led over the plainer types.

Several mechanical improvements feature the model shown today for the first time.

An increase in the bore, present specifications being two and seven-eighths inches and a stroke of four and three quarters inches with 185 cubic inches displacement.

Lighter cast-iron pistons which weigh but fifteen and a half ounces as compared to twenty-two ounces in previous models.

An air cleaner mounted vertically in front of the carburetor.

Bronze-backed main bearings of interchangeable type instead of die-cast with a gain in accessibility and servicing operations.

Tire sizes have been increased from 29 by 4.75 to 30 by 5.25. This has added to the riding ease and to the appearance of the car, declares Sterling. Running boards have been dropped one and a half inches, giving the automobile a lower appearance.

The sun visors are integral with the roof, extending the curving sweep of the top well to the front of the windshield.

STOCKTON WORK DONE

All construction work which has been in progress at the north city limits of Stockton has been completed, eliminating a detour, states a bulletin from the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

MAKE CLEAN SWEEP FOR THIRD SEASON

Champion spark plugs, through being in Charavel's winning Bugatti at the Grand Prix of Italy, at Monza, made a clean sweep at every important racing event throughout Europe, both for 1926 and for the third consecutive year as well. The Italian Grand Prix climaxed European racing for the 1926 season. Champion equipped cars scored clean sweeps this year in the Grand Prix of Europe, England, France, Belgium, Spain, Germany and Italy, in addition to dozens of other European road and track events.

Almost simultaneously, Ralph DePalma, America's famed veteran of the roaring ovals, set a new world ten-mile dirt track record over a mile strack, when he averaged 81.01 miles per hour in his Champion equipped Miller special at Syracuse, N. Y., Labor Day. In the same series of events, DePalma, racing against time, made a mile in 41.38 seconds —an average of 86.98 miles an hour—shattering Milton's former mark of a mile in 42.28 seconds, made with Champions in 1923.

BILLION ON ROADS

More than $1,000,000,000 was spent in improving highways of the United States last year according to a notice sent to Collins & Lusby, distributors of Stearns-Knight cars in Southern California.

Steady Pace Results in Most Miles

BY ERWIN GREER.

[President Greer College of Automotive and Electrical Trades, Chicago, Ill.]

The car you are driving is probably capable of a speed of from sixty to seventy miles an hour—but you cannot use this speed for any length of time without flirting with the angels. The modern highway, while built like a speedway, isn't a one-way proposition like the race track. Therefore, the driver who speeds must always make frequent and nerve-racking stops, which cuts down his average time to a minimum. His speed is far below that of the driver who maintains a steady pace hour after hour.

What is speeding? Since it is the primary cause of a majority of all automobile accidents, isn't it about time that it is plainly defined?

A great many motorists think that there is something magically safe about motoring, when the speedometer hugs close to twenty miles an hour. Yet speeding can happen at any speed.

One driver has discovered that much can be learned about speeding by driving the car with the speedometer disconnected. For the test he secured the services of a friend who followed him over a prescribed course in another car. The driver with the disconnected speedometer proceeded just as he would under normal conditions, and then checked up with the actual speed record, as noted by the friend following him. The results were surprising. Invariably he drove from five to fifteen miles an hour faster than he thought he was going.

This was particularly noticeable in traffic and in going down hill on the open highway.

An interesting thing happened on one of the tests. The sudden appearance of another car, turning in from a crossroad, called for the quickest possible stop. The driver without a speedometer actually failed to stop in time to avoid a collision, just because he thought he was stopping quickly enough, and never bothered to reach for the emergency brake until it was too late.

The experiment showed plainly that the average driver cannot guess his speed—and that he invariably goes faster than he thinks. It shows that a car driver is speeding whenever his conception of a safe stopping distance is less than the actual stopping distance. Putting two and two together, this experiment shows that a driver who drives without a speedometer or who does not watch his speedometer is speeding—at any speed.

DRAW FOR PLACES IN EASTERN SHOW

Drawing for exhibition space at the New York and Chicago National Automobile shows will be held in the New York offices of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce on October 7.

In addition to the exhibits of passenger cars, light trucks will also be included in the New York event in 1927. There will be a special section on repair shop and service equipment both at the Grand Central Palace and at the show in Chicago. The show dates for 1927 are New York, January 8-15; Chicago, January 29-February 5.

The drawing for space each year has become an annual get-together of the automobile industry, open to newspaper men, dealers designated by the factories, and factory executives.

OCCUPIES THIRTY ACRES

"More than 1,440,000 square feet of floor space under one roof will be added to the manufacturing facilities of the Oakland Motor Car Company with the completion of its new building," says H. E. Franklin, general manager for Reeve Gartzmann, Oakland and Pontiac distributors.

ENSENADA FISHING GOOD

"The motorist who is also a fisherman will find a delightful ride to Ensenada rewarded by a plentiful catch in Ensenada Bay," says D. H. Baker, service manager for Reeve Gartzmann, Oakland and Pontiac distributor, who recently made the trip.

COMPLETE ENDURANCE

Running 744 hours consecutively without a stop, and covering 22,096 miles, a Peerless six-80 four-door sedan recently completed a new non-stop record under the direction of the Seattle Peerless headquarters. In the thirty-one days of continuous driving the five drivers working in relays covered every important highway in Western Washington, and encountered every kind of road from paved city streets to rough mountain roads that were sometimes deep in mud.

During part of the run severe rains were encountered, making the going difficult, but in spite of weather conditions the Peerless averaged 18.87 miles per gallon of gasoline, according to word from Seattle reaching the Los Angeles headquarters of J. W. Leavitt & Co.

John Moffatt, sales manager for Peerless at the Leavitt establishment, says: "One of the outstanding features of the run was the remarkable performance of the Peerless motor which ran 744 hours consecutively and with five drivers under every sort of weather and road condition. At the close of the test the smooth, sweet purr of the motor was a source of much comment. In all the time of the run the car had not the slightest motor adjustment. Pennsoil motor oil was used, and the car required only ten quarts during the drive, or an average of 2209 1-2 miles to the quart. There were six quarts in the crankcase when it was drained, exactly the amount that was put in when the run was started."

TRUCKS AND BUSSES FURNISH RAILROAD COMMISSION WORK

That the regulation of auto stages and trucks using the highways of California in the business of transporting persons and property as common carriers is a rapidly growing part of the work of the Railroad Commission is indicated by the annual report of the auto stage and truck department of the commission. The report shows that 54.6 per cent of the formal applications filed with the commission and 46.9 per cent of the decisions rendered by the commission during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, were auto stage and truck matters.

Auto stage lines operating under the jurisdiction transported during the calendar year 1925, more than 30,000,000 passengers (30,534,440,) a gain of 871,632 over 1924, and truck lines operating under certificates issued by the commission reported that they had transported 1,134,814 tons of freight, a gain of 275,541 tons over 1924. Following are other interesting statistics assembled from the reports of the 655 auto stage and truck lines operating under the jurisdiction of the commission:

The net operating revenue of all auto stage and truck lines reporting to the commission in 1925 totaled $1,383,460.82, as compared with $810,635.46 in 1924, a gain of $572,825.36.

The records of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, show a decrease of twenty-seven in the number of automobile carriers operating under the jurisdiction of the commission. This is not, the commission says in its report, to be taken as an indication of a diminution in the number of points served or miles traversed by authorized automotive carriers. It is, rather, the result of a very definite trend toward the acquisition of smaller lines by the larger, well-financed transportation companies.

NATIONAL AUTO-RENTORS SHOW BIG HALF-YEAR GAIN

Surpassing even the most optimistic expectations of association officials, the National Auto-Rentors' Association, Inc., fostered by the Willys-Overland Company, has enjoyed one of the most sensational growths in the history of automotive transportation.

Half-year figures recently made public by the association indicate that since the inception the National Auto-Rentors' Association, Inc., last February, that more than 2000 Willys-Knight and Overland automobiles are now in operation. It also reveals that more than 150 operating stations have been established in the principal cities.

From all indications the next six months will establish 500 such operating stations. This is evident from the number of applications being filed for membership in the association, Overland officials state.

With the closing of the first six months' period the largest single order ever sent from the Pacific Coast was received by the Willys-Overland Company. It calls for 200 Willys-Knight and Whippet cars for immediate delivery. The order was placed by the Pacific Rental Service under the direction of C. D. Gulick, president.

Good Will is Problem for Tire Dealers

The interest of the owner and the building of permanent good will are of major importance with the modern tire dealer and takes place above immediate profit.

The tire dealer has evolved with the growth of the automobile industry, and has adopted every modern device and a higher code of ethics that is raising this business to one of dignity and importance in every community.

Time was, not long ago, when the tire dealer operated a wayside repair stand, deriving his principal revenue from repairing punctures, changing tires and odd jobs of vulcanizing. To this type of dealer, merchandising in its broader sense, was unknown. He was content to handle three or four different lines with meager stocks, and should a customer ask for a tire not in stock, he would order in lots of one or two, and make no serious effort to exercise discrimination in his lines, or display sales ability.

"The new type of tire dealer is a representative modern business man, and employs all the adjuncts of the successful merchandiser," according to W. L. McNerney merchandising manager of the Columbia Tire Corporation, makers of C.T.C. tires and tubes.

"Today it is a real pleasure to do business with the average tire dealer. He not only operates a clean and commodious establishment, he not only provides every modern device and facility for repairs, but he is a keen business man, intent on providing his customer with the very highest type of service, in building good will, and establishing his business upon an enduring foundation.

"The old 'gyp' tire dealer is rapidly passing into the limbo of forgotten things, he cannot hope to compete with the newer standards, and the day is rapidly passing when the public will permit itself to be deceived by price-cutting and wildcat methods.

"Today Mr. Car-owner is 'motor wise.' He has, on the average, a good understanding of his automobile and is rapidly acquiring a thorough knowledge of his tire equipment. He is no longer to be deceived by bootleg selling methods, and he is developing a keen sense of values for tires and tubes."

FOLLOW FACTORY PLAN

Modern automobile repair departments have taken a leaf out of the book of the progressive assembly methods of the motor car factories. Scientific study has resulted in the saving of a great deal of time and energy that was formerly wasted, according to Winslow B. Felix, Chevrolet dealer. "In our own shops, the influence of factory methods is everywhere evident," says Felix. "Work is specialized as far as possible, and lost motion has been done away with by use of overhead carriers, motor stands and other devices. The Chevrolet factory has given long study to the problem of repair work, and in our own shops we have made utmost use of their findings."

NEW GEARS TESTED

The remarkable gears recently developed by Packard and incorporated in the improved Packard six and eight are 98 per cent efficient, according to the service department of Earle C. Anthony, Inc., State Packard distributors. The action of the new gears combines the rolling action of the spiral bevel gears, a Packard development, with a percentage of endwise sliding, and are almost noiseless.

AVERAGES HIGH SPEED

A report received by L. J. McCracken, manager of the Willys-Overland-Pacific Company, states that an Overland Whippet made the fifty-eight mile circuit over the rugged course of Lookout Mountain and Bear Creek Canyon in Colorado at an average speed of 40.3 miles an hour, setting a new inclosed-car record for the trip.

WHITTIER ROAD CLOSED

Whittier Boulevard between Whittier and La Habra has been closed and will remain so for approximately six months, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The best temporary route is via Painter avenue to Santa Fe Springs, thence east to La Habra.

THE BRAIN IS A COMPLEX MACHINE

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN LOST SPEECH IS RESTORED A MYSTERY

During a thunderstorm at Sheffield a man standing near a place struck by lightning lost his speech.

At Fakenham, in Norfolk, a soldier who had lost his speech after shellshock in the war suddenly recovered it while he was plying his trade as a house painter. His ladder lurched, and with an "Oh!" of fright his speech came back.

Not the cleverest investigator of the brain can tell us the why and wherefore of such happenings, but can only say that the mechanism by which the brain, or parts of the brain, directs the throat, the tongue, the palate, the lungs, to fulfill their duties in giving utterance to spoken sound is infinitely more complicated than the works of a watch.

To the brain come along the nerves from different parts of the body sensations of heat or cold or pain or hunger, to which the brain gives names. From the brain go thoughts which set the organs of speech or action in movement. All these impulses have to go through telephone exchanges in the brain system far more complicated than any which give and take calls in a city.

A sudden violent jar, and the telephone exchange is put out of gear. Lines cross, the buzzer sounds a wrong note at a wrong time, the desk telephone becomes altogether silent.

In the city exchange the damage can be located and repaired; in the brain exchange it cannot be found. Nobody can say where the damage has taken place. Another jar, and it may right itself as mysteriously as it went wrong, but no man can say how.—[Tit-Bits.

HARRIMAN'S VACATION

An Artist Showed Railroad Builder Splendor of Nature

Wall street and American railway progress may be counted somewhat the debtors to Thomas Moran, painter of the Rockies, dead near his 90th birthday.

One summer, a quarter of a century ago, he received an unexpected caller who said simply: "I come to ask two favors. One is that you will paint me a Grand Canyon picture—not a great ambitious canvas, but one that shall be your very vividest, of sunrise bursting across the mountain tops, bringing into low relief surrounding crags of surpassed heights.

"No," he went along, answering a half-comment, half-query of the artist, "I am not seeking anything allegorical. I just want the thrusts of rising sun in your characteristic tensity, with foreground—natural foreground—of primal nature in revealed proportions.

"The second favor, which I trust you will allow, is that while you are painting, while you are out in the open, visioning, sketching—while you are actually facing your sunrises—I shall have permission to be personally with you, beside you, sharing the spectacle, sharing the impressions, the inspirations."

Through weeks in the gorges and on the summits artist and patron tented. At parting—studies ready for final adaptation in Santa Barbara leisures—the artist's companion in cordial good-by said: "I feel younger, I am fitter, I see clearer. Your fellowship and your work, your discernments, your appreciation of what nature is, make me a new man." Thomas Moran smiled—perhaps a bit cryptically.

"I have had the sublime vacation," said E. H. Harriman.—[Wall Street Journal.

FAULTY BRAKES SPOIL TRIP

"Improper working of the brakes has spoiled many a week-end trip, the driver returning to town, frequently in that 'all-in' condition," say Strout & Pickering of the Brake Shop, Inc. "These drivers have come here after week-ending, telling us of the many instances where the faulty brakes almost resulted in disaster, the chief difficulty, of course, being the inability to make a quick stop."

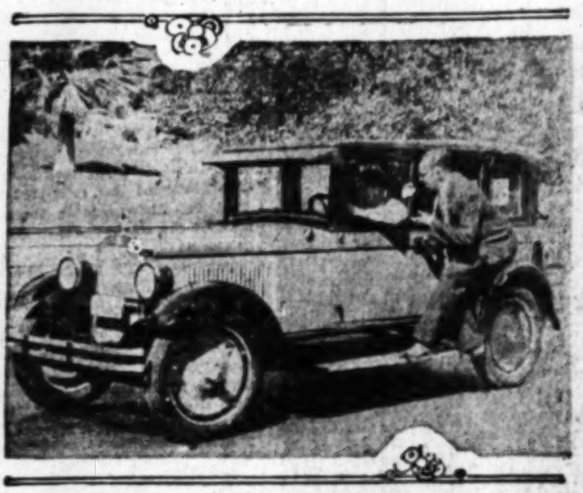
SALES HIGH

In America's most highly competitive automobile market, Hollywood, there are forty-two known makes of automobiles represented. The Gardner eight-in-line led twenty in new business closed during the last three months, according to Harold L. Arnold, Southern California Gardner distributor.

AUTO FOR BEST DANCER

The Friday-night elimination dancing contests at the Plantation Cafe are continuing to bring out the best dancers of the vicinity. Never since the introduction of this Friday-night feature has the popularity of the contest waned. A Winslow B. Felix "Chevie" roadster is the prize to be given to the best contesting dancer.

Seeing if the Judge Was Right



Here we have an Oldsmobile landau picking up from five to twenty-five miles an hour in 7 4-5 seconds by actual stop-watch timing. The test was conducted to see whether or not the car conformed to Judge McConnell's standards of what an automobile should be.

TRY CAR FOR PICK-UP

When Judge William McConnell was transferred from San Pedro to handle traffic cases in Judge Chambers's court, he announced publicly that the slow driver who holds the middle of the road, making those who pass him go to his right or to the wrong side of the street, should be punished just as definitely as the speeder.

Judge McConnell's statement caused at least one to sit up and take notice, Clair R. Savage, sales manager for J. W. Leavitt & Co.

It has always been Savage's contention that slow drivers in the middle of the street are the cause of as many accidents as speeders, but he went a step farther than the judge and analyzed the cars on the street to find a reason for slow driving.

"In view of the fact," says Savage, "that 90 per cent of the people in automobiles today are going somewhere on more or less urgent business, it is peculiar that there should be any appreciable number of drivers who go too slow. But when you take a look at the cars they are driving, the reason is apparent.

"When the signal releases traffic there are always a few cars that crawl across the intersection, thus reducing the number of other cars that can get across before the signals change. To make sure that the Oldsmobile conforms to Judge McConnell's standards of what an automobile should be able to do, we conducted a series of interesting tests the other day. We held a stop-watch on a new landau sedan, accelerating from five to twenty-five miles an hour in high. The watch showed seven and four-fifths seconds on four consecutive tests. Then we tried braking and found that the Oldsmobile brakes will bring the car to a dead stop in less distance than the law allows. Now we can tell the public that here is a car which not only accelerates faster than most of the cars in the traffic lanes, but one that stops when needs-be, faster than it must to conform to police regulations. We feel that in the Oldsmobile series E line we have a car that meets all the requirements for the speeding up of traffic and at the same time the safety of everyone concerned."

CHANGE YOSEMITE HOURS

New control hours have been established on the new all-year route into Yosemite, states a bulletin from the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Motorists may now enter the park on the even hours, and come out on the odd hours.

Rainy Season Requires Good Quality Tread

With the approach of rain, it is a good plan to size up your tire equipment and remove tires that have worn down to a perfectly smooth surface. Nearly every motorist appreciates that a smooth tire is a mighty dangerous proposition on a wet, slippery pavement, and that self-protection and a due regard for the other fellow demands a rugged, nonskid tread on all four tires during the rainy season.

According to Alfred A. Aya, vice-president and general sales manager of the Columbia Tire Corporation, makers of C.T.C. tires and tubes, a recent tabulation of accident causes in wet weather indicates that thousands of avoidable accidents are due to smooth treads on slippery pavements.

C.T.C. tires are scientifically constructed to afford not only the maximum mileage, but the tread design is of such a nature as to provide the highest degree of traction on wet roads and pavements.

SEQUOIA GROVE GIVEN TO STATE

Late Senator's Daughter Donor of Redwood Acreage

Memorial to Charles Felton in Bull Creek Area

Dedication of Big Trees to be Held in Summer

A grove of California redwoods on the Redwood Highway 250 miles north of San Francisco has just been deeded to the State of California by Mrs. Kate Felton Neilson of San Francisco in memory of her father, the late United States Senator Charles U. Felton. The gift was made through the Save-the-Redwoods League to the State Forestry Board.

The tract, which is one of the most beautiful groves in the vicinity of the Dyerville-Bull Creek area, contains approximately 100 acres and over 7,000,000 feet of redwood timber. It occupies a point of land situated in a picturesque bend in the South Fork of the Eel River, an ideal site for a memorial park. It lies across the river from Bolling Grove, another memorial, dedicated several years ago to Col. Raynal C. Bolling, the first American officer of high rank to fall under fire in the World War.

A PIONEER

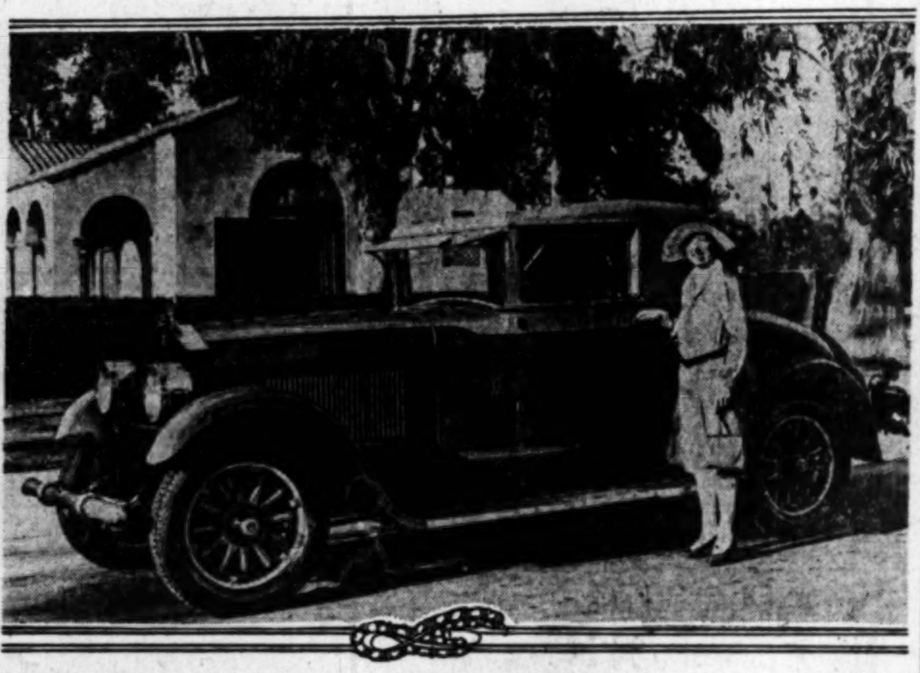
Senator Charles N. Felton, to whose memory the Felton Grove is being dedicated, was one of California's prominent pioneers. He came to California at the time of the gold rush and was then 17 years of age. He studied law, was admitted to the bar, and occupied an important place in the community. He was one of the founders of the Spring Valley Water Company of San Francisco, was for six years head of the San Francisco Mint and at his death was president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. He served two terms in Congress and was elected to the United States Senate in 1891 to complete the term of Senator George Hearst, who had died in office.

DEEDED TO STATE

This is the latest memorial grove to be purchased privately and deeded to the State. Since its organization in 1918 the Save-the-Redwoods League has preserved through appropriation and gift, more than 3000 acres of primeval redwoods, representing a valuation of close to $1,000,000. Dr. John C. Merriam of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C., president of the Save-the-Redwoods League, in expressing his appreciation of what Mrs. Neilson had done in saving this unusually beautiful grove for all time, spoke of the origin of the league seven years ago and of its accomplishments and told of its plans to preserve a fair proportion of the forests still standing, as part of a "balanced program" which gives due consideration to the economic interests involved and of plans to support the efforts of the lumber companies in reforesting areas that have already been denuded. This work, Dr. Merriam pointed out, is being made possible through the interest of the workers of the league and the generosity and fine sentiment such as has been shown by Mrs. Neilson.

The Felton grove will be dedicated next summer.

It's Another New One



The Elcar eight-in-line landau roadster shown here arrived on the Coast and was placed on display in Los Angeles last week. The car is equipped with a rumble seat which is open in the picture.

BARS CRIMINAL CHARGES

PATAGONIA (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Justice Howard Keener has made a ruling that criminal carelessness and manslaughter may not be charged, following traffic accident deaths when the party suffering has been in fault in observing the rules of the road. Alfred Hudgin had been charged with responsibility of the death of the daughter of Robert Reed of Faixbank. It is found that while Hudgin had been driving in reckless manner, the driver of the other car "could have avoided the accident had he used ordinary caution," and had not tried to pass Hudgin's car, even though the latter had been driving on the wrong side of the road. Declaration was made by the court that the driver of a car, aware of danger, should use every effort to safeguard the lives of his passengers.

OLD SWORD RETURNS

The sword that led the way of civilization into Florida in 1565 is back in the United States after an absence of more than three centuries. The "ancient" instrument was carried by Pedro Menedez de Aviles, famous Spanish mariner, who founded St. Augustine in 1565. On its return trip it was brought ashore by one Cesar de Madariaga, royal commissioner-general from Spain to the Sesqicentennial Exposition at Philadelphia. The old weapon has a blade three and a half feet long. It has been in the Naval Museum at Madrid since the death of its owner. A collection of tapestries and Spanish art valued at $30,000,000 accompanied the sword across the Atlantic. The collection will also be exhibited in the Andalusian pavilion at the Sesquecentennial.—[Pathfinder.

Latest Model Arrives Here From Factory

One of the handsomest and smartest cars introduced by Elcar is the new Eight-In-Line Landau-Roadster, just received by the Elcar Pacific Company, distributor in seven western States.

This combination car is the latest creation of the big factory, according to G. J. Gollmar, president of the local company. The landau-roadster's body is finished in two-tone green. Below the belt line it is done in Tara green and above in Caribbean green. They are separated by a black moulding striped on each side with gold. Fenders and dust aprons are in black while the removable and collapsible top is of tan Burbank cloth.

When the top is up and the windows raised it is a weather-tight and comfortable coupe. There is a heater installed for cold weather. Instruments are grouped on one slightly raised panel.

AVERAGES 47.66

"A stock Pontiac six recently lowered the speed record from Oklahoma City to San Antonio, a distance of 1080 miles," says Reeve Gartzmann, distributor. "The Pontiac's elapsed time was 23h. 23m., setting an average of 47.66 miles per hour.

Make Devil's Punch Bowl Trip Today

Several weeks ago The Times published photographs of Vasquez Stronghold with directions on how to reach this interesting rock formation, and mentioned that it is part of the great San Andreas fault, the seat of most of the earthquakes of Southern California.

This week Dunham's Scout Car 7,777,777 discovered another outcropping of this interesting formation. It is known as the Devil's Punch Bowl, located just west of Big Rock Creek, on the north side of the San Gabriel Mountains. It was found that the outcropping was similar to that of the Vasquez Stronghold region and consists of sandstone rock that has been built up strata after strata throughout millions of years and finally upheaved by some titanic cataclysm. A third outcropping of these strata is to be found in the Cajon Pass, but in this case the rocks are eroded by weather and rounded off until they have lost much of their rugged frontness that is characteristic of the Vasquez Stronghold and the Devil's Punch Bowl.

Whether anyone is interested in geology or not, it makes a very splendid trip to leave Los Angeles by way of Hollywood and Cahuenga Pass, through Lankershim and Van Nuys, or by way of North Broadway, Avenue 20, San Fernando Road, through Glendale, Burbank and San Fernando. From San Fernando the route is northwest through Newhall and Saugus, then through Mint Canyon to Palmdale. Near the center of the town of Palmdale a road leads to the east which is sign-posted "To Little Rock." This road is paved and in excellent condition. It makes two or three left and right-hand turns, following the general line of the San Gabriel Mountains eastward toward Victorville. At Little Rock the road is taken that is marked "Valyermo." This road is followed to Monte's, where a turn to the right is made near the Pallett ranch. The Automobile Club sign post points the way up Big Creek, which is followed to the first public camping ground, the end of the automobile road as far as the trip to the Devil's Punch Bowl is concerned.

From the Big Rock Creek camp grounds the trail is marked "To the South Rim of the Devil's Punch Bowl." It is in good condition, has practically no climbing and the distance is only one or two miles.

Anyone who enjoys climbing and photography will be able to spend a half-day in the Devil's Punch Bowl with a great deal of profit. The trip takes three or four hours.

ROAD NEAR COMPLETION

From San Luis Obispo to within four miles of Cambria the highway is now paved, according to recent information received from the touring department of the National Automobile Club. The paving of the road to Cayucos is scheduled for completion within a month. Good detours are provided.

AUTO HAS APPEAL TO DOCTORS

Ten Per Cent of Car's Sales in Nation Are to Profession

"Surgeons, once recognized by the red stripe on the barber pole which advertised blood-letting, and more recently by the red and green crosses of modern practice, are finding a new symbol of identity in the Franklin automobile," remarks Ralph Hamlin, president of Franklin Motors, Inc. "When you pass a Franklin on the roads these days or when a Franklin passes you, the proper remark to make is, 'There goes a doctor.'

"A country-wide survey recently completed by the Franklin factory reveals the fact that 10 per cent of all Franklin sales in the United States are made to doctors. The percentage varies in different localities, reaching so high a proportion as 25 per cent in the city of Syracuse.

"The doctors, however, arrive at their choice over devious routes and by widely varying experiences, a fact interestingly shown in letters which arrive daily at the Franklin factory.

"Although hastily written in moments snatched between calls, these letters throb with the drama of human need and ministry to suffering. One hundred miles over mountainous roads in Tennessee on an emergency call, averaging greater speed than the best passenger train, is the story one doctor tells. Three days in the black-lands of Texas, covering 1236 miles of roads rutted deep with rains is another doctor's experience. First over the famous Coronado trail, climbing 9500 feet in the journey, is a third."

BERGE IS ROUGH ON ROADSTER

Puts Car Through Course of Rough Treatment on Movie Lot

When the F.B.O. studios needed a sporty-looking roadster with which to film sections of "Bill Grimm's Progress," a serial thriller, they selected an Oakland six and what they did to that car would seem enough to wreck it, yet the Oakland finished up fit as a fiddle, according to H. E. Franklin, general manager for Reeve Gartzmann, Oakland distributors, who visited the studio and saw the car in action.

"What the Oakland roadster went through, judging by the film I saw and from what the actors told me, I wonder that there was enough left of it to tow out," remarked Franklin, "but the darned old car looked almost as good as when we delivered it to the studio except for a big spot from which the paint was missing.

"Bill Grimm's progress was a rocky one and, among other things, the Oakland was driven through fences and other obstructions introduced to invoke a laugh.

"On the occasion of the visit of the out-of-State Governors to the F.B.O. studios the officials decided to give the visitors a thrill, so they turned Cliff Bergere loose at the wheel of the roadster. He went into wild double spins. He sent it hurtling sidelong into the soft dirt. When he concluded his performance he remarked that he had never driven a car that had the stuff built into it that the Oakland had.

Car Overturns; but Passengers Are Uninjured

George Ross, a Southern California visitor from Honolulu, and four other adults—passengers in his Locomobile eight on a recent trip in the northern part of the State—today are thanking their lucky stars for the solid construction of their automobile.

And well they might for on a curve near Weed, Cal., the car left the road, turned completely over and landed on all four wheels. The staunchness of the vehicle, they declare, prevented it from being crushed—and they with it.

When account was taken of the damage it was found that one of the women passengers had been slightly hurt by flying glass, one of the rear windows being broken, but that otherwise everyone was uninjured.

After the survey was made, Ross, somewhat shaken from the experience but unhurt, stepped on the starter and the motor began to hum. Then he cautiously let in the low gear and the car started. Its nose was pointed back from the ravine to the highway and, in a few minutes, the party was back at the point of the overturning.

The car was driven back to Los Angeles and brought to the Locomobile Company of Southern California shop for repairs. In addition to the broken window the radiator and hood were badly dented. Numerous other dents were on the body that were not in it when the car left Los Angeles.

In recounting the experience to Rene J. Marx, president of the Locomobile distributing firm, Ross declared that, considering what the car had been through, the damages to it were negligible.

WILL REPEAT TRIP TO PACIFIC COAST

"As a result of our premier trail-blazing transcontinental tour to and through the Pacific Coast from the East we have definitely decided to come west again with a caravan of fifty cars and 200 persons at a minimum," declared J. H. Brown, tour manager of the Michigan Automobile Tours, on arrival of his caravan in San Francisco following a tour of the Redwood Highway.

"We have definitely and finally adopted the Redwood Highway as the ideal route for our standard Pacific Coast itinerary, and we intend to recommend the Redwood Highway tours to all our 3500 members, scattered throughout twenty-seven States, both for independent and conducted motor tours," asserted Brown.

The caravan left Battle Creek, Mich., August 3, last, and proceeded to the Pacific Coast via the Yellowstone-Pacific highway, the Custer Battlefield highway and the Yellowstone Trail to Seattle; thence to Grant's Pass and over the Redwood Highway to San Francisco.

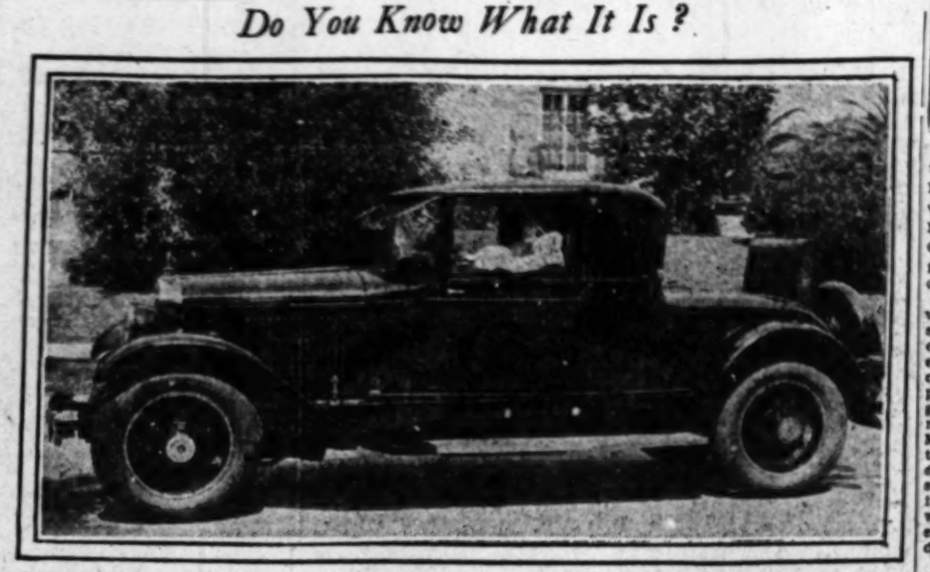
Do You Know What It Is?



The dress, a custom body by Brunn, is a coupe built on the new Cadillac chassis. Miss Marie Vache is at the wheel.

Large Rumble Seat Features Custom Coupe

Utility of the two-passenger coupe has been greatly increased in recent months by the addition of the rumble seat which accommodates two extra passengers when occasion demands. From the lowest to the highest priced cars the popularity of the rumble seat is unquestioned and it is apparently a firmly fixed feature of modern body design.

Typical of the acceptance of the rumble seat even by the conservative builders of the finest custom cars was the custom-built coupe by Brunn received last week by Don Lee on the latest Cadillac chassis. The famous Buffalo body builders took advantage of the roomy deck to build a rumble seat of unusual size and comfort.

The Brunn coupe attracted no little attention last week on the Don Lee sales floor not only for its pleasing lines, but for the extremely attractive interior finish of special broadcloth upholstery. The exterior is finished in French lake with black fenders and black wire wheels. The car is one of the fifty body types which Cadillac is offering this season.

New Gasoline Station Given Gala Opening

If any detail was overlooked to let motorists know that Calpet has one of the finest new service stations in Southern California at Washington and Crenshaw Boulevards, Frank G. Hobart, advertising manager of the California Petroleum Corporation, cannot think what it might have been.

Under management of Conklin and Wills, the new Calpet super-service unit was given one of the most spectacular debuts ever arranged for the opening of an intersection supply depot for motorists, it was declared.

The spot was marked by a giant captive balloon carrying a cut-out banner illuminated by spotlight, pennants were strung from all corners, a 325 horse-power generator from one of the motion picture studios furnished an elaborate display of arcs and colored lights.

Comely girls in Calpet costume with silk shoulder streamers and chic Calpet caps passed out cigars to men, confections to women and balloons to the children.

Race Drivers Heading Back to This Coast

Los Angeles' "Auto Row" this last week was seeking to learn the identity of some Richfield Oil Company official who, as the aftermath to the Altoona (Pa.) Speedway race, was declared to have perpetrated the worst pun of the 1926 season.

"Richlube motor oil," he is declared to have said, "made a fine showing in Pennsylvania because it was among Friends!"

The remark, it is exclaimed, was based on the fact that the car of Leon Duray, which finished second, was lubricated by this 100 per cent Pennsylvania lubricant put out by the Richfield company, while the first three cars to finish—Lockhart, Duray and Kreis—all were powered by the winning Richfield gasoline.

That the drivers will now start drifting home for practice preliminary to the big Thanksgiving classic, was the word received yesterday by Richfield officials from Ed Wintergust, racing representative.

VISITS FACTORY; NOW CAR DEALER

When a special car carried Paige and Jewett dealers in Southern California back to the factory on a trip of inspection and to attend a dealers' convention a few weeks ago, F. B. Miller, pioneer Los Angeles dealer, was an invited guest. He was a dealer for a competing automobile.

Paraphrasing Caesar's famous communique just a wee bit, however, Mr. Miller went, saw and was conquered. Today announcement is made by J. M. Sterling, manager of the Paige Company of Southern California, that Miller has been appointed as one of the metropolitan dealers for the two cars.

Miller has been in the automotive field in Los Angeles the last eleven years and for the last five has been a dealer.

HEAT TREATMENT IS USED ON CYLINDERS

The Franklin Automobile Company, Syracuse, N. Y., manufacturers of the air-cooled Franklin car, have recently installed a battery of electric furnaces for heat-treating motor cylinders.

It is explained by engineers that the subjecting of cylinders, before finishing, to a degree of heat in excess of any temperature they will be called upon to undergo in actual service, will eliminate the possibility of distortion of machined surfaces in owner service, and consequently, greatly increase the mileage the motor can cover before regrinding of valves becomes necessary.

CAR SAVES THIEVES' LIVES

All-steel automobile bodies have more than once served successfully as bullet-proof armor in a clash between bandits and intended victims, according to Harry A. Lord, president of the Jordan distributing organization.

"Recently two masked men stepped into the glare of automobile headlights near Janesville, Wis.," said Mr. Lord. "Both carried automatic pistols and commanded J. V. Thompson, who was driving his Jordan, with a friend on the front seat, to halt.

"Instead of obeying orders Mr. Thompson headed straight for the men and stepped on the gas, crowding one of them into the ditch.

"The other jumped aside and fired four shots at close range. Two went wild, one hit the steel cowl and glanced upward against the body. The other stuck in the outer layer of steel just below the windshield.

"Thompson, who was driving his Jordan all-steel sedan, says that if he had been in any other type of body his companion and probably himself would have been instantly killed.

"A case where the steel automobile body probably saved the lives of two bandits also occurred several months ago. The thieves had stolen a Jordan line eight car in Fresno and a posse, waiting for them at a cross-roads, fired at short range as they shot past, but the bullets buried themselves in the steel door, thereby probably saving the lives of at least one of the bandits.

"Making chase, the posse's car was unable to overtake the fleet Jordan, but it was finally located in Indiana and the thieves captured and brought to justice."

CONSTANT CHATTER KEPT MILLER AWAKE ON DRIVE ACROSS THE UNITED STATES

At the identical moment when Gertrude Ederle arrived at the Battery, New York, to receive a well-earned reward for her channel triumph, L. B. Miller was piloting his Wills-Sainte Claire six across Manhattan in his final dash for a new world's transcontinental record.

The simultaneous arrival of the two victors was a coincidence that aroused some interesting speculations and comparisons on the subject of human endurance. Trudy's achievement caused the world to marvel at the physical stamina of an 18-year-old girl. Yet in the crowds that surrounded, cheered and congratulated Miller there were many who declared that the 50-year-old man's feat of driving his famous Gray Goose roadster from San Francisco to New York in 83 hours and 12 minutes, a new world's record, was an even greater exhibition of physical endurance and dogged persistence.

Miss Ederle accomplished her record-breaking swim in something over fourteen hours. Miller was obliged to travel at high, sustained speed for eighty-three hours and during all this soul-testing flight had no opportunity to sleep or to eat normal food.

"It was a constant fight to keep awake," said Mr. Miller, "and that was the hardest battle of the entire adventure. I drank copious draughts of hot coffee from thermos containers, but the onlything that saved me was a constant chatter of conversation with my mechanic. Never before in my life have I done so much talking. We talked constantly and continuously.

"People who question me about the performance of the Wills-Sainte Claire invariably ask about the speed. How fast did the Gray Goose fly? As a matter of fact, the ability of the car to travel at high speed is not the vital matter. There are many cars capable of fine bursts of high speed, but quite incapable of crossing the continent in eighty-three hours. The crucial factor is ability to stand up hour after hour at sustained high speed without breaking down the engine, for the strain on the moving parts is something terrific. If you come through you surely have proved your car has extraordinary endurance and that its engineering is truly masterly.

"But there are other important factors that are usually overlooked, and unless they are present you might as well forget all long-distance records. To maintain a speed sufficiently high on the average to establish a coast-to-coast record you must have marvelous acceleration and the finest possible brakes. A car that is only a little better than fair on the getaway and that must slow down before the turn of the road is reached because the brakes do not safely permit any other kind of driving, will never cross the continent in eighty-three hours. To make such a record you must have hair-trigger acceleration, so no time is lost in getting out of traffic or in darting ahead as soon as a bad bit of road has been negotiated.

"The Wills-Sainte Claire six gave me a great advantage because it not only had the necessary agility, but the Wills Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes enabled me to approach turns at high speed and take them much faster than otherwise would have been possible. I attribute my success in making a new coast-to-coast record as much to the car's acceleration and to the perfection of control provided by the brakes as I do to any of the more obvious factors."

ROADS MUST EXPRESS ARIZONA'S APPEAL

PHOENIX, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Appreciation that appeals for tourists for Arizona must be based largely upon the general excellence of Arizona roads is expressed by Manager Wilbur Treadwell of the Automobile Club of Arizona. He believes that this work should be centralized, under a State agency, such as the Arizona Industrial Congress, and should be supported by legislative appropriation, rather than by the several communities, as at present.

Two Cars Are Family Need, Dealer Claims

The average American family is needing two automobiles and that need is becoming more and more imperative, according to Harry A. Sperl, metropolitan dealer for the Hudson and Essex. He says:

"Since the automobile is no longer considered a luxury and everyone who can depends on a car for business as well as pleasure, some one in each family group is bound to monopolize the family car.

"The men folks to date have usually succeeded in getting first claim on the car and the rest of the family has patiently endured this monopoly. But indications point to a small revolution now brewing in many families and 'Dad' is being campaigned for the second car.

"Unquestionably the second family car has a rightful place in the economic scheme of things. One strong indication that the 'two-car family era' is already here is to note how builders have anticipated the need for two cars by building double garages with nearly every dwelling of any considerable worth."

CHINESE LICENSE SEEN AT GRAND CANYON

GRAND CANYON (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Something new in the way of a license plate has come to the Canyon. It was on a light car that had been shipped over from China by Rev T. F. McCrea, a missionary at Cebo, China, for the last twenty years. He now is touring the United States. When this has been done, he will ship the car back across the Pacific.

NO KIDDING

Two Anaheim residents, J. C. and A. W. Kidd, own an Oakland six and on a recent run to Salt Lake City they put but twenty-three hours on the road and average twenty-three miles to a gallon of gasoline," says L. A. Hannan, sales manager for Reeve Gartzmann, Oakland and Pontiac distributors.

CHRYSLER "60" proving itself the most sensational value in the history of the motor industry as the direct result of Chrysler's plan of Quality Standardization

Within three weeks of the lighter, lower-priced Chrysler "60" introduction, overwhelming demand required a production in excess of 500 cars a day. But even this has now fallen far short of supplying an insistent and enthusiastic public which has singled out the Chrysler "60" as a six of value far in advance of anything in its field or at its price.

In the lower-priced Chrysler "60" you get the same Chrysler Standardized Quality of scientific engineering and manufacturing precision comprehended in the Chrysler "70" and Imperial "80".

60 miles—and more—per hour; lightning acceleration of 5 to 25 miles in 7¾ seconds; the economy of 22 miles to the gallon; characteristic Chrysler smartness and beauty; phenomenal riding ease; the safety of Chrysler four-wheel hydraulic brakes; oil-filter; air-cleaner; seven-bearing crankshaft; full pressure lubrication; impulse neutralizers; road levelizers front and rear, roomy luxurious bodies; and scores of other features which bespeak dependability and long life.

There isn't a lower-priced six on the market that will begin to give you as much for your money.

See the Chrysler "60" for yourself; drive it; put it to any test. We know the Chrysler "60" will sell itself to you—that you'll be satisfied with nothing else at its price.

The Chrysler plan of Quality Standardization differs from, and is superior to, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, because it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits—the same rigid rule of engineering exactness—the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage—in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, practice and process in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

WILL IMPROVE COAST HIGHWAY

Work Near Santa Barbara to Relieve Heavy Traffic

Reconstruct and Widen Road at Carpinteria

Also to Build Seawall Along Ventura Coast

Conditions on the heavily traveled Coast highway will be improved with several new projects planned in the vicinity of Santa Barbara and Ventura, according to a State Highway Commission report reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The reconstruction of the 4.5 miles of pavement between Carpinteria and Summerland to the width of thirty feet has been ordered, and bids will be opened October 11 for the placing of 8.4 miles of twenty-foot "second-story" concrete pavement on the coast route north of Ventura.

This project, which includes the building of a section of seawall along the ocean, will complete the reconstruction of the coast State highway through Ventura county, with the exception of about one mile of pavement to be placed later back of the recently completed Rincon seawalls. Another section of seawall, similar to that already completed, is to be built to protect the highway from wave action, it is stated.

RAINS HURT ROADS

Heavy rains in the district between Mecca and Blythe are causing poor traveling conditions at this time, according to the touring department of the National Automobile Club. There are a number of bad washouts.

J. B. Fahy to Celebrate Home Coming Week

J. Benjamin Fahy, a Ford dealer here for the last ten years, is all set for his big home-coming week, which opens tomorrow and will continue until October 2. He has sold cars for sixteen years and entered the sales end of the business in Los Angeles fourteen years ago.

Fahy has invited all to his home-coming celebration. He has arranged a program of entertainment that includes music and refreshments. He will also give away prizes. Since announcing his celebration Fahy has received numerous calls from old customers and letters from others.

Among his callers was C. C. Camron, now manager for W. J. Tuppman. Camron is now owner of the first Ford Fahy sold in Los Angeles. It is a 1912 model and still running. He has received word from other early customers of cars he sold them ten or eleven years ago and which are still in operation.

"I didn't really have any idea of the number of old cars still in running order that I sold during my early days here," said Fahy. "Since announcing this home-coming week, however, I have been gratified to learn that numbers of these old machines are still on the road."

ROAD COSTS FORTUNE

GLOBE (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—It will cost $1,500,000 to build anew the State highway around the Coolidge dam and the lake it will create in the vicinity of San Carlos. The new road will be fifty-four miles in length, stretching from Cutter station, on the Southern Pacific Globe branch, to Bylas, at the southeastern extremity of the San Carlos reservation. Crossing the Gila River is to be on the crest of the dam, as the Salt River is crossed at Roosevelt.

Harking Back to Days Gone By

FACTORY REPRESENTATIVE IN INSPIRING TALK ON SALES

The fastest growing manufacturer in the fastest growing business of all time—that's the Chrysler Sales Corporation, according to National Chamber of Commerce statistics quoted at a luncheon at the Elite last Tuesday by Henry T. Meyer, director of sales for the Chrysler factory at Detroit.

Meyer was in Los Angeles to give the Chrysler organization of Southern California an insight into the national activities of his company and to outline something of its plans for the future. He was greeted by nearly 300 Chrysler dealers and salesmen from sixty cities south of the Tehachapi, a representation that is nearly 50 per cent larger than it was seven months ago when he was here.

These dealers and salesmen, many of them meeting for the first time the dynamic sales director of the factory, were given a vivid picture of the achievements of the past and a startling prophecy for the future of the Chrysler organization.

"Five years ago," said Meyer, "we stood in awe of the automobile on the showroom floor. We looked at it and exclaimed, 'There stands perfection—a wonderful achievement.'

"Today we not only have far better cars, but we have one to every five and a half persons instead of one to every fifteen. And five years from now we will have progressed as much as we have in the past five years, for in spite of all the skill of engineers, there is room for vast improvement in the internal combustion engine, and as a result of these improvements being made, there will be more economy of operation and manufacture, which will result in new sales fields opening up and a resulting increase in manufacture.

"We are not talking prosperity and good times to make you feel good," he said. "We have figures to show that employment in Detroit is 19 per cent above average; that building contracts this year are 11 per cent higher than last; that postal receipts are up 15 per cent, bank clearings 9 per cent and automobile deliveries 19 per cent."

Meyer paid a high tribute to advertising during his talk, crediting it with being the greatest moral influence in the world today, not excepting art, music or religion. He outlined the advertising plans of the Chrysler corporation, showing how newspaper campaigns would be used to tell the public about Walter P. Chrysler's standardization of the quality of Chrysler cars, regardless of their size or price.

"Many manufacturers have standardized shop practice in order to get greater production, but Chrysler was the first to standardize quality in four makes of cars selling in entirely different price fields. Our advertising will tell this story to 2,112,000,000 readers in the United States this year," he said. "It is undoubtedly the biggest single job of advertising ever undertaken and will cost a couple of million dollars, but when it is finished the man in the street will associate quality with Chrysler the same as he associates jewelry with Tiffany's, hats with Knox, or clothing with Hart, Schaffner and Marx."

Meyer gave his audience a brief resume of the history of the automobile industry, pointing to the large number of failures there have been among manufacturers since the industry was born twenty-five years ago and explaining that these failures were a result of unbalanced effort. "This one was admittedly as fine an engineering job as could be found, but paid no attention to sales," he explained. "That one had a wonderful sales program, but forgot production. Another had production but no advertising. And so on down the line. At the Chrysler factory we are keeping all four feet on the ground. Production, engineering, sales and advertising are all co-ordinated. Eight and ten conferences a day are held on various phases of the questions which arise and through them we get each other's viewpoints."

PEA SOUP AND CONDENSED MILK USED SEVEN DAYS IN RADIATOR

A Graham Brothers truck fighting its way through the land of the Incas, where no water was found for seven and one-half days, behaved beautifully with its radiator filled with canned pea soup and condensed milk supplied by the comissary department of the expedition, according to a description of the trip in the West Coast Leader of Lima, Peru.

The trip, during which the thirst of the Graham Brothers truck was slaked by such an unusual beverage, was a pioneering one from Lima through the treacherous passes of the Andes to the southern extremity of Peru. In much of the region penetrated no vehicle transportation of any kind had heretofore been known, merchandise being carried on the backs of mules or llamas.

SURPRISE NATIVES

Inhabitants of the region were dumbfounded at the appearance of the expedition. In one town the arrival of the first truck ever seen there was honored by the ringing of the church bells and celebration of a feast day.

The only way of entering the Valley of Inca was by the railroad track and over railroad bridges. At one point in climbing through a pass at an altitude of 10,000 feet, the entire day was consumed in traveling half a mile. In fact, four days were consumed in traveling less than three miles and even this much progress taxed human skill and endurance almost to the limit.

Although the actual distance from Lima to Arequippa, the end of the journey, is only 740 miles, thirty-five days were spent in actual driving. The elapsed time was seventy days. The time not spent in driving was devoted to scouting, roadmaking and resting from the gruelling hardships. Of the 740 miles, only 382 were on roads and by "road" is meant a trail of any sort which had been traveled previously by any vehicle on wheels.

EXPERIMENTAL TOUR

The purpose of the expedition was to prove the feasibility of motor transport to rich agricultural and mineral districts of Peru. The high cost makes railroad building practically prohibitive. Throughout Peru, an expedition of this sort, proving that a truck can make the journey, is soon followed by road construction.

"The ability of Graham Brothers trucks to withstand the racking strains and severe shocks to which they are constantly subjected in exploring trips like this," says Mr. F. S. Albertson of the Albertson Motor Company, Dodge Brothers and Graham Brothers dealers for Los Angeles, in commenting on the report of the Peruvian exploint, "is due largely to the sturdiness resulting from extensive use of high-grade Vanadium steel and to the power and exceptional dependability of Dodge Brothers' engine."

Anthony is Honored by Broadcasters

A signal honor was paid not only to the Pacific Coast as a whole, but to the western automobile world in particular when Earle C. Anthony, president of California's Packard distributors, was elected president of the National Association of Broadcasters at the annual convention of that body in New York City on the 15th inst.

EARLE C ANTHONY

Since the inception of KFI in 1922 Anthony has regarded his contact with the radio audience in much the same manner as his dealings with the motoring public. It is interesting to note that Anthony was the first motor-car dealer in the United States to install and operate a broadcasting station.

The recognition of Anthony as a power in the broadcasting world, for the national association has been termed the backbone of American broadcasting, will be just one more thing to turn the eyes of the nation to the Pacific Coast.

TAKE NEW LEASE FOR VALLEY AUTO AGENCY

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Having outgrown its present quarters on Chatsworth Drive the Buick agency has taken a long-term lease on the large building on Porter avenue, now being used as a garage by the Original Stage Line, and will convert the place into a model display room and a modern garage for Buick sales and service, according to C. Paul, manager. The Buick firm expects to be in its new home by October 20.

NO GLASS BROKEN

PHOENIX, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Something very new in the way of accidents lately was afforded on Central avenue when a new sedan was completely overturned in a collision without the fracture of a single bit of glass.

TWO PLANS IN USE TO COOL MOTOR

Problem is Really to Maintain Same Degree of Heat Through Engine

Until modern heating methods were devised, people were rarely comfortable in zero weather. As they huddled about the fire, their faces were too hot and their backs far too cold, or vice versa. Even temperatures were impossible. Automobile engineers, in trying to obtain maximum motor efficiency, have long been faced with a similar problem due to the fact that heretofore some parts of the engine either ran too hot or other parts too cool to give the best operating results.

Two methods of engine cooling have been in general use. One is the thermo-siphon type, in which the water does not move until it reaches a sufficiently high temperature to circulate through thermal force. The other is the pressure type by which the water is forced through the cylinder block by a pump. Both methods have certain advantages, but fall short of accomplishing the ideal that engineers have set as their objective.

The greatest heat in an automobile engine is generated around the combustion chambers, valves, valve seats and spark plugs. The walls of the cylinders below the combustion chambers do not reach the same relative high temperatures. Therefore, the combustion chambers and valves, which form the upper portion of the cylinder block and head, require much more cooling than does the lower portion of the block.

In solving this problem of cooling control to maintain even temperatures throughout the various parts of the engine, engineers of Olds Motor Works developed a system containing the better features of both the pressure and thermo-siphon methods. This new system has been incorporated in the latest Oldsmobile recently introduced.

Make Survey of Used Car Sales Markets

Surveys made recently in various parts of the country of the used-car trade disclosed that the fastest selling car and the one commanding the highest prices is the car equipped with a Knight sleeve-valve motor. This statement was made by L. J. McCracken, manager of the Willys-Overland-Pacific Company, on receipt of a report of the investigation.

"Managers of used-car divisions of large dealerships and operators of used-car markets not connected with any dealer all reported the same condition," said McCracken. "They declared that the general public has a great deal of confidence in the sleeve-valve type of power plant. One large dealer stated that he usually was unable to keep a Knight-motored car more than a week and they usually were not on the floor more than three days before being purchased.

"This same man stated that used-car dealers were constantly bidding for Willys-Knight used cars, but in spite of that he was unable to keep up his line of these cars because they were sold so quickly. Another dealer stated that he had practically no expense for repair work on motors in Willys-Knight cars."

SAN FERNANDO ASKS FOR TRAFFIC OFFICER

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Owing to heavy traffic on North Maclay avenue during the mornings and afternoons when school children are crossing, the city of San Fernando is communicating with Sheriff Traeger of Los Angeles county to see about an extra official, so that one of the motorcycle officers of the San Fernando police force may be spared to direct traffic in front of the Morningside Grammar School, according to recent action of the City Council. The city was requested by Miss Grace Roberts, principal, to give more protection to the pupils in coming to and from school.

NEW DEALER NAMED

J. H. Crawford, long a prominent figure in Alhambra's automotive circles, is the latest addition to the family of Chandler associate dealers, according to the announcement of the W. P. Herbert Company, Chandler distributors. Crawford will have the agency for Chandler in Alhambra.

RACING ACE TESTS LINE

Ralph K. Mulford, famous racing ace and member of the Chandler-Cleveland motors' experimental staff of engineers, spends most of his time at the wheel of a Chandler six. According to Ralph, he travels well over 100,000 miles a year for the Chandler company in his official capacity.

Highway Information

The following highway information was issued by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California under date of the 21st inst. Motorists wishing further information may obtain it by communicating directly with the club:

Los Angeles to Palos Verdes and return—Since the completion of the new road through the Palos Verdes Estates, this section has attracted many motorists because of its fine marine scenery. This scenic drive may be reached from Los Angeles by using Slauson avenue through Inglewood, and continuing on Redondo Boulevard to Redondo. From Redondo paved road is followed to Clifton, thence a very good graded, clay surfaced road along the cliffs overlooking the ocean to Western avenue, where one turns north and follows this avenue back to Los Angeles. If it is desired a left turn may be made on Ninth street to San Pedro, where the return trip to Los Angeles may be made over Harbor Boulevard.

Los Angeles to Julian—A week-end trip to Julian in the back country of San Diego county offers many scenic attractions. Leaving Los Angeles, East Seventh street or East Ninth street and Mines avenue to Telegraph Road are followed by the way of Santa Fe Springs, Fullerton and Santa Ana to Oceanside. Paved road will be found complete on this road with the exception of a short detour just north of Oceanside. The coast road is left at this point and the road turns east following the San Luis Rey River to Bonsall; thence south to Escondido, where the pavement ends. An excellent decomposed gravel road is followed down the San Pasqual Grade to Ramona. From Ramona to Ballena the road is fair, although somewhat rocky in places, followed by paved highway past Witch Creek to San Ysabel. Between San Ysabel and Wynola construction is under progress and a rough detour is necessary; thence pavement to Julian.

In making the return journey an optional route is available from San Ysabel and over good gravel or decomposed granite road past the Henshaw Reservoir, the largest in Southern California, through Warner's Ranch, and continuing from the ranch through Oak Grove to Aguanga, then over the St. Johns Grade to Hemet. Pavement will then be found from Hemet by way of Ethanac and Perris to Riverside. From Riverside pavement is continuous through Wineville, Ontario, Pomona and El Monte to Los Angeles.

Los Angeles to Lebec—Pavement is followed through the San Fernando Valley by way of Glendale, Burbank, San Fernando and Saugus. Another route is also available by way of Hollywood and Cahuenga Pass to Lankershim and San Fernando and thence on to Saugus. From Saugus paved road is followed over the Ridge Road to Lebec, a distance of eighty-three miles from Los Angeles. Curves are being widened in the vicinity of National Forest Inn on the Ridge Road, making it advisable for motorists to use caution at these points.

FRENCH COPS USE FOREFINGER WHERE OURS. SE THEIR CLUB

An intersection just as congested as one in a big American city. Some driver scrapes the fenders of another. Shrieks and Gaelic curses rend the atmosphere. The drivers climb out and accuse each other. Americans stand on the curbs in awe. It looks like the beginning of another war. Then suddenly a gendarme appears. Does he shake his fist and roar orders in Yankee cop style? He does not. He waggles a chiding forefinger and utters what passes in French for "Tut tut!" The crowd melts. It's all over.

The foregoing is a description given of a traffic jam in Paris by Eugene Alexander of 670 South Hobart Boulevard, who has just returned to Los Angeles from abroad after a 5000-mile motor journey with his Lincoln from Maddux, Inc., through the principal countries overseas.

"It's the respect for law, both on the continent and in England, that makes for fewer accidents even with less supervision by the police," declared Alexander, in telling Maddux-Lincoln officials here of his experiences.

Mr. Alexander—veteran automobile dealer of California, now retired, and the first Lincoln purchaser recorded on the Maddux books after Jack Maddux took the account last spring—was accompanied overseas by Mrs. Alexander and her sister, Miss Sophia Rimpau. They left New York April 21, checking their Lincoln like open baggage on the Cunard liner Berengaria.

The big strike in London and the necessity of spending $55 in tips alone to get his Lincoln put aboard a Belgian vessel bound for Ostend, Belgium, the cleanest town in Europe, and where they literally scrub the pavements once a week. France's excellent roads to the battlefields, Spain and the bullfights, Germany and Switzerland and their high prices—these formed the high lights of Mr. Alexander's motoring impressions of Europe.

The sole accident suffered by Mr. Alexander's car, he told Jim Kane, manager of sales and service for Maddux, was when the Lincoln struck a jay-driving French cart near Paris while he was on his way to the big Lincoln service station which the Ford Motor Company maintains in Paris.

"Aside from this," he said, "I had not the slightest trouble—and didn't open the tool chest all the time we were gone. This is my twenty-seventh motor car—I've been driving and selling cars since the old one-lung days of 1903—and I want to say that this Lincoln has given me the greatest satisfaction of all."

Dashing Coupe for Four Put on Show Here

A dashing four-passenger coupe, the Chandler Big Six, has just arrived at the establishment of the W. P. Herbert Company, Chandler distributors. According to O. J. Rose, general manager of the Herbert company, this latest addition to the 1927 Chandler line is undoubtedly the smartest closed car that Chandler has introduced.

Mounted on the Chandler big six chassis, this newcomer has many appearances of being custom built. The massive lines of the coupe are striking. The top is set low giving to the body an underslung appearance.

A glimpse into the interior reveals luxury. The upholstery is of rich mohair. A circassian walnut instrument board with all instruments glass-enclosed adds to the beauty. There is ample room for four passengers and the front seat opposite the driver, can be folded back out of sight when not in use. The driver's seat is tilted to provide full relaxation and driving comfort.

In addition to a storage compartment back of the driver's seat, there is a spacious reardeck, providing room for golf clubs, suitcases and other luggage. The roominess of this compartment is designed to have a special appeal to the business man.

MOTORS SUPPLANT OXEN AND MULES

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive.)—The Cady Lumber Corporation is experimenting in the use of moters in logging in the forests near its great milling plants at Flagstaff and at McNary. Oxen were followed by mules and now the mules are being displaced by caterpillar tractors, which are said to have been extremely successful in snaking logs to the railroad steam loaders. The magnitude of the operations may be estimated in the statement that about 2500 logs a day are needed for the McNary plant alone.

The FAGEOL FLYER

Built to reduce hauling and delivery co

THIS new Fageol light truck holds many a surprise in store for those who operate delivery fleets, for transfer and drayage men, farmers, dairymen and others who have had experience in the light truck field, where a one to two ton truck is used.

The speed, the acceleration, the get-away of a fine passenger car—the ability to stand over-loading, tough going and abuse—the mechanical simplicity and endurance of a truck primarily built to reduce hauling costs—these are some of the things you expect to find.

The Fageol Flyer has all the qualities that have made the Fageols internationally famous—for they are the basis of its design.

It is built down to light truck requirements rather than up from pleasure car specifications.

If you want dependable, low-cost hauling equipment you should see the Fageol Flyer.

May we show it to you?

There is a FAGEOL for every job.

GLYCERINE RADIATOR FLUID

Over 300,000 Machines Use Liquid to Prevent Freezing of Water in Radiators

Over 300,000 cars in the United States and Canada used distilled glycerine instead of alcohol as an antifreeze last winter, according to a report made public by the National Glycerine Service.

These cars included all types and makes of private cars, taxicabs, trucks and busses.

The virtues of distilled glycerine as an antifreeze have long been known to automotive engineers and technical men, but it was only last yeard that the correct grade, known as "distilled radiator glycerine," was made available to the motoring public. While it was pronounced an immediate success, its use last year was necessarily limited, due to the inability of the producers to supply it in sufficient quantities to meet the demand which virtually occurred over night." This year, it is believed, the producers of radiator glycerine will have taken steps to increase production so that all can be supplied.

USED IN NORGE

A striking proof of the efficiency of distilled glycerine as an antifreeze mixture was afforded by its use in the motors of the Norge in its successful polar flight.

In choosing the equipment for aircraft is imperative that great care be used, as human lives often depend upon the efficient and continuous operation of the motors.

As evidence of the successful performance of glycerine, Lieut. Oscar Omdahl, first engineer of the Norge, gave out the following statement to a representative of the National Glycerine Service immediately after the arrival of the party at Nome.

"I had charge of the three 260-horsepower Maybak-type motors. We used a 28 per cent distilled glycerine antifreeze mixture. The motors worked 160 hours with same solution. I also used glycerine solution on two previous polar flights with great success. I have never been able to find anything that would give same satisfaction in water-cooled motors."

MANY ADVANTAGES

Distilled glycerine has many advantages not present in ordinary antifreeze mixtures now in common use.

It will not evaporate, and one filling of the cooling system at the beginning of the winter driving season will last indefinitely, provided that none of the solution is lost through mechanical leakage. It has a boiling point many degrees higher than alcohol and even on mild winter days the motor will not overheat. This causes the motor to operate at a more efficient temperature. Glycerine is odorless, a feature that drivers of closed cars will readily appreciate. If any is spilled upon the hood of a car while filling the radiator, no harm will result, as glycerine will not damage the finest finish. This is especially advantageous in the case of the lacquer finishes which are so popular today, as alcohol, particularly when hot, will cause serious damage. Glycerine is noninflammable, so there is no fire risk to either the car or occupants

It has been definitely established by leading chemical and automotive engineers that distilled glycerine will not eat into rubber or gasket material, and will not attack the metal parts of motor or radiator.

The leading automobile manufacturers have recognized the merits of radiator glycerine over the volatile type of mixture, and its use is described in bulletins and instruction books issued by these companies, and which contain suggestions for the proper care of motor cars in cold weather.

CLAIM ADVANTAGE ON ROUGH, HILLY ROADS

Owner-drivers of the Stutz vertical eight among the motion-picture people of Hollywood claim that their machines have a distinct advantage over many others in the mountains and when rough going is encountered. This statement was made by Walter M. Brown, exclusive Hollywood dealer for Stutz who has sold many cars to film folk.

"Some of the directors and actors who own Stutz cars are using them to ride to distant locations," said Brown. "They are finding that the new type of low hung car gives a degree of comfort never experienced before in traversing rough roads or mountain grades. The low center of weight makes these cars cling to the road and they negotiate sharp mountain curves with an ease that is amazing for machines of their wheelbase."

GRANT RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR ARIZONA ROAD

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Right of way has been granted by the Secretary of the Interior to the Washington Street Boulevard Association for a new highway through Papago Park. This is to be a direct route from the center of Phoenix to the new State bridge across the Salt River at Tempe. The present road, entering at Van Buren street, is not to be abandoned but is declared to be overcrowded and even dangerous at the present time, from travel that is the heaviest known in the State.

THE MOTOR VEHICLE IN COURT

J. Kloizner of Seattle, having recently purchased a car, one pleasant Sunday afternoon invited Mrs. Anna Heiman, a friend of his, and her mother to take a ride with him. Mrs. Heiman, before accepting the invitation, asked him if he felt capable of taking good care of them. He replied that he did, assuring her that he could properly drive the car, as he had been practicing. While driving on Rainier avenue, he collided with a smaller car at the intersection of King street. This apparently caused Kloizner to lose control over the car, and, swerving to the right, it crossed the westerly sidewalk some thirty or forty feet south of King street, and went down an embankment on a slope of some forty feet out on to adjoining vacant private property, where one of the front wheels breaking caused the car to suddenly stop, causing injuries to Mrs. Heiman. In an action against Kloizner for recovery of the damages she sustained, Mrs. Heiman got a judgment for $1300. This has been reversed by the Supreme Court of Washington (247 P. 1035) and the case has been remanded with directions to the trial court to dismiss the action.

On the trial both Mrs. Heiman and her mother testified as to the speed at which Kloizner was operating the car. In its opinion the Appellate Court referred to their testimony and said:

"The testimony of respondent and her mother is substantially the whole of the evidence upon the question of the speed at which appellant was driving his automobile at any time. It seems to us that this testimony does not show excessive speed as the cause of the accident. Indeed, it almost affirmatively shows to the contrary. There is no other evidence pointing to whose negligence caused the collision; that is, all the other evidence is as suggestive of negligence on the part of the driver of the Ford car as negligence on the part of appellant. The problem, as we view it, is more one of interpretation of this somewhat indefinite and unsatisfactory testimony, rather than one of conflict of evidence. We do not think the evidence calls for the conclusion that appellant was negligent, if at all, in that degree necessary to be shown to render him liable in damages to respondent, in view of her being merely his invited guest.

"Varying degrees of negligence, or varying degrees of required care, if one prefers to have the proposition so stated, touching the question of liability rested upon the ground of negligence, have been repeatedly recognized by us as a practical working principle of the law of this State. We do not mean by this that varying degrees of negligence or required care have been or can be differentiated with any sort of precision, only that differing situations, conditions, and relations call for differing degrees of care. Now, in the case before us, it hardly needs argument to demonstrate that appellant was not required to exercise that high degree of care in the carrying of respondent in his automobile merely as his invited guest that he would have been required to exercise had he been carrying her in his automobile for hire. It seems equally plain that, in carrying respondent in his automobile as he did, appellant was required to exercise in some measure a higher degree of care for her safety than he would have been required to exercise with reference to the safety of a mere trespasser on his property; that is, his required care was of some degree between these two extremes."

The courts of this country are in seeming conflict in their attempts to define, in terms, the degree of care an invitor is required to exercise looking to the safety of his invitee in situations of this nature. In Massaletti vs. Fitzroy, 228 Mass. 487, we have a decision of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, rendered in 1917, which embodies one of the most exhaustive examinations of the question to be found in the books. The court states what it evidently conceives to be the controlling facts of the case as follows:

"While staying with the defendant as her guest, the plaintiff at the defendant's invitation went out with the defendant in her motor car. The car was driven by a chauffeur furnished by the owner of the garage where it was kept. Through the negligence of the chauffeur, the machine was overturned and fell on the plaintiff, causing the injuries here complained of. The jury found that while driving the machine the chauffeur acted as the defendant's servant, and this finding was warranted by the evidence. They also found that the accident was caused by the negligence of the chauffeur. Upon the jury making these findings, the judge directed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant and reported the case to this court."

Upon these facts the court held, in substance, that, the jury having failed to affirmatively find that the defendant, the invitor, or rather her servant for whose acts she was responsible, was guilty of gross negligence, she was as a matter of law absolved from liability. Having noticed and reviewed a large number of the decisions of the courts of this country, the court states in general terms what we conceive to have been its controlling considerations, as follows:

"Where a defendant invites a plaintiff to ride gratis in his carriage the question is not a question of the measure of liability of a licensor to a licensee. It is the question of the measure of the liability assumed in case of a gratuitous undertaking. Justice requires that the one who undertakes to perform a duty gratuitously should not be under the same measure of obligation as one who enters upon the same undertaking for pay. There is an inherent difficulty in stating the difference between the measure of duty which is assumed in the two cases. But justice requires that to make out a liability in case of a gratuitous undertaking the plaintiff ought to prove a materially greater degree of negligence than he has to prove where the defendant is to be paid for doing the same thing. It is a distinction which seventy-five years' practice in this commonwealth has shown is not too indefinite a one to be drawn by the judge and acted upon by the jury."

Observations in harmony with these views are found in Maine, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Kentucky cases.

Greer-Robbins Company Celebrates Anniversary of Distribution Agency This Month

Thirteen years ago this month Greer-Robbins Company obtained the franchise for Hupmobile distribution in California, Arizona, Nevada and the Hawaiian Islands. Yesterday the Hupp factory sent a wire to the firm expressing its pleasure at the pleasant business relations that have existed during that long period of years and visioning for the future an even greater success with the line.

Since the first year that Greer-Robbins handled Hupmobile, the sales volume of the organization has never been below third place among all the distributors of the United States, and upon several occasions they have been first when the year's volume was totaled.

Taking on the line when Hupmobile, with other pioneers, was just emerging from the horseless carriage era, Perry H. Greer and A. C. Robbins, Sr., have seen an evolution that brings Hupmobile today into the forefront of manufacturers. Until two years ago the Hupp was a four-cylinder car, with a world-wide reputation for dependability. Then came the announcement of a straight eight—a radical departure from the conservatism that had always marked the operations of the Hupmobile factory. Straight eights were newfangled. A number of them had been introduced but the public had refused to accept them wholeheartedly.

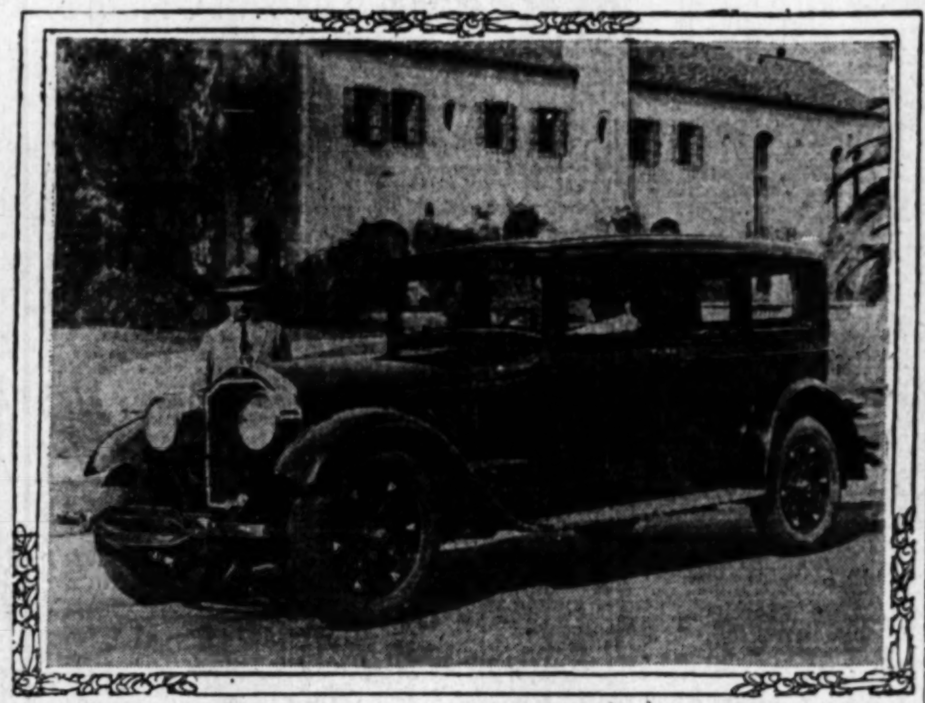
It took the Hupmobile reputation, established over years of manufacturing a sturdy four-cylinder car, to win a big group of the public to straight-eight performance. Within five months after the Hupmobile eight was introduced it was outselling any other car of its type on the market, and it holds the leadership in straight-eight sales today by a margin that lacks but little of being more than all the others of its type combined.

With the passing of the years and the increasing popularity of the car, Greer-Robbins Company found their territory too big to handle properly, and little by little relinquished all but California. Their Northern California headquarters are in San Francisco, and the big building, completed in August of last year at 1509 South Figueroa street, is the Southern California center of activities.

It was about the time that this building was completed that rumors of still another new departure for Hupmobile began to be heard, and a few weeks later verification of these rumors was had with the announcement of a new Hupmobile Six. The four-cylinder Hupmobile is no more. Its place has been taken by the more modern sixes and eights, which, in a variety of models, have carried on the sales volume to new high peaks. Already Hupmobile six is a contender for high-ranking places in teh statistical columns that show the comparative popularity of the various offerings along automobile row, and predictions by Greer-Robbins Company officials are to the effect that it will climb still higher.

This increasing business has already made it necessary for Greer-Robbins Company to add to its new building another unit where cars arriving from the factory can be made ready for delivery to their owners.

Another New Model Is Here



New Stearns-Knight seven-passenger sedan seen here has just been received. Mr. Collins is at the wheel and Mr. Tusby beside the car just following its arrival here.

SEDAN IS FIRST HERE

Taking its place among America's quality motor cars, the new Stearns-Knight has arrived in Los Angeles and is being displayed here for the first time by Collins & Lusby, distributors.

Radical changes mark the new car as compared with former models. The center of gravity has been greatly lowered, the top of the car is five inches lower than formerly and the car is equipped with a worm drive.

The motor is of the newest Knight sleeve-valve type. It has six cylinders with 3½-inch bore and five-inch stroke. The motor is equipped with an oil purifier, air cleaner and gasoline filter and the Swan manifold system is used, which helps give unusual power and flexibility. The frame is unusually heavy and eight large cross members are employed to give it rigidity. The seven passenger sedan, the first model to be received here, has a wheel base of 137 inches. Small wheels with tires 32 x 6.75 inches and springs equipped with snubbers give the car easy riding qualities. Its balance and low center of gravity give roadability and increased safety in driving.

A new ventilating system has been installed, the one-piece windshield being raised by a handle allowing a current of air to flow in under the instrument board. When raised still higher a horizontal curve slope is provided.

AS KFRANCHISE FOR ARIZONA TOLL ROAD

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—Franchise has been asked for a toll road, the only one in Arizona, from a point near Winkelman easterly through the Pinal coal fields, past Saddle Mountain to the San Carlos dam site on the Gila River. The only question is whether this road had not better be constructed by the Water Users' Association of the Casa Grande Valley, as it will serve as a link between the valley and the dam, occupying about the same position as the Apache Trail that connects the Salt River Valley with the Roosevelt dam. The new road, which is assured of construction during the next year, not only will be of immense importance to the farmers, but will serve to provide a very much shorter eastward route between Phoenix, Florence and El Paso, cutting out the big bend that now is made either by way of Tucson or Globe.

GOOD ROAD TO CAMPO

The road between Buckman Springs and Campo, twelve miles, is a good country road, according to information received from the touring department of the National Automobile Club. It is narrow, but there are no bad places and it passes through a very picturesque mountain country. From Campo to State Highway, thirteen miles, the road is graded and graveled with numerous mountain curves, but wide and safe and passes through a very pretty country.

AUTO-PEDESTRIAN CRASHES SOURCE OF MOST OF INJURIES

Let motorists and pedestrians be more watchful for each other and auto accidents will be materially reduced, is the opinion of the public-safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, following the receipt of national figures showing that two-thirds of the accidents involve striking pedestrians.

Sixty-eight per cent of the fatal motor accidents during the first half of this year were due to a vehicle striking a pedestrian, according to statistics filed with the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

With California leading the world in the density of automobiles per population, with approximately one car to every three persons, and the greatest congestion of autos and pedestrians in its cities, it is indicated that the need for protecting the pedestrian should be most noticeable here. Figures of the Auto Club safety department show that a large proportion of the fatal motor-vehicle collisions here are between auto and pedestrian. There were ninety-six such fatalities during the first six months of this year in Los Angeles city and county, as compared with eighty-four of the same period of the year before.

That Los Angeles, however, is making an aggressive drive to remedy the accident situation as affecting pedestrians is evident in its program of constructing pedestrian subways, considered by national authorities the most practical solution of the street-crossing problem. With two subways already in operation since financial provision was made through the bond issue last year, two more are nearing completion, and sixteen tunnels are under construction. Plans are drawn for eight others, and contracts have been let for three more, according to data on file with the safety bureau of the motoring organization. Altogether thirty-three tunnels are in the safety program, and it is indicated that construction of nineteen others is a possibility, it is said.

Painted crosswalks to complement sidewalks is another national suggestion for the protection of the man on foot. Many communities in the southern counties of this State have adopted this plan, and the establishment of such crosswalks by city authorities is one of the provisions of the uniform traffic ordinance for California cities that has been adopted by a dozen of the larger cities in this section, and is being supported by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

In the endeavor to educate the walking public to the danger of accidents and the necessity of caution at all times, the Automobile Club recently installed warning signs on the automatic signals at intersections throughout Los Angeles advising pedestrians to obey the traffic signals and to cross the street with the traffic.

BUILD NEW GARAGE

LANKERSHIM, Sept. 25. (Exclusive)—William Klump, prominent property owner here, has signed a long-term lease with W. I. Heath, local Ford dealer, for a modern garage and showroom, to be erected at Lankershim Boulevard and Cumpston avenue on property owned by Klump.

SIX MILES CUT OFF YUMA TRIP

Work is being pushed through on the Telegraph Pass road just east of Yuma, Ariz., according to a recent report received from the touring department of the National Automobile Club. This new road will eliminate, Dome, Ariz., and will shorten the distance from Los Angeles to Phoenix just 635 miles. The contract calls for the completion of the work about the first of next April. The bridge across the Gila River at the Gillespie Dam is scheduled for completion at about the same time. Road contractors will in the very near future commence paving six miles of highway from Yuma east toward Phoenix. The bridge across the Gila River at Gillespie Dam will greatly improve the Yuma-Phoenix highway for at the present time the crossing is made on the apron of the dam and is often closed during high-water periods.

AN' THE MAN ATE A LOT O' POTATOES AN' BREAD AN' HE GOT BIG ENOUGH FOR THE MULE AN' HE COULD STEP OVER THE CANYON AN' EVERYTHING.

Aunt Dolly's Letter Box

Dearest Aunt Dolly:

I sure was glad to get your blue envelope this morning. I am very proud of my T.J.C. pin, and hope to be a good booster.

I hope to receive the rules of the literary division, as I want so much to write a story for the T.J.C.

Hoping to hear from you soon,
I am
Lovingly yours,
[Signed]
WILLIAM CARSE.

My Dear Aunt Dolly:

I was so surprised when a nice, long blue letter came through the mail, containing a nice, blue check for $2.50.

I want to thank you so much for accepting my story, and giving me a prize for it.

My family have been calling me "Louisa M. Alcott," and all the names of famous authors until I am in a fair way to be spoiled. That is merely in fun, of course.

I am sending my club dues in advance, as I am going away and won't be here.

I shall probably send in a story again soon, because I am in a "story mood."

Well, I must close,
Your Loving niece,
[Signed]
VIRGINIA MORGAN,
146 North Stafford avenue,
Huntington Park.

Dear Aunt Dolly:

It was the happiest day of my life when I received the prize money for my drawings, and with the greatest of expectations I am waiting to see them in print, and it seems to me I will be the proudest boy in the world.

I thank you very much for your kind help by accepting my comic strips, you have created much confidence in me, and in my work.

I shall try my best.
Your devoted pal,
[Signed]
NATHAN MASSION,
1032 Duncan avenue,
Los Angeles.

Dear Aunt Dolly:

I was so glad to get your letter that I could have yelled with pure joy. You sure do write sweet letters. I suppose you have heard the famous old proverb, "Try, try again," and as it is very good advice I am going to follow it, so here comes another story.

I am going to cut out all the stories in The Junior Times and make a book of them, and whenever I want to read I will just get out my "T. J. C. story book" and read to my heart's content.

If you ever want to laugh good and hard just read "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." I am reading it and it sure is good.

Aunt Dolly, one of our neighborhood girls was just congratulating me on having joined The Times Junior Club.

Much love,
(Signed)
WILHELMINA LARSEN,
511½ North Isabel avenue,
Glendale.

Dear Aunt Dolly:

I am a constant reader of The Junior Times and I think it is the best part in the whole paper. I would like very much if you would be so kind and good as to enroll me as a member of the best club in the whole world.

I will try and contribute stories and cartoons to this wonderful paper.

I am very anxious to receive a letter stating the amount of dues and the rules concerning your paper. I read your Question Box and sure enjoy doing so.

Hoping to receive my club pin and membership soon, I remain,
Lovingly yours,
(Signed) DAVID LEMSKY,
368 Olive street,
Memphis, Tenn.

To My Wonderful New Aunt:

Oh! Aunt Dolly, I was so happy when my little sister handed me your blue envelope, and it was all that I could do to keep from advertising the fact that I, Grace Fox, was a member of the T. J. C. I thank you over and over again for the pretty pin and the insignia and, above all, your letter and the membership card.

I am going to write many stories for your paper.

It is lunch time now and I must close and get it. Write soon.

From your delighted niece,
(Signed) GRACE FOX,
123 West Seventeenth street,
Santa Ana.

Dearest Aunt Dolly:

Now I don't need to feel jealous when I read about some one getting their badge and membership card, because I have mine, too, and I am now sending you my club dues and a story.

I hope the story isn't too long, but I think perhaps it is.

I have been telling some girls in my neighborhood about your club and they are going to join right away.

I am sorry that I cannot come to this party, but I will try to be at the next one.

Your loving niece,
(Signed) MARGUERITE COX.

P. S.—I want to tell you an experience my T. J. C. button had. I had it on my dress and forgot to take it off when my mother sent the dress to the laundry. For a few days I hunted from cellar to attic for my pin, but couldn't find it, so I gave it up for lost. One day I went to put that dress on and there was my button. It was a little paler, but the same old button. I guess it couldn't have stood the strain if it hadn't been a T. J. C.!

Dear Aunt Dolly:

I received your wonderful letter a few weeks ago and I surely was glad to hear from you.

Please, Aunt Dolly, send me The Times Junior Club button and the card, so I can be an active member of your most lovely club.

I should like to hear from some of the members of the club.

Hoping to hear from you real soon, I remain,
Your loving admirer,
(Signed)
COUCHA SOTOMAYOR,
Cananea, Son., Mex.

Dearest Aunt Dolly:

I cannot express my joy at receiving the money for my little poetry. I had always dreamed that one day I would see my poetry in print, and you, dear Aunt Dolly, are the one to make my dream come true.

(Signed) HELEN PETERSON,
1700 South Garfield street,
Alhambra.

Dear Aunt Dolly:

I was overjoyed today upon receiving your blue letter, especially when I saw I was a member of the wonderful T. J. C.

I am inclosing 25 cents for the dues and will begin right away to write and draw for your paper.

Wishing you oceans of love and heaps of success.
(Signed) ANITA PATRICK,
288 Harriet street,
Altadena.

Dearest Aunt Dolly:

I was tickled pink when I saw your letter come. Everybody got around and wanted to know what it said.

I am sending in my dues for the month, because I am going to Yosemite Monday. I am already thinking of the good times.

Thanking you again for your letter and the grand privilege of being enrolled in the largest, peppiest club in existence.
(Signed) MADELEINE LIFUE,
132 East Twenty-third street,

Dearest Aunt Dolly:

I was so pleased to get your lovely letter and to know that I am now a member of the most wonderful club in the world.

I am inclosing my dues for this month, and also a story, which I wish

A GUIDE-POST TO BOOKS

Younger readers who are approaching the study of English literature for the first time will find their pathway smoothed and outlined by a new book by Amy Cruse entitled "Famous English Books and Their Stories." It contains interesting accounts of how some of the greatest books happened to be written, and other unusual facts which do not get into the ordinary textbook. It is in press for immediate publication by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company.

Auto dealers of Rumania have taken a stand not to accept used cars as part payment on new machines.

MAKING FOR THE FUTURE

"Times" Junior Club exists for the purpose of aiding rising generation in upward climb.

So many persons, despite the fact that they are active members of The Times Junior Club, seem at a loss to understand our club's real motive, its true reason for being and the miraculous growth we have had, that I here set down a few brief facts, so that any stranger, picking up our magazine, will receive a clear idea as to our purpose, intentions, hopes and aspirations.

To begin with, ours is the largest juvenile club in America, and, we might add, perhaps the most American in type and tenor. We demand good sportsmanship, fair dealing, clean, fine ideals, from those who have joined our ranks, now numbering more than 1,000,000 strong. Our membership reaches from the shores of Europe to the darkest jungles in Africa.

The T.J.C., is a healer of wounds, the moral and mental cuts this weary world so often inflicts upon the very young, the wondering and uncertain youth who stands undecided upon the threshold of life. It acts as a hand in the dark to the wayward and down-hearted; it has been a beacon of ruddy light to thousands of dispirited youngsters.

Into our great mail bag streams an endless plea for this and that, advice on many problems, where can a job be obtained, what are the laws governing minors, etc. It would take an entire book to list even the commonest questions and inquiries.

We catch the driftwood of life, the down-and-outs; hungry and desperate boys who haunt the shadowy streets of every large city. They come to us with stories that seem hardly believable, tales of privation and want, situations that even the morbid Poe failed to conjure. To all, be he an oriental, or a native of the United States we offer an equal amount of love and sympathy. Their troubles become our troubles, their joy causes us to look up from our burdens and sorrows with a smile!

What greater, finer work can there be than the building of men and women? The future citizens of our country, learning to adopt the stalwart motives and standards of men like Lincoln, are our sureties for the future.

To those who criticise the younger generation, calling them thoughtless and heartless, a wild set without principle or character, I have only this to say: I personally have found our boys and girls finer, straighter, hungrier for ideals than ever before. They are brighter, far more intelligent and self-reliant than the bashful, timid youngsters of fifteen years ago. Of course there are those who will always follow the downward path, but the majority are climbing steadily, bravely upward.

This then is our purpose, to give to every child in our organization that something that will make him more at ease socially, a bit brighter in the school room, a stronger athlete in his play; a little more devoted to the fine, good things of life. We bind up the hearts of unhappy children, set their feet firmly on the upward path, and in the end have an organization 100 per cent American, novel, entirely different from any other club in the world.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

By Pom Pom

A school principal was trying to make clear to his class the fundamental doctrines of the Declaration of Independence.

"Now, boys," he said, "I will give you three ordinary buttons. You must think of the first one as representing life, of the second one as representing liberty, and of the third one as representing the pursuit of happiness. Next Monday I will ask each of you to produce the three buttons and tell me what they represent.

The following Monday the principal said to the youngest student: "Now, Perry, produce the buttons and tell what they stand for."

"I haven't all of them," he exclaimed, holding out two of the buttons. "Here is life, here is liberty, but mama sewed the pursuit of happiness on my pants."

"What is the name of the species I have just shot?" demanded the amateur hunter of his guide?

"Well, sir," returned the guide, "I have just been investigating, and he says his name is Smith."

He was sinking fast and his weeping family was at his bedside.

"Is Jonach there?"

"Yes, papa."

"Is Hyman there?"

"Yes, papa."

"Are you all there, every one of you?"

"Yes, papa," came the chorus.

"Then who the deuce is looking after the store?"

AMUSING TALE IS AWARD WINNER

NORA BELLE HELFIN WINS CASH PRIZE IN OUR "TRUE STORY" CONTEST

This week Nora Belle Helfin, living at 1228 West Fifty-first Place, is the lucky winner of our True-Story Contest. In return for her amusing tale, with its dramatic ending, we have awarded her a $2.50 cash prize.

Remember, however, that Nora has not cornered the market. She merely took the trouble to set down in black and white a most thrilling adventure. What she has done, you can do. Pick up your pen and try your luck. Every week we are offering tempting prizes for the best thrillers submitted by club members.

Your tale may be either whimsical, tragic or humorous. Then again it may be a character study, describing how you climbed out of financial difficulty, etc. All these topics are acceptable. The main thing is, be a live-wire, get busy and see if you too cannot be a proud prize winner.—Aunt Dolly.

MY FIRST HORSEBACK RIDE

By Nora Belle Helfin, 1228 West Fifty-first Place, Los Angeles.

Having lived in large cities all my life I had reached the age of fourteen before I experienced that exciting chapter in my life, entitled "My First Horseback Ride."

While on a week-end trip in the mountains, last summer, my brother proposed that he and I take advantage of our vacation, and have a real horseback ride.

Of course I readily agreed, so we each rented a horse and started back on the trail to camp, eager to see what the rest of the party thought of such rough-and-ready cow-boys. My brother, who had learned a little about the management of horses from the western stories he had read, progressed rapidly in the fascinating art of sticking to his saddle.

My horse, however, was quick to realize that a novice had him in charge, so he tormented me by

Aunt Dolly's Question Box

Dearest Aunt Dolly: I have often read of your answers to other's problems, and now I want you to help me. My little troubles may sound childish to you, but they are very serious to me. I am 17 years of age, and live with my grandmother. She is my only living relative.

Don't you think, Aunt Dolly, dear, that it is time I had a little taste of pleasure, the right kind, of course, for a girl of my age? My grandmother is a dear old lady, but very old fashioned and cannot understand why I should want pretty, fluffy dresses. She makes me wear plain clothes and cotton stockings, with low Mary-Jane slippers.

A short time ago I was invited to spend a week with a girl friend of mine. During the time I was there she had a party for me. Now Aunt Dolly, you know it hurt dreadfully to hear some one talk about you. The day before the party I happened to walk into my friend's room, where she and her mother were concealed in a clothes closet.

I heard the mother say, "It is such a shame; she is really a beautiful child, and you know how the boys raved about her. The other day when she wore that little sport outfit of yours, they went simply wild over her. I wonder if we couldn't fix over one of your old party dresses for her."

"Yes, mother," my chum replied. "But I hate to suggest it. It might hurt her feelings."

I heard no more. I ran to my room and cried my heart out. I knew they had pitied me because of my ugly clothes.

When my friend came to me to suggest that I wear one of her dresses, I told her that I must go home that night. But she begged me to stay, and finally made me admit that I was leaving because I did not have any decent clothes to wear. She then offered me one of her gowns, made from two of her old dresses. It was very pretty and I accepted it, and consented to stay.

The next day I appeared in it and a pair of borrowed pumps, and for

HERE'S NEWS FOR CLUB MEMBERS

If you don't believe fall is here, you should take a peek at our clubrooms on Saturday morning. They're just chock full of dear old pals, back from here and there, New York, San Francisco, a hiking trip, Balboa, all streaming in, sunburned and happy. As for pep, well, you should see their grins. All the old troupers are lining up for the long winter months to come.

This of course is a most gratifying experience for Aunt Dolly, who has missed hundreds of youngsters during vacation. So if you are one of the lost flock just returned, remember she's waiting to see, you, eager to grasp your hand.

Saturday's social day, the time when we meet and chat and laugh four whole hours away, so be sure to visit our clubrooms.

Also, Christmas is approaching, and no end of big activities are planned. Keep this in mind. If you are a loyal go-getter of the T.J.C., you should attend our weekly club meetings. There's plenty of music, a wonderful jazz band to help entertain you, and dancing galore, besides a dozen other things that will amuse and benefit you.

Also remember our "Nosegay Division" composed of members who wish to bring flowers to helpless tots in the hospitals. Your individual bunch of flowers, no matter how small it may be, always will be welcome. We cannot be blessed, unless we pass good things along.

TWO CAPTURE LITERARY PRIZES

ROSEMARY WIESS AND BOY IN FAR-OFF ST. LOUIS WIN CLUB HONORS

Our prize-winning literary contributions of the week follow. One is by Rosemary Wiess, who has been a prize-winner before; the other is by a boy in far-off St. Louis.—[Aunt Dolly.

IF I WERE QUEEN

By Rosemary Wiess, Olive View.

If I were queen of some desert isle, as Crusoe once was king of one, and some kindly minded fairy offered me a choice of ten books for company, I'd take the following:

"Little Women," because it is the sweetest story I have ever read.

"Treasure Island," because it is a swiftly moving tale, and yet so charmingly narrated; because it is dominated by that elusive spirit of adventure, which so especially belongs to boyhood and to youth.

"Arabian Nights," they are so entertaining. They are a remnant of the days when a story-teller's one object was entertainment. I sometimes think that entertainment is the primary purpose of all art. These tales are the exquisite weavings of pure imagery, untrampled by accuracy, logic or fact. They have stood the test of changing ages and customs. Time has not dulled their interest nor robbed them of their beauty.

"Lorna Doone," because it is such a rambling, simply told story, and because it always makes me feel so sweet and domestic, and useful.

"Romeo and Juliet," because it somehow makes me feel delightfully useless and inefficient and decorative. Each time I read it I let myself believe for a little while that nothing in the world matters save

"A book of verses underneath the bough,
A jug of wine, a loaf of bread, and thou."

"Prisoner of Zenda," because it is the most thrilling book I have ever read.

"Conquest of Granada," because it is such a fascinating combination of history, myth and philosophy, and because it was written by Washington Irving, the first and one of the finest writers America has given the world.

"Hans Brinker," I once spent two weeks in Holland, and all the while I was there I felt as though I were

GOD'S GIFT TO MAN

By LAURA MAE HEIDLOFF, 847 Sepulveda street, San Pedro.

As twilight fell the earth was stilled,
And a song poured forth on this world of care.
The notes throbbed sweetly, my heart was filled
With the liquid gold of the songsters' air.
The notes rose higher and sweeter still,
And seemed to come close to the Great White Throne,
Then lighter, dancing, a sparkling rill,
Then softer, more tender, it sang of home.
The notes grew slower, sadder, then
Higher yet higher, a heavenly bell,
Sweeter still sweeter they trembled again.
It was stilled, a quivering silence fell.
The bars were closed, the unrivaled art,
Was hushed, while the murmuring life was stilled.
The night throbbed on like a pulsing heart.
T'was a song of the ages as God had willed.

stopping by the roadside and nibbling choice weeds and shrubs. I hailed my brother for aid, but he was far ahead, out of sight, and too interested in his own horse to give heed to my welfare.

"Giddap! Giddap;" I ordered, but the stubborn creature only turned a deaf ear to my entreaties and continued to chew all the harder. Seeing that it did not do any good to wheedle the animal into moving, I tried using a more drastic method, and commenced kicking the beast in his ribs. It did not do any good, however, as my only answer was a sly look from his brown eyes, which seemed to say, "I'll move when I please and no sooner."

For some time I sat there energetically kicking the heedless brute in the ribs until my legs ached and my heels hurt. At last my patience was exhausted and, as a last resort, I lifted the reins and dropped them heavily upon the side of the perverse creature.

Suddenly, like a flash of lightning, the lazy animal was off at a run.

I was shaking with fright. My clumsy boots slipped out of the stirrups, my loose tam-o-shanter hat fell down over my eyes. With one hand I was clinging with all might to the close-cropped mane of my steed, while with the other I tightly grasped the reins. In such a comical pose we raced, it seemed for hours, although it was a scant few moments in reality.

Then I heard my brother's answering calls to my frantic screams.

"Pull on the reins!" he shouted, as my horse shot past him. As soon as I could gather my strength I obeyed him, bringing the horse to such a short halt I almost flew over his head to the ground. Before I had a chance to dismount or arrange my hat, my brother came cantering up on his horse. Finding me safe and unhurt, he broke into a hearty laugh when I breathlessly blurted out my story.

Since then we have laughed over our first horseback ride many a time. It had such a peaceful beginning, and such a dramatic ending.

QUESTION BOX

the first time in my life, the boys asked me to dance.

I was quite popular that night, and extremely happy. Several of the boys asked my address, so that they might write or call. I refused to tell them, all except one boy whom I liked very much.

He has written several letters to me, which I have concealed from my grandmother. If she knew I was getting letters from a boy, she would be very angry. This same chap asked several times if he could come and see me. I have always refused without giving a satisfactory reason. Now he writes that he is coming to visit a friend who lives near here, and he hopes to be able to call.'

I don't know what to do. If he comes, he will be disappointed in me, and grandmother may not let him come again. Dear Aunt Dolly, you are so nice and helpful, don't you think I should be allowed to select my own clothes, and have them stylish and pretty? I don't want expensive or extreme clothes, but I want them becoming, not old-fashioned and dowdy.

My father was wealthy, and when I am 21 I will inherit all of his property. I now receive an allowance of $50 a month, but my grandmother makes me put most of it in the bank. I also buy my own clothes out of it. I think that since I pay for my own clothes I should be allowed to have what I wish, don't you think so, Aunt Dolly?

Dear Aunt Dolly, I am sure you can tell me some way out of my difficulties, so that I can have some pretty clothes and friends.

Lovingly,

[Signed]

PUZZLED.

Poor dear little Cinderella, it is surely a shame that such conditions should be in your life. It would be bad enough if poverty was the reason for drab clothes and an uneventful life, but 17 is an age for joyousness and happiness, and, above all, dainty, striking clothes. Nothing loud, of course, just the adorable filmy little nothings that delight the heart of every normal girl.

I think you are plenty old enough to have some nice friends; the right sort of boys should not be frowned upon by parents or grandparents. As for correspondence—that is a natural longing, and if the letters are not of a "freshy," smart type, I cannot see a speck of harm in them.

I know, dearest Puzzled, that it is a great and grievous problem. I realize how all this cuts and hurts—but I am sure it cannot endure for any length of time. Let me suggest this way out, slim as the chance may be.

Surely you must have some family friends who are not as old fashioned and antiquated as your grandmother; why not get in touch with them, pour out your little story as you have to me, and ask them to help influence your grandmother? Also have a talk with her. The mother of your chum would, I am sure, help you in this matter, and might be able to make her realize what a very wrong predicament you are being placed in.

If, however, you should not have anyone willing to do this, surely there is an old family lawyer. Men are quick to see such angles and are generally forceful talkers. Anyway, nothing ventured, nothing gained.

About the letters—it is a sad, but a true fact, that narrow mindedness drives many a child to secretive methods. I believe, after I had my talk with my grandmother, I would tell her quite frankly that you intend to correspond with this boy. Point out the fact that we now have machines that go eighty an hour and airplanes that zip in the sky—everything has changed since the horse-and-buggy days.

Now set your little heart at ease. I will help you all I can. If this plan does not work, please write me again.

With all my love and kisses,

AUNT DOLLY.

living in a picture book. I like "Hans Brinker" because it is as a fine painting of Holland, with all the many subtle touches of scene and character.

Webster's Dictionary. I think I could live without the Bible, if I had to, for God's love and laws are written on my heart. Unfortunately the intricacies of orthography and pronunciation are not.

"Alice in Wonderland." With the exception of the Oz books, this is the most splendidly original fairy tale that I have ever read. It has humor, pathos, drama, the lure of the impossible, and, most of all, it has charm. Some day, when my ship comes in, I am going to buy the most beautifully colorful edition of "Alice in Wonderland" that has ever seen the light of day.

FIRE IN THE MOUNTAINS

By James E. McGinnis, 17 years of age, 3664 Washington Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.

Fire warning!
(1.) Put out your camp fires!
(2.) — — — — — — — — — —

Tall, sunbrowned, 17-year-old Jack Williams stopped jointing his fishing rod long enough to indicate the United States Forestry sign nailed to an oak tree that stood beside the boys' week-end camp in San Luis Canyon.

"To obey those rules while we're in the mountains," he said earnestly, "is one of the most important things we can learn."

Bert Thomas, two years Jack's junior, grunted skeptically.

"Maybe," he replied, "but it seems to me one little camp fire can't do any harm. You go on," he added, seeing his friend was ready. "I'll meet you a half-mile up the stream."

"All right, don't forget to put our fire out before you leave." Jack started up the brook that flowed past the camp.

Ten minutes later Bert half-heartedly kicked a little earth over the fire and followed Jack.

Two hours later a thin column of white smoke rose above the treetops. Jack was the first to see it.

"Bert! Smoke, over our camp! "Bert," with fear in his eyes, he stared at Bert, "did you put the fire out?"

Bert's face whitened. "Sure—eh—that is," he amended, "maybe not quite all of it."

Jack dropped his rod. "We haven't a minute to lose!" he said excitedly. It's in the brush and if we can't stop it this whole canyon is a goner!" Bert at his heels, he turned and sped down the trail.

Panting, the boys reached the camp. Everywhere yellow flames were writhing and crawling through the sage. Greedily they were licking at the base of the oak tree; hungrily they were devouring the tent; and every second they were spreading in a wider and wider circle.

"Bert" Jack seized Bert and shook him frenziedly. "Our shirts! Wet them in the stream and beat out the fire. It's our only chance. Maybe we can stop it yet."

Bert dashed to the brook, in one movement ripped off his flannel shirt and plunged it into the water. Dimly he was conscious of Jack doing likewise. Then he raced to the edge of the flames.

Whack! Whack! Whack! With his sodden shirt he flailed them. Ah! That one disappeared, was gone. But there was another creeping past! And another and another! There were so many. But he must beat them back. Whack! Whack! Whack!

Silver gray dust rose off the ground and choked him. He gasped for breath. The heat was intense, almost unbearable. Perspiration, black with soot, rolled off his shoulders and trickled down his waist. The smoking leather soles of his shoes blistered his feet.

Yet, but one thought filled his mind. To stop the fire! To save the canyon! To stop the fire! Bravely he struck at the swirling flames, till his shirt was a mere tatter of scorched cloth and he was exhausted.

And then, with a suddenness that was to him incredible, they were gone! Wearily he cast the useless shirt aside and looked across the blackened ring at Jack.

"Whoopee!" cheered Jack faintly.

"Whoopee!" echoed Bert, wiping his grime-streaked face.

He stepped toward the brook.

"And now I know," he said soberly, "why the rules on that sign are so important!"
